The referendum proposal, in which the government asked authority to change the constitution to outlaw the Australian Communist p rty, now appears almost certain of defeat. Although counting of ballots today reduced the "no" lead somewhat, the tally stood:

Yes—2,073,460. No—2,155,810.

About 600,000 votes remain to be counted.

Parliament will consider a new budget expected to provide substantial increases in both direct and indirect taxation. Strong criticism of the budget's new financial burdens is likely to come from the opposition Labor Party.

US Ambassador Confers With Iran PM

TEHRAN, Sept. 26 (Reuters)—Loy Henderson, new United States ambassador to Iran, had a long conference with Prime Minister Mohammed Mossadegh last night.

Embassy sources refused to comment on the meeting. It was unusual because Henderson has not yet presented his credentials to Shah Mohammed Reza Phalevi.

Presumably the ambassador discussed the new turn in Iran's oil dispute with Britain, caused by Mossadegh's decision to expel remaining British employees of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company.

A British protest against Mossadegh's order was delivered today by Sir Francis Shepherd, British ambassador. George Middleton, British Embassy counsellor, is preparing to fly to London to make a full report on the situation.

Official Iranian circles here said they were still confident the British would take no "aggressive" action to prevent the remaining staff at Abadan being expelled.

But the tension of the situation was reflected by orders sent to the army today to "stand by."

It was reported here that all Iranian troops in the south, where the Adaban refinery is located, had been recalled to duty.

Mossadegh is due to report tomorrow on his expulsion order to the Majlis (House of Representatives). He may ask for a vote of confidence.

3,500 Rural Houses Get Hydro Each Month

TORONTO, Sept. 26 — (CP) — About 3,500 additional rural hydro customers are being served by the Ontario Hydro Commission every month, Commission Chairman Robert Saunders said last night.

In a broadcast over an Ontario network, during which he termed electricity "truly the farmer's most valuable hired hand," Mr. Saunders traced the growth of rural hydro since the time 30 years ago when there were only 55 rural customers served by six miles of distribution lines.

"Today that handful of people has grown into a mighty family, a mighty army of the soil. Today, Hydro is serving more than 309,955 rural customers, well over double the 144,000 served at the beginning of 1945, and this great family is growing at the rate of some 3,500 a month . . ."

Find Bill, The Bus Driver A Most Obliging Fellow

By JEAN E. STENTON
Examiner Telegraph Editor

HALIFAX, Sept. 26—To enjoy some of the real charm of Nova Scotia and to get acquainted with the people, take the 2.30 bus from Halifax to Queensland and ask for Bill.

Bill appears to be a very special young man, he knows every resident from Halifax to Hubbards, along the south shore by his or her first name. He also does everything from wash babies to packing freight.

School opened in the Halifax area Monday after a delay for some weeks from the polio scare. At Timberlea, our bus picked up 15 primary and kindergarten children, Bill carefuly counted noses, asked how they got along at school their first day, saw them off at the right stops and waited to see them safetly across the highway.

At every village we passed through, Bill gave a special toot of his horn and children responded as to the Pied Piper of Hamlin. They poured from the houses. Big youngsters and small ones, waving frantically to their pal and shrieking cheerful greetings. This was repeated all the way to Hubbards, 35 miles; its easy to see Bill owns this part of the country.

This is one of the liveliest and loveliest trips you can take. Entertainment is never lacking.

When we reached Queensland, Jean Southworth of the Ottawa Journal and I prepared to drop off and explore and pick up a return bus in an hour. Then Bill took us in hand.

Noting that we were "foreigners" he suggested we drive to Hubbards at the end of his run. It is an attractive village and summer spot. Our tickets only read Queensland, but our driver took us along, carefully pointing out things of interest and dropping us at Queensland on the return trip. In the bright sunshine, it was wonderful sitting on the sea shore, uncluttered by people, enjoying the waves washing in on the golden sand.

The trip back we stood at the side of the road and waved down the through bus from Yarmouth. This time there was no Bill and all the travellers were very precise. For our money, we'll take Bill any day.

Found Guilty Of Manslaughter

WINDSOR, Sept. 26 — (CP) — George Liska, 55-year-old foundry worker, yesterday was found guilty of manslaughter in the slaying last June 8 of his friend and fellow worker, Mike Lesko.

A Supreme Court jury deliberated for an hour and a half before bringing in their verdict. Liska had been charged with the murder of Lesko.

Mr. Justice J. M. King remanded Liska until the end of the week for sentence.

A total of 48 Crown witnesses told of the killing on the back steps of Lesko's home. Liska, making a full admission of the shooting but claiming that he only intended to wound Lesko, was the only defence witness.

A few hours after the shooting Liska was found wandering in the waterfront area with a wound in his chest which he later admitted was self-inflicted.

Additions Cost Near $30,000 At Dungannen Twp. School

BANCROFT, Sept. 26 (ENS)—Additions costing nearly $30,000 on the Dungannen township school at L'Amable are nearing completion.

These additions include two new classrooms for the former two-room school, basement auditorium, installation of a new oil-heating unit, water presure system and lavatories.

Monday, students moved into the new classrooms, approximately 60 days after approval for the building was received from the department of education.

The enlarged building at L'Amable will handle the pupils who formerly went to Turriff, Detlor and Bronson schools. The principal is Mrs. Gertrude Vader with Miss Hazel Liddle, Miss Irene Liddle and Mrs. Uena Trotter.

When the finishing touches have been given to the auditorium by Lorne Davy, Bancroft carpenter, it will also be used by the township council and other community organizations.

The school board responsible for this building are: Gordon Groves, chairman; Herbert Hawkins, secretary-treasurer; Donald Littleproud, Manson Hawley, William Wheele, Edward McLean.

The plans for the structure were drawn by Mr. Groves and all arrangements for purchasing and obtaining materials were made by the chairman and secretary-treasurer, with the advice and help of the other members.

UK To Stand Firm In Iran; Truman Asks Cancel Order

LONDON, Sept. 27. (AP)—Britain will stand firm in Iran in the hope that Tehran will bow to President Truman's request to cancel an order expelling British technicians from the Abadan refinery, informed sources said today. The British Cabinet was reported to have reached this decision after Prime Minister Attlee received a personal message from President Truman urging caution in the potentially explosive Iranian situation.

With the crisis over Iran's oil nationalization boiling to ominous proportions, Truman appealed to the Iranian government to back down on its ultimatum, and told both Britain and Iran the US is ready to help them to find a peaceful settlement.

Street Speech

These developments came as Iran's frail, aged Prime Minister Mohammed Mossadegh made a street speech in Iran before a wildly-shouting crowd whose members cried death threats for Britons. The British government has considered sending troops to Abadan to protect the Britons and the British position.

The sources did not say whether the British cabinet has decided to try to hold Abadan by force if Tehran refuses to cancel the edict. The decision to stand pat suggests that Britain will make at least one more effort to negotiate an agreement with Iran.

If Iran rejects Truman's appeal to cancel the expulsion order, Britain probably then must consider whether force will be used, despite US advice against this.

Moscow dispatches said the Soviet Union is watching the Iranian developments closely. The Russians have a treaty with Iran providing for Soviet intervention in the case of foreign invasion.

On Alert

With Iran's forces in Khuzistan Province, site of the Abadan refinery, placed on an alert, rumors that Britain might lasd forces brought nationalist tempers in Tehran to a fever pitch.

Prime Minister Mohammed Mossadegh, barred from speaking in the Majlis (parliament) for lack of a quorum, mounted a chair in front of the building and addressed a widlly-shouting crowd of his fanatic followers, declaring his government would not stop its struggle "to recover the rights of the Iranian people." Mossadegh was the architect of Iran's program which nationalized the British government-controlled Anglo-Iranian Oil Company.

With the 317 remaining British technicians at the great Abadan refinery given until Thursday to get out, Britain appealed to Truman last night for help. Meanwhile Attlee met with his Cabinet on the delicate issue of whether to send British troops to protect its oil len in Iran.

There was no official announcement on what decision was reached. Some sources hinted that the Cabinet might meet again before finally reaching a decision.

G. H. Middleton, counsellor of the British Embassy in Tehran, arrived in London for a confer-

Tornado Wreaks Destruction In Wisconsin

WAUPACA, Wis., Sept. 27 (AP)—The spiralling black finger of a tornado dotted a line of death and ruin across two rural areas in Central Wisconsin yesterday, taking seven lives.

Due eastward across Lake Michigan from the state, another tornado struck the village of Biteley, Mich., at night and left one woman dead.

The lower part of Wisconsin's Waupaca County was ripped by a "roaring and terrifying" twister which killed six persons and injured at least three. Four of the victims, members of one family, were carried into a swamp a quarter-mile from where the tornado engulfed them.

Then some 45 minutes later—6.30 p.m. EDT—and about 50 miles to the south — a funnel-shaped cloud hopped across a 15-mile path in Columbia County, killing a woman and injuring her three children by picking up their farm home and smashing it down 250 yards away. Seven others were reported injured.

Splintered barns, sheds, silos and homes lined the paths of the tornadoes in Wisconsin, but there could be no accurate estimate of the heavy loss. Nor was there a count of the numerous livestock killed.

Howard Rasmussen, 35, his wife, Irene, and their children, Robert, 5, and Betty, 2, were cleaning chickens in their farm yard in Waupaca when the tornado roared down on them. Their bodies were found in a swamp a quarter-mile away. Rasmussen's father, William, 65, was in the basement. He was struck on the head by a timber and died four hours later.

The other Waupaca county victim was Mrs. Frances Melliet of Lebanon. She and her two children were swept away when the tornado levelled their farm home. Mrs. Melliet was found dead in a field. The children were in a nearby ditch, badly frightened but not seriously hurt.

Mrs. Alice McGuire, 32, was killed when the twister swooped down on her Columbia county farm home four miles west of Randolph. Her three children were not seriously hurt.

Both tornadoes swept out of the southwest and passed in a northeasterly direction.

Michigan's tornado killed Mrs. Edith Brackney, 67, of Flint, and injured three men as it buckled the concrete wall of a Biteley tavern.

No Confidence Vote Demanded

TORONTO, Sept. 27 (CP). — E. B. Jolliffe, opposition leader in the Legislature, today chose inflation, and its effects on old-age pensioners, as grounds for a motion of non-confidence in the Ontario government.

The motion, in the traditional form of an amendment to the reply to the throne speech, will be voted on later today.

It acknowledged that this session's legislation to extend pensions to needy persons in the 65-69 group constituted progress, but regretted "the refusal of the government to give due consideration to the most needy victims of inflation, and in particular its refusal to make any provision for a cost-of-living supplement or adequate health services."

Mr. Jolliffe, in the throne speech debate, said there was evidence of "improper expenditure of public funds" in construction of a fish hatchery at Elk Lake, 15 miles from Englehart, which was begun last year.

Premier Frost replied that there would be the "fullest investigation" of the matter, if it were true, in the public accounts committee.

LONDON, Sept. 27 (Reuters). —Canada agreed to increase production of iron ore, ferrous metals and basic chemicals at the Commonwealth Raw Materials Conference which ended today.

Princess Will Fly Here October 7

Visit Arrangements Will Remain Same But One Week Later

LONDON, Sept. 27. (CP)—Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh will leave for their delayed Canadian tour by air Oct. 7, they announced today. Their original plans to leave from Liverpool Sept. 25 by sea, arriving in Quebec City Oct. 2, were cancelled because of the King's illness.

They will begin carrying out their tour schedule at Quebec City Oct. 9.

This means there will be only a one week delay caused by delay of the trip.

A spokesman said the Royal couple will disclose later whether it will still be possible for them to carry out their plan to visit President Truman in Washington.

The announcement gave no details of present plans but it was assumed the trip would last about a month, as originally intended.

Leave By Air

Tonight's brief announcement merely said: "Arrangements are being made for their Royal Highnesses . . . to start their Canadian tour from Quebec October 9. They will leave London by air October 7."

It is understood the flight will be made in a BOAC Stratocruiser, which almost certainly will land at Montreal. Normal flying time for the 3,400-mile trip is just over 16 hours.

The four-engine aircraft is double-decked and equipped with sleepers.

In view of the King's health, it had been considered possible here that the Canadian tour would be postponed until next year. Latest medical reports on his condition have been encouraging, however.

The Princess and the Duke originally intended to sail from Liverpool last Tuesday on the liner Empress of France.

They had planned to visit Washington October 24, 25 and 26. Presumably any change of plan would first be cleared with the White House.

Normal Recovery

The decision to reinstate plans for the tour after only a seven-day postponement apparently means that the King is believed to be making a normal recovery from his dangerous lung operation of last Sunday.

Another reason for thinking so was that Princess Elizabeth went to the races at Ascot today. It was the first time she had left London since a surgeon cut away all or a part of one of her father's lungs four days ago.

Giles New President Of National League

CINCINNATI, Sept. 27 (AP)—Warren C. Giles, Cincinnati baseball man, today accepted the presidency of the National League.

He will succeed Ford Frick, New York, who a week ago was elected commissioner of baseball.

Giles, president and general manager of Cincinnati Reds, said he would be ready to assume his new duties Oct. 16, if that met with the approval of the other members of the circuit.

Gen. Ridgway Proposes Talks Be Moved From Kaesong

By DON HUTH

TOKYO, Sept. 27. (AP)—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway today proposed that Korean cease-fire talks be moved from Kaesong six miles southeast into no-man's land. The proposed location is near Songhyon village. Ridgway said the new site should be kept free of armed troops. He also suggested that delegates resume discussion on the location of a military buffer zone across the Korean peninsula. This was the subject that tied up the truce talks for weeks before the Communists broke them off Aug. 23.

The Allied commander told the top Red commanders that talks could be resumed immediately if they agreed.

Predict Refusal

There was no quick reaction from Red officials. A Communist correspondent predicted they would reject the proposal.

The Reds want the talks resumed in Kaesong, with the first item of business a full-scale discussion of alleged Allied violations of the Kaesong neutral zone.

The United Nations command wants no part of Kaesong, located behind the Communist lines. And the UN has told the Reds there is no need to reopen discussion of their charges.

Songhyon is a war-scarred village six miles southeast of Kaesong's outskirts. It is one mile south of the Red outpost at Panmunjom. Ridgway described it as "approximately midway between the battle lines."

The supreme commander's message said, "It would, of course, be agreed by both sides that this meeting place would be kept free of armed troops and that both sides would abstain from any hostile act or exercise of authority over members of the other side

Storm Wrecks North Ontario

NORTH BAY, Sept. 27—(CP)—A severe storm moved across Northern Ontario overnight, disrupted communications, littered railway lines with smashed telegraph poles and caused a serious freight derailment.

Veteran railroaders termed it one of the worst Fall storms in Northern Ontario history. At some points snow drifted a foot deep.

Wind and rain lashing the Canadian Pacific Railway's line between Sudbury and Sault Ste. Marie washed out tracks at Thessalon and piled up an eastbound freight.

The locomotive and 19 freight cars were derailed in the accident just before midnight last night. No one was hurt.

The Canadian National Railways had section gangs working all night on the main lines between Long Lac and Armstrong and Long Lac and Port Arthur to move shattered telegraph poles and wire blown across the tracks.

Some workers had to shovel snow from railway tracks at main station points where the snow ranged from six to 12 inches in depth.

The storm started at nightfall Wednesday night, reached the peak of its fury about midnight and had almost blown itself out at six o'clock this morning.

But the damage littered in its path probably will take most of today and tonight to clear up.

Industrial Union With US Proposed

NEW YORK, Sept. 27. (CP)—An industrial union between Canada and the United States was proposed Wednesday by Floyd Cramer, New York banker and president of the National Association for the Preservation of Free Enterprise, Inc.

Cramer released the text of a letter to Prime Minister St Laurent and State Secretary Dean Acheson proposing that the United States assist Canada in developing her natural and industrial resources so that the two countries could present, together, a deterrent to Communist conquest of the western hemisphere.

He suggested as a first step a joint Canadian-American commission to work out the financing the relocation of European displaced persons in order to man the undertaking. He pointed out that there are hundreds of thousands of Europeans who, if given homes in Canada, would do for the Dominion what immigration has done for the US.

6 Children Burned In House Fire

3 In Parry Sound Play With Matches Chimney Starts 2nd

HAGERSVILLE, Sept. 27. —(CP)—Six children were burned to death today in two fires at their homes, three in Hagersville and three in Parry Sound.

In Hagersville the three children of Mr. and Mrs. Ward Laforme were burned to death when fire destroyed their home at Little Buffalo near here.

Dead are Martin, 3, Virginia, 4, and Irvin, 5. Mrs. Laforme managed to escape with a younger child, Joan.

The fire, fought by the Hagersville fire department, was believed to have been started either through a faulty furnace pipe or a chimney fire. The blaze is believed to have broken out in the second storey of the dwelling.

The Indian office at Brantford, reported Mr. Laforme was away from home at the time of the tragedy, working at a job in Hamilton.

Mrs. Laforme, hair seared and clothing scorched, had to stand outside the burning house as her children, trapped in a second-floor bedroom, died.

There is no telephone within four miles of the spot and firemen were called by a passing motorist. The only water available was in the fire trucks' 800-gallon tank, soon exhausted.

Rescued Child

The motorist, Fred Mattice, ran in and warned Mrs. Laforme, in a downstairs bedroom. She rushed out with Joan then re-entered the house, but was unable to reach the bedroom on the second floor.

In Parry Sound three young children apparently playing with matches were burned to death today when fire destroyed a combination woodshed and playhouse on a farm five miles south of Parry Sound.

The dead: Joan and Jean Tucci, four-year-old twins, and Betty Jane Bartlett, 3.

The twins' mother rushed out of the farm house to find the shed aflame but was unable to save the children.

No details of the fire were available immediately other than that the children were playing in the shed and flames suddenly enveloped it about 11 a.m.. It was thought that they were playing with matches.

Mrs. Tucci is the mother of 10 other children.

Next 72 Hrs. Vital Internal Bleeding, Fatigue, Danger

By DON SCHWIND

LONDON, Sept. 27. (AP)—The King's doctors said today he is stronger and his appetite is improving. Their morning bulletin, the eighth since a serious lung operation Sunday, said the King had a better night and that his progress is continuing. The bulletin, signed by four of the King's doctors and the surgeon who performed the operation, said: "After a better night the King is stronger, his appetite is improving and progress continues."

A London expert on lung operations said today's report "is as good as you could have expected for a young, strong man in the same circumstances."

The encouraging report was issued as the Monarch entered a new danger period in his fight for recovery.

Reports from inside Buckingham Palace, which termed the next 72 hours "vital," indicated two doctors are keeping a constant watch.

Asks To Be Called

Palace sources also said the Queen has indicated she wants to be called at any hour if the King asks for her.

Some London medical specialists speculated that today—the fifth day since the King's operation—is the beginning of the second danger period. He passed the first danger phase Monday night.

These specialists said the new critical period—expected in some quarters to last through Monday—holds these threats for the 55-year-old monarch:

1. Fatigue. One doctor explained that "when the patient has sufficiently recovered to take food his system starts working again and produces fatigue."
2. Internal bleeding. Medical men believe danger from bleeding is greatest on the fifth day after lung resection.

The King's doctors used the term "resection" in describing the operation. It means cutting out all or part of a lung. The doctors have not disclosed the disease that made the operation necessary.

Buckingham Palace warned the British people last night that the King's condition will cause "some anxiety for the next week or 10 days."

Fourteen minutes after the Palace statement, Princess Elizabeth announced she was postponing her Canadian tour to stay near her father.

The 25-year-old heiress to the throne said she and her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, will make the trip one or two weeks later. They were scheduled originally to arrive in Quebec Oct. 2 for a cross-Canadian tour that included a side trip to Washington. Prime Minister St. Laurent of Canada suggested the postponement.

There was general agreement among London specialists that if the King comes through the weekend without serious complications he will be in position for a fast recovery.

For the first time since the operation, there was no night bulletin last night.

PM Flies To US To See Truman About Seaway

OTTAWA, Sept. 27 — (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent is flying to Washington late today to talk to President Truman about Canadian proposals to proceed alone with development of the St. Lawrence seaway and power project, and "about other matters of common concern," his office announced today.

The Prime Minister's appointment with the President is for tomorrow morning and it is possible he will return to Ottawa immediately after the interview.

There has been a growing indication here that Canada would proceed alone with the seaway and power development, but certain co-operation is necessary from the United States authorities for such operations in international waters.

Whether or not a proposal on this project will come before the session of Parliament opening on October 9 will depend on the outcome of the talks in Washington.

There was no clue as to the other matters about which the Prime Minister and the President will talk. The Prime Minister will reach Washington this evening.

With joint Canadian-United States action on the seaway stalled for many years because the US Congress has not acted on the undertaking, the key to the big scheme is President Truman.

Executive orders are needed from him to clear the way for all-Canadian construction of the navigation phase of the project and to permit the province of Ontario and New York State to go ahead jointly with the hydro-electric power development aspect.

For Canada to go ahead, President Truman would have to authorize—along with the Canadian government—an inquiry into the plan by the international joint commission, which has jurisdiction over the use of boundary waters.

Montreal Girl Shot In Hotel

CHICAGO, Sept. 27 (AP). — The body of a young woman found shot to death in a south-side hotel yesterday was identified by police today as Dorothy Irene Heath, 21, of Montreal.

Police said a telephone call made last July when the girl registered at the hotel was traced by detectives to her father, Charles Heaton in Montreal.

Police said the woman and a negro had registered at the hotel early yesterday as Mr. and Mrs. Howard Blanton of Detroit. The man left the hotel 45 minutes later and a few hours later the woman's body, a bullet wound in the head, was found.

4 Youths Rob Woman One Attempts Rape

HAMILTON, Sept. 27 (CP). — A 27-year-old Hamilton woman told police today that she was abducted last night by four youths who robbed her and then tried to rape her.

One youth grabbed her as she walked to a bus stop. He clamped his hand over her mouth and dragged her to a park nearby.

In the park, her abductor was joined by a second man who took her purse. Two other youths then joined in and the four took her by car to a deserted sideroad.

There three of the youths left the car while the fourth, partially stripping her, attempted to rape her. He became discouraged when she fought him off, and after calling his companions, drove off in the car, leaving the woman on the sideroad.

The Experts Say

500,000 Socialists Will Waste Votes In British Election Coming In October

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON, Sept. 27 — (CP) — About 500,000 Socialist suporters will trudge to the polls in vain in next month's general elections. Their votes, the experts say, will be wasted.

The theory is that Labor holds some seats by such overwhelming margins that the extra votes are not needed, and do not influence results in other constituencies.

The Conservatives suffer from the same disability but not nearly to the same extent. At the last general election in February, 1950, some five-sixths of the 60 largest majorities went into the Soci ist ledger.

Need More Votes

This statistical bias in the electoral system, which operates on a single-constituency basis, was detected by David Butler, appointed by the Nuffield Foundation to break the 1950 election down into figures. By Butler's calculations, the bias is such that—all things being equal—Labor will need about two per cent more of the popular vote than the Conservatives to win a like number of seats.

Sections in which Labor votes are least likely to be needed include the working class area of East London, the industrial Tyneside, coal-mining Durham and South Wales.

Thus Labor campaign managers can be expected to fire their big guns in the marginal areas. Among these will be the 47 constituencies in which the winning margin a year ago last February was less than 1,000. The battle will be even fiercer in the seven seats now held by less than 100 votes.

Danger Spots

Chief among the danger spots for Labor are the Manchester division, held by 42 votes in an electorate of nearly 6,000; Preston South, and Pembroke. The Liberal Party, which had 474 candidates in the last election but only nine seats, holds seven by margins of less than 2,000. This time the Liberals are concentrating on a much smaller number of constituencies.

The reduced Liberal presentation probably will help the Conservatives more than Labor. Tory chiefs claimed they lost 14 seats in February, 1950, through the large-scale Liberal intervention. These were findings in which Liberal voters were considered right wing, and in which Labor won by narrow margins.

The 1950 swing—that is, the average of the Conservative gain and Labor loss—has been estimated at slightly more than 3 per cent. It is estimated that a further swing of about 2 per cent would give the Tories a comfortable working majority in the next parliament — say by about 50 seats.

Health Improving

People Now Living Longer Workers Last 68.3 Years

TORONTO, Sept. 27 (CP). — People are living longer, the Society of Actuaries, the men who study such things for insurance companies in Canada and the United States, was told today.

Mortimer Spiegelman and Dr. Louis I. Dublin, both of Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, New York, said in a joint paper to the society's annual meeting, that the post-war period has seen a considerable improvement in the health of wage-earners and their families.

Deaths Down One-eighth

Further, within five years, deaths among industrial policyholders of Metropolitan fell by one-eighth; the age-adjusted death rate at ages of 1 to 74 declining without interruption from 529.2 per 100,000 in 1946 to 463.2 in 1950. In the past 20 years the rate dropped by about one-half.

The average length of life of industrial policyholders increased from 65.6 years in 1946 to 68.3 years in 1950. Since 1950, the gain has been more than 10 years; and since 1911-12, more than 21 years.

The paper said further that nearly all the important causes of death showed declines. In the five years, 1946-50, the long-term downward trend for tuberculosis accelerated, the death rate dropping 40 per cent, reaching an all-time low of 18.8 per 100,000 at ages one to 74; the death rate from pneumonia and influenza was cut almost to half; the principal communicable diseases of childhood dropped three-quarters. External causes—suicide, homicide and accidents—showed reductions.

New Advances

The paper credited the favorable trends to new medical and surgical advances; extension of public health service; an increase in hospital use as the result of the growth of insurance; and a marked rise in the standard of living.

Yesterday the society elected as its president a Canadian, B. T. Holmes of Toronto, who succeeds Valentine Howell of New York. More than 500 delegates from Canada and the United States are attending the convention.

RCAF Calls Off Search For Bush Pilot

EDMONTON, Sept. 27. (CP)—The far north ground search for bush pilot Johnny Bourassa has been called off, the RCAF announced last night.

But the active air search for the Peace River, Alta., pilot, about 30, will be continued for the "next few days."

"By that time air force planes will have covered 57,000 square miles of land in the northwest territories southeast of Great Slave Lake, 500 miles northeast of Edmonton.

Bourassa has been missing in this wild country of countless lakes and streams, bush and muskeg since May 18 when he disappeared on a 200-mile northern flight. An air force search then covered 99,[illegible] square miles without finding a trace of him and was abandoned June 15.

Plane Found

It was re-opened Sept. 5 after Bourassa's light aircraft was found on the southern tip of Wholdaia Lake, 375 miles southeast of Yellowknife, NWT.

The plane had been damaged in an emergency landing which ended on the rocky shore of the lake after Bourassa had run out of gas in overshooting his intended destination by some 325 miles.

A note written by Bourassa was found in the aircraft.

Bourassa said in the note that he had stayed with his plane five days and then set out on foot in a northwesterly direction in search of civilization. He hoped to walk out to Great Slave Lake, somewhere near Fort Reliance. The distance was 200 miles by air.

Ground search parties were recruited in Yellowknife and flown into the region in an attempt to pick up Bourassa's trail. For three weeks the expert woodsmen, trackers and trappers scoured the bush.

Yesterday they consulted with Wing Cmdr. C. M. Black, RCAF searchmaster, and decided that further ground search is impractical. No definite trail of Bourassa has been picked up.

A city bus and a car were in a minor collision downtown Wednesday during the noon traffic jam. None of the passengers was injured.

The bus, driven by Cecil Howson, RR 7 Peterborough, started south on George St. and when just south of Simcoe St.—opposite Kresge's—the driver slowed because of a traffic jam.

A southbound car, driven by George Coleman, 690 Aylmer St., was unable to stop in time and ran into the rear of the bus. Coleman told Constable V. A. McConnell that he applied his brakes suddenly and the master cylinder on his car broke. The brakes gave way and he rolled into the bus.

A quantity of fluid was visible on the street.

Damage to the bus was estimated at $209 and to the car $125.

Jet Air Battles 3rd Day, 2 MIGs Damaged

By JOHN RANDOLPH

UN COMMAND, KOREA, Sept. 27—(AP)—Allied planes today damaged two Russian-type MIG jet fighters over North Korea in the third straight day of swirling air battles.

That brought the bag of MIGs for the three days to 26—five shot down, two probably destroyed and 19 damaged—at a cost of only one United States jet lost and one Australian jet damaged.

On the ground, Communist and Allied infantry were locked in the 16th day of close combat for the strategic peaks of "Heartbreak Ridge" on the eastern front. There was no end to the fighting in sight.

Quiet Front

Elsewhere the 150-mile-long front was relatively quiet.

A sweep by 34 F-86 Sabre jets over Sinanju brought out 50 MIGs. For 25 minutes dogfights swirled from 30,000 to 10,000 feet.

There were no reports of UN losses.

There was every evidence—in the length of battle and the lack of serious damage to the MIGs—that the Reds were using better planes and better tactics.

The battle followed by less than 24 hours history's greatest day of jet warfare. Wednesday the Reds and Allies threw 256 fighters into combat.

In the bitter battle for heartbreak ridge, the Reds Wednesday threw back all efforts by French and American troops to capture the heights.

The ridge has absorbed almost all the heavy ground fighting along the battlefront for days.

More Casualties

The Army announced this week an increase of 2,212 United States casualties over last week. Presumably most of the casualties were on the slopes of Heartbreak.

The main assault was directed along the heights where a Red battalion was all but cut off. French troops Thursday assaulted the position.

UN 2nd Infantry division troops were pushing up from the south under a hail of automatic weapons and mortar fire.

The North Korean communique, as broadcast by Moscow radio Wednesday, said 275 Allied planes were shot down between Aug. 25 and Sept. 25. The Reds also said five destroyers were sunk, 60,300 casualties inflicted and 40 tanks, 200 motorcars and 157 guns of various calibre were destroyed.

Girl Put On Probation For Theft Of $30

Doreen Whyte, 18, a factory worker, today was placed on a suspended sentence of two years after she pleaded guilty to stealing $30 from a roommate.

She was warned by Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, that she was lucky she wasn't given a jail term.

Evidence was that she was rooming with another girl, Eileen Taylor, at the home of E. J. Harrison, Engleburn Ave. Recently she had been laid off but had prospects of another job.

She took the $30 from a penny bank that Miss Taylor had put in a drawer in their room. Then she spent the money.

Miss Whyte promised to pay back the money and she was given a month in which to do so.

Judgment Held In Bootleg Case

Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, today reserved judgment after hearing evidence in a bootlegging charge.

Crown Attorney John Bradshaw, KC, brought a charge of offering for sale against Sidney Smith, 40, of 728 Gillespie St. Smith pleaded not guilty.

Constable Douglas Farthing testified that, acting on a complaint, he began eight-hour watches of Smith's home during the evenings beginning August 31. He was stationed within 50 yards of the house and was equipped with field glasses.

During seven of these watches he saw nothing incriminating, but shortly after midnight September 16 he saw a car drive up to Smith's home and the occupants got what looked like a 24-pint case of beer.

He stopped the car a few minutes later on Lansdowne St. and found a case in the back seat. The occupants were Jim Mills, Sophia St., the driver, and two passengers —Larry Casselman, 37, Watts St., and Albert Vilneff, 30, Welsh St. They were all arrested.

Constable Farthing said he then got a search warrant, from a justice of the peace and, with several other city constables, raided Smith's home. They found two full cases of ale and another with three bottles missing—69 pints in all.

Smith was also placed under arrest.

From his vantage point the constable said he saw the Mills car drive up into Smith's laneway and Smith brought a case of beer through a basement window and put it in the car.

Casselman, a crown witness, said there was no arrangement for sale. He had gone down to see Smith about buying a dog and thought he might as well have a couple of pints of beer while doing so. Since then Smith gave him the dog.

He testified that Smith told him "I haven't any on ice but you can have a case." After conferring with his companions he decided to take the case and chipped in $8.

Casselman said he groped through the basement window and thrust the $8 into Smith's hand. It was a gift, he explained, there had been no agreement to sell. He added that at no time did Smith come out of the house.

His evidence was substantiated by Vilneff and Smith himself.

Defence Counsel Gordon Farquharson said evidence of the witnesses didn't indicate any agreement for sale. The money was thrust on Smith.

"It's almost surprising that the resources of the police department should be used for watching just one house," he said.

Magistrate Philp decided to think it over for a week and Smith was released on $500 bail.

"I propose that upon resumption of [illegible]tion meetings at this place, both delegations be prepared to return to the discussion of item two (buffer zone) of the agenda immediately following any discussion that may be needed to clarify physical and security arrangements at the meeting place.

"If you concur, I will arrange to have liaison officers meet to discuss immediate erection of the necessary physical facilities."

Ridgway sent his message directly to North Korean Premier Kim Il S[illegible] and Chinese Gen. Peng Teh-Huai.

He bypassed Red liaison officers because they "have stated they are not authorized to discuss or arrange satisfactory conditions for the resumption of armistice talks."

SATURDAY FAIRS

Comes sun Saturday and the highways invite, there are two fairs in the district, Bobcaygeon and Port Hope. The rugby squad goes to Cobourg. The splashing water of the Little Bob extends special attraction, now that the tourist town has said farewell to most of its summer crowd.

ence with Attlee and said Iran was "making it physically impossible for the British people to continue in Abadan, by denying them stores, housing and so on."

The US and Britain are reported seeking a middle way out of the crisis. The critical question before Washington is: Would the US give diplomatic support to the possible use of armed force by Britain to keep what is left of the British position in Abadan?

Diplomatic informants in Washington said the extreme alternatives facing the British government are either to "walk in or to walk out." Attlee and his Cabinet, they mean, must decide whether to send troops or to order their technicians to leave Abadan.

Obituary

FRED C. D. MILBURN

Fred C. D. Milburn of 274 Sherbrooke St., died today at his residence following a prolonged illness. He was born in Smith township, son of the late Robert Thomas Milburn and Wealthy Jane Kelly, and has lived in the city for the past 45 years.

He leaves his wife, the former Alice Neave, and six daughters. They are: Mrs. Eric Pearse (Ruby), Mrs. Louise Wigmore, Mrs. Jack Chambers (Beulah), and Miss Shirley Milburn, all of this city; Mrs. Gordon Seabrook (Alma) of Ridgeway, Ont., and Mrs. Roger Reynolds (Dorothy) of St. Catharines. One brother, Smith T. Milburn, lives in Smith township.

Mr. Milburn was a machine operator at the Canadian General Electric for 35 years and a member of their Quarter Century Club; he retired four years ago. He was a member of Knox United Church.

Funeral service will be held at the family residence on Saturday at 3 p.m. The Rev. H. G. Douglas will officiate and burial will be at Little Lake cemetery.

Prudential of England New Business Leader

JOHN R. BROADHURST

Mr. John R. Broadhurst has once again distinguished himself by qualifying in the Prudential Leaders Club for his sixth successive year.

Well and favorably known in Peterborough, Mr. Broadhurst is particularly well-equipped to serve the insurance needs of his large and growing clientele. The Prudential of England is the largest insurance organization in the British Commonwealth.

Little Theatre To Stage 'Merry Wives'

The Peterborough Little Theatre will produce Shakespeare's "The Merry Wives of Windsor" in January as its annual public presentation. This was announced by President J. G. Nichols at a dinner to inaugurate the season held in the Empress Hotel Wednesday night and attended by 152 members of the Little Theatre. Casting and staging will begin next week.

Commenting on the large membership and attendance at the dinner, Mr. Nichols said: "This is an enthusastic beginning of our season. It is an important season. 'The Merry Wives of Windsor' demands our full resources, and this year we are hosts to the Eastern Ontario Drama Festival."

Drama Festival February

He called on Robertson Davies, director of the Little Theatre, to discuss production and casting, and on R. J. Bolton, a member of the executive and newly-appointed Regional Festival Director. Colonel Bolton reminded the members that the Festival would take place in the week of February 25, and asked their support in the organizational and ticket sale arrangements.

Following dinner Robertson Davies, who returned last week from a summer visit in England and Wales, gave verbal sketches of some of his impressions. He remarked on "the astounding degree of importance which the English attach to individuality of taste," and cited Festival exhibits and events as examples — from hurdy-gurdy of the Fun Fair to a high-brow exhibition or rare and beautiful books.

Stratford Supreme

Mr. Davies spoke chiefly of the theatre season in England. He found that Stratford-on-Avon, not London, was the centre of the finest and best. He considers that under its brilliant young post - war director Anthony Quayle the Shakespeare Memorial Theatre at Stratford has become a premier theatre in the English-speaking world.

Among leading actors were Anthony Quayle (Falstaff), Michael Redgrave (Hotspur), a comparative newcomer to front rank Harry Andrews (Henry IV), and Hugh Griffith's (Caliban)—all in Stratford. In London Sir Laurence Olivier and his wife Vivien Leigh were playing the leads in a remarkable double sequence of Shakespeare's and Shaw's Antony and Cleopatra — revealing the greater glory of William Shakespeare. John Gielgud, 'the finest speaker of Shakespeare today' and Diana Wynyard were playing in 'Love's Labor Lost.' Mr. Davies paid a moving tribute to the royal tradition of Covent Garden theatre, currently reviving Balfe's 'The Bohemian Girl,' under Sir Thomas Beecham's baton.

At the close of the meeting committee matters were discussed and J. D. Londerville spoke about various projects the Little Theatre was entertaining during the winter.

Miss Musa Cox and Mrs. Mary Baker played Purcell in piano duet arrangement as an after dinner interlude.

Among head-table guests were Christopher Gledhill, musical director of the Coventry Singers who last year assisted in the Little Theatre's production of "Twelfth Night".

FILM COUNCIL MEETS

Four films will be shown Friday night at the meeting of the Peterborough Film Council at the Public Library. They are: Rural Life of Mexico, Music for the Stars, After Prison—What? and a March of Time film on India. After Prison—What? won a Canadian award for film production.

WROTE LETTER

Mrs. William Dorrington, Sr., 52 Victoria St., telephoned the Examiner today to say that she wanted readers to understand that she was the writer of the letter signed Mrs. Wm. Dorrington, which appeared in Wednesday night's paper answering a criticism of a recent action of the Local Council of Women.

SUSPEND TRAFFIC

Morrow Park will be closed on Saturday to vehicular traffic on that projection of George St. south from Lansdowne St. It is Achievement Day for the boys and girls clubs of the county, and it is expected that 150 or more of the young people are turning out for the wind up of their season. They have a day's program, beginning around 9:30 a.m., concluding about 4 p.m. So, the report today was that the use of the road would be suspended for through traffic.

EXECUTORS AND TRUSTEES FOR HALF A CENTURY

take your time

BUT ACT NOW . . .

Scrambling to make a Will when danger threatens is probably better than not making one at all but the preparation of such an important document should not be left to the confusion of a last minute rush.

Making a Will is something that can easily be attended to before emergencies arise. This duty should not be neglected. The logic and advantages of appointing a Corporate Executor and Trustee are obvious and well recognized.

All that is needed to get the job done, and done well, is to ask us to help you plan your Will, which we shall gladly do without charge. You can then have it drawn in proper legal form, naming The Royal Trust Company your Executor and Trustee, execute the Will and file it with us for safekeeping.

It is not wise to be A MAN WITHOUT A WILL

Campbellford Cheese Show Third Largest In Country

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 27 — (ENS)—Gate receipts at the 1951 Campbellford fair on Wednesday were reported to be slightly above the 1950 figure, with nearly 2,800 paid admissions. Midway attractions were not as well patronized as usual. Observers gave many reasons for this, the paramount one being the high cost of living. Most of the rides were also a nickel higher this year than last, and this may also have contributed to the fewer number of patrons.

While the weather was comparatively clear for the annual affair, a cool wind kept the crowd moving. It was just too cold to do much standing around. Entries in the horse classes were heavy, with patrons showing particular interest in the races and the drawing contest.

Cheese Display Best

Probably the most outstanding all round exhibit at the 1951 fair was the cheese display. Situated in the heart of the cheese producing district, Campbellford fair each year attracts a large entry in the cheese section, and this year it was the largest ever. The display was, in fact, the third largest in the province, and in all likelihood the country, taking a back seat only to the Western Exhibition at London, Ontario, and the CNE at Toronto. Toronto had 61 cheese exhibits, London 81, and Campbellford 51. Other fairs about the province fall short of this figure. Judges were of the opinion that the quality of the cheese was just about on a par with other years. The largest single display of produce on the grounds, the display contained almost twice the number of entries as the Ottawa Exhibition.

The display was under the direction of Mr. W. P. Moore of Campbellford, Cheese instructor and inspector for the Campbellford and Peterborough districts. Judges of the many entries were Bob Gillan of Belleville; George Pollard, Stirling; Jack Wilkinson, Tweed; Ernie Henderson, Picton; J. M. Bain, London and Wm. P. Moore of Campbellford.

90 Girls Enter Achievement Day

COBOURG, Sept. 27 (ENS).—Annual achievement day held by Northumberland County girls at Grafton drew keen competition, with 90 participating. Thirty-five girls had completed the Garden Club for the year and 38 club members competed in a project in foods, entitled "Dressing Up Home-Grown Vegetables."

The room was lined with exhibits displayed in attractive and original layouts, showing vegetables from the club members' gardens. Fine quality in the choice was evident with the best being shown by third-year girls. Commentators on the exhibits were Gerane McConnell, East Seymour; Doris Finaly and Ann Heenan, Grafton; Florence Brown and Lois and Joan McCulloch, West Seymour. The girls also exhibited canning.

All the nutrition clubs took the title, "Five Ways With Vegetables," for their exhibits, and these were commented upon by Donna McColl for Wooler, Kathryn Judd for Wicklow-Vernonville district, Lauraine Bright for West Seymour and Lois Bell for Baltimore. An interesting variety in choice of demonstrations and skits were presented by the club members from the following clubs: Baltimore, "Vegetables Go To School"; Grafton, "Let's Can Tomatoes"; Coldsprings, "Garden Culture"; Harwood, "Flower Arrangement"; Seymour West, "Vegetables Go To School"; Wooler Garden Club, "Let's Serve Vegetables," and the Wooler Nutrition Club, "Let's Serve Salads."

Honor pins and certificates were presented to Phyllis Fisher, Seymour West, and Jean Ingram, Seymour East; Jona Bright, Florence Brown, Joan McCuloch, Lois McCuloch, Marilyn Rutherford and Lauraine Bright, Grafton; Doreen Dorland, Mary Dorland, Lillian Peister, Aldythe Arthur, Leila McColl, Ruth Fox, Ruth McColl, Winnifred Perry and Barbara McColl, Wooler; Gerane McConnell and Marion Craighead, Seymour East; Kathryn Judd, Jean Smith, Nancy Bilxoc and Shirley Wills, Wicklow-Vernonville; Tannis Myers, Jean Bell and Lois Vall, Baltimore.

Assisting in the program were Miss Florence P. Eadie, supervisor of junior extension, and Ralph Banbury, agricultural representative. Jean Noble, home economist for the county, also helped in the program. During the summer the following leaders spent considerable time training the girls: Mrs. Milton Lacey, Coldsprings; Mrs. A. Canlan and Mrs. Douglas Johnston, Grafton; Mrs. E. Drope and Mrs. Stephens, Harwood; Mrs. T. Campbell and Mis sIona Bright, Seymour West; Mrs. R. Brown and Miss Mary Ann Gibson, Seymour East; Mrs. J. Devinley, Wicklow-Vernonville; Mrs. N. Crosby, Wooler; Mrs. Lyle Ball, Baltimore, and Mrs. Wesley Down, Hilton.

Ordnance Depot Main To Cost $30,000

COBOURG, Sept. 27 (ENS).—Water mains to the site of the new ordnance depot will cost $30,000 to instal, it was revealed at the meeting of the Cobourg Public Utilities Commission. The Commission authorized purchase of the necessary materials. There will be two 12-inch mains with a total of 3,600 feet. The cost will be financed through a debenture issue and it is expected that the charge for water and hydrants will compensate for the cost of building.

New Houses For Rent?

The City Council is taking thought for Peterborough's housing situation. This week the special Housing Committee is investigating a proposal to build rental houses east of Little Lake. This proposal and the present and future need of more rental houses in the city will undoubtedly get the serious and detailed consideration it deserves.

* * *

At the end of August Mayor Swanston suggested that the city take advantage of the new Federal-Provincial scheme to aid municipalities to build rental houses. He then hinted that 50 or 75 houses could be built under it. According to this low-rental housing plan announced by Premier Frost last June (and many municipalities are already taking advantage of it), Ottawa puts up three-quarters of the money, the Provincial Government 17½ per cent. and the city the remaining 7½ per cent. The city's share is therefore quite small.

* * *

We discussed the plan in relation to Peterborough in June when the announcement was made, and again in August when the Mayor proposed that the city actively consider building some houses under the plan. As we said then, Peterborough needs more houses, particularly houses available for renting at moderate prices. There has been a lull in municipal housing projects for some time, but the influx of workers and new families, and the expansion of industries are continuing. The city must not sit with folded hands as an existing housing shortage develops into what may be a very serious one. The future must be looked at pretty closely. That requires expert estimates of the present situation and the trend in industries in the city. New conditions have arisen in the last nine months due to the re-armament program; Peterborough's housing needs must be re-surveyed.

* * *

The east city site now being considered has several advantages. The district is already being built over and therefore water and sewage services must be expanded there anyway. A new housing development would financially ease the burden. The 7½ per cent. cost which Peterborough would have to assume of houses built under the Federal-Provincial scheme will largely be taken up in providing the land and the services. Since these services must be set up anyway, a full-scale job could be economically done if 50 or 75 new houses are built in the area to use the services.

A Fine Body Of Men

A recent Canadian Press photograph showed members of the 1st Battalion, PPCLI, in full gear waiting to board train for an American West Coast port, Korea-bound. Even in a photograph their faces and bearing showed them to be as fine a group of young men as this country produces; and that is high commendation. They looked every inch of them good soldiers—serious yet fresh, disciplined yet intelligent—and characteristically Canadian. No wonder; these men of the 1st Battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry are the pick of the post-war crop.

They are Regulars. Many of them joined the army two or three or four years ago when qualifications were high, to make a military career. They have been intensively and broadly trained, in plain and mountain warfare, for torrid heat and frigid snowy north, for ground and air. Most of them in the photograph wore paratroopers' wings, for the Patricia's had paratrooping added to Light Infanteering a couple of years ago—the entire 1st Battalion became air-borne. (Light? These Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantrymen looked as heavily laden as their illustrious Patricia forebears of the last war and the Great War!)

They go to replace the 2nd Battalion PPCLI in Korea whose members were recruited for the Special Force to serve in Korea and many of whom are old sweats, veterans of the last war. Incidentally, it is the first time in its celebrated history that the regiment has had two battalions. The 2nd Battalion will be home for Christmas; the splendid 1st will be in Korea. Good luck to these young, alert and highly trained men. May the fighting in Korea end before they are called on to risk their lives in it. But if that peninsular war continues, they will give such a good accounting of themselves that the annals of even The Patricias will shine with a new lustre, and all Canada will be proud of her sons in the 1st Battalion, PPCLI.

The Jobs Of NATO

North Atlantic Treaty Organization spokesmen have referred to it as a charter of a North Atlantic community. That is a hope which Canada's Minister of External Affairs has. It could be realized if NATO is not merely an organization for mutual defence. A community is not made by military alliances.

Last week's official statement from Ottawa shows that the twelve member-nations are intent on creating a deeper organization than a military alliance. A committee of five nations was named to create ways "to build up the inner strength" of the alliance, through (a) co-ordination and frequent consultation on foreign policy; (b) closer economic, financial and social co-operation in order to promote and ensure conditions of economic stability and (c) collaboration in the fields of culture and public information. Canada is a member of this committee.

Undoubtedly the most urgent immediate task facing NATO is to build up the mutual defences to secure the safety of the North Atlantic nations. General Eisenhower, NATO's Commander-in-Chief has appealed for more troops to add to the 22 divisions he already has. His appeal should be heard. Canada may be asked to send more troops than the one brigade already destined for General Eisenhower's command. That is a reasonable request but it must be viewed with the special capacities of the member countries.

Now Canada's contribution to the common pool is six men under arms for every thousand of her population; Britain has sixteen in the common pool; France eighteen and the United States twenty-two. Thus Canada's contribution looks small; and actually it is, but it is on a par with the contribution of other NATO countries which are not in the Big League of France, Britain and the U.S.A.

Is Canada's proper role in the common defence to provide men, particularly soldiers? It seems to us that where increases are made Canada is best fitted to make them in the air—more planes and pilots. Italy, which has a great surplus of labour, could more readily supply the men (if her peace treaty terms were altered to permit it); so could France. In two months time Canada's contribution to the common pool will be 6,500 ground troops. General Eisenhower may not be satisfied with this, but Canada, by her special geographical and technical interests in air forces and her admirable history of commercial and military flying, Canada can contribute more valuably to the NATO pool by planes and pilots, than by infantrymen and gunners. Canada does not pretend to be a military power, but to the extent that she is, her power is in air, and should be.

Delayed Princely Visit

Fourteen million Canadians are disappointed that the visit of Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip has been postponed, although they fully appreciate the reason and sympathetically respect their sense of filial duty and anxious affection in remaining near the sick-bed of the King. If they should delay the visit only a week or two all Canada will rejoice. It will mean that the King's health will have been improved beyond daily alarm; that Canadians will really have Their Royal Highnesses among them; and that they will still arrive in time to enjoy the brilliant colours and fresh, brisk air which Eastern Canada provides so gloriously at this time of year.

De La Fosse Fountain

We are pleased to learn that at last the Victoria Park fountain is to be re-erected. As we noted last week it has been a long time a-building. Now, of course, the season for fountain playing is almost over, but judging from the lack of action last spring, it would be unwise to postpone its erection now because of winter's approach. If the fountain is an accomplished fact this autumn it will be there and ready next spring.

The Parks Committee has fittingly decided that the fountain shall bear a plaque in tribute to the late Mr. Fred M. de la Fosse, who lived across from the park and had Peterborough's welfare and beauties near his heart. In fact, he was the begetter of the new fountain.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A fool and his money are soon parted, but a taxpayer just waves to his money as it flashes past.

The investigation into the collapse of the Duplessis Bridge is closed, but expert opinion is divided as to why it happened. Let us hope that in the confusion nobody loses sight of the fact that it did happen, that some people were killed, and that well-built bridges do not fall down.

Some remarkable evidence points to the continued existence of mammoths in Siberian forests, although these creatures are supposed to have become extinct during the Pleistocene Age. This gives some support to the Russian claim that the life-span there is longer than anywhere else in the world.

Why Is Russia Exporting Grain?

By EDWARD CRANKSHAW

ONCE more, the Soviet Government has agreed to export considerable quantities of grain to Britain and France. Not only coarse grains this time—i.e. barley, maize and oats—but also wheat. Once more this is taken by the uninitiated to mean that Russia and her satellites have food in plenty to spare.

In fact the story is rather different. When the British export nylons, motor-cars or jet engines, it does not mean that they have more of these commodities than they need. It means only that, in the view of the British Government, they need other things more. So it is with the Kremlin. Many times in the past the Soivet Government has exported food for machinery, even though this meant hunger and even starvation for the Russian people.

THIS time, the Russian people are not being made to go hungry — except for the millions in the labour camps. Outside the camps there is no food-rationing now in Russia, except by price. High prices, even after the latest price cuts, put meat and butter beyond the reach of the mass of Russians, except on special occasions; but there is enough bread for all.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE grain is being sent to Britain partly for political reasons (the Kremlin is engaged in a strong effort to increase East-West trade), partly because there is an urgent need of certain machinery. Curiously enough, this time it is agricultural machinery. We hear so much about the mechanization of agriculture in the Soviet Union that it seems a little odd to find the Kremlin desperately trying to get agricultural machinery from abroad. In fact, the mechanization boasts were always greatly exaggerated, and after the Germans had finished with Russia practically the only implements left throughout the whole of the occupied area were scythes and sickles and spades.

✧ ✧ ✧

EVERYONE would have sympathy with the Soviet Union in its desperate need if it had not pretended to be more advanced than any other country in the world. It has made a colossal effort to make good the damage of war; and everyone would have applauded if so much energy and material had not been diverted to the production of arms. Year after year the output of agricultural machinery has lagged behind the Plan; and it has done so because the first priority has always been given to guns and tanks and military aircraft, in spite of the great need of the peasants.

✧ ✧ ✧

HOW great this need is can be seen by studying the occasional figures that leak out from Russia showing the number of tractors and combine harvesters on this or that great amalgamated collective deep in the Black Earth belt, where most of the corn is grown. Machines are pitifully inadequate, and day after day the propagandists complain that even these machines that exist are largely wasted, driven to death, and then left standing idle for lack of spare parts or trained mechanics to make them go. Even in the Ukraine, far and away the most advanced area when it comes to agriculture, only half the grain crop is harvested by combines. Most of the rest is cut and stooked and threshed by hand; and even now in the agricultural training schools young peasants are laboriously trained in the proper use of scythes and sickles and horse ploughs.

IN the satellites the position is far worse. The wooden plough is still a feature of the Balkans. And peasant resistance to being collectivized is greatly increased by the disappointment of false hopes. The promise of easy, profitable mechanization is held out as an incentive to join; but when the collectives are formed, as a rule there are no machines.

And so Russia and her satellites, these last very short of food indeed, are being driven to export their grain in order to buy agricultural machinery to grow more grain.

THIS year's harvest, throughout Eastern Europe, has been good. Unless the Soviet Union decides to stockpile grain to a much greater extent than usual, there should be no bread shortage anywhere this winter. But the shortage of meat and butter and milk will persist. The peasants, resisting collectivization, have reduced the supply in the satellites; and, inside Russia, the great drive to raise livestock breeding from its traditional basis of the single domestic cow, starved in winter, infertile and poor in milk yield as a consequence, is meeting with the greatest difficulties. Lately there has been loud official censure of peasants in Kazakhstan who have been sabotaging the livestock plan by stealing from the collective herds. At the same time the Party overseers are finding it almost impossible to make the peasants sacrifice precious arable land for the production of winter keep and summer pasture. A bushel of corn today is, in the mind of the Russian peasant, worth a whole side of beef in four year's time. But the workers in the towns are demanding beef; and the Kremlin is determined to produce it.

An Exciting Experiment

(Fort William Times-Journal)

It could be that the Ontario department of lands and forests has entered on an experiment that will save millions upon millions of dollars worth of timber in the years to come.

The forest protection and research divisions are preparing the way to use calcium chloride or sodium chloride to "dampen" down the bugs during periods of high fire hazard.

Under proposed plans, "the chemicals will be scattered from an aircraft which has been used in water-bombing experiments."

Here may be yet another instance where science, so often occupied in devising ways and means for destruction, turns a hand to preservation.

A U.S. Weakness

(Brantford Expositor)

The Canadian Minister of Trade and Commerce, Mr. Howe, has declared, in Geneva, that United States restrictions on the importation of cheese and butter constitute "an obvious violation" of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade. It has to be pointed out that these restrictions have been imposed over the objections of President Truman and his administration, which points up once more a glaring weakness in the United States political set-up as compared to the British and Canadian parliamentary systems.

The Break for Which Russia's Been Waiting

Pat Conroy's Resignation

(KINGSTON WHIG-STANDARD)

THE resignation of Pat Conroy as national secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Congress of Labour was an incident in a struggle for power within the Congress. It could be regarded, therefore, as of little interest to the public generally, were it not for the fact that an issue of policy is involved, with the faction hitherto headed by Mr. Conroy favouring a moderate policy in labour-management disputes and negotiations, compared with the policy favoured by the faction led by C. H. Millard, chief of the United Steel Workers, whose union has now gained greater power within the Congress.

It is regrettable that the C.C.L. has lost the services of so able an executive as Mr. Conroy. On the score of ability alone, he will be difficult to replace, and with the apparently expanded influence of Mr. Millard, the loss of Mr. Conroy as a restraining influence in certain circumstances may be even more deeply felt by the C.C.L. We admit freely that we have differed with his opinion and have criticized his actions on occasion, but we believe his influence in organized labour has been generally beneficial, in a national as well as in a more limited sense of the phrase as applied to labour.

Two well-remembered strikes offer impressive examples of the difference in quality of the leadership given by these two men. The recent Hollinger strike was one. In that dispute, Mr. Millard tied the strike to the C.C.F. campaign to force the Ontario Government to write the compulsory check-off into its Labour Relations Act. The major issue in the strike itself was a demand for the compulsory check-off, and in an attempt to enforce that demand, Mr. Millard actually went so far as to threaten the company with removal of workers and their families from Timmins by the union. He was quickly forced to retreat from that position by the mayor and people of Timmins, but the union's position grew steadily weaker, until Mr. Conroy stepped in at the eleventh hour and managed to get the C.C.L. out of an unpleasant situation. He did the same thing at Hamilton, in another situation of Mr. Millard's making.

Canadian labour has suffered a severe loss through the resignation of Mr. Conroy—more severe, perhaps, than will be generally realized at this time, even by his supporters To the extent that the resignation indicates an extension of Mr. Millard's power, it also indicates a strengthening of the group determined to make the Canadian Congress of Labour a political instrument as well as a labour organization. In this country, in our opinion, a labour organization weakens itself by official identification with a political party; when it attempts to serve political ends as well as to serve the best interests of its members, the latter purpose suffers from the divided effort. Mr. Millard, however may not be able to lead the entire Congress into the C.C.F. alliance, and the resignation of Mr. Conroy may herald a serious loss in membership for that body.

Helpful Constables On The Highways

(WINDSOR STAR)

THERE is too great a tendency, even among perfectly law-abiding people, to regard officers of the law as men who have designs on restricting our freedoms. Instead, we should think of them as the men who protect us and our merited freedoms. Nor are constables only on the lookout for people they can pinch.

A case has come to our attention of a motorist driving on No. 2 Highway near Chatham, in the early morning hours. A Provincial Police car overtook and stopped him. The officer only wanted to tell him there was something wrong with his car. He found a broken hose connection. As the officer was going into Chatham, the motorist got a ride so he could get a tow-truck. Thus he was helped out of a nasty predicament at an inconvenient hour.

After having his car fixed, the same motorist the next day was en route to Windsor, when his car stopped again. (The hose connection had been improperly repaired.) Again a Provincial Police car stopped and offered aid.

We know this isn't the primary duty of traffic officers. They have their work to do, and cannot spend all their time lending a hand to motorists in trouble. But the incident does show police officers often go out of their way to help people in trouble or distress.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

The Spirit of the Lord God is upon me; because the Lord hath anointed me to preach good tidings unto the meek; he hath sent me to bind up the broken-hearted, to proclaim liberty to the captives, and the openings of the prison to them that are bound....To appoint unto them that mourn in Zion, to give unto them beauty for ashes, the oil of joy for mourning, the garment of praise for the spirit of heaviness; that they might be called trees of righteousness, the planting of the Lord, that he might be glorified. (Isa. 61: 1, 3.)

And seeing the multitudes, he went up into a mountain: and when he was set, his disciples came unto him: and he opened his mouth, and taught them, saying,

Blessed are the poor in spirit: for theirs is the kingdom of heaven....

Blessed are they which do hunger and thirst after righteousness: for they shall be filled....

Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God.

Blessed are the peacemakers: for they shall be called the children of God. (Matt. 5: 1-3, 6, 8, 9.)

HOSPITAL EXPENSES

Sir: I see Mr. Rodger's report to end of August says deficit on Civic Hospital is only $17,629.86. Actual deficit should be $17,629.86 plus receipts from city $78,587.65 total $95,917.11. I see the board at last have decided to a job-analysis which they should have done long ago. If this man knows his job he should show at least $25,000.00 savings in the kitchen and dietary alone.

What is wanted is considerable less staff for one thing.

I noticed a write-up of Parry Sound hospital started 44 years ago in a very small way which has paid its way and never been in the red and on July this year opened a new obstetrical wing costing $400,000.00. It is a self-supporting institution and has not received any financial assistance from Parry Sound. Our hospital should be able to do the same on the increased rates charged if properly handled.

A short time ago a report was given of the sources of money to build our hospital. Some time ago the Examiner reported that any money received from sale of old hospital would be applied to cost of new hospital. There is no mention of the $70,000.00 also a $3,000.00 in the above report. Where did this money go?

When tenders were called for nurses' home it was moved and seconded that the Robertson Construction Co. be given the contract. Why was this rescinded a few days later and contract given to the Robertson Construction Co. and Engineering Co.?

Had our council left the contract with Robertson Construction Co. we would not have had a bill of $1,500 for unfinished wiring and also $2,194.26 for extra brick to pay.

I was very surprised so learn that outstanding accounts due the hospital was $126,040.77. Some time ago on behalf of a friend of mine I went to hospital to get the proper details of his account instead of account as sent to him. I asked the accountant if all accounts were paid on statement of account as sent out and he hold me yes. It seems funny that so much money is outstanding now.

Thanking you for your space.

Aluminum Rafts

(News of Norway)

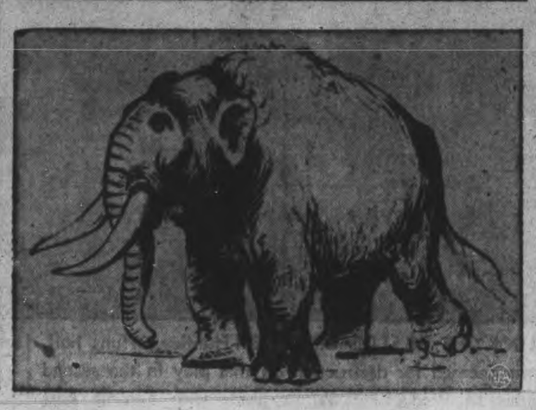
At a recent conference in Oslo, representatives of the Norwegian seamen's and shipowners' organizations, joined by Government shipping authorities, unanimously recommended the use of aluminum rafts as a means of increasing safety at sea.

Such rafts have already been ordered for all its ships by Fred Olsen & Co., of Oslo, one of the largest shipping companies in Norway. Made by Norsk Flyindustri, Inc., they come in two sizes, to accommodate 21 and 10 men, respectively.

The rafts are made of large diameter aluminum tubes, divided into several air-tight compartments, which form a rectangle. The floor, however, is made of wood. Standard equipment includes containers for water and food, 2 pairs of short oars, 4 rowing forks, and 12 poles for stretching a canvas wall around the raft. All joints are argon-welded.

Weighing only 465 lbs., fully equipped, the 21-man capacity type has withstood being droped into the ocean from a height of 30 feet, without suffering the slightest damage.

So far rafts of this type have been supplied to 14 Norwegian vessels, but many more are on order. The amount of aluminum required is relatively small—about 600 tons will suffice for 3,000 rafts.



LESS THAN 48 HOURS APART and within 40 miles of each other, the skeletons of two giant mastodons were discovered at Lodi and Willard, O. Both of the sets of 15,000-year-old bones were unearthed by road-building and ditch-digging crews and both were identified as mastodons by naturalists of the Cleveland Natural History Museum and Kent State University. Here William Scheele, LEFT, director of the Cleveland museum looks over huge teeth of pre-historic monster. Mastodon's lower jaw, intact, and other bones lie on table. Reddish-haired, elephant-like mastodons, UPPER RIGHT, looked like this when they roamed North America 15,000 years ago. The sketch is by Scheele. Mastodon's leg bone, LOWER RIGHT, is lifted from the mud of a drainage ditch. The bone showed signs of disease.

Gov't Sabotaged Auto Industry

WINDSOR, Ont., Sept. 27—Earl Watson, president of Local 195 of the United Automobile Workers of America (CIO), Wednesday charged that the Federal government has deliberately "sabotaged" the automobile industry for "some Minister Howe.

He said he blamed Windsor's economic difficulties on Finance Minister Abbott and Production Minister Howe.

Without amplifying his reference to "sabotage," he indicated that [illegible]igh excise taxes and strin[illegible] restrictions seemed to have been directed mainly at the automotive industry.

His speech was made at a meeting arranged for unemployed workers in the Windsor area. It came shortly after the Chrysler Corporation of Canada announced it would lay off 800 of its 6,300 workers starting Oct. 1.

Truth, Fiction Mixed In History

PICTON, Ont.—(CP)—It's difficult to separate the truth from the tale in Prince Edward county—and few of the residents try to do so.

They have shifting sands, a mysterious lake, buried treasure and more than one place that could well be haunted.

The sands are dunes blown about by the winds after they have been washed up from Lake Ontario. Already the huge dunes, that resemble a small desert, have engulfed a hotel. They stretch for 4½ miles, are a quarter-mile wide and are heaped 40 feet deep by the prevailing westerly winds.

They make a fine place to lie in the sun and dream about the buried treasure, supposedly buried in the sands of Outlet beach by the crew of a French frigate. Rather than lose the gold the men buried it,—or so they say.

No Source

The strange lake is "Lake on the Mountain." Five miles in circumference it has no apparent source of supply other that rain and snow but always remains at the same level, 200 feet above the Bay of Quinte, only a stone's long throw away.

Oddest road on the island—suitable for ghosts and other-world residents—is the causeway to MacDonald's Island. Under a foot of water is it surrounded by weird and silent marsh.

Named for Queen Victoria's father, the county was first settled extensively by United Empire Loyalists. In 1861 it had a population of 20,000 but now it has only 18,000.

Commercially, the county boasts that it produces more agricultural goods per capita than any other in Ontario. Farm production runs beyond $3,500,000 each year. Nearly 200,000 of the counties 623,000 acres are under cultivation.

Natural-Born Hobo To Walk Round World

DUBLIN—(CP)—James Emerson of Toronto, a former merchant seaman who says he has always had the "hobo instinct," is looking for somebody to accompany him on a proposed round-the-world walking tour.

In newspaper interviews, Emerson asked that interested persons should write a Dublin address. He says he has already received several letters including one from a 14-year-old boy.

Emerson hopes to travel to Canada by way of France, Algiers and North Africa. He left his ship in London and has worked for some time in the Channel Islands earning money for the trip.

While there he says he won the unofficial title of checkers champion of the Islands and to have won money from circus managements for staying astride a bucking mule over a given period.

COMBINES EVEN UP MANN CUP SERIES AT ONE EACH WITH 11-7 WIN

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

VANCOUVER, Sept. 27.—Latest news to come over the Rockies to the Petes' lacrosse camp was that Jerry Fitzgerald might be flying out Friday of this week to join them. If not Friday, then Monday, if he is needed. Even if he isn't needed, Jerry would like to be with his gutted-stick mates for the Mann Cup finals. Coach Johnny Metras of Western University where Jerry is a grid ace, finally forgot his reluctance at seeing Jerry away from the grid game, and gave his whole-hearted approval to the belated trip. The Petes would like very much to see 'Steady Jerry Fitzgerald' out here with them in this series.

* * * * * * *

Fitz is not only the best defenceman in the East—if not the country—in the rugged game known as lacrosse, but he is a high scorer for a defender, getting many assists as he sets up plays for his forwards. Along with Moon Wootton and Harry Wipper, he was one of the three Peterborough players named to the 1951 OLA first All-Star squad. Naturally one doesn't replace a player of this type readily. Taking up Physical Education at Western, Jerry would like to get on eventually as coach at St. Peter's High. Besides lacrosse and football, he is a sprinter and plays an outstanding game of basketball.

* * * * * * *

Two of the Petes' veterans are probably playing their last lacrosse series as regular seniors. They are Mick Magee and Emmett Creighton, though the old urge may hit them again comes next spring. Both have many starry seasons behind them, and both are pretty able performers. However the years catch up with all of us. And lacrosse is a rugged game, one requiring plenty of speed and stamina. Emmett, who is a customs official at Port Hope since his naval discharge, made lacrosse his main game from junior age up, and is a real team player. Mick, who works at CGE since his RCAF discharge, went in for many sports, notably lacrosse, football and hockey. An all around star for many years, and coach of the puck-playing Eagles last winter, two fine chaps.

* * * * * * *

Approximately $3,000 was raised or promised the lacrosse club ere it left for the west. The objective was $3,500, and the sponsor—who went for some $2,000 earlier this season — will have to underwrite the rest, if it's not raised. Nearly all the $3,000 was raised by canvass more than a week ago from Peterborough people who felt it was swell national advertising for our city. We mean manufacturers, merchants, doctors, and so on. Club officials were disappointed in the response from the average fan, as their contributions were comparatively small, or so we've been told.

* * * * * * *

A number of fans kicked considerably before the team left at the appeal for funds. They said that the club was a pro one, that large gates had been common through the schedule, that people shouldn't have to pay for a bunch going on a nice holiday trip to BC, that other folks had to pay rent or house payment too. They said a lot of things. Well, that of course is the privilege of everyone in a free country. But the players and their officials don't see it that way. They're not pros and they'd all starve to death shortly if they had to live on the money they make from lacrosse—without a full-time job, also.

* * * * * * *

They drew well but it cost a lot to bring in some of these championship players and to keep them till they got jobs and were settled. Travelling expenses and time off work come high, too, and so do injuries—with more time off work. They could have gotten by nicely in playoffs in the East, but it certainly takes a pretty penny to go to Vancouver for two weeks, even with part of the expense paid by the Canadian Lacrosse Association. There will be no split at season's end for the Petes, though they will have had a nice trip out of it. Had they won last year, their Mann Cup trip would have been to Toronto and back, so don't blame them for picking BC this semester. And they do have to keep up their houses and maintain their families while away. Finally, they say: "All right, if folks don't want to help that's up to them, but why yell about it? The ones who don't help us out, holler the loudest."

* * * * * * *

Ah, well, let it go at that. The fans supported 'em well and saw a lot of fine lacrosse this summer. The players had a good season and are in Vancouver for the Mann Cup series. Main thing now is to get that Dominion series crown to make history in good old Peterborough. The players aren't running wild out here—they're plenty serious about the whole thing. Celebrations can come later, but that cup comes first. More and more folks from Peterborough or district keep dropping around to see the Easterners. Johnny Steinkrauss, a coastal sailor, was on deck the other night. The city is sure getting publicity in Vancouver papers. And it is most likely that the series will be all wrapped up before the end of next week.

Coaches' School Starts In October

A referees' and coaches' basketball school similar to baseball school held this summer will be held in October at the YMCA.

Throughout the province this fall the Community Programs Branch of the Department of Education is conducting the basketball schools to help develop the sport further by having more coaches and better referees.

The course offers suggestions on training players, how to get more out of practices, cutting down the squad, selecting the team and placing the players. There will also be films and film strips stressing game fundamentals, a rules demonstration and interpretation.

Under the heading "drills for teaching fundamentals" the school has the fundamental position, catching, passing, dribbling, stopping, pivoting, feinting, rebounding, and shooting.

The defence and offence are taken in two separate sections. The defence session will disucss the individual effort and the team effort in the various types such as man-to-man, zone, transitional zone and full court passes.

The offence period will again stress the individual's offence as well as the team under free style, set, give-and-go, pass and cut, fast break and deep freeze.

Poor Display Of Lacrosse On Part Of Petes Marks Game In Victoria

By C. J. PERDUE, Examiner Sports Editor

VANCOUVER, BC. Sept. 27.—The Mann Cup best-of-seven lacrosse finals are even at one win each after last night's 11-7 triumph for the Vancouver Combines over the Peterborough Timbermen in Victoria. They clash again in Vancouver on Friday with the fourth struggle here on Monday next. Jerry Fitzgerald is expected to join the Petes for the Friday fray. Slightly more than 2,000 Victorians saw an exciting scrap in their new million-dollar arena, the city boasting a population of less than 60,000. Fear of a one-sided series in the Petes favor, plus the boost in admission fees, cut down the crowd. It should improve now that the combines showed they can down the Easterners.

Don Crowe's crew sweot to an impressive 4-1 lead in the first frame Wednesday evening but collapsed then and turned in a poor showing the rest of the route. They were outscored 4-2 in the second chukker but they still had a 6-5 margin on the half. However, Combines blasted home three tallies without a return in the third, and outscored the Liftlockers 3-1 in the fourth frame.

The Petes drew seven of the 11 penalties and did not like the officiating of Referee Bill Wilks, but they didn't deserve to win on their performance over the route. Twice goals were counted on them with a man in the sin bin and another time a free throw resulted in a count. But the players blamed themselves afterward for an inept display of championship senior lacrosse, while Vancouver fought hard from start to finish to deserve the decision.

Wooton Up To Peak

Moon Wooton couldn't be blamed for the loss, as he was up to peak form, but he had indifferent protection in the last half. None of the Petes were up to par over the route, and this looked surprising after their smooth showing in the initial inning. They just seemed to be overconfident or something and let down for a space, and then couldn't get back up in time to even the score or take a victory. They found the Combines, once ahead, weren't taking any chances.

Eric Smith and Harry Buchanan were the main marksmen for the Westerners with there goals each Gogie Stewart clicked for a pair, and Bus Byford, Eddie Hamson and Jim Anderson notched one apiece. Ken Webb aided on three Bert Tricesurve two, and Hamson, Jim Swanson, Alec McKay and Stewart one each. They changed goalies for this game, and veteran Walt Lee proved much better than Jack Green, making some swell saves in every quarter. Curly Mason and Harry Wipper counted two goals apiece for the losers, with singles going to Russ Slater, Bob Thorpe and Arn Dugan. Wipper also helped out on a couple and Em Creighton on one. Wipper, Mason and Slater were probably the pick of the Petes on the attack, but they also slipped after half time.

Just A Crummy Display

It was a case of missed passes when they hit the skids, shots wide of the enemy net, checks slipping around them—in fact just a crummy display after a nifty start. Several times, two of the Petes would break away as Combines pressed and with but one man to beat to go in on goal, the ball would be passed away wide and be recovered by a Vancouver man. Several times a Petes' checker got mixed up on his check and let an opponent stroll in unmolested on Moon. It wasn't good lacrosse on the Petes part, but they realized that afterward and predicted a decisive win in their next start.

A planned trip Thursday was cancelled for a practice.

The visitors rolled early to dominate play on a big, smooth floor. Slater sizzled a hot one from defence to get a corner of the cage, and shortly after Curly Mason took Wipper's pass to flip it home at close range after a long, hard run by Harry. The latter was tricky with a Powless pass to elude several defenders and go right in and banged the apple into the oven to make it 3-0. Thorpe and Cavallin were chased for some roughing, and Byford counted Combines' first goal from Webb with a red hot blast at the edge of the crease. Mason got it back then on a standing corner shot after Wipper's overhead pass in close.

A Peterson-Whipper play nearly paid off near the close as the eastern crowd looked much better than their rivals. It didn't take too long in the second stanza for the lid to change somewhat. Buchanan was left uncovered to walk in and sink the ball. He got another shortly from Ticehurst after a long race down the floor and quick pass. Peterson was gated for high sticking. Wipper ragged the ball in smart style and finally broke free to tear in and bury it in the hemp. Cavallin went over for slashing but returned to help his mates put on the pressure as the visitors seemed to get tangled up. Hamson beat his check for a hard scoring shot and with McKenzie off for interference, Smith got another from Webb as they all stood around just out of the crease and whipped fast passes about. Dugan put the Crowe gang one up again near the close after dashing all the way up and flinging in a corner angle shot as he was checked hard.

Stewart drew a free throw to open the third and took a few paces and whistled it home to sew up the score at 6-6. Wipper was winded for a spell but stayed in the game.

Mason went over the wall for tripping but he was back on the floor when Anderson took a pass from Hamson and picked the short side of the net. O'Hearn got it next for slashing and Smith promptly scored from Webb as they passed around fast to take advantage of the extra man. Combines kept changing players and they were outstepping the Petes. Nit got back and Powless got the finger for slashing as the frame finished.

Petes Missed.

Both goalies were on the jump early in the fourth, and the losers missed several nice scoring chances on poor passing or wild shooting in close. Stewart's bouncing shot beat Wootton, as Swanson and Ticehurst set up the play. Buchanan added one from Stewart on a partial breakaway with but one defenceman to beat. That made it 10-7 but Thorpe got one more for Peterborough on Creighton's corner passout with a slash shot that Lee didn't see. Swanson drew a cross checking penalty but came back to see Smith left uncovered to score the final marker of the night with McKay's lob. Hamson and Vitarelli roughed it up to get the air and they are no sooner excused from the penalty box than Peterson and Cavallin drew minors for roughing. Then the gong went.

Hastings Drop First To Dixie

HASTINGS, Sept. 27 (ENS).—Hastings juniors lost the first game of their best-of-three OABA semi-finals Wednesday night to Dixie 8-7 in Hastings.

Hastings' West duelled with Dixie's Stanfield for the pitching honors as both scattered nine hits throughout the game. West had a slight end in strikeouts, eight, while Stanfield had six.

Dixie took an early lead in the second inning when they scored twice on two hits and an error. In the bottom of the third Hastings took a short-lived one-run lead which died in the fifth when Dixie bounced back with three runs.

Dixie added a single in the seventh and finished with two in the eighth while blanking Hastings from the third.

Hastings revived in the eighth and crept within one run. They retired Dixie in order in the ninth and proceeded to place two men on bases in the Hastings half, but couldn't push the tieing run across.

The next game is in Dixie Saturday night.

Lineups:

Dixie: Melchoir c, Stanfield p, Milne 2b, Rogers ss, Habkirk 1b, Lowndes lf, Gibb rf, Hillis cf, Sutherland 3b.

DECEPTIVE LOOK

The arctic musk-ox, low-slung and heavy with massive horns, can wheel and turn like a ballet-dancer if necessary.

LOOK OUT, BILL! DEADEND—Bill Huntley, Orfuns' half, seems doomed for destruction on this play in the second quarter of Wednesday night's game with Toronto East Yorks. There's nothing Wally Farr and Gerry McGillis (back at extreme right) can do as four East Yorks pounce on the Orfun. Huntley's expert toe earned him four points while he scored the last major on a short plunge. With a complete reversal of form, the Orfuns overwhelmed East York 32-5.

Mimico Wins Junior Lacrosse Championship

BRAMPTON, Sept. 27 (CP).—With a smooth passing attack and a strong defence, Mimico Mountaineers won the Canadian junior lacrosse championship and the Minto Cup here last night.

They defeated Manitoba All-Stars 19-7 for their third successive victory in the best-of-five series. Earlier, the Mountaineers had blanketed the Manitobans 20-9 and 20-12.

Last night's game was the hardest-fought of the series—and the closest. For a short time it appeared that the westerners might prolong the series. Halfway through the first quarter they led 2-0 and at the end of the frame they were ahead 3-1.

But in the second quarter Bill McLean and Fraser Rock scored singles for Mimico and Fred Sandford, president of the Mountaineers, banged in two, to put the easterners ahead 6-3.

The Mountaineers never lost the initiative. They knocked in seven scores to the westerners' three in the third quarter and four to the All-Stars' three in the fourth.

Nicholls In Goal

Main reason for the early Manitoba lead was substitute goalie Bill Nicholls, young Peterborough star pressed into service when injuries forced Clarke Hicks to leave the series. Nicholls was snowed under in the first period but tightened his blocking as the game progressed.

Sandford was one of a trio of three-goal men for the winners. The others were McLean and Bill Lubbock. Rock Batley and Burt Barager each scored twice and Fraser Rock, Don Meeke, Jim McIntyre and Lou Nickle banged in singles.

Four men carried most of the scoring load for Manitoba. Glenn Christianson, Bill Welligan, Ron Arklie and Jim Palmer scored two goals each and Effie Neubauer was good for a single.

Only 10 minor penalties were handed out in the game. Like the others in the series, it was cleanly played.

All-Stars were the first Manitoba team to gain a berth in the Dominion junior lacrosse finals. They defeated British Columbia 10-9 in Winnipeg Sept. 18 to sweep the western Canada best-of-three semi-finals and to qualify for the Minto Cup finals.

The Mimico team held the cup in 1938 when they defeated British Columbia on the west coast.

After the game, Art Brown, vice-president of the Ontario Lacrosse Association, presented the Minto cup to Sandford. Coach J. Lubbock of the Mimico club received the Iroquois, emblematic of Ontario junior lacrosse supremacy, from OLA secretary Chuck Rowan.

Black Hawks Win In Exhibition Game

NEW LISKEARD, Sept. 27 — (CP).—Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League hung a 3-2 loss on the St. Louis Flyers of the American League here last night in a pre-season exhibition contest. F. Gnup Has Magic Wand Orfuns Shellack Yorks 32-5

Frank Gnup has performed the mircale of miracles. The Peterborough Orfuns are not only beginning to look like a football team, but are playing like one.

Football fans two weeks ago were sure that the Leo Deadey-Orfuns would land with a heavy thud into the Senior B cellar, and stay there for the season. The game with Oshawa's Red Raiders convinced them further.

Suddenly the shakeup began. Leo Deadey resigned; former coach Harvard Bamforth took over for a few days; then one of Canada's leading football coaches Frank Gnup, appeared at the Orfun practices.

He cracked the whip at the first practice and it's still cracking with definite results.

His Orfuns (and they were nearly orfuns after their first appearance) crushed Toronto East Yorks at Morrow Park Wednesday night 32-5 with a thrilling display of kicking, plunging and passing.

Blocking Well

The front line deserves credit for inspiring the backfielders into the win. For once the blocking and tackling was on. Led by veteran linemen Gord Beatty and Wally Farr, players like Frank Fitzgerald and Creighton Johnson fought the East Yorkers to a standstill throughout the game.

The line also played a major part in the scoring, touchdowns scored by Frank Fitzgerald and Creighton Johnson, three other points awarded to Gord Beatty and Wally Farr.

Good Kicking

Chuck Paul's long kicks in the first half disheartened the East Yorkers. Just when they seemed to be making headway, he would lift the ball well down the field again.

Johnny Berry flipped to McGillis, then to Lally Lallonde, to find that the East York pass defence was weak. There the pressure was applied in the second half with success. Murray Dewart had some success in the air department in the closing minutes.

On the ground Ronnie Hodson, although small, was the main ground gainer. His bursts were flanked by Bill Huntley and Lallonde.

East York's best was quarterback Ken Hallsall. Playing most of the game, Hallsal carried the weight, kicking, running and passing.

In fact he accounted for their only touchdown. After an Orfun fumble was recovered by Guyatt at the 20-yard line, Hallsall threw to half Edmanerick on a running toss for 25 yards in the second half for the five points.

East York never threatened again.

Bill Huntley tried a placement from the East York 25 in the first quarter but missed. Ross Martin who caught the ball, was nailed heavily by Gord Beatty behind the line for a point.

Blocked Kick

Midway through the second the Orfuns' line blocked a Hallsall kick at the line. The ball bounced high and back, Frank Fitzgerald grabbing it for a major score. Huntley converted to make the half score 7-0.

In the third the Orfuns worked deep into East York territory after the Toronto major. Berry first passed to Lallonde in the clear but it was called back to the 25. Spike Matthews went for 11 yards, then Berry passed to Lallonde on the reverse side for the major. Huntley kicked the point.

On the second play after the kickoff lineman Johnson snagged Hallsall pass at the 26-yard line and streaked across unmolested for a touchdown. Huntley again made the point good.

Huntley's toe on the kickoff added another point when the ball bounced away from East York's Blackie to the deadline.

Starting the fourth well in Toronto territory, two Dewart passes gave the Orfuns another major. Dewart passed to Lallonde who caught it on the run just crossing the line.

A minute later Hallsal had another kick blocked, this time by Johnson. The bal bounced over the line into touch territory where Hallsall recovered. Wally Farr tackled him for a safety touch.

On a double reverse Lallonde made 31 yards in the final minutes. Dewart followed up with a pass to Don McGillis who went to the two-yard line where Huntley plunged through centre to score. The score ended there 32-5.

Costly Sport

WADENA, Sask. (CP)—Parents here are beginning to wonder about high school rugby. In heavy practice sessions so far there have been cracked ribs, a broken nose, a sprained wrist and two cases of sprained leg muscles.

Niagara Falls, Oshawa May Be Ontario Champs

HAMILTON, Sept. 27 (CP). — Winner of the current best-of-seven series between Oshawa Merchants and Niagara Falls Fords will be declared winners of the Ontario Senior A Baseball champions if they so desire, the executive of the Ontario Baseball Association said last night.

Members of the executive said that the winner would have the option of playing the winner of the Toronto Baseball Association Senior A championship—or of refusing to play and receiving the Ontario championship without a playdown series.

Not On Time

The decision to exclude the TBA winner except on the option of the Merchants-Fords winner was made because the TBA did not declare a winner in their group by a date specified by the OBA. The TBA playoffs are still in the semi-finals stage.

By a 6-0 win last night, Merchants have a 2-0 series lead over the Fords in the Senior A series.

The executive decided also that in the Junior A series, the winner of the current Oshawa-Kingston series would play London for the Ontario championship.

Owing to the lateness of the season, the executive ruled that all clubs in all series must play at least two games per week.

Brooklyn Must Win 3 Of 4 Yanks Need Two Triumphs

By ED CORRIGAN,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

The desperate Brooklyn Dodgers, who saw their once-mighty 13½ game National League lead dwindle to just one game, go into today's game with the Boston Braves with Preacher Roe—their stopper—on the mound.

New York Giants, panting down the Brooks' backs in the mad chase for the flag, will spend the day watching and waiting. They get back in action Saturday against the Braves.

Actually, the Brooks are in an advantageously position and the Giants will have to get the breaks to win the bunting. If the Giants win both games against the Braves, Charlie Dressen's operatives will have to win three of their four remaining contests.

Should the Giants falter once, Brooklyn will need only two triumphs.

Dressen is taking no chances on his pitching rotation.

Must Be Roe

"It's got to be Roe," he said, "for we've got to keep on winning. I'm not expecting anybody to help us by beating the Giants. We've got to help ourselves. Carl Erskine will start for us tomorrow. I don't know who will go Saturday, but it will be Roe again Sunday if we need the win."

Yesterday's 15-5 conquest of the Braves did a lot for the Dodgers, even though the Giants came right back at night and polished off Philadelphia Phillies 10-1. It demonstrated that the Brooks had not cracked, as their double defeat at the hands of the Braves Tuesday might have indicated.

Also, it showed that Don Newcombe, who had been trying to win his 19th game for a long time again could be trusted with a starting assignment.

Yankees Handcuffed

In the American League, New York Yankees made no progress in their efforts to sew up the flag. They were completely ineffectual against the slants of little Bobby Shantz and dropped a 4-1 decision to Philadelphia A's.

So the combination still is two for the Yanks—two triumphs or two defeats by the Cleveland Indians, who were idle yesterday. The Yanks have five games left and the Indians only two. The Tribe winds up the season's business with single games at home against Detroit Tigers Saturday and Sunday. The Yanks play all five against Boston Red Sox.

Casey Stengel's men have only one worry about the Sox now. With their 7-3 loss at the hands of the Washington Senators last night, the Beantowners can't possibly win the pennant. If they win all six of their remaining games, and the Yanks lose all five of theirs, Steve O'Neill's team will tie.

The Giants were on the spot last night and they knew it. They came through nobly behind Larry Jansen, who racked up his 21st victory.

Jansen's task was made easy when his mates presented him with a three-run home run, a triple and a double.

Brooklyn, too, was in no position to breathe easy. The Dodgers needed the victory, and they gave the Braves the same treatment that the Giants gave the Phils. They pushed over four runs in the first, then added four more in the fifth and seven in the eighth.

Newcombe gave up only eight hits—two of them home runs by Bob Addis and Earl Torgeson.

Shantz held the Yanks to six hits, while his mates let loose with a barrage of long bashes abainst the combined offerings of Bob Kuzava and Johnny Sain.

In the only other game scheduled, St. Louis Browns hung up a 7-1 conquest over Detroit Tigers behind New Garver, who now has 19 victories.

Boston Ready To Shoot Works To Beat Dodgers

By JOE REICHLER.

BOSTON, Sept. 27 (AP). — An aroused Boston team, led by its equally irate manager, Tommy Holmes, has vowed to "shoot the works" today in an all-out effort to knock off the "high and mighty" Brooklyn Dodgers.

The Braves, who inflicted two stunning defeats upon the Brooks Tuesday to cut their National League margin over the New York Giants to one game, were on the receiving end yesterday. The Dodgers literally ripped them to pieces with a 15-5 shellacking.

The one-sided defeat, however, did not bother Holmes and his men half as much as one comparatively insignificant Brooklyn manoeuvre that had no direct bearings on the result.

Stole Home

The play in question was the steal of home by Jackie Robinson. It came in the eighth inning and was the sixth of a seven-run frame. The Braves felt it was an act of poor sportsmanship.

"Maybe you call it baseball," Holmes stormed after the game. "But I call it rubbing it in. They just wanted to pile it on. Who ever heard of a guy attempting to steal home when his team is ahead by 10 runs so late in the game?

"I don't mind getting beaten," the usually mild mannered pilot continued. "But nobody likes to get shown up.

"Now, we're going to throw the book at 'em. This is the big one and I'm going to pitch the kid, Chet Nichols. But I'm going to have everybody ready in the bullpen and I'm going to use Warren Spahn, if we need him."

Spahn, the ace of the Braves' staff, whipped the Dodgers on Tuesday for his 22nd victory. He was scheduled to face the Giants next Saturday.

Brooklyn manager Charlie Dressen accepted Holmes' challenge in typical Dressen manner.

"That's great," he chortled. "Now we have less to worry about. I like to see the opposition mad. When a fellow is hot under the collar he's bound to make mistakes."

Montreal Takes 1st Series Game

MONTREAL, Sept. 27. (CP)—Milwaukee Brewers' much-touted batting power failed to come through last night as the American Association champions dropped the first game of the Little World Series 6-3 to Montreal Royals.

Lefty Chris Van Cuyk limited Brewers to seven hits in his 7 2/3 innings on the mound. Those, along with the one relief pitcher Tommy Lasorda yielded in the ninth, were all singles.

Van Cuyk had come measure of consolation for being lifted in the eighth. His single in the second inning drove in the Royals' fourth run, the one that meant the game.

The International League pennant winners hardly gave Brewers starter Murray Wall time to get warmed up. Bert Haas, George Byam and Bob Morgan rapped out successive singles in the second. Walt Fiala doubled and Bert Thiel came in for Wall. Van Cuyk nicked him for a single before an outfield out and double play ended Royals' rally.

Brewers, held to two hits by Van Cuyk until the fifth, collected another pair which, aided by two Royals errors, put them back into the game.

Trinity College Season Opener

PORT HOPE, Sept. 27.—Trinity College School defeated Belleville 15-3 in the school's first football game of the season.

The game opened slowly, with numerous fumbles on each side, and not until the eleventh minute was a first down made. Soon after Clark scored a touchdown for TCS and McDerment made the convert. Belleville then threatened to score as Barclay ran 60 yards on a pass from Green, but they were held by a strongly charging TCS line. The first quarter ended with Currie going over for a second touchdown for TCS.

Soon after the second quarter started, TCS fumbled behind their line and Belleville scored a safety touch to make the score 12-2. From then until the end of the half, neither team was able to score, although TCS made many fine runs.

TCS threatened early in the second half, but were unable to put the ball over the Belleville goaline. Belleville then made the score 12-3 on a rouge by L. Moore. In the fourth quarter Board scored TCS's final touchdown, which also was converted by McDerment.

For TCS Muntz, McDerment, Currie and Board played well, while for Belleville, Allen, Green and Moore were the best.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

The board of governors of the National Hockey League selected additional players yesterday for the fifth annual all-star game to be played Oct. 9 in Toronto.

Hockey writers named this first team: Terry Sawchuk, Detroit, goalie; Bill Quackenbush, Boston, and Red Kelly, Detroit, defence; Milt Schmidt, Boston, centre; and Ted Lindsay and Gordie Howe, both Detroit, wings.

The second team is Chuck Rayner, New York, goalie; Leo Reise, Detroit, and Jim Thomson, Toronto, defence; a tie between Ted Kennedy, Toronto, and Sid Abel, Detroit, for centre; Sid Smith, and Maurice Richard, both Montreal, wings.

Others named to the first squad, all from the American cities; are Harry Lumley, Bill Gadsby, Lee Fogolin, Roy Conacher, Pete Babando, and Doug Bentley, Chicago; Alan Stanley, Don Raleigh, and Reggie Sinclair, New York; and Johnny Peirson and Ed Sandford, Boston.

The governors picked these subs for the second team, all Canadian cities: Gerry McNeil, Doug Harvey, Butch Bouchard, Paul Meger and Floyd Curry, Montreal; Gus Mortson, Max Bentley, Harry Watson and Tod Sloan, Toronto.

Joe Primeau of Toronto will coach the first team, Dick Irvin of Montreal, the second.

Toronto-born Hugh Bolton is the leading candidate for the fifth and last defence spot with Toronto Maple Leafs.

At the Leafs' National Hockey League pre-season training camp in St. Catharines, Bolton, Frankie Mathers and Tim Horton are fighting hard for the chance to stay up in the spot left open by the disappearance of Bill Barilko on a far-north fishing trip a month ago.

Jim Thompson, Gus Mortson, Fern Flaman and Bill Juzda, all Leafs of last season, appear to have four of the five rearguard berths sewn up.

The fifth may go to Bolton, who stood out in yesterday's practice.

Pat Egan, New York Rangers' defenceman, was sent down to the Cincinnati Mohawks, farm club in the American Hockey League, along with three other players off the Ranger roster yesterday.

Egan held second best consecutive streak for games played, 399, in National Hockey League history. The record run of 563 was made by Murray Murdoch, an original Ranger, during 1926-37.

Others sent to Cincinnati were Emile (The Cat) Francis, diminutive goalie, and forwards Ed Harrison and Herb Dickenson.

Egan, 33, last played amateur hockey with Sudbury Tigers.

Boston Bruins last night announced the purchase of goalie Jim Henry from Detroit Red Wings in a straight cash deal between those National Hockey League clubs.

Hein Ten Hoff of Germany, new European heavyweight champion, yesterday issued challenges to Jersey Joe Walcott, world titleholder, and Joe Louis, former titleholder.

Fred Kirsh, the giant's manager announced that he had written to New York State Athletic Commission, asking it to arrange a title bout between Walcott and Ten Hoff. He stipulated that the winner must defend his title against Joe Louis.

Warren Giles, who graciously stepped out of a stalemate with Ford Frick for baseball's commissionership, yesterday was graciously asked to become Frick's successor as president of the National League.

League vice-president Phil Wrigley of Chicago Cubs disclosed that the loop presidents all wanted Giles, 55, dignified No. 2 man of Cincinnati Reds, to accept Frick's $40,000 a year job at a meeting already set after the final world series game.

Giles had no immediate comment.

Oshawa Blanks Niagara Falls

OSHAWA, Sept. 27 (CP). — Oshawa Merchants last night blanked Niagara Falls Fords 6-0 to take a 2-0 lead in their seven-game Ontario Baseball Association Senior A championship finals. Third game is slated for Niagara Falls Thursday night with the fourth in Oshawa Friday.

Right-handed Bob Carlson struck out 11 batters, scattered seven hits and walked none in registering his shutout.

Cline Stephenson and Eddie Mulligan each had two hits for the Fords. Eddie Johnston's double in the second gave the Fords their only extra base hit. Johnston reached third when the throw-in was dropped but Carlson fanned the next three batters.

Smart defensive fielding nipped the only other two threats made by the Falls in the third and sixth frames.

Dick Berning led Oshawa attack with three for four, a triple, double and a single. His triple came in the first inning with the bases loaded and none out. He in turn scored when Sherry Rowland singled giving Oshawa a 4-0 lead.

The Merchants added singles in the third when Bernie doubled and Ted Barnes singled and in the seventh when Charlie Walsh and Berning each connected after Jim Rogers was safe on an infield error. Walsh had two hits for Oshawa.

Owners All Want Giles President

CHICAGO, Sept. 27—(AP)—It was up to Warren Giles today: whether to accept the $40,000-a-year job as National League president, and the prestige that goes with it, or continue on his well paid position as president of the Cincinnati Reds.

National League owners all want the 55-year-old Giles for a successor to Ford Frick, who a week ago was elected baseball's commissioner after Giles stepped out of the running. Frick, National League president since 1934, succeeded A. B. Chandler to the $65,000 a year commissionership.

League vice-president Phil K. Wrigley, who is owner of the Chicago Cubs, disclosed yesterday that all league clubs had authorized him to ask Giles to take over as league president.

Giles had no comment on the offer immediately but his boss, Reds owner Powel Crosley, Jr., said, "It is up to Warren. As far as the ball club is concerned he is free to make up his own mind." Crosley said he would release Giles from a contract extending through 1956.

It is thought that, financially, Giles would be just as well off to remain as president of the Reds. He has a long career as an executive in organized baseball and once was president of the International League. He has been with the Reds since 1936.

Sarnia Wallops Windsor 38-6

SARNIA, Ont., Sept. 27 (CP)—Sarnia Imperials had too much power for an undermanned Windsor Royal team here last night and the "Big Red" team rolled to a 38-6 victory. The win enabled the Imperials to gain a tie with Toronto Balmy Beach for top position in the Senior Ontario Rugby Football Union race.

The Sarnians scored four touchdowns in the first half before Windsor entered the scoring column. Doug Passmore recovered a Windsor fumble in the first quarter to set up the first Sarnia score. George Curtis fired a 40-yard pass to Al Faris for the major. John Chorestecki converted.

Corky Duchene raced 51 yards for the second touchdown. The convert was wide.

Bill Miller plunged over from the three-yard line in the second quarter for the third major. Chorestecki converted. Archie McAffer ran 11 yards for the fourth Sarnia touchdown. The convert was wide.

John Sagouac threw a 11-yard pass to Bob Forster for a Windsor touchdown as the first half ended.

Al Farris skirted left end from the 11, Eric McKeever crashed over from the four and Eric Johnson scored from the seven as the Sarnians rolled up the score in the second half. John Chorestecki converted the Farris major.

Junior Police Games Held At Bowmanville

BOWMANVILLE, Sept. 27 — (CP).—The third annual junior police games at the Boys' Training School went off without a hitch Wednesday with 400 youthful athletes participating. Thirty members of the RCMP, with district and public school teachers, acted as officials.

One of the highlights of the meet was a three-legged race in which policemen and youths teamed together. Provincial Constable B. Naismith and R. Marderian of the training school won a nip-and-tuck race.

The games are held annually to help cement relations between police officers and local youngsters.

Varsity Beats Balmy Beach

TORONTO, Sept. 27 (CP). — A fast-running, shifty squad of Varsity Blues from the University of Toronto Wednesday defeated the leaders of the Ontario Rugby Football Union, Toronto Balmy Beach, 16-11 in a twilight exhibition game before about 3,500 fans in Varsity Stadium.

Bob Masterson's Blues capitalized on a Beach fumble and a deceptive passing play for the victory.

Steve Oneschuk ran 20 yards in the first quarter for the first Varsity major and Al Brown recovered Bill Haddleton's fumble of a Blues' kick into the Beach end zone for the second U. of T. touchdown in the second quarter.

An 18-yard run by Bob Scott put the Beach on the Varsity two in the third quarter, but Ralph Pulley had to make two tries after quarter Gerry Tuttle failed before he scored the first Balmy major. Tuttle went over on a quarterback sneak in the final quarter.

Then the unexpected came as Bill Bewley, his Blues behind one point, grabbed a pitchout, made as though to run around the left end and, instead, heaved a 30-yard pass into the waiting hands of Al Haig behind the Balmy goal line. Jimmy Bell's convert was successful.

Central Seniors Take 5-0 Win

Central school seniors were too much for Queen Elizabeth school's seniors Wednesday in the public school soccer and the boys from the central section trounced the northenders 5-0 at Nicholls Oval.

Both teams played poor soccer in the first half but Central received the breaks while they enjoyed a good margin on the play. Kwong Hum on a pass from Patterson scored after five minutes of play, followed later by another by Doug Lustic, again from Patterson. Near the end of the half Kwong scored on a penalty shot after Lyons grabbed the ball.

Positional play by Central paid off in the second half although Queen Elizabeth pressed. W. Tranter and Dunford adding a goal each before the final whistle for Central.

Tighe, Heard and Walsh were most outstanding for Queen Elizabeth while Pattersoon, Lustic and Hum were best for Central.

Lineups:

Queen Elizabeth: goal, M. Tighe; full backs, R. Willis, G. Heard; half backs, B. Dargon, J Lyons, T. Walsh; forwards, B. Whitnell, W. Whitnell, E. Lymburner, J. Dargon, B. Drummond, K. McConkey.

Central: goal, R. Gray; full backs, J. Matthews, P. Brown; half backs, D. Patterson, C. Craymer, B. Naish; forwards, D. Lustic, P. Hum, K. Hum, W. Tranter, Dunford.

SANDY SADDLER Wednesday night scored a ninth round technical knockout over former champion Willie Pep to retain his featherweight crown.

Saddler Wins As Pep Unable To Start 10th

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK, Sept. 27—(AP)—Unless they take their act on the wrestling circuit, the Sandy Saddler - Willie Pep featherweight series is over today with Slashing Sandy still the champion.

Four times is enough—and to many fans too much—for this furious feud between the ring's best 126-pounders. A battered, bleeding and disgusted Pep quit on his stool after the ninth round at the Polo Grounds last night to give the skinny Harlem Negro a nine-round technical knockout and a 3-1 edge in the series.

It was almost a duplicate of last year's battle between the two. That one ended when the one-time Great Hartford, Conn., veteran claimed a dislocated shoulder after the seventh round.

"My eye is bothering me and I don't want to go on. The pain is killing me."

Warned Repeatedly

That's what the sad-eyed, dark-haired little ex-champ told Referee Ray Miller when the official strode over to Willie's corner after the ninth to warn him to cut out his holding and wrestling tactics or face disqualification. Both gladiators had been warned repeatedly by Miller to stop the rough stuff and get back to boxing.

Don't get the idea, though, that this was strictly for the wrestling friends. There were moments of boxing brilliance in the bout and Pep actually was leading by a shade on the scoreboards of two of the three officials.

At the end, the 29-year-old Connecticut cutie's right eye was half closed, he was bleeding from nose and mouth and his strength seemed gone.

But earlier he shook up Sandy several times and twice—in the second and fifth—connected with 13 and 14 rapid-fire blows without a return from Saddler. Sandy was shaken both times.

After taking that barrage in the second, the 25-year-old Saddler lashed back with jolting left hooks and uppercuts and decked Willie for the only legitimate knockdown of the brawl. Both boys went down several times, wrapped in each other's arms, and once the referee went down himself as he tried to pry them apart.

Wily Willie, who studied holds with a wrestler, tried something new in the seventh—and lost the round partly because of it. He coiled his right around Sandy's left leg and the fighters and the referee all went down.

Willie was done after that.

Chatham Booms Since War, Industrial Town

CHATHAM, Ont. (CP). — Six years ago this southwestern Ontario city set out to provide jobs for returning servicemen. From this start the Jobs-for-Servicemen movement snowballed to such an extent that the population jumped 20 per cent, bank clearings increased from about $60,000,000 to more than $132,000,000 and the city's assessment rose to more than $25,000,000 from the $16,000,000 mark in 1945.

Central figure in the skyrocketing growth is Industrial Commissioner William Gray, a successful manufacturer in his own right. He is Chatham's No. 1 salesman. From its industrial bureau the city last year sent out 14,000 pieces of mail, received nearly 500 visitors and held a series of meetings between local businessmen, visiting manufacturers, civic and government officials.

Good Location

Commissioner Gray explains the successful expansion of the city by its favorable location. It has a plentiful supply of natural gas, good rail and highway connections, cheap transportation for coal on the River Thames and moderate weather conditions.

That Chatham's 21,500 citizens have benefitted from their city's growth is indicated by figures provided by the industrial bureau. About 70 per cent of the homes are owned by the householders, there are more than 6,700 automobiles, 1,700 trucks, 5,950 radios and 1,200 television sets. In the rich farming district which surrounds the city the farmers have the highest number of tractors per farm in Ontario.

Industry in Chatham is well diversified. The city's chief occupations are food processing and the manufacture of farm equipment and automobiles. Latest addition is the multi-million-dollar plant of the American Can Company, opened Sept. 14.

Caterpillar Plague Expected In Alberta

CALGARY —(CP)—A large-scale invasion of tenters is expected in Alberta in 1952.

Only they won't be tourists—but a plague of tent caterpillars.

Studies made this summer by the Dominion Forest Insects Research Laboratory indicate the caterpillars are reaching the peak of a seven-year cycle and there may be a wide outbreak next year.

The favorite meal of the tent caterpillar is poplar foliage. A one-year scourge of the caterpillars is not expected to cause serious damage to the trees.

To the city dweller, the caterpillars are largely considered only as nuisances. The extent of the nuisance depending on the number of caterpillars.

But in the country they can stop trains by being ground under the wheels—and strip large areas of leaves.

Yugoslav Complaint Bureau Gives Hearing To Everyone

By RONALD PRESTON

BELGRADE (Reuters)—Yugoslavia has a Federal Bureau of Complaints and Suggestions to which anyone in the country can complain about anything.

Nor do they have to go through any "unusual channels." They just write a letter to the Bureau or go to its headquarters in Belgrade in person.

Krista Miloshevich, deputy general secretary of the federal government, a schoolmaster before the war, now runs the Bureau.

"We do not believe in official looking counters and barriers here," he said in the spacious, well-appointed waiting room. "We think the atmosphere should be as informal as possible."

Four or five people were sitting in blue-upholstered easy chairs, some of them reading papers, waiting their turn. Only a portrait of Marshal Tito on the wall reminded them that they were in a government office.

Consulting Room

Next door was the consulting room. A middle-aged peasant woman with a kerchief round her head was pouring out her troubles to one of the bureau's woman consultants who was making notes.

Miloshevich said that in the first six months of this year the Bureau has handled 10,000 complaints from all over the country on a variety of subjects. Nearly 70 per cent had been personally addressed to Marshal Tito.

Until this year, such complaints were handled by the Marshal's personal secretariat, but they became so numerous that it was decided to hand them over to the Bureau.

Many Justified

"About 50 per cent of the complaints made are justified," Miloshevich said. The most numerous are those connected with housing, dismissals from employment, and forced sales of agricultural produce to the government.

The Bureau also handles suggestions, although these are "very small" in number compared with the complaints.

Miloshevich stressed that the Bureau has no power outside the law. It could only see that the law was properly carried out. Its task was to investigate complaints and to recommend, if they are justified, that the decisions which led to them be modified or reversed by the authorities who originally made them.

Helped Woman

A young unemployed woman complained to the Bureau that she could not find a job because when she was last dismissed from employment she was given references which qualified her as "an enemy of the people" (politically undesirable). The Bureau found the accusations against the woman to be mere supposition of which there was no proof, and had the references withdrawn.

A yellow file contained a letter to Marshal Tito from a peasant who had been sentenced to three months' prison for failing to deliver his annual quota of grain to state collectors.

"I appeal to you, comrade Marshal," it said "as a Partisan fighter in 1943 who was wounded and 70 per cent disabled, I am not able to do as much work as I used to do before. Because of this and because the year was very bad, I ask that the decision be cancelled." On intervention by the Bureau, the man was released.

To the outside observer, the Federal Bureau of Complaints and Suggestions, which has a staff of over 30, seems to be doing good work. But this view is not shared by all Yugoslavs. One opponent of Marshal Tito's regime descibed its activity to me as "mostly eyewash."

TORBAY, England (CP).— The biggest conger eel seen in many years at this Devonshire resort was caught by a holiday-maker, Maj. W. J. Maunder. It weighed 36 pounds.

Bats In His Belfry Worry Clergyman

LONDON—(CP)—Some British clergymen are worried about bats in belfries.

Rev. William Uphill, of Stower Provost with Todbere, Dorset, wrote to a newspaper inquiring what to do about bats. He said he had tried cheese-baited traps without success.

A man from Shepperton-on-Thames replied that he'd made a killing by suspending a net coated with rat varnish over the eaves of his belfry. That killed 200 in four nights.

Wardens of a Lincolnshire church suggested types of poison gas, and the vicar of a Norfolk church tried insect-killing "bomb."

If none of those ways work, the clergy can always take the advice of a rodent officer in Denham, Bucks. He said the bats should be left alone. They keep down spiders and other pests.

Geographers Study Northern Resources

PRINCE ALBERT, Sask—(CP)—Resources Minister Brockelbank says the Saskatchewan government is making a detailed study of resources in the north with a view to boosting its productivity.

The study—first of its kind in Saskatchewan—is being made by two geographers. They take inventories of all local resources, including fish, fur, timber and minerals.

Mr. Brockelbank said the geographers also estimate the effectiveness of Saskatchewan government policies and programs to develop and conserve resources in each region.

So far the study has resulted in an agricultural program for Cumberland House—mostly populated by Metis and Indians—and a planned tourist development for Beaver Lake.

Bit Of England Gone To Seed In Tennessee

RUGBY, Tennessee — (CP) — Here in the East Tennessee hills is a bit of old England gone to seed.

Once as solidly English as its name, Rugby was built on an ideal by an Englishman in search of Utopia.

That was 70 years ago, back in the 1880s. In the years that followed, the Utopian idea dissovled into hill country folklore. But descendants of founding British fathers still bear their heritage proudly, though their clipped accents and formal dinner garb long since have given way to the native drawl and mountain dress.

It was here on the highest and broadest elevation of the Cumberland plateau that Tom Hughes, author of "Tom Brown's School Days," founded his colony.

Idea Failed

Hughes' purpose was to furnish homes and workshops for the sons of English gentry, denied the privilege of working with their hands in their native land. It failed because the young gentlemen failed to exploit the opportunity.

Still here are approximately 150 descendants of the original settlers. They're determined to keep Rugby a piece of the England they've never seen.

The colony officially opened Oct. 5, 1880. Hughes, a member of parliament, lawyer and man of letters, came from London for the ceremonies. It started out with a flourish. More than 1,000 young Englishmen, eager to find a more abundant life in the green uplands of Tennessee, soon followed.

Planned Recreation

Among the first fruits of Hughes' energy were cricket fields, tenis courts, an archery club, a football team, a newspaper, dramatic societies, a cornet band and labels for a canning factory which never materialized.

Social life flourished. Mountain folk stared open-mouthed at fancy-dressed ladies and gentlemen on promenade.

One of the most picturesque characters was the founder's mother, Mrs. Margaret Hughes, dowager queen of the settlement. "Queen Margaret" was given to long rides behind a milk-white horse. Even in her 80s, she plunged daily into a cold pool in her private Deer Park.

But Hughes was recalled to parliament and not long afterward typhoid fever hit Rugby. Then followed a mix-up in land titles and disaster set in. By 1885 Hughes' Utopia-in-the-hills was breathing its last.

Still standing for visitors are sights of unusual interest. The Hughes Public Library, dedicated in 1882, contains more than 7,000 volumes, many are rare first editions. Quaint little Christ Church, which still has its original organ and lighting fixtures is one of the original buildings.

There are traces of splendid driveways, terraced hillsides and river parks, where gophers frolic among the scraggly weeds.

Rambling cottages, characteristic of the intensely English style of life forced upon the mountain wilderness, still stand. One of them, "Uffington House," was named for the Hughes home in England.

Jack Miner Winner

ST. THOMAS, Sept. 27 (CP)— Margaret Humphries, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John I. Humphries, of Windsor, Ont., has won the Jack Miner scholarship at Alma College here. The scholarship, in memory of the late Kingsville conservationist and sanctuary keeper, goes to a student who makes a hobby of the study of bird life.

Retired Judge Dies

BRANTFORD, Sept. 27 (CP)— Judge A. D. Hardy, 92, retired Brant county court judge, died last night. He was appointed county judge in 1897 and served until 1935. He continued as juvenile court judge until 1944, completing 47 years on the bench.

Refit Airport

KINGSTON, Sept. 27—(CP)— The RCAF has started refitting the Norman Rogers airport. It will use two of the hangars for motor vehicle maintenance.

In Service For Men Women Who Served

Comrades,—

A number of veterans from branch No. 52 attended the annual drumhead service for district "F" at Trenton last Sunday. J. D. Burnet, the commander of district "F", mayor of Cobourg, gave the commander's address and T. A. M. Hulse, the provincial president from Aurora, presented the main address. F. P. Burke, the deputy-district commander, president of the Peterborough branch of the Canadian Legion, laid the wreath on the cenotaph in memory of the comrades fallen.

There were many distinguished guests present, including AVM C. B. Slemon, CB, CBE, CD; Senator W. A. Fraser, AC W. W. Browne, CD; Lieut.-Col. J. M. Porritt, MC, ED; Lieut. Fred Goldberg, RCNVR, and Frank Follwell, MP.

In keeping along these lines the Canadian Legion brings to the attention of any veteran that may be interested the decoration day to be held in Norwood on Sunday, Sept. 30. An invitation has been extended by the Norwood branch to any veteran in Peterborough that would like to attend.

The cribbage club of the Legion swings into action this week with a game with the DeLaval. Cribbage is a big thing during the winter months for the boys around here, and any of you fellows that like the game should contact Frank Bell (phone 8685) or the secretary of the Legion. In the very near future there will be a billiard tournament in the offing, so any of you that may be interested keep your eye on this column. The shuffleboard league will have held their first meeting by the time you read this, and by next week we should have a full report from their committee in regards to starting date and officers for the season.

Once again, November 11 is creeping up on our poppy campaign. This campaign, under the chairmanship of Albert Mason, is already busy sending out letters to the manufacturers and merchants of the city asking for their early orders of wreaths for display or placing on the war memorial. Any individual who would like to purchase one of these wreaths should get in touch with the chairman or secretary at 6203.

It has been suggested that when the wreaths have served their purpose the welfare committee be allowed to distribute them to anyone wishing them for returned men's graves in the cemetery, rather than have them destroyed.

November 10 will be poppy day in Peterborough. By wearing a poppy this Remembrance Day, you can pay tribute to those who lost their lives in the service of their country.

At this time we are all very concerned about the health of His Majesty the King. We are sure that you will join us in this final word—God Save the King.

Storm Lashes Soo Cuts Power In Parts

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Sept. 27—(CP)—A 42-mile-an-hour wind lashed this district early today, causing damage in some parts of the city. Some sections were without power for hours after transformers burned out. Piled-up waves halted ferry service across the St. Mary's River to Sault Ste. Marie, Mich.

Snipers, Mines Plus Weather Trouble Soldiers

VANCOUVER, Sept. 27 (CP)—Private Fred A. Lobb, of Winchester, Ont., says that snipers' bullets, bad weather and deadly land mines are the enemy's best weapons in Korea.

Pte. Lobb was one of 14 wounded veterans on the RCAF flying hospital which landed here Tuesday from Tacoma, Wash. He was one of six stretcher cases.

"I was part of the pioneer platoon in my regiment," he said in an interview. "Part of our job was lifting enemy mines ahead of the infantry. I stepped on one on the bank of the Han River . . ."

Cpl. Don Muirhead, of Toronto—another stretcher case—says he got his the same morning.

"I was part of the same platoon," he said. "Those mines gave us as much trouble as anything else the enemy had to offer."

May Try Clinic For Drug Addicts

OTTAWA, Sept. 27 (CP)—Officials of the Federal Health Department and the British Columbia Government are considering the possibility of establishing an experimental centre on the west coast for the treatment of drug addicts.

A decision may be reached shortly, an official of the health department said Wednesday. He was commenting on a Vancouver dispatch Tuesday night which quoted Police Chief Walter Mulligan as saying he believed the federal government will establish an experimental treatment centre for drug addicts in British Columbia.

The federal official said discussions have been going on for some time with the British Columbia Government. The governments felt some effort should be made to rehabilitate addicts, convicted and sentenced to jail on narcotic or other charges. No centres now exist in Canada for such treatment.

The centre in British Columbia might take the form of a detention hospital, operated by the provincial government. The provinces are responsible for persons sentenced to jail and the federal government for those sentenced to penitentiary.

THESSALON, Ont., Sept. 27 — (CP)—Twenty cars and the locomotive of an eastbound Canadian Pacific Railway freight train were derailed here early today by a washout. There was no immediate report of anyone being injured.

Green Suede Shoes for Men? Sure, and Red Ostrich, Too

By RICHARD KLEINER

NEW YORK—(NEA)—If you believe what you see in the men's shoe showrooms, by next spring men's feet will be wearing the gayest things this side of a hallucination. Personally, I'm inclined to think of the whole thing as a bad dream—I cannot picture myself in green suede.

It's not that the shoe designers have gone overboard. There are no open-toed mocassins or wedgie brogues—yet. But there are a few new styles that look more like Christmas tree ornaments that the usual men's shoe.

Lester Morse, director of store merchandising for a shoe chain, took me on a tour through this clodhopper fairyland. He was very careful to explain that the extreme in shoe fashions make up only about 20 per cent of the sales; the rest of the 80 per cent prefer the old stand-bys to stand in.

Some Nice Shoes

But, for that showy 20 per cent, the shoe architects have come up with some nifties. There was a black patent leather creation with laces that were tipped with tassels. There was a shoe made up of half maroon-suede and half black patent leather. There were shoes with buckles, shoes with the laces at the side, shoes with no laces at all.

They were in all possible shades of brown, ranging from mustard through raw liver to sirloin steak, well done. And blue and greens and maroons and blacks and grays, to boot.

Morse pulled out a shoe in a light shade called tawny. It had a sole that stuck out at the side, coming almost to a point. It looked like a ping-pong paddle with uppers.

"This," he said, "is the spade last. Now we'll sell a few of these any place. But in the Pittsburgh area, this will be the best seller. Almost a quarter of our sales in Pittsburgh are shoes with that type of last. It's strange how sections of the country take to different styles."

He turned to another shoe, which was a reddish color like a frankfurter. That color, he explained, and colors similar sell in St. Louis. And there has to be a stitched line up the side, at the front of the heel, called a "thread-needle." Without that line, the shoe won't sell.

"In the Pacific Northwest," Morse said, taking down a shoe with a thick sole, "they like their soles big. This one is the thickest we make. Yet somebody in Tacoma or Portland will buy this, then go across the street and have a shoemaker put another sole right on top of this one."

Quilted Effect

Morse held up a copper-colored shoe with a quilted effect, green welting around the side and green laces.

"Here's a funny thing," he said. "We always make what we call a 'window' shoe—you know, something to stick in the window and attract attention. This was a 'window' shoe, but people bought it. We had to make more. You never know."

There's a trend now, he said, toward print leather. That's plain leather made to look fancy. It can be a simple grain effect, or vicious looking lizard or alligator or ostrich. He pulled out a blue lizard, a brown alligator and a red ostrich, then some in combination with suede and plain leather.

"Men are funny," Morse said, fondling the red ostrich shoe. "You can't make them go from one color to a much different shade. You can only nudge them one shade at a time."

FANCY FEET: Shoeman Lester Morse looks properly non-plussed at alligator, lizard and ostrich shoes for men.

Dunbar Eligible For Age Pension

TORONTO, Sept. 27—(CP)—If Municipal Affairs Minister George Dunbar was trying to conceal his age in the Ontario Legislature yesterday, he didn't get away with it.

After the Legislature voted 83 to 0 approving a new old-age pensions bill, Mr. Dunbar asked if his vote might be withdrawn because he was personally interested in the matter at hand.

CCF leader E. B. Joliffe checked him on that.

"The minister can't fool us that he's under 70," said Mr. Joliffe, pointing out that the bill before the House dealt only with pensions for the 65-to-69-year-old age group.

Mr. Dunbar, 73, is eligible for the universal pension—a federal matter—which goes to persons 70 and over.

France Building Up Network Of Vast Army Airports

METZ, France — (Reuters)—France, whose military airfields were almost totally destroyed by both sides during the Second World War, will have a network of military airports by the end of this year suitable for any known type of aircraft, including the latest atom-bomb carriers being tested in the United States.

Shortly after General Dwight Eisenhower established his Supreme Headquarters for the integrated anti-Communist defence army of Europe, his air experts began to cope with the problem arising from the fact that existing airfields were woefully inadequate for the latest long-range bombers and jet fighters.

The French Defence Ministry hastily decided on emergency construction of up-to-date airfields and French engineers and contractors scoured Europe for the best machines to lay concrete and bitumen in the shortest possible time.

For security reasons the number of air fields has not been disclosed. But at Metz, three German machines moving on rails laid strips of concrete 400 feet long and 60 feet wide. Smaller machines smoothed and flattened subidiary runways and dispersal points. In 100 days, a team of 500 workmen had laid two concrete runways, each about 1½ miles long, together with drains, electric cables and runway approaches.

Before they started spreading the concrete, engineers had to remove 380,000 cubic metres of earth from the runway area. Soggy, clayish soil and heavy rain hampered them, but they finished the job on time.

Airfield construction in 1951 needs different techniques from the hastily and relatively easily-built emergency landing strips built during the war. Then, Allied engineers merely laid down a carpet of metal screen. These emergency strips are still in use all over France for propeller-driven aircraft.

But jet aircraft cannot land safely on them because most strips are too short. Moreover, excessive heat from the jet exhausts would buckle the metal strips. It even cracks bitumen, so that expensive concrete has to be used throughout the length of the runway, or at least at both ends, where the engines warm up before taking off.

Jet runways have to bekept almost surgically clean for the jets suck in any loose stones, earth or other objects within range.

Doctor May Practise Until Contract Trial

TORONTO, Sept. 27 — (CP) — Dr. Russell A. Gill, an English surgeon who came to Canada in 1950, will be permitted to practice in Oshawa or within a five-mile radius of that city until trial of a lawsuit over an alleged breach of an agreement, Mr. Justice R. I. Ferguson, of the Ontario Supreme Court, ruled Wednesday.

Evidence was that Dr. Gill signed a one-year agreement to practice surgery on the staff of the Oshawa Clinic. The agreement stipulated that after it ran out, Dr. Gill would not practice in the Oshawa area for five years. Now the clinic is suing Dr. Gill for damages, claiming he broke the agreement.

Mr. Justice Ferguson refused to grant an injunction restraining Dr. Gill from practising until the trial.

Find Boy, 12 After Night In Bushland

Two of 100 Searchers Find Crying Lad Six Miles From Home

An exhaustive all-night search for a 12-year-old boy lost in the bush north of his Minden home came to a joyful end about 10 a.m. today when Max McKelvey was found and brought to his weeping mother.

He was found at North Pond, a small lake about six miles west of Minden, upset and crying, but otherwise unharmed by his night in the open.

The boy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert McKelvey, became lost Wednesday afternoon while rounding up one of his father's horses.

More than 100 volunteers, led by OPP Constables C. A. J. Hardy and Al Edwards combed the bush during the night. A Department of Lands and Forests airplane from Haliburton was scheduled to take part in this morning's search, but was grounded because of high wind.

Murray Hewitt and Fred Walker, both of Minden, found the lad.

Made Beafy Bed

Later Max explained that after finding the horse in the bush he became lost and at nightfall tied the horse up and made a bed for himself of branches and leaves. At daybreak he started out again, got mixed up in his directions and started walking west.

When the search for the horses began, Max was acompanied by his seven - year - old brother, Frank. Frank found one of the horses and waited on the outskirts of the bush for Max to return. He remained there until dark and then went home and informed the parents. The McKelveys live three miles north of Minden village.

ALONE IN THE BOAT when this beauty struck, Mrs. L. R. Groombridge (ABOVE), 464 Aylmer St., had a difficult time before the 25-pound 'lunge was landed. Forty-five inches long, the fish had a girth of 28 inches, and was caught in Chemong Lake on Wednesday. Mrs. Groombridge was fishing along the east shore, just south of Bass Rock.

Firm Gives Cigarettes 2-Cent Boost

Imperial Tobacco Co. Says Increase Effective October 1

MONTREAL, Sept. 27—(CP)—Imperial Tobacco Company of Canada, Ltd., today announced a two cents increase in the package price of 20 cigarettes. The increase becomes effective Oct. 1.

The retail price of a package of 20 cigarettes in Ontario formerly was 40 cents. In Quebec province the man on the street will now pay 45 cents instead of 43 cents.

A company spokesman said that manufacturing costs, the principal items being leaf tobacco, labor and packaging materials, have increased. Transportation costs, selling costs and taxes also have advanced and combined with the increased cost of manufacturing made a price increase unavoidable.

Effective October 1

He said that "out of the price increase approximately one-third goes to the wholesale and retail trade and, of course, the federal government also participates directly due to the 10 per cent sales tax. What then remains is required to meet the rise in costs experienced by the company. The company's new price to the trade will go into effect with shipments made on and after October 1.

Macdonald Tobacco Company, Incorporated, declined to comment when asked whether they would boost cigaret prices or not. Benson and Hedges (Canada) Limited officials said they did not plan a price increase at this time.

Imperial manufactures 10 brands of cigarettes, Sweet Caporal, Players, State Express, Pall Mall, Millbank, Gold Flake, Guinea Gold, Old Kentucky, Winchester and Fatima.

Chicken Swindle Charge Read To Toronto Man

Emil Konineck, Toronto, will appear in police court Tuesday on a charge of swindling a Belmont township farm woman out of 107 chickens. He appeared briefly in court today to hear the charge read and was released on $500 bail.

It is charged that he went to the Belmont farm home of Mrs. M. Clarke to buy chickens. Mrs. Clarke was away at the time but her daughter, Mrs. M. Sheppard was there.

Mrs. Sheppard told OPP Constable Don Erskine, of Campbellford, that he came to buy some chickens. She said no; in any case they weren't hers.

She told police that Konineck then said the chickens had Newcastle disease and the flock would die shortly. When she heard this she decided to sell them, she said.

When Mrs. Clarke returned home she found her chickens gone. And they decided they had been swindled. Konineck was later arrested.

A Czechoslovakian, Konineck does not speak English well. The adjournment was to get an interpreter—one who can speak a Czech dialect, German or Hungarian.

Sales Slump Forces Layoff, Short Week At Westclox Co.

A slump in sales has forced the Western Clock Company to lay off 20 workers and put employees of its production departments on a four-day week. John H. Vernor, general manager, said today that business there is "very slack" and that besides the 20 laid off, "there may be reason to reduce the staff further."

Mr. Vernor explained that the company believed the reason for the reduction in sales is because the wholesalers are unable to get as large a credit as before to finance their buying. Therefore the wholesalers are not getting the clocks to the retailers.

Mr. Vernor added that business will probably pick up when there is a shortage, "but there's none at present" (referring to the shortage).

Across the Board

When asked if the sales slump was in any particular product, Mr. Vernor replied that it "is pretty well across the board".

Up until mid-year, explained Mr. Vernor, that is July and August, business was good, then "things began to get into a slump".

"We're not alone, there's the automobile business and others."

When asked when he thought the sales would begin to increase, he answered, "It's in the lap of the gods."

Mr. Vernor added that business usually picks up in November and if that is the case, the workers will be called back.

The small layoff has been on a seniority basis, "as the custom has been for years", subject to ability to do other work in the plant. Some employees in slack departments have been shifted to other departments.

On Short Week

The whole plant, except the watch, automatic screw machine, toolroom, maintenance and shipping, is working a short-time week, only four days. This action went into effect more than a month ago.

"We'll give employment to as many people as we feel justified in doing," said Mr. Vernor.

The effect of the sale slump was first felt in the summer months and finally the company, about a month ago, was forced to employ 60 employees on the short week.

Last year, during May and June, a decline in foreign markets forced the company to discharge 15 and ask 150 others to accept a short week. That was the first time since the 1930 depression that the company had to use the shorter week.

Moving Day Set For City Hall At October 15

By Monday Oct. 15 Peterborough municipal administration will be adjusting itself to the strangeness of its commodious quarters in the new city hall.

The old civic home at Simcoe and Water Streets will be as empty as the song sparrow's nest in the chokecherry tree, and the fortune William George Morrow left to his fellow citizens will be shining in every day use.

City Clerk Outram said today that preparations for the exodus are stirring in the various departments. October becomes moving month, and before its close the ceremonial of this transposition of business headquarters will have been completed, and municipal affairs will be settled down for a long future in the new premises.

Finance committee authorized City Treasurer A. S. Couper Monday to clear his vault of accumulated records such as cancelled cheques vouchers, correspondence which may properly be discarded. So, there will be a housecleaning job with the removal.

Cash books, rolls and other details of accounting up to 1944 will have to be transferred to the new treasury.

City Solicitor Huycke told the committee that claims for debts were outlawed after six years, but sometimes there were enquiries for information relating to the farther past.

Jaycee President To Visit City

Phil J. Farmer, Winnipeg, national president of the Junior Chamber of Canada, will spend Monday in Peterborough with Fred Spratt, regional president from Ottawa.

His visit is being sponsored by the Peterborough Junior Chamber. He will be guest speaker at the chamber dinner meeting Monday evening.

On his arrival, Mr. Farmer will attend Rotary as guest speaker. In the afternoon he will tour the CGE and Outboard Marine plants.

The national president has held executive posts in the Junior Chamber since 1944. In 1949, he became president of Region 5 before stepping up to the post of national president.

Mr. Farmer will be accompanied on his tour of the city by L. G. Groombridge, president, and Ken Billings, past president, of the Junior Chamber.

A CGE REPORT

At the Alparka bar last night there was interesting personal news relating to the big manufacturing plant hard by. It sounded authentic, too, but it will likely be some days before official verification is received.

Girl, 8, Fourth Polio Death In Hospital Only 12 Hours

Polio claimed its fourth Peterborough victim today and its first at the Civic hospital.

Admitted to the hospital at 2:10 p.m. Wednesday, Pauline Ann Gardner, eight-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Gardner, 352 Bethune St., died at 3:30 a.m. today. The first symptoms were noticed on Monday.

This polio death comes only a week after Peterborough's third victim, Colin Cameron, 13, of 511 Stewart St., died in Riverdale Isolation hospital, Toronto.

This is the first victim that didn't live on Stewart St. Besides Colin Cameron, the others who have died from polio are: Alvin Snowden, 25-year-old optical worker, 605 Stewart St., died August 6; Mrs. William Miller, 25, of 207 Stewart St., died August 11.

The eight-year-old girl was born in Peterborough and was attending St. Mary's School. Besides her parents she is survived by sisters Ann Catherine and Marion, and by a brother, Norman.

The private funeral will be Friday from the Anglesey funeral home to St. Peter's Cathedral for requiem mass at 9 a.m. Burial will be at St. Peter's cemetery.

A Chair For Eddie

Millbrook Friends Buy Wheelchair For Ex-Fire Chief

MILLBROOK, Sept. 27 (ENS)—When an athlete is forced to stop playing after 35 years of active sport, it hurts. It is downright tragic when a person of this type is suddenly confined to a life of an invalid. This is what happened to the village's popular ex-Fire Chief Eddie Richards seven years ago. He was a bright light in the community in more ways than one.

He has been active in the several branches of sport for the past 35 years: second baseman with the Millbrook Baseball Club, field and box lacrosse, (whose club was always beaten by Hogtown Peterborough, he says) and hockey.

Today Eddie Richards is a happy man. The wheel chair run by electricity which his friends decided some months ago to buy for him arrived on Monday. Eddie Richards had been one of the village's most active citizens until a stroke seven years ago left one side paralyzed.

Family of Eight

He was born in Millbrook and has lived here all his life. It is here that he and Mrs. Richards have raised their family of eight—four sons and four daughters.

Eddie, a veteran of the First World War, served as chief of police for a number of years. He was also a member of the fire brigade where he won the reputation of being the first man to arrive for every fire.

Since the stroke he has been able to see many of the games played by a younger generation through the kindness of friends. Through the summer he is often seen sitting in the shade of trees in front of the town hall in his old wheel chair greeting friends.

But the old chair was heavy to push, and he was dependent on others to take him to the little park and to bring him home again.

New Chair

The new chair is worked from a small lever in the right arm, which he can manipulate himself with practically no effort at all. Mr. Richards will be free to go and come as he likes without assistance.

When some of his friends got the inspiration to subscribe for a chair some months ago the idea caught on like wildfire. Gifts were received from old friends and team-mates from a distance as well as from those who still lived in the old home town. The chair, which cost more than $800, had to be imported from the United States. There were delays about geting it made exactly to requirements, but finally on Monday the chair reached its happy owner. Words failed him when he tried to express his gratitude for the kindness of his friends.

PROCLAMATION

Regarding

DENTAL HEALTH WEEK

In proclaiming October 1st to 6th Dental Health Week, I do so firmly believing in the value of education in the prevention of disease. Decay of our teeth, the most prevalent of human ailments, is no exception. The health of its people, and particularly its children, is the first responsibility of every community.

The program for Dental Public Health Week is purely educational, therefore I recommend to your attention the radio broadcasts and ask you to support the dissemination of dental health information particularly among our children.

PETER PEARSON,
Warden, County of Peterborough

HUNTER AND CATCH—Hunter Denis Destounis, of Montreal, didn't have a gun handy, but he wouldn't have had time to use it anyway. He found this fox in his car, parked at the rear of his home, eating two chickens. He just saw a flash and slammed the door. It caught the fox in the neck. Shown with him is his son Jimmie.

Dinner To Open Dental Week

October 1 to 6 has been selected as Dental Public Health Week. Observance of the week will be opened by a dinner in the Empress Hotel. The speaker will be James Wharry vice-president of the Quaker Oats company of Canada, Ltd.

The economic value of good teeth is hard to estimate, but evidence of its importance is found daily in the emphasis placed upon it by large industries, which include it in their health program. The armed services, too, have made us realize that it is no longer considered sissy to look after your teeth.

Informed people are now coming to see that the most practical and cheapest way to insure good teeth is for children to have regular dental care from early years.

Accordingly, Dental Public Health Week has been planned as an attempt to bring this newer idea to people's attention.

European Entries Expected In 1951 Royal Winter Fair

TORONTO—(CP)—Two new world championships will be up for competition at the Royal Winter Fair this year. The number of titles offered will be increased to eight.

Indications point to a strong European entry for the first time. Fair officials have been in contact with agriculturists from Britain, France, Denmark and Sweden and believe these countries will file entries before the fair opens Nov. 13.

The Royal's seed, grain and hay show was expanded to become a world competition in 1949, when regulations were altered to permit foreign entries. Since then United States exhibitors have carried off the world championship in corn.

Soy Beans

This year for the first ime, world championships are being offered for soy beans, an increasingly popular crop particularly in the United States and Eastern Canada, and in forage crop seeds. World titles are also offered for wheat, oats, barley, rye, potatoes and corn.

World Championships in 1950 were:

Wheat: Ricky Sharpe, Munson, Alta.

Oats: John Eliuk, Hairy Hills, Alta.

Barley: Albert Kessel, Rosetown, Sask.

Rye: Chris Morck, Dickson, Alta.

Potatoes: Arthur Budarick, Palmer Rapids, Ont.

Corn: E. W. Doubet, Hanna City, Ill.

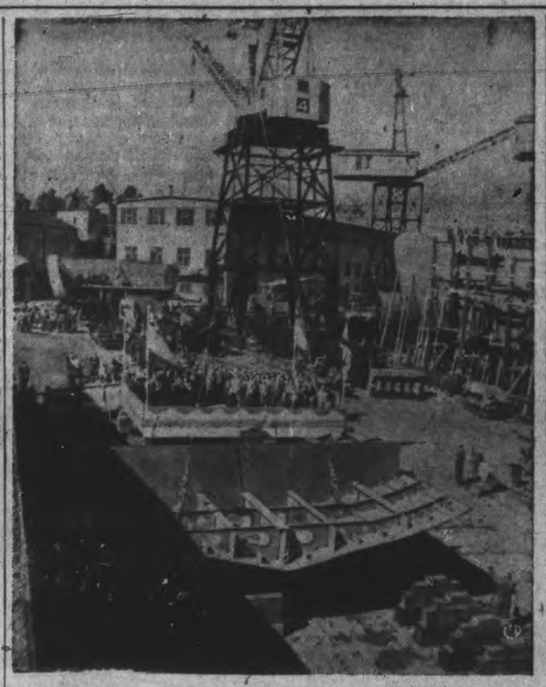
Strong American competition in several classes was a feature of the 1949 and 1950 shows and, if anyting, entries from across the border are likely to increase this year due to the efforts of a special fair committee which has been campaigning to encourage greater US participation. Great Britain, it it accepts the Royal's invitation to enter the show, is expected to bring the biggest European entry.

Europe's participation in this year's show would obscure the advance picture insofar as odds on the outcome of the world championships are concerned. Fair officials are not sufficiently acquainted with the quality of European seed and grain to estimate how they would stack up against the agricultural best of the United States and Canada.

In the past, Western Canada has traditionally carried off world championships in wheat, oats, barley and rye. Ontario won the corn title in 1948, but since then has been unable to break the United States' grasp on the championship, which has been taken for two successive years by Mr. Doubet.

The United States is expected to make a strong bid for the new soy world championship, a crop in which Americans have led for years, Ontario, however, has been raising soy beans on an increasing scale and is considered to have a good chance of comparing favorably with American entries. Ontario's 1951 crop of soy beans is expected to total 4,000,000 bushels by the time it is harvested.

In addition to winning money awards, each world champion is presented with a trophy valued at several thousand dollars. The winner's local government retains the trophy to display for one year. The champions are given silver trays to keep.



KEEL LAID—The keel for the second of Canada's three newest submarine killers is laid at Halifax, Sept. 24. The first can be seen at the right. They are part of a fleet of 14 being built by Canada to cost an estimated $8,000,000 each. Lionel A. Forsyth, president of Dominion Steel and Coal Corp.—owners of Halifax shipyards—officiated at the ceremony.

Opportunity Lies In East Ontario

CHESTERVILLE, Ont., Sept. 27 —(CP)—No greater prospects for advancement are to be found in Canada than "right here in eastern Ontario, George Drew, National Progressive Conservative leader, Wednesday night told delegates to the sixth annual meeting of the Eastern Ontario Associated Boards of Trade.

"I believe within this area is the greatest possible concentration of (electric) power of any part of North America," he said. "Not only have we this power potential here but this area is also the gateway for the great raw materials to the north."

"There is no sense letting a great power reserve go to waste year after year. Through that power, resources can be developed in this area . . . for the rest of the world. As we look for new possibilities, we should try to avoid adhering strictly to the standard form of development of the past."

Moral Standards Debate Asked On CBC

TORONTO, Sept. 27—(CP)—A CBC debate on moral standards is proposed by the United Church Observer in its current issue.

The church paper editor, the Rev. A. J. Wilson, in an editorial objects to a series of Wednesday night programs given by a group of psychiatrists. He writes that CBC programs which challenge accepted standards of right and wrong should be presented in the form of a debate in which the lecturer can be answered at once.

Dr. Brock Chisholm, head of the World Health Organization and former Canadian Deputy Health Minister, and Dr. Ewen D. Cameron are among the outstanding psychiatrists taking part in the series.

AT THE "SHARP END" — A new term meaning "up front," finds Maj.-Gen. A. J. H. Cassels, right, commander of the newly formed British Commonwealth Division, with two top Canadian Army Brigadiers keeping a sharp eye on communist positions. At the Left is Brig. J. P. E. Bernatchez, temporary commander of the Canadian Military Mission in the Far East, and Brig. J. M. Berlin Border War Threatens To Start

BERLIN, Sept. 27 (AP)—Berlin's little sector-border "war," which has twice provoked Communist gunfire in the last week, threatened to grow hotter today.

East Berlin's police chief posted a financial reward for help in capturing the leaders of Western anti-Communist groups who have been engaging in almost nightly stone-throwing clashes with Reds on the French-Russian sector line.

These fights usually start when West Berliners try to tear down steel street barricades with which the Communist police have cut off traffic between East and West Berlin.

The entire Russian-controlled press, led by the Soviet official Taegliche Rundschau, joined in a chorus of denunciation against West Berliners who have been involved in these clashes at the French sector borough of Wedding.

Alaska Lecture Topic Roseneath Meeting

ROSENEATH, Sept. 27—(ENS) — "The United States purchased Alaska from Russia in 1867 for 7,200,000 dollars, or approximately two cents a square mile, and it was paid for by the first cargo of gold that the Americans shipped out," was the emphatic statement made by Brigadier J. L. Gillingham, outstanding Salvation Army worker and lecturer, at a lecture on Alaska illustrated by slides in Roseneath United church on Monday evening. Brigadier Gillingham and Mrs. Gillingham spent many years of service among the natives of Alaska and both took part in the outstanding lecture on "Alaska".

They spoke of the settlers who had gone there in the gold rush and stayed there, of the fisheries, the natives and the climate. One year while they were there, there were 166 inches of rain.

The Rev. R. C. White, pastor of Roseneath United Church was chairman. Previous to the lecture there was a sing-song of gospel hymns with Brigadier Gillingham playing concertina accompaniment.

At the close of the lecture the Rev. N. Cole, pastor of Hastings United church pronounced the benediction.

Included in the large audience were persons from Dartford, Hastings-Alderville, Centenary, Harwood, Roseneath and Burnley.

JET PILOTS KILLED—Two United States Army Air Force pilots were killed Tuesday when their F-86 Sabre jet fighter planes collided at 10,000 feet over a farm in Chatham township. Wreckage of the planes—seen still smouldering—was spread over a wide area and one buring section started a $10,000 barn fire. The planes were in a group of three based at Wright Field, Dayton, O.

Returns To UK Radio, Canadian Scores Hit

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

LONDON (Reuters) — Three months after returning to British radio, Canadian-born Carroll Levis claims to have the largest listening public in Britain.

His weekly program of "Discoveries"—talented amateur performers picked from all counties of England and Scotland—has topped all other variety shows by several thousand listeners, says the statistics department of the British Broadcasting Corporation.

"During my three years away in Canada I was afraid the British public would forget me," the burly 41-year-old Levis said in an interview. "Now I'm getting close on 500 letters a week from all over the country. It's mighty encouraging."

In 1947, after 12 years on the British stage, Levis suffered a nervous breakdown and went back to his native Vancouver.

Two weeks after doctors pronounced him fit again, he was on his way back to England. He toured Britain for several months gathering new talent and made his comeback on the BBC last June.

The show was so well received he was asked to put on a weekly broadcast.

Variety Of Amateurs

His discoveries include whistling errand boys, singing dock laborers, girl machinists with a gift for mimicry, crooning waitresses, shop assistants with xylophones and clerks with hot trumpets.

At rehearsals the 280-pound Levis uses every trick of showmanship to put newcomers at ease. To nervous performers he says: "don't worry if you're nervous—the audience will love you for it. But if you are cocky you will antagonize them."

At broadcasts he leads the studio audience in applauding each successive "discovery," chaffing and joking continuously.

"Many people," he says, "are content to realize their dreams in a glorious three minutes on the stage, then return contentedly to their normal jobs. Others take up the stage as a career and earn anything from £10 to £50 a week.

"Sometimes professionals complain I am creating unfair competition by introducing amateurs to the stage. These folk are selfish. They forget they were once amateurs themselves."

Levis says he works 15 hours a day, seven days a week and likes it.

"I have to work all the time—otherwise I'm bored."

He is producing two new variety programs to be broadcast to Canada and the United States.

Has Gold Mine In Back Yard

VICTORIA, BC—(CP)—H. B. Cox, 65, retired post office worker, has been developing a gold mine in his backyard here for the last 19 years.

A sample of rock with bits of the shiny, precious metal and the findings of a mineral survey on his four-acre property, has been produced by Mr. Cox to show that he really has a gold mine at his back door.

Mr. Cox claims that he has also found traces of silver, copper, tin and two classes of feldspar, a mineral used in manufacture of porcelain, paint and cement.

He opened a shaft 15 feet deep and believes he wil lstrike it rich and believes he will strike deeper. "I would say the rock would yield anywhere from $12 to $20 a ton," he said.

40,000 Handshakes On Tour Of World

LONDON—(CP)—Mr. Sheriff Percy Lovely of the city of London, back home after a world tour which included Canada, estimates he shook hands about 40,000 times on the trip.

"We did 40,000 miles and must have shaken hands about the same number of times," said the Sheriff, who accompanied the Lord Mayor, Sir Denys Lowson, and Lady Lowson.

Labor Leaders Support Drives By Red Feather

OTTAWA—(CP)—Canada's top labor leaders are supporting the red feather campaigns for funds already launched or soon to be in 48 communities across the country.

Percy Bengough, president of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada, A. R. Mosher, president of the Canadian Congress of Labor and J. B. Ward, secretary of the Railway Transportation Brotherhoods have all issued statements urging support of the drives. The money is used mainly for helping needy families and children and for health and recreational purposes.

Mr. Bengough said the red feather campaign "is hardly just another request for a charitable donation. The local community chest is really a whole host of campaigns all rolled into one. Surely we can afford to pay once to support them all."

Mr. Mosher said: "I have no hesitation in urging workers and the people of Canada to give generously towards the community chest and welfare federation campaigns which will be carried on throughout Canada this year."

Mr. Ward said: "Under the red feather campaign subscribers are assured that when they make their contribution to the local community chests their subscription will be most effectively used because co-operative planning and budgeting has been done by those who are experienced and trained in this type of work."

Chrysler Lays Off 800

WINDSOR, Ont., Sept. 27 (CP) — Reduced demand for automobiles is catching up with Chrysler of Canada. The company which up to now has had no unemployment, announced Wednesday that about 800 of its 6,300 employees in Windsor will ultimately be laid off. Reductions in the working force will start Oct. 1.

High Lake Winds

FORT WILLIAM, Sept. 27 — (CP).— Lake Superior freighters Wednesday battled against winds that reached 56 miles an hour on some parts of the lake. At least one vessel was delaying its departure from Fort William to await better conditions as the winds lashed waters into heavy swells. The weatherman said the condition would not improve for another day or two.

Lost Hour In Bed To Return This Weekend

Remember that hour's sleep you lost last April 29 when daylight time went into effect? You get it back this week-end.

That is, you will unless you live in Alberta or in the Ontario centres of Dresden, Thamesville, Cornwall and Windsor.

Actually, you won't gain an hour when those Canadian points which observed daylight time during the spring and summer switch back Sunday to standard time. It's just an illusion, the time experts say. But you won't care as you snuggle under the blankets for that extra hour's sleep. You'll adjust your clocks before going to bed Saturday night, of course.

Most of Ontario and Quebec, Newfoundland, New Brunswick—in fact, most of Canada—observed daylight time in 1951. They all switch back to standard at 2 a.m. Sunday.

But Albertans won't notice any difference. That province, by law, is on standard time the year around.

Ontario's Thamesville reverted to standard time last week-end. Dresden switched in mid-week—Wednesday night. Windsor and a few other points remained on standard time. Cornwall decided to remain on daylight time an extra week. This was because Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh were scheduled to arrive there at 8.45 a.m. est., Oct. 5. The town authorities decided 9.45 a.m. would be a more suitable time for a reception and extended daylight time.

A WEEKLY INFORMATION SERVICE

MONTREAL, Sept. 27th—I often wondered what made the Cheshire Cat in Walt Disney's "Alice in Wonderland" grin so much. Then I decided he'd just finished something very extra special to eat—something like JELL-O PUDDINGS. I've noticed the same pleased expression on the faces of the family when they've enjoyed a milk-rich, satisfying Jell-O Pudding dessert ... not that I blame them! And when I think how easily and economically such delicious desserts can be prepared with Jell-O Puddings, I know I'm just as happy to serve them as the family is to eat them. Serve a Jell-O Pudding tonight for dessert and watch the same "Cheshire Cat smile" appear!

It Won't Be Long before our Royal Visitors, Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip, come to Canada from England. And, speaking of England, reminds me of London, its great and beautiful capital. Most famous of London sights is fascinating Piccadilly Circus, dominated by the huge Bovril sign. And, rightly so. For beefy-good BOVRIL is truly an English "tradition" . . . (Bovril and biscuits at eleven in the morning). Bovril and biscuits are equally good at eleven in the evening, too, I've found. And . . . m-mmm!—savoury Bovril makes the ideal meat-extender . . . used in soups, gravies, vegetable dishes and as a sandwich-spread! Ask your grocer for Bovril—in three forms—Cordial, Concentrate and Cubes.

So Nice To Come Home To on a rainy September evening . . . a meal made cheerful with HEINZ TOMATO PRODUCTS! Now is the time to buy the new pack for happy eating all Winter long. For every year at this time, thousands of pickers gather the rosy, vine-ripened harvest of Heinz Aristocrat tomatoes. For aluminum is friendly to food . . . the proof's in the eating! Aluminum protects the purity, the taste and good flavour of your food. What's more, it distributes heat evenly and quickly . . . therefore, economically. Light, durable, clean . . . aluminum cooking utensils are the first step to meals that will give you the reputation of being a good cook! She Found It Hard To Believe! Vivacious Lucille Ball of movie and radio fame thought she'd been giving her skin a thorough cleansing with her cleansing cream. Until she took the "Tissue Test" and found out that there is a difference in cleansing creams. Yes, she discovered that WOODBURY COLD CREAM floats out hidden dirt, even after a "thorough" cleansing. Why is it that Woodbury is so different? Because it contains Penaten, a new miracle ingredient that actually penetrates deeper into your pore openings . . . lets Woodbury's wonderful cleansing oils loosen every trace of grime and make-up. It's wonder-working Penaten, too, that helps Woodbury to smooth your skin more effectively. Buy a jar of Woodbury Cold Cream today—23c to 1.15.

When You Have That "Sad Gal" Feeling . . . or when hubby complains that he feels gosh-awful in the morning — you can take a harsh laxative that irritates your insides. But I think you'll like "my way" better—and I know your innards will prefer this healthful, natural regulator: Take the juice of a fresh lemon in a glass of water the first thing when you get up. See how quickly it alkalinizes your system so you feel GOOD again! So take my tip—if you're feeling low and grumpy — follow this healthful lemon formula for feeling better. And remember — always use SUNKIST CALIFORNIA LEMONS. You see, they're the finest, juiciest grown!

Roy Ward Dickson gets my vote as one of Canada's most 'up-and-comingest' radio personalities. I was listening to the 'Turnabout' program of Face-Elle tissue handkerchiefs the other night and the way he handles that quiz-show is an education—not to mention his uncanny spelling ability! FACE-ELLE should get a bouquet for providing such sparkling radio entertainment. What's more their product is every bit as good as the commercials claim it to be . . . You'll find it the softest tissue handkerchief you've ever used . . . more absorbent too! Yet the extra comfort of Face-Elle costs no more. Get a box today . . . and tune in TURNABOUT to learn how that box top may win you a small fortune!

That's true in other Specialty Food Shops all across the States, too. For Wagstaffe Pure Strawberry Jam is an "imported" delicacy down there. Can Dentocillin, The New Penicillin Tooth Powder, really help save your family's teeth as never before possible? I'm convinced it can. For, in a 2-year test among school children, Dentocillin reduced decay an average of 55%—5 times the reduction reported for a leading university's ammoniated formula. And that's not all. 3 out of 5 children using Dentocillin developed no new cavities whatsoever, in each individual year of the test! (On an average, cavities attack the teeth of children 6 to 18 years of age at the rate of almost one every year.) Doesn't your family deserve the benefits of Dentocillin? Tastes wonderful. Cleans teeth wonderfully. 75c for 3 months' supply. Why not get a bottle today?

Looking For A Light Snack? I'd suggest you try JACOB'S GOLDEN PUFF BISCUITS—the light, flaky pastry biscuits that are m-mmm, so-o good! Besides their use as patty shells, Jacob's Golden Puffs are so handy for those 'tween-meal snacks, because you can use your own favourite fillings—cheese, meat or fish. They're ready-to-serve as they come from the airtight carton, fluffy and flavourful. And it's no wonder they're so good, for they're made of finest, softest English wheat flour, as are those famous Jacob's Lemon Puff Biscuits. And remember — when you're buying Jacob's Biscuits . . . there's a century of biscuit-baking experience behind them!

Play A Trick On "Father Time" by looking younger than you are! No dieting or strenuous exercising necessary when you do it the pleasant way . . . by hiding grey hair with wonderful NESTLE COLORTINT! TAKE THESE PREVENTIVE measures when closing up a summer cottage and save expensive damage.

Seal Your Summer Cottage Against Animal Visitors

Summer's over, and before you lock up the cottage and call it a season, you'd better do a little thinking about keeping out winter visitors.

We mean the four-footed variety of visitor in this case, and they're something to think about right now in your year-round home, too, particularly if you've left it empty for part of the summer. Rodents like to do their visiting when it comes fall and they're looking for a cozy place to set up housekeeping at your expense.

Toughest Problem

Rats are the toughest problem. They'll sneak in through the slightest nooks and crannies in foundations, doorways, outside cellar entrances, pipe openings and other breaks in the structure of a house. It doesn't matter how small the opening is, because rats will gnaw right through anything but concrete, stone or metal if there's a place to start.

Wherever you find places a rat might use as a starter for his unwelcome entrance, seal it off. Breaks in the foundation should be patched with concrete. Openings at ground level should be covered with a heavy mesh wire screen.

Corners of outside doors, particularly when they're near the ground, should be covered with metal flashing. Make sure cellar drains are tigth-fitting and unbroken; otherwise they're a welcome mat for rats.

Fieldstone foundations, which still support a lot of good old houses, often make a cellar open-sesame for rats. So do unexcavated spots under wings and bays when the foundation wall doesn't seal them off. In such cases, you have a choice of digging trenches around the outside of the foundation so you can put in a layer of heavy rustproof screening, or doing the same thing inside, using the screening as a lath for an interior concrete finish.

Rats A Nasty Enemy

This sounds like a lot of work, and it is, but rats are a nasty enemy. Once they're in, they are apt to work their way upstairs through the walls. They do insidious damage, and since they attack viciously when cornered and carry diseases, are something the householder doesn't want to meet if he can help it.

If you find evidence of rats, don't play around with half-hearted measures getting rid of them. Modern rat poisons are sure-fire. But even though we believe in doing things around the house for ourselves whenever we can, we think it's a lot smarter to call in a reputable exterminator to play the Pied Piper act. He's licensed to handle the most potent poisons, and once he has the rats under control, you can take the proper steps to keep them out yourself.

We've known intelligent cats and brave dogs to shy away from rats. Mice, however, are a different problem. Traps, various forms of poison bait harmless to everything but mice, and the family cat ought to handle this pest. And one comforting thing about having a few mice around is that you can be sure there aren't any rats. The mice are too smart to play in that company.

Peel County To Vote On Temperance Act

BRAMPTON, Sept. 27—(CP)—Peel County votes Nov. 26 on whether to replace the Canada Temperance Act with the Ontario Liquor Control Act. The vote will be the second in four years.

It was ordered Wednesday night by a federal order-in-council as a result of a petition signed by 9,782 voters asking repeal of the CTA which has been in force in Peel since 1914.

The CTA forbids selling beer or liquor in Peel, a county northwest of Toronto, and in the counties of Perth and Huron in Western Ontario. However, it permits an express agent or other common carrier to bring liquor into the county, permits drinking in the streets and other public places and does not prohibit juvenile drinking.

Broda Will Not Try Provincial Politics

TORONTO, Sept. 27 — (CP) — Goaltender Turk Broda of Toronto Maple Leafs may not run for an Ontario Legislature seat, after all.

He indicated Wednesday night that he is withdrawing as a prospective candidate for the Progressive Conservative Party in York West. Previously he had said he would stand for nomination at a convention Oct. 4.

Shortly before Broda made his statement last night, Mrs. Jack P. Allen, 56-year-old wife of the former Progressive Conservative member, announced she will stand for the nomination in place of her husband. She said her husband is dropping out "because there are to many personalities involved in this year's race for the nomination."

Accidental Shooting

NYMPSFIELD, England (CP). —Resting in a field in this Gloucestershire district, David Heaney, 15, tied a white handkerchief on his head. He was shot dead by a hunter who said he mistook the boy for a badger. A coroner's jury returned an "accidental death" verdict.

500,000 Children In US Program In W. Germany

By DON DOANE

FRANKFURT, Sept. 27 (AP)—The United States army's German youth activities program has reached 500,000 German youngsters with play-taught lessons in democracy.

The Americans who sponsor the program are convinced it has reached many German adults too.

"There are signs of growing interest among adult Germans in organized democratic activities for their youth," said Mrs. Jouett Shouse of Washington, DC, after a tour of GYA centres.

Mrs. Shouse is head of the General Clay fund for German youth activities.

"Voluntary contributions by Germans are steadily increasing," Mrs. Shouse said.

Suspicions Fade

In the program's infancy some Germans were suspicious the Americans were trying to "Americanize" their youngsters.

"But this suspicion has steadily faded," said Lt.-Col. Robert Norman, who oversees the program.

"We found a simple cure. We simply invited the parents intn our centres to see for themselves we are just trying to teach them democracy."

When the American occupation goes it will take with it many of the things that have made the program possible—including funds.

Already the program has taken a severe financial rap. The US high commission donates 4,600,000 marks ($1,094,800) a year. The US army used to contribute nearly as much by providing buildings and equipment.

The army this year dropped the aid because of German complaints about high occupation costs.

This forced closing of 121 out of the 247 community centres.

But out of the money crisis grew the most hopeful sign for the future. Germans stepped in and took over 58 of the abandoned centres themselves and continued to operate them.

Eisenhower Could Win Election For Sure

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 27 — (AP)—The men who run America's leading newspapers took a quick look at the 1952 presidential election Wednesday, and in an Associated Press Managing Editors Association poll picked:

1. President Truman to win the Democratic nomination again next year.

2. Senator Robert Tart, of Ohio, to capture the Republican nomination.

3. But Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, if he became the standard bearer of either party, could defeat either Truman or Taft.

Good Honey Crop

SHELBURNE, Ont., Sept. 27—(CP)—The 1951 Ontario honey crop, just starting to appear on grocers' shelves, promises to be the best in 10 years. But Arthur McConnell, Shelburne district apiarist and a past director of the Ontario Beekeepers' Association, said the crop in Western Canada is down by 40 per cent. As a result, he doubts that the Ontario increase will bring available supplies up to consumer demand.

Poor Apple Market

ST. THOMAS, Sept. 27—(CP)—Apple growers Wednesday expressed concern at what they said would be poor markets for McIntosh Reds, as the harvest, one of the largest in many years, got under way. W. H. Mills, of Sparta, Ont., largest fruit grower in the district, said crops of Northern Spies, Greenings and Baldwins also will be large, with fruit clean and of good size.

Vegetable Freaks

FORT QU'APPELLE, Sask. — (CP) — R. T. Harwood found "Siamese twins" and triplets in his garden here. They are unusual growths of cucumber plants.

US Sheds Obligations To Czech Gov't

GENEVA, Sept. 27 (AP) — The United States formally asked to be relieved today of all its trade and tariff obligations to Czechoslovakia. It said relations between the two governments had fallen below "a mimimum degree of mutual tolerance and respect."

Willard Thorp, US assistant secretary of state for economic affairs, presented the US case to the 30 contracting parties to the general agreement on tariffs and trade after Czechoslovakia delegate Arnost Tauber had failed to have the US proposal stricken from the agenda.

The US action follows a series of Czechoslovak actions against the United States, including the trial and imprisonment of Associated Press correspondent William N. Oatis on charges of spying.

UK Clergymen To Visit

SARNIA, Sept. 27 — (CP) — Arrangements have been made to bring six Church of England clergymen from Britain to parishes in Huron diocese, it was disclosed Wednesday by Rt. Rev. G. N. Luxton, Bishop of Huron. He was speaking at the first conference of the newly-created Archdeaconry of Lambton.

Winnings Not Taxable

WINNIPEG, Sept. 27—(CP)—An income tax appeal board sitting here Wednesday ruled money won by a Winnipeg resaurant owner in July, 1946, was not taxable income. His appeal was upheld against a tax ruling. John DiCosimo, who claimed to have won more than $16,000 gambling profits in two consecutive nights, carried the appeal to the board.

Times Suggests Abandon Tour

LONDON, Sept. 27 (Reuters)—The Times suggests editorially today that the Royal tour of Canada might be better abandoned altogether for the time being rather than postponed.

"The Canadian winter is coming. So also is the general election in the United Kingdom," says the paper.

"During the very busy time, and probably for months afterwards, it will be important to relieve the King of every public responsibility which can constitutionally be delegated.

"The delegates named by the law are five counsellors of state, the first of them the Queen, who should also be spared most of her public duties in order to devote herself entirely to the care of her husband.

"The second is Princess Elizabeth and she is the right and proper person to interpret between her disabled father and his ministers and people in this country.

"In the present circumstances the tour could be a mockery of the joyful celebrations which it was planned to be. If it has to be abandoned . . . there can be no doubt that Canadians will understand."

Annual Convention

MONTREAL, Sept. 27 (CP).—Annual convention of the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers Union will be held in Toronto October 11-14, the union announced here Wednesday. The union claims a membership of 27,000 in Canada.

Men's Press Club

HAMILTON, Sept. 27—(CP)—Initial steps in the formation of a Hamilton men's press club were taken Wednesday. Some 30 reporters for newspapers and radio, news photographers and public relation officials attended an organizational meeting.

Yvonne DeCarlo Big Hit With Israelites

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 27 (AP)—Sultry Vancouver-born Yvonne DeCarlo, who has slithered through many an exotic epic, has returned from the Near East with a new respect for such films. She found the folks love 'em over there.

Miss DeCarlo, first film star to perform in Israel, reported she played to riotous audiences there. Before her trip, she was not very fond of the "Arabian Nights" type of film she has often appeared in.

"But I was amazed at how much the people liked those pictures," she remarked. "I talked to many natives—cab drivers, hair dressers, hotel clerks—who said they had seen "Scheherazade" four and five times. And they seemed to have like 'Cashbah,' too, although I don't know why."

Eddie Cantor, Jascha Heifez and Leonard Bernstein have appeared in Israel, But Miss DeCarlo was the first film personality to entertain in the new country.

"It would have happened to any film performer playing there," she said modestly. "At every performance, there were civilian and military policemen to hold back the crowds.

"My biggest worry was getting into the theatre. The people individually were very respectful, but you know what mobs can do. I was never certain of getting out alive."

Miss DeCarlo is about the travelingest actress around, whenever she isn't busy on the movie stages, she is packing up for some faraway spot. Of all the countries she has visited, she likes Spain best.

The only drawback to Spain she added, was the fans—"Sometimes you find a crowd a block long following you."

Paris is another matter—"They don't care about celebrities there; they are too busy enjoying life." She feels best in England, since it's like her native Vancouver.

Baron Charges Dismissal Political Reasons

TORONTO, Sept. 27 (CP)—Sam Baron, of Hamilton, former Canadian director of the Textile Workers' Union of America (CIO - CCL), said Wednesday John Logan, member of the union's administrative staff at Hamilton, had been discharged Sept. 22 for "political reasons."

Baron, storm centre of an internal fight that split the Canadian Congress of Labor leadership at its Vancouver convention last week, said Logan's dismissal came after he had supported Baron in an unsuccessful attempt by the Canadian director to retain his post on the CCL executive.

Baron said Logan, on the Hamilton staff for five years, was dismissed by J. Harold D'Aoust, Baron's successor as director, who opposed him for a seat on the congress executive. D'Aoust also was defeated.

The former director said Logan's discharge was the result of his opposition to TWUA administration policy at the convention, though the official reason was that he had attended the convention without permission. He said the usual convention practice was for all staff members to attend unless asked not to do so by the director. Logan had not been so requested.

Baron himself was fired last March by his international president, Emil Rieve, of New York, in an internal TWUA dispute.

"I'm 5 feet 4, weigh 125 pounds—apparently that's about average. Yet I can't find a suit or coat that fits me. If it fits up here, it's wrong down there. Or vice versa. Have the fashion experts forgotten about me—or do I need redesigning?

"NO!" says Lou Larry, one of Canada's foremost fashion authorities.

Queen's Carpet Raises $104,350

TORONTO, Sept. 27 — (CP) — Queen Mary's carpet raised $104,350, the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire announced on Wednesday.

Mrs. John H. Chipman, MBE, national president, said the money was cabled Wednesday to the British Carpet Committee in Great Britain. Any further donations to the IODE for the carpet fund will also be forwarded.

The carpet was donated to the nation by Queen Mary to be sold in either the United States or Canada to raise dollars for Britain. The IODE was given custody of the carpet when it bid to raise a fund of a minimum of $100,000 to buy the carpet for Canada. It will hang in the National Gallery at Ottawa.

The IODE exhibited the needlepoint carpet in 65 Canadian cities and towns for 25-cent and 10-cent admission fees.

Considerate Husband Plans Vacation For His Wife

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a girl of 19, have been married five years and have a daughter 3 years old. I love my husband very much, but I have been away from home over a year now and would like to go back for a visit. My home is 900 miles away, but my husband won't let me go. He says he can't get along without me and can't bear to be away from the baby. Am I being selfish in wanting to see my family? My mother and father are getting old.

Dorothy Dix

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Having assumed the duties of wife and mother at such a very tender age, and fulfilling them so competently, you certainly deserve an occasional visit to your parents. Your husband's devotion and dependence on you are understandable, but he should give you a little consideration, too.

Avoid A Quarrel

If, however, he should remain adamant in his refusal to give you this brief vacation, there's nothing to do but give it up. If you won your visit home at the expense of a serious quarrel, you wouldn't enjoy yourself and all the good would be gone from the vacation. Your husband practically robbed the cradle in marrying you, and in view of your tender years, he should appreciate the fact that home ties are stronger with you than they might be if you had married older. Giving in on this point would create no hardship for him, and I do hope you can make him see how unfair he is in demanding everything for himself and granting you nothing.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I have met a man ten years my junior, and recently I begged him to forget me because of the difference in age. He is 23 and is very much in love with me. He says he doesn't care how old I am. He asked me to marry him as soon as he gets leave from camp. I do love him too, but I'm afraid our age difference may cause later embarrassment.

Emotional Security In Home Essential of Future Life

MILLBROOK, Sept. 27 (ENS)—The Women's Institute of East Durham met in the council chamber of Millbrook town hall on Tuesday afternoon. There were members present from the institutes of Bethany, Cavan, Baillieboro, Garden Hill and Morrish and Millbrook.

Mrs. W. H. Armstrong, district president was in the chair and introduced the speaker, Miss Irene McBride of the department of agriculture. Miss McBride chose as her topic "What we call human nature." She stressed the point that people either advance mentally or go backwards, that there was no such thing as standing still. "Either people continued to improve their minds, or their minds deteriorated," she said.

Miss McBride told of the International Congress of Human Health held in England where the necessity of emotional security in the home was discussed. This was necessary so that children after they had left home would have learned how to get along with other people. This emotional security may be attained by giving each child something to do, some responsibility in the upkeep of the home, so that he feels he is a necessary part of the family.

Children should be taken into the confidence of the parents, and family discussions should be held. The parents' attitude towards problems, helps the child to know how to face his own problems when they arise. By encouraging them to share their problems, solutions can often be reached before the dificulties become really serious ones, the speaker said.

To attain this emotional security it is necessary Miss McBride advised, for small children to know that they are loved. Older people need a religious faith to turn to, or they feel insecure. A child must feel that he is adequate to meet the situations with which he is confronted. It is wise to give him easy tasks at first, and when he is successful to praise his efforts.

Emotions sometimes control people rather than people controlling their emotions. Physical conditions often affect the emotions. It was wise to develop skills, because this leads to the feeling of adequacy; the more desirable emotions should be practiced. Good humor should be cultivated. It was necessary for people not to take themselves too seriously.

As physical conditions affect mental ones, so emotional conditions affect physical ones. The people who break mentally are those who have a greater burden placed on them than their resistance can take.

Miss McBride said that with all the help that can be given by others finally each individual has to face his own difficulty.

At the conclusion of her address Miss McBride passed around a quiz to find out what the women present thought about how those with mental or emotional disorders should be handled.

Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

State Workshops Make 'Fascinating' Hungary's Women

LONDON, Sept. 27 (Reuters)—In shimmering new creations from state workshops, Hungary's proletarian women will "fascinate" the men who hammer out the five-year-plan targets of the Communist states, the Budapest radio claims.

The radio, reviewing a fashion parade of creations from the state fashion centre, claimed that models displayed gave the lie to capitalist assertions that east European women wear "poorly cut, drab, uniform clothes."

There's scarcely any private dressmaking left in Hungary. The state centre, organized on the lines of Moscow's House of Models, produces designs for mass-production and sales throughout the country.

The fashion expert of Budapest radio said the striking features of the show were large collars on frocks and coats, pencil skirts and raglan sleeves. Greens and blues were the popular colors, with velvet the favorite fabric.

Low heels are out of fashion. Popular sandal-type shoes have high heels, but the peep-toe is barred.

In headgear, small hats or head-hugging caps are the order of the day.

The commentator said the Centre aimed to provide Hungarian working women with "a rich choice of new and comfortable clothes—all within the reach of their purses."

He quoted no prices.

Magee-Miller

A fall wedding of local interest was solemnized at St. Paul's Anglican Church, Lindsay, by the Rev. H. Hesketh, of Rose Irene Miller, youngest daughter of Mr. William Miller and the late Mrs. Miller, formerly of Lindsay, to Dalton Earl Magee, only son of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Magee, Omemee.

The bride was attired in a navy crepe dress, small white feather hat and wore a corsage of red roses and white 'mums.

Miss Florence Carscadden was bridesmaid dressed in navy crepe with corsage of pink roses. Mr. Lloyd Hawkins of Sonya was his cousin's best man.

The bridal party drove to "Pinegrove," RR 2, Omemee, home of the groom's parents, where his mother, wearing turquoise crepe with yellow corsage received. A dainty buffet luncheon was served to some fifty guests, including friends and relatives from Toronto, Lindsay, Peterborough, Orono, Downeyville, Little Britain and Mount Pleasant.

The bride and groom left on a motor trip through south-eastern Ontario, the bride travelling in a grey suit with a coral shortie coat and black accessories.

Grace Church WA First To Hold Fall Tea, Bazaar

Young, alert and eager to work is the Women's Association of Grace United Church. The women in the south section of the city are building up a fine organization which will, along with its other work, contribute toward the building of a new church.

The first to hold a fall tea and bazaar, on Wednesday afternoon, they were rewarded with a good attendance. Their home baking table was, of course, well patronized, and the bazaar tables also did well. There was a variety of knitted goods offered for sale, cotton print aprons and household novelties. Greeting cards and stationery were also displayed.

First of the autumn leaves, their green changed to golden brown, were used to decorate the basement tea room. The tea table was centred with an unusual bouquet — admirably suited to the season, of celosia in deep rust and bright gold color. It was flanked with yellow tapers.

Mrs. J. B. Jackson convened the tea room. The tea pourers were Mrs. M. Ebbett and Mrs. N. Beasley and the servers were Mrs. A. Tripp, Mrs. D. Montgomery, Mrs. W. Gerow, Mrs. K. Mills, Mrs. C. Gilbank and Mrs. J. Wasik.

Plates were replenished by Mrs. E. Ireland, the tea pots by Mrs. J. Bailey, and the cups and saucers by Mrs. A. Partington, Mrs. R. Wright, Mrs. H. Glover and Mrs. B. Gash.

President Mrs. G. Close received at the door and Mrs. W. Harrison was taking tickets.

Salesladies at the home baking table were Mrs. K. McKinstry, Mrs. G. Frederick and Mrs. H. Corner. At the bazaar table Mrs. J. Syvertsen, Mrs. B. Thompson and Mrs. R. Salmon and Mrs. W. McNutt was selling cards.

Garnet Graham Marries Timmins Girl

LAKEFIELD, Sept. 27 (ENS).—Timmins First United Church was the scene for a beautiful double ring ceremony which united in marriage Jean Allan Smith, daughter of Mrs. H. M. Powell, Timmins, and Beverly Garnet Graham, son of Mrs. Clara Graham and the late Mr. Graham, of Lakefield. The Rev. A. P. Addison officiated.

The church was beautifully decorated with baskets of gladioli, sweet peas in lovely autumn colors. The wedding music was played by Miss Sue Medows. Before the ceremony Mrs. J. W. Howie sang "The Lord's Prayer" and during the signing of the register "Because."

The bride wore a white strapless gown of chantilly lace with net overskirt, and a matching lace bolero. Her fingertip veil was of embroidered net caught to a lace bonnet. She carried a cascade of white and red gladioli. Wedding attendants were Mrs. Theodore Graham of Lakefield and Mrs. C. E. Hartling, sisters of the bride. They were similarly frocked in gowns of ice blue and coral pink organdy with off the shoulder necklines and full skirts. They wore large picture hats of chantilly lace and carried baskets of sweet peas in pastel shades. Karen and Jeanne Graham, nieces of the bride and groom were the flower girls. The little girls are daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Theo Graham, Lakefield. Karen wore a mauve dress with hooped velvet skirt and lace top with black sash, and Jeanne's dress similarly styled in yellow. They wore matching bonnets and mittens and carried baskets of summer flowers.

Groomsman was Mr. Theodore (Red) Graham of Lakefield, brother of the groom. Ushers were Allan Graham of Lakefield, the groom's brother, and Robert Smith of Cochrane, brother of the bride.

After the ceremony a luncheon for 65 guests was held at the Legion Memorial Hall where the bride's mother received in a gown of grey faille with navy accessories and corsage of red roses. The groom's mother, who also received, wore a gown of wine crepe with black accessories and corsage of yellow roses.

The bride and groom were piped out of the church by pipers Fred Graham and J. McLellan. In the evening a reception and dance were held for 200 guests.

Later the bride and groom left for a trip to Buffalo and Toronto. Travelling the bride wore a dress of rust velveteen with hunter green accessories. They will live at Lakefield.

St. James' WMS Banquets CGIT

An enjoyable Mother and Daughter banquet was held Tuesday evening in the junior room of St. James' United Church Sunday school.

Mothers of the Baby Band assisted in the arranging and setting of the tables. Girls of the CGIT groups served.

Mrs. G. Hewitt, WMS president, had charge of the program following supper. She extended a warm welcome to Mrs. N. McCormack. In her reply, Mrs. McCormack stressed the value of the Christian training received by girls.

Miss Betty Piercy, leader of the Explorer Group, spoke briefly, and the purpose was recited by four girls of the group. Mrs. Clysdale talked on the activities of the senior CGIT group.

Miss Jessie Martin invited girls to join the Junior Mission Circle.

The chorus of "Mother Macree" was sung as a toast to the mothers and "We Love Our Lassies," a tribute to the daughters.

20% In School Have Mothers Work Full Time

CALGARY—(CP)—About 20 per cent of the children attending elementary grades in Calgary Public schools have mothers who are employed in full-time occupations outside the home.

The information was gathered in a survey of public schools involving 2,276 children in grades one to seven.

Hiram F. Coulter, assistant superintendent of the Children's Aid department, said "I am opposed to mothers working, but the economic situation today is forcing them to do so."

The survey showed that in one section of the city nearly 60 per cent of the mothers were working.

The situation was similar in both new and old sections of the city.

Principals of schools in new sections expressed the opinion that mothers were working to aid in the payment for new homes and all the necessary articles to make a home complete.

In the older districts mothers felt the need to work to keep up with the present strain on their husband's pay-checks.

The concensus was that in most work through economic circumstances and that little could be done about it.

Presbyterian WMS Told Literature Powerful Weapon

REGINA, Sept. 27 (CP).—The importance of using Christian literature to combat Communism was stressed in reports given at the Dominion Council meeting here of the Presbyterian Women's Missionary Society.

The reports were given by Louise Reith, literature secretary, and Mrs. Arthur Cherry, Christian literature secretary, both of Toronto.

Time after time, said Mrs. Cherry, Communism has demonstrated in the subjugated countries the power of the written word. Christian literature must be the means of turning this same medium into the most powerful weapon of anti-Communism.

Dealing with literature going to South America, one of the reports stated that without the steadying influence of Christian literature going to that continent it would be Communist today.

Distribution of Bibles in Korea and Japan had done much to foster Christianity in those countries. A publication entitled "Christian Home" was receiving enthusiastic following in India.

Miss Reith introduced the study material for the WMS for the current year. Each year a concentrated study of some particular phase of missions is undertaken. This year it will be South America.

Miss Reith is author of a book written for use in Presbyterian groups on this subject. It is entitled "Meet the South Americans." It presents the challenge of that continent's needs for "strong evangelical witness." Particular attention is also paid to British Guiana where the Presbyterian Church supports missionary work.

Mrs. Cherry said the Presbyterian Women's Missionary Society spends approximately $10,000 annually to assist in this missionary work.

The books and magazines are sent out by the committee for world literacy and Christian literature, the organization which co-ordinates this work.

Educated Women Help Society

TORONTO, Sept. 27. (CP)—Is it a waste of time, effort and money for women to go to university?

"Stupid and ridiculous!" Dr. Sidney Smith of the University of Toronto snorted Wednesday.

He told students as classes started that "better educated husbands and wives, fathers and mothers, will make for a better society."

"It is the task of universities," he said, "to help women develop themselves to take their place in our complex society."

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Fruit And Nut Cakes Make Packing Lunches Easier

Carrying on—as I always seem to be—about nourishing our small fry better, this is a piece on cakes—cakes with interesting things in them. Cakes too, that may be sliced a little thinnner than retgular butter cakes, because they are firmer-textured and keep longer.

What is more, these cakes are ideal for the mother who has lunches to pack for children and for Dad—and slices neatly for her afternoon tea tray. If your neighbors and friends bring their three-year-olds to your place for tea as mine do (bless them) you may be thankful for something that does not leave a trail of crumbs across your broadloom rug, after tea is over and they have gone home.

Unfrosted White Nut Cake

One-half cup shortening (half butter or margarine and half good quality shortening), 1 cup sugar, 2 cups sifted cake flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, ½ cup water, ¼ cup milk, ½ teaspoon vanilla, ½ teaspoon almond flavoring, 2-3 cup chopped nuts—walnuts, peanuts, almonds or brazils, 4 egg whites. Cream the shortening until it is soft and creamy, then gradually add the sugar while beating hard, of course using electric beater if you have it. Sift together the sifted flour, baking powder and salt. Add the flour mixture alternately to the butter mixture with the milk and flavoring mixed together. Stir in the nuts. Beat the whites until stiff and fold them in. Bake in greased and paper-lined loaf pan at 350 deg. Fahr. for 55 to 60 minutes. This cake is better when 24 hours old and requires no frosting.

New Cherry Cake

Shortening must be soft—softer than room temperature makes it—for this cake , so warm the earthenware mixing bowl in the oven which is preheating to 350 deg. Fahr. Put 2-3 cup shortening in the warm bowl and break it up so that it softens enough to beat. Sift together over the soft shortening 3 cups sifted cake flour, 1¾ cups sugar, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt. Add 1-3 cup juice from the maraschino cherries you are going to add and 2-3 cup milk, and ¼ or 1-3 cup cut up maraschino cherries—about 15 or 20. Now beat this whole business for 2 minutes hard—preferably under the electric beater at low speed. Stop beating and add 5 unbeaten egg whites (these should measure 2-3 cup and require large eggs). Now beat hard again for at least 2 minutes if beater is used—if done by hand 2½ minutes are better. Pour into loaf or oblong pans previously buttered and paper-lined. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 35 to 40 minutes. This is beautiful if frosted with boiled frosting tinted pink, and decorated with cherries cut in quarters and used as flower petals.

Two-Week Fruit Cakes

(That means it is better not to keep this cake longer than two weeks—personally I can't imagine a house where it would last that long.) Two-thirds cup butter or shortening, ¾ cup sugar, 3 eggs, grated rind from 1 each small orange and lemon, 2 cups sifted bread flour, ½ teaspoon each baking soda and salt, one-half lb. mixed glaceed fruits (peel and cherries, etc.), 1 cup washed and dried sultana raisins, steamed for 5 minutes, 1 cup dried chopped apricots steamed 5 minutes, 1 cup coarsely chopped walnuts or pecans. Cream butter, well cream in the sugar, then beat in 1 egg at a time. Cream all very well. Add orange and lemon rinds. Sift the dry ingredients a[illegible] add half of them. Add the co[illegible] fruits and nuts and stir well with wooden spoon. Add remaining dry ingredients. Bake in greased and paper-lined large loaf pan at 325 deg. Fahr. for 2 hours, then increase heat for a few minutes to give top an attractive gold appearance. Let stand 30 minutes before attempting to turn over on cake rack to remove from pan. This should not be cut for 2 days. Store in air-tight container.

Patricias Adopt Colonel's Girl

WITH CANADIANS IN KOREA—(CP)—Baby Victoria Patricia Stone has 50 new "fathers"—all in Korea.

The new daughter of Lt.-Col. (Big Jim) Stone of Edmonton, officer commanding the 2nd battalion, Princess Patricia's Canadian light infantry, was "adopted" recently by the warrant officers and sergeants of the regiment.

RMS. Les Grimes of Edmonton, acting for the others, presented a baby's silver porridge set to Lt.-Col. Stone to be sent on to Victoria Patricia back home.

In a brief speech he said the battalion had been given two honor: "The unit citation from the President of the United States and the birth of Victoria Patricia."

Born July 25, baby Victoria Patricia was named for the regiment, whose Colonel-in-Chief is the former Princess Patricia, daughter of the Duke of Connaught who was Governor General of Canada when the regiment was formed during the First World War. She is now Lady Patricia Ramsay.

What's Right?

MOIST HOMES

Because the district is very marshy, many of the inhabitants of Palembang in Sumatra live on rafts.

BLACK VELVETEEN fashions a bell-hop jacket with a keyhole neckline. The slim skirt with slight fullness at the hipline is in the same fabric.

Dorothy Dix:

ANSWER: Yours is a borderline case that, from an age standpoint alone, may or may not work out. If a woman is just a few years older than a man, I have no hesitancy in advising them to forget the age difference; if the disparity is very great, from either angle, a successful marriage is unlikely. So much depends upon the maturity of you both, especially your young man.

If you are both of exceptional character, ready to cope with all the difficulties that will unquestionably mark your life, go ahead! But consider the problems carefully before you do. You already realized that you'll encounter embarrassing moments which at first may be passed off as "kidding," but later will be just plain annoying. When your husband is 33, you'll be entering middle age, and unless his love for you is very great, that's when he'll begin to appraise younger women with resultant comparisons that will not be favorable to you. Weighing the respective merits of both sides of the question, I would advise against the marriage, but the final decision is, of course, up to you.

DEAR MISS DIX: Is it possible for a person to believe in God, honestly feel that he is saved and still enjoy seeing good, clean, funny shows?

P. T.

ANSWER: This, of course, can be a very controversial question since some religious groups consider all such forms of entertainment sinful. If you belong to such a group, you will, of course, abstain from shows.

If you are asking the question from a purely academic standpoint, I do not believe there is anythipg wrong in clean shows—or any other form of harmless entertainment. Make sure you comply with yur religious duties such as attendance at church, obedience to the commandments of both God and church, and you should be free to enjoy any entertainment presented under the proper auspices and conditions.

Widow, Children Awarded $16,600

KITCHENER, Sept. 27 (CP)—An award of $16,600 was made today to the widow and two children of Clifford Huehn, 41, of Heidelberg, who was killed in a highway crash about a mile west of that village on Nov. 8, 1947.

It was the end of a damage action in which Harry Koehler, Heidelberg, executor of the Huehn estate, sued William A. Stewart, Waterloo, contractor, and the driver of his truck, Walter R. Ziegler, Waterloo.

James Mason, Heidelberg, who suffered back injuries in the crash was awarded $627.

The jury found that the Stewart motor truck was in possession of Ziegler with Stewart's consent at the time of the fatality.

They also found that Ziegler's negligence was 100 per cent contributory to the accident.

The $16,600 judgment includes $1,000 for Huehn's son Gerald and $950 for his daughter Karen plus $250 for funeral.

Judgment was directed with costs by his lordship.

TV May Play Part In Election Of British House

LONDON, Sept. 27 — (CP) — Tattle tale television may play a part in next month's general election — if British politicians aren't too bashful.

There is approximately one set for every 50 persons in the country and space is available for the major parties, but the legislators are taking their time. Apparently appearing on television is somewhat more subtle than kissing babies or placing cornerstones.

Neither the Labor party nor the Conservatives have given any indication whether they intend to use the new medium in a bid for political power.

Some Passed

Some members of parliament have tried television and passed the test. Two of the most popular are thin-faced, acid-tongued Michael Foot, Labor left-winger who is one of ex-minister Aneurin Bevan's strongest supporters, and jovial Scotsman Robert Boothby, a Conservative.

They appear regularly in a round-table discussion of controversial political subjects called "In the News."

But this program has been shelved for the period of the election campaign and there's no sign yet that electioneering broadcasts will be scheduled.

If and when the parties decide to take a chance on TV, the Conservatives appear to hold a strong hand. They have Dr. Charles Hill, who was an outstanding success in radio broadcasts before the 1950 election; Deputy Leader Anthony Eden, who recently made a successful television appearance after his return from a trip to Canada and the United States; and Conservative leader Winston Churchill, cigar and all.

Photogenic

On the distaff side the best bet probably would be Lady Tweedsmuir, long regarded as one of the most photogenic members of the House of Commons.

Labor could counter Lady Tweedsmuir with Dr. Edith Summerskill, a tall, statuesque redhead with a definite fashion consciousness and plenty of poise.

Foot and Christopher Mayhew could also carry Labor colors creditably. Mayhew, once junior minister to the late Ernest Bevin, has made a reputation in television programs dealing with foreign affairs.

Willshaw, Hamilton High Bowling Scorers

Robert Willshaw and Gladys Hamilton swept the high single honors this week in the Mercantile bowling league. Willshaw rolled a 361 while Miss Hamilton scored a 279.

High pinnage honors went to Crowes with a high of 2828, helped by Betty Crowe's three total of 631 and Fudge Ronco's three-game total of 604. Miss Crowe's 631 won high three honors for the women while Bob Willshaw, besides the high single, won the high three, 671.

Other good scores were: Verna Hopkins, 245; Kay Curtain, 240, Elsie Penrose 234, Harold Mesley 267, Clare McGillen 244, Charles O'Shea 231.

1,000 Men Start GE Stocktaking

Production at Canadian General Electric Company is suspended Friday for the annual chore of stocktaking.

Some 80,000 items are to be counted, weighed, tagged and otherwise recorded.

"It is required by law, for the protection of the shareholders," according to information from Frank Buckland who is in charge of this review of inventory.

"Supposing the financial statement of the company shows several million dollars in such materials, as shown in the inventory. We have to prove that this value is actually there. So we have to provide the answer to the question: does the stock balance with what the ledgers show?"

One thousand men will tackle the job Friday. It way be finished by the end of the day; if not, it carries over into Saturday. Mr. Buckland is supervisor of the orders and stores.

This stocktaking used to be a responsibility of the accountancy staff. Thomas Glover is works accountant.

There has to be a listing of all material, but not plant equipment. It includes stock in stores, raw materials, finished parts, work in progress. To the layman it sounds like an impossible job, but it yields readily to experienced and planned approach.

The company's auditors are primarily concerned in this annual end-of-September store-keeping detail, and they have to be satisfied that the inventory is correct.

Beer Brewing Remains Art

DETROIT, Sept. 27 (AP) — Scientific developments have helped but the brewing of fine beer is primarily an art.

Even the true scientists among 1,100 master brewers at a convention here agree on that.

"It's both an art and a science, and the art definitely comes first," said Edward W. Huber of Milwaukee, president of the Master Brewers' Association of America.

"You hear a lot of talk about a formula for beer," chimed in F. N. Ward of Toronto. "But basically there is no such thing as an absolute formula."

Ward is scheduled to succeed Huber, and if he does he will become the first Canadian to lead the group.

What is the art of beer-making?

"It's the ability to make fine beer from natural materials," said Ward. But he quickly added that there can be no good definition for it any more than there is for a famous chef's favorite sauce.

New Legion Hall Near Completion

MILLBROOK, Sept. 27 (ENS)—The new Legion hall which is being built by members of the Legion Branch No. 402 on Distillery Street is nearing completion. The hall is situated down the hill from the school, not far from the mill and the new Memorial Arena.

The hall, which is of cement block construction, measures 25 feet by 50 feet. All the work done on it except for the laying of the cement blocks by a contractor, has been done by volunteer labor.

On Saturday, the roof boards were placed, and on Monday one half of the roof was covered with aluminum roofing. Work on the other half was being proceeded with on Tuesday.

The work has been under the direction of J. T. Deyell, chairman of the building committee, assisted by Jim Godfrey, Bill Walker and Alan Earle.

Walter Challice and Basil Richards, this year's president and secretary, have also been very active.

It was four years ago that the idea of building a new hall was first conceived. Most of the money for the building fund was raised from the proceeds of the annual sports day sponsored by the Legion each July 1.

The Women's Auxiliary under the direction of their presiednt and secretary, Mrs. E. C. Richards and Mrs. David Lunn, have also helped to raise money for the project.

The old hall, which stood just across the tracks from the CNR station, has been torn down. Whatever parts of it were suitable have been used in the construction of the new hall.

10 Per Cent More Tourists Take Holidays In Canada

By The Canadian Press

By train, motor coach or airplane—but mostly by automobile—tourists streamed into Canada in unprecedented numbers this summer.

A Canadian Press survey today showed that the biggest increase was in Manitoba which reported 70 per cent more visitors than last year. The Dominion Tourist Bureau in Ottawa said the average increase across Canada was about 10 per cent.

Figures showing the percentage of United States citizens among tourists entering Canada this year have not yet been compiled but last year the figure was about 90 per cent. In that year, more than 4,500,000 American citizens put $280,000,000 into Canadian pockets.

Forests and Lakes

Biggest attractions were Canada's forest-and lake-studded vacationlands to which thousands came to swim, fish or sun themselves on beaches. Other attractions ranged from scenic tours in the Maritimes and British Columbia to historic sites in Ontario and Quebec.

The number of tourists who ranged the picturesque coastline highways of the Maritimes was up about 12 per cent from last year. The trend was expected to continue through the fall with moose and deer-hunting the object of most of the visitors.

In Quebec, tourist bureau officials reported only a 5.8-per-cent increase in vacationists but they predicted an eight-per-cent increase for the year because of an expected fall influx.

More than 1,000,000 tourists' automobiles had entered Ontario by Sept. 1 of this year—an increase over last year of about 16 per cent. Some visitors lingered in the cities but most headed for the great outdoors where they packed resort towns and villages.

Although the weather this summer on the Prairies was cool, income from tourist expenditures was expected to be up 14 per cent in Manitoba, 12 per cent in Alberta. No figures were available for Saskatchewan.

In Manitoba, although the relative increase in the number of visitors was Canada's largest, the individual traveller spent less than his counterpart last year. Similar reports came from other tourist bureaux, but no exact figures were available.

Pockets Bulging

The average tourist who cast for salmon in British Columbia or drove through the towering Rockies was well-heeled this summer. He spent $20 a day in British Columbia. In the other provinces, the average expenditure was $10 to $15 a day.

A breakdown of the tourist dollar shows that retail and department stores get the largest single cut—25 cents. Restaurants and food stores get 22 cents and hotels, resorts and camps share 17 cents among them. The remainder goes for car servicing, entertainments and transportation on trains, buses and planes.

Biggest gripe of most American tourists—after the condition of back-country roads—was the refusal of many persons to allow a premium on United States funds. After one or two refusals, most travellers went to banks, where they got Canadian currency at current exchange rates.

Peron Puts Down Revolution By 2 Former Army Generals

Truman To Support Canadian Seaway If Congress Stalls

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29. (AP)—President Truman said today he would support a proposal for Canada to build the St. Lawrence Seaway if the project can not be started soon as a joint United States-Canadian development. Truman's position was made known in a joint statement after a conference at which Prime Minister St. Laurent presented Canada's proposal. The statement said Truman strongly prefers joint action and expressed hope that Congress will soon authorize joint construction of the seaway-power project along the lines of the US-Canadian agreement of 1941.

However, the statement added, Truman will "support Canadian action as second best if an early commencement on the joint development does not prove possible."

The Canadian Cabinet is about to undertake the huge power and waterway project itself, after years of fruitless negotiations.

On leaving the White House, the prime minister told reporters that Canada is prepared to go ahead and "do everything after mature consideration, that we feel is apt to expedite the realization of the project."

Joint Project

Responding to questions, he said Canada is as much interested in the waterway as in power and is not interested in power alone.

Legislation for the St. Lawrence project has been before Congress for many years. At this session, it was pigeonholed by the House of Representatives Public Works Committee and is still pending in the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

In view of the prospect that the Canadian proposal may come up in parliament at a session starting next month, the White House was asked about any "deadline" on Truman's willingness to accept Canada's plan.

Joseph Short, presidential press secretary, said no deadline was set at today's meeting. In reply to another question, Short said, the next step here would be to get the joint proposal out of committee.

Under the 1941 agreement, to which the joint statement referred, the US and Canada agreed to build a deep waterway from the Atlantic to the Great Lakes and develop power projects as a joint undertaking.

Congress, despite Truman's personal support of the plan as a major defence measure, has stalled building of the huge ditch in co-operation with Canada. The President would have to join the Canadian government in allowing the international joint commission, with jurisdiction over boundary waters, to conduct an inquiry into the seaway.

Truman yesterday indicated his support of the project when he told a press conference he would

Reds Launch Attacks On Wide Front

By JOHN RANDOLPH

US EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Sept. 28 (AP)—Communist forces launched a series of sharp attacks last night at widely-scattered points across 50 miles of the Korean battle front.

Behind the lines, they rolled a mass of men and supplies toward the front along all the major north-south roads across the waist of the Korean peninsular.

They took advantage of a moonless night. But Allied planes converged on the main arteries and the United States Fifth Air Force said its pilots destroyed 598 Communist vehicles and damaged 613—a record.

More Activity

The tempo of Communist troop and transport activity sharpened as efforts to revive the stalled truce talks reached a virtual standstill.

Communist forces threw their sharpest attacks in the Yonchon and Chorwon sectors near Western Korea's iron triangle, and in the east-central area at heartbreak ridge and the punchbowl heights.

The Reds lobbed artillery and mortar shells throughout Thursday night at Allied infantrymen dug in just below the crest of heartbreak, a hill mass north of Yanggu.

Other Red troops attacked American and South Korean troops holding a hill west of the ridge. They had captured it only Tuesday. The fight raged on into the morning.

It appeared that the Reds were trying to cut off advance Allied units both in the east and west.

Thirty-five American Sabre jets swept MIG alley in northwest Korea for 30 minutes Friday morning but failed to raise Communist jets.

Priest Admits Mail Charges.

AMOS, Que., Set. 28—(CP)—A Roman Catholic priest pleaded guilty yesterday to interfering with mail adressed to Baptists. He will be sentenced today.

Rev. J. Alfred Roy was charged under the Post Office Act with unlawfully and wilfully keeping, delaying or detaining postal circulars.

Gervaise Begin, 16, of nearby Ste. Germaine Boule, pleaded guilty to permitting another person to keep, delay and detain postal circulars. She also will be sentenced today.

A summons said the period covered by the charges was from February to June. Each month, 14 circulars were mailed from Lasarre, Que., by Noranda Baptist Pastor Leslie G. Barnhart to members of his congregation in Ste. Germaine.

Beat Up Mother Sentenced 2 Months

SUDBURY, Sept. 28 —(CP)—Edward Bilecki, who beat his mother, broke three of her ribs and sent her to bed for four weeks, will spend two months in jail for assault.

Belicki said in court yesterday that his family "treated me more like an animal than a man. I received better treatment in the Sudbury jail."

He had been held without bail since his arraignment Aug. 25.

Charge Young Groom With Strangling Wife

TIMISKAMING, Que., Sept. 28 (CP)—Gerald Ryan, 22, was charged with murder last night after a coroner's jury declared him criminally responsible for the strangle-slaying Sept. 15 of his pretty bride of two months.

Constable Oliver Daly said he found Mrs. Ryan lying dead in the bathroom, partly covered with the satin-and-lace wedding gown she had worn for her wedding to Ryan July 16. He quoted Ryan, a construction company cook, as saying:

"I choked her."

Peace Talks Appear Near Breakdown

Gen. Bradley Flies To Japan, No Red Answer

By DON HUTH

TOKYO, Sept. 28. (AP) — The suspended Korean armistive talks today appeared near a complete breakdown as Gen. Bradley flew toward Japan—possibly to map strategy if full-scale fighting erupts.

Bradley and his party were due at 8:20 p.m. tonight (7:20 a.m. EDT).

The trip of the chairman of the joint chiefs of staff was described by the United States defence department as "one of the periodic visits" of staff members.

The Washington announcement significantly added, however, that Bradley would "survey all aspects of the situation" with Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway Supreme Allied Commander.

No Answer

The Chinese and North Koreans have not answered Ridgway's suggestion Thursday for getting the bogged-down parley going again. He wanted the conference site switched from Kaesong, behind Red lines, to the Songhyon area in no-man's-land. The village is six miles southeast of Kaesong

Observers said this could be Ridgway's last compromise proposal.

The Reds broke off armistice talks Aug. 23. They accused the United Nations of violating the neutrality of Kaesong. The charge was denied.

Underscoring the pessimism were UN pilot reports of masses of enemy trucks moving toward the battle front and a flare-up of Red infantry attacks all along the battle line.

Ridgway's headquarters in an unofficial release echoed the futility of the last six weeks of bickering and note exchanges.

The Communists, the release accused, sought resumption of the armistice parley on their own terms or a complete breakdown "out of sheer frustration."

8,000 Cleared Out Bomb Starts To Tick

NURNBERG, Germany, Sept. 28. (Reuters) — Police cleared 8,000 persons from their homes today — working desperately against the quiet ticking of a huge landmine that has lain dormant underground since the war.

An excavator clearing rubble from wartime bomb hits nudged the huge tank of explosive last night and the ticking began.

A bomb specialist said the mine will go off if anyone tries to remove the fuse. It is believed to have been dropped by the RAF during the war.

The government will decide today whether the mine should be blown up without being moved. This would cause great damage to surrounding buildings.

14 Bodies Found In Plane Wreck

TOKYO, Sept. 28 (Reuters)—Fourteen charred bodies were found today in the burned-out wreck of a United States Air Force C-119 flying boxcar, which exploded and crashed into a mountain 30 miles west of Tokyo late last night.

Four miles away lay the remains of another transport, a C-46. Rescue parties have not yet reported the fate of its six crew members and five passengers.

Both planes crashed on the way to Tachikawa Airport, main cargo base for the shuttle service between Korea and Japan.

Discovery Of Piece Of Plane Metal Spurs Search On Vancouver Island

CHEMAINUS, BC, Sept. 28 (CP).—Discovery of a five-foot length of plane metal may spark a new RCAF search for one of several planes missing over Vancouver Island.

The piece of aluminum, measuring five feet by 18 inches and bearing wire attachments, was found late Wednesday by a woods worker. The metal was believed to be the cover of a plane engine.

The discovery was made at the 2,000-foot level of a 3,000-foot mountain in the forested Sugar Loaf Mountain area, 23 miles northwest of here.

Search and rescue workers of the RCAF will examine the metal today.

"A search may be launched if results of the examination warrant it," said a spokesman for the RCAF.

It could be the wreckage from a wartime plane—several were lost over Vancouver Island during the Second World War—or from a US navy Neptune bomber which disappeared three years ago with a crew of nine.

Last week searchers found the wreckage of another US navy plane which crashed on Mt. McCreight, further up island. Eleven men perished in the crash.

Ontario Election Date Still Not Announced

TORONTO, Sept. 28. (CP)—Ontario Legislature members were back home today after a four-day session of the House, with no more knowledge when a Provincial general election will be held than when the session began. Premier Frost left the question in the air yesterday in a closing speech in which he said the government had no fear of going to the people "at any time."

When election time comes, "we'll give them lots of notice," he said. But he gave no inkling of whether he will call a fall election or wait until after the next session, which begins in February. The government's present term expires in 1953.

In an apparent reference to Walter Thomson, provincial Liberal leader who sits in the federal house, Mr. Frost said:

"We've had one party, one voice, running around our province demanding an election... disturbing our people...running down the road and yelling in windows."

The CCF opposition party, he said, "lack confidence in Ontario as well as in themselves."

This week's session brought only two new measures.

Ratify Agreement

One ratifies the agreement with the federal government to pay $40 monthly old-age assistance to persons aged 65 to 69 who can show need. The provincial and federal governments will share costs equally in the plan, which starts next January, when the federal government plans to begin payment of $40 pensions to all over 70.

The second separates administration of blind pensions from old-age pensions, and raises from $720 to $840 the income ceiling under which the $40 pension will be paid to blind persons from 21 to 65.

Opposition demands that a $10 provincial supplement be paid to old-age pensioners headed a CCF non-confidence motion, in which government forces yesterday defeated the three united opposition parties 49 to 35.

The vote closed yesterday's Throne Speech debate, and was followed by the formal action of Lieutenant-Governor Ray Lawson who gave Royal Assent to the two Bills and prorogued the House.

Premier Frost, in his speech, gave a strong indication that announcement of final approval of a start on the St. Lawrence seaway will be made soon in Ottawa.

"The seaway will proceed," he said. "Ontario will be a partner and it will come before very long."

He said, however, that he preferred the next announcement on the seaway to come from Prime Minister St. Laurent, with whom the Ontario Government had been in close contact for some time.

Premier Frost attacked Federal housing, and credit policies, as did three others during the Throne Speech debate.

They were CCF Leader E. B. Jolliffe, J. G. Brown (L-Waterloo North), and A. A. MacLeod (Lab-Prog-Toronto Bellwoods).

Veteran Pilot To Fly Princess

LONDON, Sept. 28 (Reuters)—Captain O. P. Jones, 53-year-old black-bearded veteran, will fly Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh to Canada Oct. 7.

"Opey," as he is called on both sides of the Atlantic, has flown 3,000,000 miles as an aircraft captain and has been a pilot since 1917. His pointed beard, which he has worn 27 years, is famous around the world.

The plane he will pilot for the Royal couple is a Stratocruiser of the British Overseas Airways Corporation.

Jones, the most experienced pilot on Britain's airlines, is also known as BOAC's strictest disciplinarian. He has been flying the North Atlantic route for 10 years.

"I am deeply honored to have been selected to command the flight," he said today. "Both Princess Elizabeth and the Duke have flying experience and they should feel no apprehension."

There will be a crew of 11 aboard the Stratocruiser.

Churchill Opens Election Campaign

LONDON, Sept. 28 (AP)—Winston Churchill called upon Britain today to free itself from socialism in order to rebuild its life at home and its prestige abroad.

In a 2,500-word Conservative party manifesto, the 76-year-old wartime prime minister said the Oct. 25 general election "may well be the turning point in the fortunes and even life of Britain."

"There must be no illusions about our dificulties and dangers," he said.

Churchill demanded an end to class warfare and a growth in national unity. He blamed the "frantic extravagances" of the Labor government for devaluation of the pound from $4.02 to $2.80 on Sept. 18, 1949.

Car Leaves Highway Two Youths Killed

KITCHENER, Sept. 28 (CP)—Two Preston youths were killed and a third seriously injured today when the car in which they were riding left the Galt-Preston highway and rolled up a five-foot ornamental retaining wall.

They dead are: Edward Conway, 18 and Donald Clawsey, 22, both of Preston.

Conway was almost instantly killed while Clawsey died in hospital some two hours after the crash.

In the same hospital with head injuries which include a severe concussion, is Jack Donaldson, 22, also of Preston who is believed to have been the driver of the car.

Donaldson is reported to have been married tomorrow.

King George Nearly Out Of Danger

Council Of State Named; Anxiety May Last Week Yet

LONDON, Sept. 28. (AP)—The King spent another comfortable night and maintained steady progress, a medical bulletin said today. It was the second optimistic bulletin in a row from the doctors who handled the King's critical lung operation Sunday.

The bulletin, the ninth since the operation, said: "The King has had another comfortable night and is making steady progress."

Barring unforeseen complications, the King now is nearly out of danger, some medical specialists indicated today.

A number of Buckingham Palace actions tend to back up their belief.

According to one source in Harley Street — London's street of doctors — the worst of the King's recovery period should be over within 24 hours.

Through Fifth Day

Yesterday the King came safely through the critical fifth day since all or part of his lung was cut out. Buckingham Palace sources said Thursday marked the start of a second danger period of two or three days. Doctors say internal bleeding and fatigue could set in during this phase.

But, as in all lung "resection" cases, the period of anxiety for the 55-year-old King will last at least through the weekend and probably up to next Thursday, it was indicated.

Both medical men and the British people interpret these signs as indicating the King is doing well:

1. Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh decided yesterday to go ahead with their 34-day tour of Canada, postponed from Oct. 2. They will leave by plane for Montreal Oct. 7.

Wife Found Battered 100 Search For Man

MONTREAL, Sept. 28—(CP)—A 100-man posse will begin searching the woods around Acton Vale, 70 miles east of Montreal, Sunday for Joseph Victor Loranger, 37, wanted for questioning in connection with a hammer attack on his wife.

Mrs. Loranger, in hospital here, is not expected to recover. She was found in a pool of blood on the kitchen floor of her eastern township home two weeks ago. After recovering slightly, she lapsed into unconsciousness three days ago.

The posse will be made up of police and volunteer searchers, Quebec provincial police said.

Argentine Civil War Quickly Quelled, Two Leaders Flee

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Sept. 28. (AP)—The official state radio announced revolt and civil war broke out today against the government of President Juan D. Peron but that it was swiftly crushed and its leaders were in flight. By state account, the uprising lasted only a few hours. Shortly after announcing the outbreak of civil war, the radio said the revolt headed by former Gen. Arturo Rawson and former Gen. Benjamin Menendez was crushed completely and both had fled.

It said the big air base at El Palomar on the outskirts of Buenos Aires and the big army garrison at Campo Mayro, also on the capital's outskirts, were recaptured, indicating that rebel forces had held these important points. Defence Minister Angel Solari went to Campo Mayo and had the situation under control, the broadcast added.

(Monitors of the Argentine radio at Montevideo, Uruguay, said it reported that Alfredo Palacios, Socialist leader and candidate for Argentine president, was under arrest. This broadcast said the leaders of the revolt fled in tanks—apparently army tanks—but did not amplify.)

Internal War

The government radio, proclaiming a state of "internal war" and a state of siege, identified Rawson and Menendez as ringleaders of the uprising, and threatened execution for any military men joining them. Rawson was a leader of a 1948 rebellion which placed him in the presidency just two days.

There was no information available from other sources. The capital has been closed tightly, with business establishments shuttered.

There were many rumors of troop movements, but these, too, could not be confirmed.

No fighting was observed in the streets of Buenos Aires except for sporadic fist fights. But a large crowd was pouring into the Plaza De Mayo in front of Peron's offices, shouting "La vida por Peron." (Our lives for Peron.)

(In Washington observers close to Argentine affairs said the revolution may have been bona fide but could have been staged to whip up sentiment for Peron in the Nov. 11 elections in which he is a candidate to succeed himself. However there have been many reports of army dissatisfaction with the regime.)

Rawson overthrew the government of President Ramon S. Castillo in 1943, and was President for two days before he was ousted.

Jailed Six Months

Rawson was arrested, ousted from the army and sent to prison for six months on a charge of being involved in a short-lived revolt of the Cordoba Garrison in September, 1945.

70 UK Workers Stopped At Abadan Gates

TEHRAN, Sept. 28 (AP)—Dispatches from Abadan said today Iran has directed 70 Britons working in the administrative and accounting sections at the refinery to stay away from the plant.

They said the rest of the 317 British citizens still at the nationalized installation will continue working until they leave as ordered Oct. 4.

The newspaper Ettelaat said one Iranian officer and one soldier have been posted at the refinery entrance to see that none of the 70 try to enter. All stayed away voluntarily, the paper added.

British Ambassador Sir Francis Shepherd told a press conference today he thought it "most unlikely" that Prime Minister Mohammed Mossadegh will cancel his order to British technicians to leave the country.

Shepherd made the comment after conferring with Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlevi and Foreign Minister Bagher Kazemi.

He declined to say whether the Britons would obey the order. He said that information must come from the British cabinet in London.

Britons Wait

LONDON, Sept. 28 — (CP) — Britain waited tensely today for the situation in Iran to clear before deciding on retaliation against Premier Mohammed Mossadegh's order expelling British oil technicians from the Abadan refinery.

The emotional premier's demand that 317 Britons quit the country by Oct. 4 was emphasized last night when Iranian troops drew a bayonet barricade around the refinery. They stopped all but 10 executives from entering the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company's big plant.

Iranian army personnel had orders to mine the property, nationalized by Mossadegh's government, and to prepare to blow it up if British military forces were brought into action.

Meanwhile, London officials have instructed British Ambassador Sir Francis Shepherd in Tehran to report on Mossadegh's reaction to an appeal from President Truman to reverse the order.

Prime Minister Attlee has a personal message from Truman which qualified informants said made it plain the United States is opposed to British military action in the oil-rich country.

Britain has 10 warships in the vicinity, planes in neighboring Iraq, and paratroops within a few hours' flight.

Legion Official Charges War Veterans Get "Sausage-Mill" Treatment At Hospital

ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 28 (CP)—Arthur Padbury, provincial service bureau chairman of the Canadian Legion, charged at a Legion meeting here last night that Toronto's Sunnybrook veterans hospital provides treatment "of the sausage-mill variety."

At a joint meeting of Thorold, Welland, Port Colborne and St. Catharines Canadian Legion members, Mr. Padbury claimed that an "unprecedented number of suicides" had occurred at Sunnybrook in the last 18 months—with no investigation ordered — and that the hospital was little better than a "school for Toronto University medical students."

Ottawa Astonished

(In Ottawa, Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns, deputy minister of the Department of Veterans Affairs, termed Mr. Padbury's charges "most astonishing because we take great pains in our treatment of patients."

(Gen. Burns said there had been "a number" of suicides in Sunnybrook Hospital. Each had been investigated and each referred to the local coroner who decided no further action was necessary. He said inquiries had disclosed no "common reason for this." The cases usually were those of elderly veterans who had become despondent.

(Of the charges in general, Gen. Burns said that if the executive of the Canadian Legion could produce evidence to support them "we will be glad to tell them everything they want to know.")

Dr. W. H. McMillan, Liberal member of parliament for Welland, one of two MP's at the joint meeting, attended by more than 350 Legionnaires, said he would investigate the charges.

Saying that in view of the weight of evidence placed before him as service bureau chairman he was convinced that there no longer was such an thing at Sunnybrook as individual treatment of patients, Mr. Padbury asserted:

"It is of the sausage-mill variety . . . something is pushed in at one end and how it comes out at the other—God only knows.

"It used to be said that veterans were entitled to be treated as private patients in a civilian institution . . . and it used to be so. But in Sunnybrook and, I am led to believe in Westminster (in London, Ont.) treatment is being meted out to patients with less regard than it would be to patients in the public wards of civilian hospitals."

Orders Given

Of his charge that suicides had occurred without investigation, Mr. Padbury said no inquiry was made because of orders issued by Dr. W. P. Warner, director-general of treatment services. He added:

"I understand that little over a week ago this condition of suicides became so bad that it was demanded by some of the senior staff that a special board of inquiry be set up under the chairmanship of Dr. Arthur Norwich."

Mr. Padbury termed veterans being treated at Sunnybrook "guinea pigs for the teaching of medical science."

Indonesia Has Raw Wealth Cannot Attract Development

By KENNETH LIKES

JAKARTA, Sept. 28—(AP)—The young Indonesian Republic's dreams of a bright industrial future are being blotted out before they begin to take shape.

In 20 months since independence was won from the Netherlands, the island Republic has failed to attract a single new foreign investment of any size.

Meanwhile, the Indonesians have not proved in any concrete way that they can build up their country without a lot of technical assistance and capital from outside.

Compared with other Asians, the Indonesians started with a lot of natural advantages:

1. Their sprawling chain of islands is the richest in the east in undeveloped resources. It has buried treasure in oil and tin. Its black, volcanic soil yields a fat bounty in rubber, tea, tobacco, copra palm oil and spices.

2. Damage left over from the Pacific war and local nationalist revolt is not great compared with the wreckage and turmoil in most Asian countries.

Independence

Indonesians have a third advantage in having genuine independence. The country's leaders are their own masters.

Why then is Indonesia's glittering vision of high development and great prosperity becoming clouded?

Lack of security, labor unrest and governmental apathy and inexperience appear to be causes behind the deterioration that is setting in.

Security Improves

Security within the country is considerably better than two years ago when open warfare was going on. But armed bands still roam the countryside, and Dutch planters take a risk living on their holdings outside the cities.

Law enforcement is lax. Although nearly 90 Netherlands planters and businessmen have been killed no murderers have been tracked down and convicted.

Labor unrest has resulted in lowering of production and increased production costs throughout the islands. A great many Indonesian workers look on hard work as an evil from the Colonial past and want no part of it.

Although these conditions have dimmed chances for any major economic improvement, they do not mean the country's future is completely black.

More than 90 per cent of the islands 73,000,000 people dig their living from the rich soil.

Britain May Ask Help Of UN

LONDON, Sept. 28 — (CP) — Britain may ask the United Nations' Security Council to intervene in the tense Anglo-Iranian oil dispute, informed sources said today.

The cabinet met on the oil crisis for the third time this week, as Britain awaited developments in the Middle East country which has ordered British oil men at Abadan expelled by Oct. 4.

A likely course for London may be, the informants said, to ask the Security Council to order Iranian obedience to an International Court of Justice recommendation. The court urged both sides to seek a peaceful settlement of the dispute, which arose from Iran's nationalization of the billion-dollar Anglo-Iranian Oil Company holdings.

A senior British cabinet minister told a reporter the government will issue a full statement tonight on its course of action and its reasons for what decisions were made, but he would not say what the decision was.

A Foreign Office spokesman refused to confirm or deny that Britain would take the dispute to the Security Council.

Publish Incomes Cut Graft Truman Asks

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28 (AP) —President Truman, taking note of charges that graft is "running rampant," asked Congress yesterday for swift passage of a law to expose the total income of all top United States officials each year, including Congressmen.

In a dramatic and unheralded move, Truman said it should be spread on the public record exactly how much money, gifts or loans are received by those responsible for running the country.

He said the list should include members of Congress themselves as well as cabinet ministers, generals, admirals, judges, all high-salaried government employees, and bigwigs of both major political parties.

Truman urged Congressmen in a special message to enact the legislation promptly as an important step to prevent "improper conduct" and guard against "unfounded suspicions."

He said the truth should be known, partly because there has been a deliberate effort to discredit the government service.

Chairman Charged

Truman sent the message even as his own party chairman, William M. Boyle, Jr., took the witness stand as the central figure in the latest of a long series of Congressional investigations into charges of tricky deals in high places.

Truman, in his proposal, suggested violations be punished on the same basis as violations of the income-tax laws.

like to see the Niagara River power project and the seaway built as a unified job.

He said there is good reason for not starting a New York State sponsored power project on the Niagara river separately.

St. Laurent was accompaied by another seaway enthusiast, American Ambassador Stanley Woodward. Also with him were two Cabinet aides. He was to return to Ottawa after lunch today.

The party was met at the airport by Maj.-Gen. Harry Vaughan, the President's military aide, Canadian Ambassador Hume Wrong, and others.

Maybe On Own

The Prime Minister indicated on arrival that Canada may be interested in developing the project on its own if the US continues delaying it.

Canada and the US signed an agreement in 1941 to join in developing the venture. But the Senate has continually blocked it's implementation.

The proposed undertaking calls for a channel which would admit ocean-going ships up to the head of the Great Lakes. It would develop some 2,200,000 horsepower of hydro-electric energy in the international rapids section of the St. Lawrence river.

Argentine Civil War

The General Confederation of Labor, backbone of the Peron regime which has held undisputed rule of this country since 1946, first announced a revolt by "some military men" and ordered workers in the capital to mass in the square in front of the president's offices.

By noon thousands had poured into the huge Plaza Mayo. There was no sign of either Peron or his wife, Eva, who was the target of army criticism recently.

Office workers in the presidential palace leaned from the windows and balconies but there was no indication that Peron was in the Casa Rosada. Mrs. Peron has been ill for a week.

The state radio repeated incessantly the announcement that a state of "internal war" existed and that army officers participating in the uprising would be shot. This announcement was in the form of an official decree.

Police Guards

All radio stations, newspapers and the official banks were heavily guarded by federal police. Almost complete censorship was imposed late in the morning.

A delegation from the General Workers Confederation appeared at the office of the independent newspaper La Nacion and requested that it not publish today. The newspaper dropped heavy steel shutters over its entrances. Police guards permitted Associated Press personnel to enter or leave the building where the AP office is located.

(After the first announcements of the state radio broadcasts, cables from Buenos Aires stopped for an hour and then the filing was resumed but this dispatch came first by telephone from Buenos Aires.)

The government proclaimed a state of siege—a modified form of martial law—and a few moments later the state radio announced that civil war had started.

(Reports reaching Washington at mid-day said army troops were stationed on the roof of the Casa Rosada. No police were said to be in evidence.

(These reports also said the leaflets that were scattered over the city by plane calling on the army to revolt were signed by Gen. Menendez.)

Palace sources took pains to make clear the King's vesting of his duties in the council of states does not mean he is falling back. Councils of state are not an unusual move in recent British history.

Cold Snap Hits Two-Thirds US

CHICAGO, Sept. 28. (AP) — Corn and late garden vegetables were damaged by frost today as an early cold snap spread over the northern two-thirds of the United States.

The extent of the damage was not available immediately.

It was below freezing overnight in parts of Iowa, but more than 60 per cent of the corn crop was reported safe. It was 31 degrees above at Mason City and 32 at Des Moines.

Temperatures also were below freezing in the Dakotas and parts of Minnesota and Nebraska. About 82 per cent of the corn crop in Minnesota is fully mature, with 18 per cent in the soft stage and subject to serious damage.

No killing frost was reported in Wisconsin, Illinois or Indiana.

The cool belt extended from the Rocky Mountains to the Appalachians southward to the southern plains and middle Mississippi valley.

Peace Talks

Ridgway proposed that the five-man delegation would first discuss maintaining the neutrality of the new location. Then they would return to debating the establishment of a demilitarized zone across Korea—the agenda item under discussion when the talks were abruptly halted 37 days ago.

Little Hope

But there was little hope that the Communists would accept the latest UN Command suggestion.

Communist newspapermen told Allied correspondents Thursday at Panmunjom, where an official copy of the message was delivered to a Red liaison officer, that the Reds still want Kaesong as the meeting place.

Newspaper Price Climbs Upward

NEW YORK, Sept. 28 (AP) — Daily newspaper prices are swinging upward all over the United States as costs of publishing increase steadily.

This upward trend has been underway for several months. Large and small newspapers alike have found a price boost necessary.

Publishers say the higher costs of putting out a paper are responsible. They cite greater newsprint costs, higher salaries and larger bills for distributing their papers.

In Los Angeles, The Times and The Examiner, both morning papers, have increased daily newsstand prices from seven to 10 cents, effective Oct. 1.

In Memphis, Tenn., the Commercial Appeal and the Press-Scimitar raised subscriptions prices, effective Monday. The former's weekly rate for daily and Sunday editions goes from 40 to 45 cents. The latter's for daily editions only goes from 25 to 30 cents.

Sunday papers in many cities have gone from 10 cents to 15 cents, and in some cases to 20 cents.

24 Cases Heard Bancroft Court

BANCROFT, Sept. 28—(ENS)—A record was established in the semi-monthly court in Bancroft on Wednesday afternoon when 24 cases were tried. Magistrate J. B. Garvin and assistant county crown attorney S. G. Robinson, KC, had a busy and a fairly noisy time as a department of public works well driller was pounding away beside the court room during the session. The machine had arrived early that morning and the well had to be drilled when the equipment was available.

Fines of $384 were collected during the afternoon.

With one or two exceptions all were breaches of the Highway Traffic and Liquor Control acts.

William Williamson, Maynooth and Ernest Barager Oshawa paid the highest fines—$50 and costs for driving with their ability to drive was impaired by alcohol.

A double charge of failure to remain at the scene of an accident and failure to report the change of addres cost Elmer Dobblestein, Whitby, $35 and costs.

A fine of $20 and costs was paid by James R. Leeson, Peterborough, for careless driving.

Four people paid fines of $15 and costs: Donald Freeburn, Flinton for having liquor in a place other than a private residence; Joseph Dion, Tweed, for the same offence; Milton Spence, Bancroft, for being intoxicated in a public place and Murray Kelusky, Bancroft, for speeding.

Included in the $10 and costs lists were Stanley Peever, Bancroft for careless driving; Lawrence Quinlan, Coe Hill, for being intoxicated in a public place; Rene Seabor, Coe Hill, for failing to give half the road; Wilson Airhart, Bancroft, for causing a disturbance in a public place; Alex Mouchla, Whitney, for being intoxicated in a public place; Telesphore Letour, Toronto, for failure to report an accident and Howard Farrell, Bancroft for not having a driver's licence.

John Ross Tait of L'Amable paid $5 and costs for failing to stop before entering a through highway. Four cases were adjourned until October 24.

Mrs. Ellen Long

The Ven. Archdeacon W. P. Robertson, St. John's Anglican church, officiated Wednesday at the service in Belleghem's funeral home for Mrs. Ellen Long, 294 Park Hill Road, widow of the late George Long. She died in hospital Monday in her 77th year.

Pallbearers were: Donald, Robert, and Kenneth Budd, Douglas Long, Francis Hayes and John Fowley. Burial was at Little Lake cemetery.

Safe Flying

TORONTO, Sept. 28 (CP)—The odds against being killed in the crash of a scheduled airline plane are 4,000 to 1 for persons who fly 100 hours each year, J. E. Hoskins, actuary of the Travellers Insurance Company, Hartford, Conn., said yesterday. He told the annual meeting of the society of actuaries that the passenger's chances were greater of being killed in some other sort of accident.

Thieves Not Hoggish

ST. THOMAS, Sept. 28 (CP)—In a daylight holdup, two youthful bandits yesterday stole $84 from a vault at Alan Ward's tobacco and magazine shop. As they took a wallet from Ward's hip pocket, he pleaded: "Don't be hoggish. Leave me something." The bandits threw back the wallet, containing $5.

CGE Lay-off Rumors Denied At Cobourg

COBOURG, Sept. 28 (ENS).—Employees of the CGE plastics plant and representatives from other industries of the town attended the showing of industrial safety films in the recreation room of the CGE plant Thursday afternoon. Harry Gadd, works manager of the local CGE, welcomed the visitors.

Mr Gadd, in his preliminary remarks addressed to the employees, said that there had been an incorrect rumor that there would be a further layoff and this time of a large number of workers. He declared that there was no foundation for the rumor. It was true that things were quieter than they were for the reason that a general sales slump was being experienced in many lines. However, some orders were coming in and here was reason for optimism. When business improved those laid off would be notified. He was not making promises which could not be fulfilled, but he was not going to adopt a policy of silence and leave everything to rumor, Mr. Gadd asserted.

Rev. Morley Clark Ministerial Head

MARMORA, Sept. 28 — (ENS) — Central Hastings Ministerial Association met at Springbrook on Monday afternoon. The Rev. G. D. Young, BA, Marmora gave an address on "The Report of Royal Commission on Education in Ontario."

The annual election of officers was held with the Rev. Morley Clarke, Thomasburg being elected president and the Rev. F. F. Downing, Tweed, secretary-treasurer.

Rev. G. D. Young is program chairman.

MANILA, Sept. 28 — (AP). — Guillermo Capadocia, the Communist Huks' No. 2 leader, was killed today by Philippines troops on Panay Island. The government had offered a $50,000 reward for him. The National Defence Department said an army task force battled Capadocia's Huk band in San Remigio Township.

More than 86 per cent of the eligible voters went to the polls.

Boy Saved By Postman And Invalid Woman

BRAMPTON, Ont., Sept. 28 (CP)—An invalid woman and a letter carrier yesterday saved Bobby Esles, 5, from drowning in the Etobicoke river diversion project.

Mrs. Bert Dangelo, a convalescent, was looking out her bedroom window when she saw the boy fall from the catwalk into the river. She got up from bed and ran down into the street where her cries attracted James Setterfield, 27, a block away.

Setterfield retrieved the unconscious child from six feet of water and, assisted by Mrs. Dangelo, applied artificial respiration. After 10 minutes the child was revived and taken to hospital.

Ability Impaired Driver Fined $62.50

Rule Emery, 32, of Norwood, was today fined $62.50 after pleading guilty to driving while his ability was impaired by alcohol and to a charge of having faulty brakes.

City police reported that Emery crashed into a car late Thursday afternoon at Lansdowne and Aylmer Sts. He is said to have driven his truck south on Aylmer and then started into a left turn to go east.

He failed to see a westbound car on Lansdowne, driven by L. H. Winslow, Millbrook, and he collided with the right rear fender of the oncoming car.

After Emery was taken to the cells his truck was checked and police found that the brakes were faulty.

The truck was undamaged but the car received about $30 damage.

Cobourg May Trim Amount For School

COBOURG, Sept. 28 (ENS).—There is a growing feeling locally that in these days of inflationary prices the School Board should not expect the people to favor erection of too large an east-end school. The architect consulted by the board at the time when a 17-room school was contemplated at $419,000, examined the old west-end school and made some recommendations which would increase its facilities and thus remove the need for so large a school in the east end.

Last week the school board asked the council to set the necessary municipal machinery in motion so that the public would have a school construction bylaw to vote on in December and the cost of the proposed school was estimated at $419,000 plus $10,000 for the school site.

However, in view of the more recent consideration of the matter, the board will look into the proposal of fixing up the west end school and trimming the plans for the new east end school. The new school could be built with the view of being so constructed that future additions could be made without expensive alterations.

Is This A Stagnant Unity?

In preparation for the General Election of October 25 Mr. Attlee and Mr. Aneurin Bevan have come to terms. It is not so long ago since Mr. Bevan led a group of dissidents away from the Labour Party in Britain; he objected violently to a provision which insisted that certain part-payments be made by the recipients of such things as false teeth and spectacles under the National Health Service. Mr. Attlee said that re-armament was more important than the Health Service, and Mr. Bevan disagreed. And being Mr. Bevan—one of the most vocal and rancorous politicians of modern times—he disagreed with rhetorical flourishes. He knew that when he split the Labour Party he was doing it great harm, but he said that "A stagnant unity is merely a prelude to decay." But the approaching election has brought him to heel and a temporary unity has been achieved.

* * *

This is a victory for Mr. Attlee, who is a master-tactician. During the past six years it has become clear to the world that Mr. Attlee, the quiet and undistinguished party leader, is also the party strong man, fully capable of keeping such fire-eaters as Aneurin Bevan and Herbert Morrison in check. Both Morrison and Bevan have the ambition and the capacity to lead Labour, but they will not do so while Attlee chooses to keep that position.

* * *

Labour values party unity perhaps more than the Conservatives, for as recently as 1931 a split in the Labour Party—when Ramsay MacDonald and Philip Snowden led a section of it into a national government—crippled it badly. When Aneurin Bevan recently brought about a second split, because he put socialist reform before national preparedness, he shook the faith of many of the more sober-minded Labour supporters.

* * *

What will the moderate Labour supporters think of his return to the Party? Will they not feel that he will split it again, as soon as the election is won? And will they trust a man whose ambition is greater than party loyalty? Party solidarity is a matter in which great numbers of Labour supporters are intensely conservative; they have put their faith in union solidarity and it has not failed them; they have carried that principle into national politics.

* * *

It is doubtful if Mr. Bevan's return to the fold has caused much rejoicing in Labour circles; he has declared himself an enemy of stagnant unity, and Labour workers know that unity, stagnant or not, has carried them into power twice within six years. Reports from London say that the strong feeling that the Conservatives will win on October 25 is weakening slightly. A special article which we carry on this page today expresses the opinion that Labour will win once again. But Mr. Bevan's desertion of Labour, and his somewhat cynical return for election purposes, has added no strength to a party which faces the hardest fight of its career.

Fewer Accidents In The County

In the six-month period from January to June of this year Peterborough was the only county in Ontario (except for two in the bush) which had fewer motor vehicle accidents than in the corresponding period of last year. That is a satisfactory state of affairs, considering that the total of accidents in the province increased by a third, from 4,359 in January-June 1950 to 5,815 this year. We hope that Peterborough county will constantly show a similar decrease. For one reason, it saves lives and property; for another this district's drivers might be able to secure reductions in the rates of automobile insurance. Incidentally, the other two counties in which there were fewer accidents this year than last were Nipissing (down from 197 to 179) and Renfrew, down one from 282.

The record of the neighbouring counties is as follows: Durham, 127 last year (January to June), 183 this year; Victoria 83 last year, 87 this; Haliburton 24 and 29, Hastings 303 and 325, Northumberland 120 and 121. Hastings' record is especially bad, considering that it has no large city in it, only Belleville, and that most of the county is sparsely inhabited bush like Haliburton, where there were only 29 accidents in the first six months of the year. Hastings had 325. Tut, tut. Are Hastings' drivers unskilled at the wheel or merely rash in the head?

A Matter Of Special Privilege?

The editor of the United Church Observer expresses the view that CBC programs which challenge the accepted standards of right and wrong should be in the form of debates, in which the lecturer can be answered at once; this suggestion is made in connection with a group of four talks given on the Wednesday night special program by a group of prominent psychiatrists. A new series of talks by Bertrand Russell, who is described as "an enemy of Christianity" is also deplored.

We cannot pass over any suggestion that so eminent a philosopher as Bertrand Russell should be kept from the airwaves of Canada, simply because what he says may not be pleasing to some Canadians. Nor can we agree that defenders of the status quo in ethical matters should be given the special privilege of replying immediately to those broadcasters with whom they disagree. Churchmen would not, we are sure, see the fairness of permitting freethinkers to comment upon the many religious broadcasts which the CBC permits them to make.

The history of mankind is in a great measure a history of moral and intellectual evolution. Man did not advance from his primitive beginnings by choking off everyone who had a new idea, or a new way of looking at old problems. Nor can it be argued that morality reached perfection at any particular moment in history, and that the best that we can do is to maintain things as they are. The CBC gives much time to the exponents of organized religion; it gives some time, once a week, to people who follow other modes of thought, not always congenial to organized religion. If there is any unfairness in this, or any harm to the intellectual and moral well-being of the country, we fail to see it.

Put Out The Flags!

It is great news. The Princess and her Duke are coming after all, and the visit is delayed but a week. Canadians everywhere are lifted up by the news, for it means that they really will have the royal couple with them, and that the King's health is sufficiently stable to permit Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip to travel without day-to-day anxiety on his behalf.

Some Canadian newspapers took a gloomy view of the situation by advocating that the royal tour be cancelled or delayed until spring at least. That seems to us to have been fussily feeble-hearted and a premature, dismal judgement. His Majesty is still seriously ill, but he is holding his own and by the time set for departure, will be out of immediate danger. The King will be ill for many months and there is no indication that his condition will permit a more joyous tour in the Spring than now, this autumn. We are sure that the King would not wish to deprive the royal couple and fourteen million Canadians of the visit, and now that the crisis is passed, Princess Elizabeth will in a sense be exercising her filial responsibilities by making the trip. She has other duties to the King than to remain by his bedside.

Where Are The Garden Giants?

Usually in August and September our offices are festooned with mammoth dahlias, grotesque cucumbers, potato monsters, and onion oddities, brought to us by chuckling and impressed readers who believe—often rightly—that they have raised in their garden, or found in a neighbour's the cussedest biggest specimen in seven counties. We ogle these spectacular specimens, heft them, measure them, call in the whole staff to admire, set a reporter to write an item for the afternoon paper, and then put them in the downstair office window so people who stubbornly refuse to believe all they see in print can get the evidence right in the eye.

But this year we have had nothing except big fish. Not a potato, a cabbage, a toadstool, or even a weird cucumber. What has happened? Has this season been too favourable to all-round, balanced and respectable growth? We refuse to believe it. Tucked away in somebody's garden now, we wager, is the biggest pumpkin that man has ever set eyes on, or a dahlia bloom as wide as a tree-top. Why hide their light under a bushel? It it's fit to print, we'll print its story. If it will not frighten schoolchildren passing by, we'll put it in the window. And if it's fit to eat, we might even take a nibble.

NOTE AND COMMENT

It is now suggested that mud packs relieve arthritis. And the final six-foot mud pack cures everything.

The new Toronto bank building which opened with great fanfare Tuesday has a cafeteria which serves 1,100 people in a hundred minutes. Adjacent to it is a bakeshop equipped with a sixty-quart electric mixer that will beat eggs, mix cakes, chop celery "and perform a multitude of other chores." In the multitude of these chores and the confusion of the thousand people gobbling lunch in a hundred collective minutes, we hope no disaster befalls one of the thousand should he take the wrong swing of the wrong door and end up in the 60-quart mixer.

Notes And Queries

By ALPHA

Questions are solicited for this column particularly those relating to local lore and tradition.

SIR: The level of water in Pigeon Lake became high again towards the end of August. Usually, after June, it stays low until the next spring. What is the reason? I have heard that the series of new dams at Lovesick Lakes accounts for it. If so, does that mean that in general the Kawarthas will now have a higher level?

ANSWER: The new dams may have a little to do with the recent high water level, but I think that the rainy summer is chiefly responsible. There was lots of water, particularly in August, and the Trent Waterway engineers were able to pile up some of it through the complicated system of controls that now exists.

There is no danger of your island or peninsula or cottage site being forever flooded out, for this reason. When the Trent Canal was being built the authorities made a contract with the property owners on Stony Lake and its district—about 1,400 of them—never to vary the water level by more than a foot.

The gauge is at Young's Point, at the Lock, and by contract and in practice the water level never varies by more than a foot; between 8.9 feet and 9.9 feet as marked by the gauge. This information was given me by the retired Chief Engineer of the Trent system, Mr. A. L. Killaly, who had much to do with the original planning.

Since the first plans and contracts with bordering property-owners were made, hundreds of cottagers have taken property in the head-water lakes at the north of the county. They are not protected by contracts, and when the system was first devised, these areas were uninhabited and water levels were of no concern to anybody except the Trent authorities. So sometimes the levels vary in those parts by more than a foot, and they have to, to keep the lower lakes stocked and the towns dependent on them for water and hydro power supplied. Stony Lake is the key of the Kawartha water supply, the final reservoir, and all the dams and channels are focussed on it.

ALPHA: What is a syllogism? The word was used in an address to us Normal School students today.

ANSWER: A syllogism is a device of reasoning, of logic. It is an inference from premises (that is what the word means in Latin and Greek). It is a formal statement of an argument, consisting of three propositions called respectively the major and minor premises and the conclusion. For instance: water is wet (major premise); rain is water (minor premise); therefore, rain is wet (conclusion). That is a perfect syllogism, and expressed in the general terms —

All a is b x is a
Therefore x is b.

A fallacy enters (through the major premise) is a syllogism like this:

All men are mortal;
Christ is a man:
Therefore Christ is mortal.

The syllogism is a device of reasoning used by and before Socrates.

SIR: Who or what is "Pennsylvania Dutch"?

ANSWER: It is both a dialect and a racial strain; but it is not Dutch. "Dutch" was a literal translation of the word "Deutsch" meaning German, and all the people who claim they are of Pennsylvanian Dutch extraction really mean they are of German descent. As a dialect (now almost extinct in the U.S.A.) it is a South German patois which took root in Pennsylvania.

The Pennsylvania Dutch are descended from German settlers who joined the expedition of William Penn in 1682. They received large reinforcements when the Moravian Count Zinzendorf and his co-religionist settled the Lehigh Valley. Later in 1708 the Dunkers, or German Baptists, swelled the German element in Pennsylvania. The settlements of the latter were mainly called by Biblical names — Lebanon, Jordan, Bethlehem, Nazareth, Emmaus.

There are, of course, many people in New England and New York of real Dutch extraction. New York, for instance, was founded by the Dutch and maintained as a Dutch colony (New Amsterdam) until the British captured it. Hence the name Harlem—Haarlem is a Dutch town near the north-west coast, in the centre of the tulip district.

CLONSILLA: A further bit of information has come my way about this house, on the Sherbrooke Street hill north of the street, and after which Clonsilla Avenue is named. The house was built in 1833 for the Kirkpatricks and named after their place in Ireland. It is of fieldstone, over which plaster has been laid.

DEAR ALPHA: Who is responsible for the unique wind-vane atop the new City Hall dome? The design is a delight both artistically and for its originality of idea.

ANSWER: I agree that the design—two Canada geese—is distinctive and pleasing. It was done, I have been told, by some unnamed person associated with the architects' firm —Marani and Morris. From the position of the geese atop the gold-leafed cupola it is apparent that one of them (the other is probably a gander) is in reality the goose that laid the golden egg.

❖ ❖ ❖

FOR THE RECORD: The new City Hall is almost ready for occupancy and furniture is being moved in. It will be officially opened on the last Friday of October by the Mayor of Peterborough, England, who is being brought out specially for the purpose, with, we presume, his chain of office. Mayor Swanston will also be able to sport a chain; one has been ordered and executed in England as a gift from a private citizen. . . . Daylight Saving Time ends Saturday night, after which we will go back to the pleasurable habit of night saving.

JUST THE THING

A golfing widow wanted a talking parrot for company. She went to a dealer and said:

"My husband is away so much of the time playing golf that I want a parrot for company. Does this one use bad language?"

"Madam," said the dealer impressively, "with this bird in the house you'll never miss your husband."

EASY IF

"How do you like being a married man, Bill?"

"Oh, I find that being a husband is just like any other job; it's much easier if you like your boss."

An American Opinion: "WHAT'LL HE DO IN '52?"

The Quantity of Unknown Strength

British Election Trends

By SENATOR RUPERT DAVIES

WHETHER or not Mr. Attlee intended his announcement of the election date, October 25th, to be a complete surprise it is very hard to tell. There is no doubt that his intimates in the Cabinet knew the date a week or ten days before but, while nearly everyone was expecting an election this Fall, only one member of Parliament—a Labour member, Mr. Harry Dodds (Dartford, Kent)—hit upon the right date. He announced it as a near-certainty a fortnight ago. Mr. Dodds had accurately forecast the date of the 1950 Election.

Nevertheless, the Conservatives either had secret advance information or else they are very good guessers. In this country, as in Canada, there is always an effort to secure public halls for large gatherings the night before the election. The Conservatives seem to have gained an advantage in this respect. Some Conservative agents had secured halls for the night of October 24th as far back as ten weeks ago. Mr. Anthony Eden's agent booked halls for this date ten weeks ago in Leamington, Warwick and Kenilworth. He had also arranged, at the same time, for halls in the same places for 'Opening of Campaign' meetings on October 4th and 5th.

Mr. Aubrey Jones, the Conservative candidate for the Hall Green Division of Birmingham, also guessed the date correctly. Two months ago he booked halls and made arrangements for an election to be held on October 25th. Another Conservative candidate from another Birmingham division did the same thing. The agent for the Chippenham Division of Wiltshire on Wednesday afternoon, some hours before Mr. Attlee's announcement, arranged for a hall for the night of October 4th in which to open the campaign for Mr. David Eccles, one of the leading younger members of the Conservative Party, whose speeches during the past month have attracted widespread attention. If the Conservatives win I feel sure that Mr. Eccles will be considered for a Cabinet position. I had the pleasure of meeting him at a little private dinner five years ago and was introduced to him as "a future Chancellor of the Exchequer". Time will tell. Several others had been lucky in securing halls for the right dates but the scramble did not really start until after Mr. Attlee's announcement on Wednesday.

ALREADY one hears speculation everywhere as to the result. Since Mr. Attlee's announcement I have met people from a number of constituencies. A London lady—a strong Conservative, I found,—held much the same opinion as I hold myself—that the Labour Government will be returned again. From contacts in London she "is afraid so". On the other hand, a prominent Liberal, also from London and closely in touch with the political situation, is certain that "the Tories are going in". At the moment I have a weekend guest from London who takes no active interest in politics but who feels that the Labour Government will have a very hard time. He is sure that the sitting Labour member for his own constituency will be defeated. These opinions are, of course, personal but they indicate the contradictory thinking that one finds everywhere so early in the campaign.

❖ ❖ ❖

WHENEVER I hear some of my Tory friends talking in terms of a majority for their Party of from 50 to 100 I wonder how many of the 8,000,000 trade unionists are going to desert the Labour Party on Election Day. A solid 8,000,000 trade unionists votes is a pretty stiff handicap for the Conservatives to overcome. On the other hand there are very definite indications that the Labour Government is far from popular. The high cost of living, the shortage of fuel, the Persian oil situation and the cleavage in their own ranks are all bound to tell against the Labourites. These things may influence sufficient voters to turn some of the close constituencies but they cannot do much harm in the places where Labour majorities exceed 20,000 — and there are a number of them. There are 41 Socialist seats held by fewer than 2,000 votes. Eight of them are held by majorities of between 500 and 1,000 votes and, as a matter of fact, there are 12 where the majorities do not reach 500. On the other hand, the Conservatives have almost the same situation to contend with in 39 constituencies. When one reads that three seats, averaging about 60,000 voters, are held by majorities of less than 150, one realizes how unsafe some of the seats are and how few votes turned over are needed to unseat the sitting members.

❖ ❖ ❖

AS in 1950, the Liberal strength is an unknown quantity. It has to be reckoned with for good or ill. Mr. Phillip Fothergill, President of the Liberal Party, said when addressing a gathering at the National Liberal Club on Friday "In spite of every viscissitude in the fortunes of the Party and all the handicaps of an inequitable electoral system, the total Liberal vote has never fallen below 3,000,000, an average of 5,000 per constituency". Well, three million voters are a very substantial voting power. In 1950 the Liberals were, in my opinion, very unwise. They spread themselves over too many constituencies. With limited funds and a limited number of active workers they coveted too much territory. They contested 450 seats. This time they are talking of contesting 175 seats and even this, I am told, may possibly be scaled down to 150. At the moment they have nine members in the House of Commons. I do not think they will do more than double this number.

❖ ❖ ❖

I WOULD like to feel that the name of the Directing Secretary of the Liberal Party (W. R. Davies) is a good omen but I am afraid that it will not turn many votes. He will assist Lord Rea of Eskdale, in directing the campaign. Of the present sitting Liberal members about six are from safe Liberal constituencies. The Leader, Mr. Clement Davies, represents a constituency which has gone solidly Liberal since 1880. In 1950 he polled 14,461 as compared with the Labour candidate's 6,070. Lady Megan Lloyd George had a majority of about 2,000 in 1950. There is no indication that she has lost any ground in Anglesey although the Labourities talk of capturing the seat. Mr. Gwilym Lloyd George, brother of Lady Megan, has been given a safe seat by the Conservatives and Lady Bonham Carter, a daughter of the former Liberal Prime Minister, the Earl of Oxford and Asquith (1908-1916), has also been adopted by the Conservatives as well as the Liberals. Another Liberal, Mr. Amrys Roberts (Merioneth), led four candidates in 1950 (including a Welsh Nationalist) by over 1,000 votes. This year it is doubtful whether a Welsh Nationalist will contest his seat. In Cardiganshire the Liberal had a majority in 1950 of over 8,000 and in the Scottish constituency of Orkney and Jetland the Liberal also won by the comfortable margin of 3,000.

❖ ❖ ❖

IF the Liberals enter only 175 candidates what will become of the Liberal votes in the other 300 or so constituencies? One writer, analyzing the vote as a result of a poll taken, gives 60 per cent. of the Liberal vote to the Conservatives and 40 per cent. to the Labour. An English writer who analyzed the General Election of 1950 for a political study group states that if, in addition to the Tory swing of three per cent. in 1950 which resulted in Labour losing 82 seats and the Tories gaining 85, there is another swing of two per cent. it will send Mr. Churchill back to Westminster in command of over 350 Conservatives. He expects the Tories to make gains in the industrial sections, where, in 1950, there were some close marginal majorities.

❖ ❖ ❖

AS the campaign progresses the situation will become clearer; at the time of writing, however, it is very confused. Many people are waiting for the manifestoes of the parties. They should be out in a week or ten days. However, it is interesting to note the polls which were taken on the eve of Mr. Attlee's announcement. The polls were published by the London 'News Chronicle' and the 'Daily Express', the latter called here 'the poll of Public Opinion', it being, I believe, a poll taken by the Gallup Organization. Both polls give the Conservatives a handsome lead. The News Chronicle's B.I.P.O. gives the Tories 59 per cent. to Labour's 39 per cent., while the 'Daily Express' poll makes it 51½ per cent. for the Tories and 38 per cent. for Labour. No one has yet made any predictions as to what the Liberals will do. I am afraid they will suffer severely from the fact that there is not the slightest chance of their being able to form a government.

They Don't Vote

(St. Catharines Standard)

Her Royal Highness, Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh will be in Washington, D.C., on the voting day of the British election. The Princess cannot vote in any event, as there is a rule which disfranchises all the members of the Royal Family.

The Duke cannot vote, either. In Britain "peers, lunatics, felons and bankrupts" are all deprived of the ballot. The Duke is a Peer. But what a quirk in British law which provides such a category of discrimination.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And in the second year of the reign of Nebuchadnezzar Nebuchadnezzar dreamed dreams, wherewith his spirit was troubled, and his sleep brake from him. . . Then Arioch brought in Daniel before the king in haste, and said thus unto him, I have found a man of the captives of Judah that will make known unto the king the interpretation. . . .

Daniel answered in the presence of the king, and said, The secret which the king hath demanded, cannot the wise men, the astrologers, the magicians, the soothsayers, shew unto the king; but there is a God in heaven that revealeth secrets, and maketh known to the king Nebuchadnezzar what shall be in the latter days. Thy dream, and the visions of thy head upon thy bed, are these. . . . Thou, O king, sawest, and behold a great image. This great image, whose brightness was excellent, stood before thee; and the form thereof was terrible. This image's head was of fine gold, his breast and his arms of silver, his belly and his thighs of brass, his legs of iron, his feet part of iron and part of clay.

Thou sawest till that a stone was cut out without hands, which smote the image upon his feet that were of iron and clay and brake them to pieces. Then was the iron, the clay, the brass, the silver, and the gold, broken to pieces together, and became like the chaff of the summer threshingfloors; and the wind carried them away, that no place was found for them: and the stone that smote the image became a great mountain, and filled the whole earth . . .

Thou, O king, art a king of kings: for the God of heaven hath given thee a kingdom, power, and strength, and glory. . . And after thee shall arise another kingdom inferior to thee, and another third kingdom of brass, which shall bear rule over all the earth. And the fourth kingdom shall be strong as iron. . .

And in the days of these kings shall the God of heaven set up a kingdom, which shall never be destroyed: and the kingdom shall not be left to other people, but it shall break in pieces and consume all these kingdoms and it shall stand for ever. (Dan. 2: 1, 25, 27, 28, 31-35, 37, 39, 40, 44.)

Letters To The Editor

HERO CHURCHILL

Sir: The British elections are now with us, and Winston Churchill is due for a return as Prime Minister of Britain.

Anyone very observant of facts as they unfold before us today also can say the fearful roll call of heroism is sufficient witness to the valour of the British Commonwealth of Nations.

No man in history has shown more heroism than Winston Churchill. It is inevitable that for generations to come, our children and their children will read the story of Winston Churchill and be proud because the democratic world paid attention to words of his that shook the world, and the like of which no man before him ever dared to utter, "All I can promise is blood, sweat and tears". Fortunate indeed are those of us who live in the same world with such a man. Long may he remain hereabouts. After his work shall have been finished and may he be pleased with the world he has done so much to save for all men, for all time.

Yes, when the lights of freedom were burning low, and despair had taken root, a light appeared on the horizon of hope. That light was Winston Churchill. The most amazing man of our time has one man done so much for so many. His honesty, frankness and courage are virtues the pattern of which others may follow with enduring profit. We must not slacken our efforts. Apathy will not be tolerated, especially at this critical time. National unity is essential. So we have Winston Churchill, soldier, artist and statesman, as the embodiment of "British courage".

Very truly yours,
HAROLD GILBERT, Veteran.

THE FARMERS' EFFORT

Sir: Your editorial of September 24 based on the annual report of Canada Packers is most unfair. There can be no fair comparison between prices in 1935-39 and 1951. The former were depression years and everyone knows that at such times agricultural prices are always depressed for below parity. This was recognized by the government and when price ceilings were applied later, the price level of farm products was allowed to rise till a proper balance was reached. Might I remind you that during those depression years the farmers carried on and in spite of surpluses and starvation prices, produced their crops every year. Industry laid off its men, let them go on relief at huge cost to the country. But we fed them.

In comparing prices it is well to consider that while industry has shortened its hours, raised its wages and is producing less per man, we have worked our usual long hours, and with less men, have increased production.

Much is said about the rising cost-of-living index but few know that the Bureau of Statistics issues a separate index for farm costs. April is the last report I have seen and the index was then 218.3. It certainly hasn't declined since.

Canadian Woollen Goods Manufacturers Put On Show

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

The Canadian Woollen and Knit Goods Manufacturers' Association announces that a public exhibit of textile fabrics and wearing apparel will be held in Winnipeg in conjunction with the association's annual meeting there Oct. 16-18.

The announcement adds that samples will be shown of the "Princess Elizabeth colors" including, for ladies' wear, "Edinburgh green," taken from the silver spruce, a tree common to Canada and Scotland; a new deep rich Elizabethan rose; and, for children, "Mayflower," a gay, clear pink, and "cupid blue," a turqoise. Also:

"As wives are accompanying members to the anual meeting for the first time, business sessions will be arranged to as to allow time for the main purpose of the gathering—to get acquainted with Winnipeg, which has emerged as a leading textile manufacturing and fashion centre, setting many of the new styles, particularly in sportswear."

The association's membership represents some 550 mills throughout Canada.

Research in industry todays is vital and costly, and has its oddities. Steelways, published by the American Iron and Steel Institute, says that one steel corporation's bill for research and development in the last year was roughly $30,000,000—"and the trend is rather up than down."

Here are a couple of the oddities as reported by Sam Dawson, of The Associated Press:

Hood Rubber Company of Watertown, Mass., hires a 203-pound woman to walk 100 miles in its footwear, testing the endurance of seams, stitching and eyelets. The company says she never loses a pound. And:

"Socony-Vacuum Oil Company, in its Brooklyn laboratories, tests the degree of corrosion in the touch of a 'red-head.' The company says they are the most corrosive of all and even a light fingerprint by a 'red-head' could ruin some delicate machinery in a comparatively few hours. The tests are made to determine the ability of various flushing oils to protect highly-machined metals."

What might be termed research on what goes on in people's heads is contained in the current monthly letter of the Royal Bank of Canada, entitled, "On Straight Thinking." It says:

"Some of us imagine that we are thinking when we are only sitting at ease watching a memory movie. Reverie can be deceptive. We may sit down to ponder a problem, and with a corner of one eye on a corner of the truth we may spend an hour wandering without profit amid things that interest us but are not important to the question at hand."

Electric Appliance Makers Protest Credit Curbs

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

The makers of stoves, refrigerators, radios, and the various other things that come under the heading of "electrical appliances," feel the government has made it too difficult for people to buy their products.

They feel the industry is being made to bear too heavy a part of the fight against inflation; that, in fact, credit restrictions and excise taxes, in their present degree, do not fight inflation; that people are spending their money anyway on lower-priced goods, without being able to buy higher-priced articles which they need.

These views were expressed yesterday at the annual press conference given by officials of the Canadian Electrical Manufacturers' Association in connection with the Association's annual meeting at Niagara Falls, Ont. W. C. Cannon, of Toronto presided.

Here are some other points expressed in the general discussion:

Caused Layoffs

Current production in electrical appliances is down by more than one-half from the same time last year. This has led to lay-offs. Employment has been kept at its present level only by producing more goods than are being sold. This cannot continue indefinitely and the industry is fearful of losing trained personnel which it may need later for defence orders.

Present defence orders account for about two per cent. of production and this may go up to five per cent. in the next six months or year; but, in the opinion of spokesmen, it is not likely to go up fast enough to take care of the slack caused by reduced civilian sales.

The radio industry reports that it had 232,000 radios on hand in Canada. The washing machine industry says it could stop production for the rest of the year and still be able to supply present buyers.

Backing up a view that the credit restrictions—the increased down and monthly payment requirements—and increased excise taxes, have worked more drastically than the government intended, Mr. Cannon said:

Cut 60%

"It is reasonable to believe that the government's motive in increasing excise taxes and instituting credit restrictions, was to effect a 20 per cent. reduction in the production of appliances in relation to 1950 levels. Actually, these and othe factors have decreased production by 60 per cent, and it is felt that when the situation is fully appreciated some relief will be granted the industry."

However, spokesmen added, they have received no encouragement from the government that there will be any changes in the credit restrictions or taxes.

The situation is complicated by the prospect of shortages in materials. If, for instance, buying should return to the 1950 level by the end of this year, there may be a shortage of household appliances by mid-1952.

However, it was indicated, this does not now help the appliance maker, with unsold goods gathering in his warehouses, attempting to keep a staff together in the adjustment period between normal and possible defence production.

The electrical industry in general, outside its appliance divisions, is busy in the fields of apparatus and supply.

Nevertheless, the industry this year has felt the effect of United States and British competition under what it considers unfair conditions.

US Competition

In the first six months of this year imports of United States refrigerators were about 39 per cent. of Canadian production. Last year, 41,258 United States radios, with a retail value of $1,250,000, were brought in, and, it was stated:

"No check whatever is made on these sets to determine if they meet our electrical standards at the time of entry."

Opinion at the press conference seemed to be that Canadian producers have reasonable protection in tariffs as such, but that there has been a weakening in the enforcement of anti-dumping and associated regulations.

United States producers might not actually be "dumping" goods, it was stated, but they are selling at cut prices in order to keep up their volume so that they will be entitled to a larger allocation of materials.

In regard to British and European competition in such products as underground cables, heavy generators, etc., it was stated that British wage rates in the electrical industry are one-third the rates paid in Canada.

These low wages, it was stated, are made possible by British subsidies on food which, in effect, constitute an indirect subsidy to British industry through making it possible for it to pay lower wages.

Crowe Backs Face-Off Rule Claims Easterners Follow Code Laid Down By CLA

By C. J. PERDUE, Examiner Sports Editor

VANCOUVER, Sept. 28.—Early last spring when President Bob Peirson of the Peterborough Lacrosse Club announced that Don Crowe of Toronto—a star in Peterborough sports for years ere returning to his native city—had been appointed Petes' OLA senior coach for 1951, a lot of fans criticized the move; though many others applauded the appointment. The critics contended that Don had never proven himself a coach or leader in sports. They said he had been a senior star for many seasons in lacrosse, hockey and football, but that did not mean that he could lead the Timbermen through to a title. His ability as a leader was unproven.

DON CROWE

Today, Crowe has his crew playing off for the Dominion senior crown, after the Petes won the OLA series and the Eastern Canada title. No other Peterborough club in the city's sports history has come so far. Surely Crowe's critics have been stilled by the accomplishments of his team to date.

It is true that a good team can make a coach look good—and the 1951 Petes were certainly classy. Nonetheless, the players themselves will admit readily that Crowe moulded a bunch of stars and near-stars into a compact and competent club. He is well liked by his men but drives them hard when necessary, and takes no back talk from anyone. If a player tries to buck him, that player is promptly side-lined. Don played under many top coaches and he knows their methods to produce the best results.

He is a canny player yet one who does not drive recklessly ahead but looks for openings or teammates ready to break loose from a check. He is turning in a bangup checking and attacking game in this big series. Opposing players, sizing up his 205 muscular pounds and that rugged countenance, take no liberties with husky Don. He fights fiercely for his team in the committee room, and won a number of important points on east-west rule interpretations before the Mann Cup series opened at a CLA meeting. He does not bluff easily, and Crowe knows lacrosse thoroughly.

Face-off Rule

In their hotel lobby shortly before leaving by plane Wednesday for the second game in Victoria, Don had Manager Bob Curtin and his assistant, Red Creighton, demonstrate for this writer the corect way to faceoff in lacrosse. Then he produced the 1951 CLA rule book and read the interpretation for the faceoff procedure. It tallied with Don's idea and it proved that the easterners were going by the code correctly. Don said: "Nuts to them, they're not kidding us, any."

Peterborough sport followers of the 30s will recall big Don and his tricky lacrosse-stick-handling, when he was a high scorer and hard checker. They will remember him, too, bouncing the opposition in intermediate "A" and senior "B" hockey—when he helped the Petes win an Eastern Canada puck title. Nor can they forget his plunging and kicking for the senior grid Orfuns before he was signed up by Balmy Beaches.

Of course, he took time out in 1941 to join the RCAF, and he served abroad for five years as a pilot, flying various types of fighting aircraft before his discharge as a Flight Lieutenant in 1946. He came to Peterborough from Toronto as a junior and proved a fine all-around athlete in his stay in that city. He came back last spring as playing-coach of the Petes' lacrossers and maintained his popularity and his reputation in the field of athletics.

Threaten To Withdraw

Vancouver Combines, Canadian Press said today, threaten to withdraw from the Mann Cup finals unless the Canadian Lacrosse Association decides in favor of the west on the contentious face-off rule.

Peterbrough Petes were equally insistent that interpretation of the rule be decided in their favor.

In the east, the centres may face off on either side of the ball, their left shoulders towards the opposing goal.

Frank Gnup Promises Fighting Team

Ever since the Orfuns' management announced that Frank Gnup of Hamilton Wildcat fame, would coach the Peterborough Orfuns, football fans have been asking how he was persuaded to come here.

Coach Gnup can explain that easily and in one word, baseball. This year his position as general manager of the Guelph entry in the Inter-County Baseball League kept him busy into the football season.

Late arriving in Regina and Winnipeg, he found the teams picked and playing, some even with three games played. He returned east to work and talked with Argo president, Bob Moran, who mentioned that Peterborough was looking for a coach.

After a few preliminaries, Frank Gnup, former Hamilton Wildcat coach and member of the 1950 Dominion champion Argos, became coach of the Orfuns.

Ragged Football

Gnup, after pouring over plays and his Wednesday night's game's notes, said Thursday that in spite of the large score the Orfuns played ragged football and missed their assignments. But he liked the hustle and the tackling, especially when two and three men took part.

Referring to his alternating several players on the defence and offence, Gnup explained that 60 minutes is too much for any player to play, adding that "the more players, the fresher they are when they enter the game."

"I'd like to have two platoons, but—I might do it yet."

Gnup has seen only Orillia and Oshawa in action besides the Orfuns and East York. He recalled that Oshawa had depth, but wouldn't comment on Orillia who were without their star Milligan.

Promises Fight

About the future, Gnup said, "We'll be all right; we'll give them all trouble. In fact I think we'll be in the thick of things, providing there are not too many injuries and the team is polished off a bit. Yes, we'll make things interesting."

When asked to compare American football with Canadian, Gnup explained "there's not a whole lot of difference, but the Americans are schooled better in the fundamentals. They're almost the same but for the blocking and a few other rules."

About his future in Peterborough and his future in the Big Four and others, Gnup admitted, "I'm getting old, they're looking for youth and speed."

What about Peterborough, would he like to stay here? Gnup and his wife, who was here over the weekend, both like Peterborough.

Both Teams Lose

PORTLAND, Ore., Sept. 28 —(AP).—Ever hear of a football game in which both teams lost?

Two Portland high schools achieved it.

Roosevelt came out the nominal winner, 34-0. But it was discovered that two ineligible players had been used and Roosevelt was ordered to forfeit the game.

Next it was learned the other team, Cleveland, also had used an ineligible player.

A forfeit defeat was marked against both teams.

NET-MOUTH SCRAMBLE — Harry Buchanan of Vancouver and Curly Mason of Peterborough battle for a loose ball in the first game of the best-of-seven Mann Cup championships in Vancouver. Vancouver goalie is Jack Green. Peterborough won the first game, 16-9, lost the second, 11-7.

PCVS-TCS Game Said Weekend's Sport Feature

Probably the best collegiate football game of the year is scheduled for Morrow Park Saturday afternoon when PCVS seniors meet Trinity College School seniors.

The annual meeting between the Port Hope boys' school team and the Garnet and Grey is always considered an early season indication of the strength of both teams. During the past six years the results have been even.

Usually both teams settle down to playing football; there's very rarely a penalty, except an offside called in the game. But the play is full of excellent kicking, passing and running.

The only other excitement in the city over the weekend is the OLA juvenile semi-finals series game between the Petes and Fergus. The first game is scheduled for tonight in Fergus and return game is Saturday at Miller Bowl, the winner to meet Sarnia-Windsor series in Ontario championships.

Orfuns at Cobourg

All eyes will be on the Orfuns-Galloping Ghosts game in Cobourg where the early effects of the Gnup-coached Orfuns may be seen more clearly. This game is actually the acid test for the Orfuns, but more practices (there's only been a week and a half under Gnup) will make a better Orfun showing later in Peterborough.

All plans for the Cobourg game will be hidden by Gnup until the team takes to the field Saturday afternoon.

Already this season, last year's Dominion intermediate champions, have turned back East York and Orillia easily. The Ghosts expect their toughest assignment against the Gnup-coached Orfuns.

The Ghosts have built this year's offensive around a new half line this season. Bun Flesch Coon Medhurst and Dare Campbell, the backfield, are all under 21 and only Medhurst drew a regular berth last season.

Bob Cooper, former coach of this year's backfield coach, will be at flying wing to steady the trio; he'll likely be throwing passes to ends Eagle Hircock and Bill Douglas.

Plan Celebration

The Ghosts must expect great things from the Orfuns; they have planned the biggest opening celebration in years, the game march to be headed by the Leaside Lions trumpet band and cheerleaders.

In Oshawa the PCVS junior Garnet and Greys probably also will face their toughest opposition this year, Oshawa CVI. Along the lakeshore the Oshawa collegiate team is expected to sweep the Lake Ontario "A" league.

Coach Al MacQuarrie has revamped his Garnet and Greys for the game after a so-so game with the strong Toronto Riverdale collegiate juniors last Saturday. PCVS lost 16-0.

Other sports over the weekend will see the UEW soccer team in Orillia for the return game of Ontario playdowns, the Peterborough team now up six goals and will see Hastings at Dixie in the second game of the junior OASA series.

Monday at the Kawartha Golf and Country Club the Ontario Greenkeepers' Association will hold their annual tournament. Tuesday the St. Peter's High juniors will entertain Grove School of Lakefield in an afternoon grid contest.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

VANCOUVER, B.C., Sept. 28.—It's back in heavy action tonight at Kerrisdale arena here for the Vancouver Combines and the Petes in their best-of-seven series for the Mann Cup and the Dominion senior lacrosse title. Each team has taken one game to date, and the fourth one is billed for Vancouver's Forum on Monday. Jerry Fitzgerald is expected to be in the Easterners' lineup this evening. This is an important tilt as Kerrisdale was the home floor all season for the Combines, and the Petes want to trim them right there to knock some of the confidence out of them, as well as to take a lead in the Canadian sawoffs. And to make fans forget that 11-7 loss Wednesday.

* * * * * *

The Sun said yesterday: "This lacrosse skirmish is going to be a real knock-'em-down-drag-out donnybrook after all. The underdogs snapped and sneered at the odds last night to win a bitter brawl strictly on their merits with fast free-wheeling tactics. Combines used a spectacular short-passing game in the last two periods and bottled Peterborough attacks with some corking tight checks. True, Vancouver got the benefit of many Petes' loose balls and capitalized on the sudden second-half letdown which shrouded the Easterners." Yes, we think the Vancouver scribe used a good word in "shrouded", as it's still a mystery how they fell apart.

* * * * * *

The Province writer criticized the use of the wood by the Timbermen. . . . They drew most of the penalties—and gave credit to the last-half hustle by the speedy Combines. It isn't a gentle series, at all, and could well be a rough one to the bitter end. The refs let a lot go, though the Petes thought they were getting the worst of it on penalties. However, that's no alibi for their loss Wednesday. . . . they just couldn't get untracked in the last half and Combines carried more of the play. Wootton's eye is okay and he is playing his usual fine game, but he needs help in this series. Fitz might well mean the difference. McKenzie and Peterson work hard and both are fine players, but we liked the Petes better as a winning combination when they won the Eastern Canada finals, with Hildebrand, Ashbee and Fitzgerald aboard.

* * * * * *

The controversial faceoff rule is still much in evidence out here. A lot of shooting off of faces, if you'll pardon us. The Petes, at the request of the CLA, agreed to try out the Western version of the faceoff Wednesday, and they didn't like it. CLA previously admitted that the Eastern version was the correct one according to the Canadian rule book. That means that you face each other standing up with your left shoulder toward the enemy goal. But it concludes, "But a facing-off player may draw from either a right-handed or left-handed stance according to his preference." Now, the Westerners ignore this line and say you must continue all through the faceoff and draw with your left shoulder toward the opposing goal. They're so insistent that they threaten to default the series. The Petes now are just as insistent the other way. And the CLA is on a hot spot. We'll see how it is tonight.

* * * * * *

Who should show up there but Jerry O'Toole, maestro at Miller Bowl all season of the program sales. LAC Jerry of Trenton hitched an RCAF Dakota ride to Calgary and then thumbed it by car through the western states to Seattle and then Vancouver. Took him some three and a half days, and now he's helping trainer Gunner Lynch pack equipment around the various places, dry out uniforms, and so on. Happy as a lark at being in on the series after following the Petes for years. Though he does cast the odd envious eye at the chaps out here with the program-selling concessions.

* * * * * *

Elaine Leahy, a graduate from St. Joseph's hospital met the boys as stewardess of a Vancouver-Victoria flight. All these TCA stewardesses are nurses. Others formerly of Peterborough who have been around as Vancouver or Victoria residents are: Wearing Clarke, Roy Thompson, Bob MacKey, Cec Brown, Vernon Stanley-Jones, R. E. Layfield, Mrs. Hugh Lickley (nee Maretta Sanderson), and Bill Crossley, who played hockey in Peterborough with Chris Graham, Rollie Glover, etc., back in 1905. They keep dropping around and asking to be remembered to the folks back home.

* * * * * *

Some Odds and Ends: We've been interviewed several times on the radio and our population keeps growing each time. As for the city's industries we've been adding more in a week than the council did in five years. Nit O'Hearn is the happy-go-lucky fellow that keeps the Petes laughing even when things get rough. Price of cigarettes here go up three cents a pack Monday, two to the packers and the other one to the always-present penny tax on everything you buy. Don McPhail views the games in glum silence, as it doesn't look like he'll get a chance to play for the Petes. The team took in a tour of a big dairy Thursday and a fish canning factory. Biggest in the British Commonwealth. Which reminds us that they play "O Canada" here instead of "The King" before games. Be back home next Thursday night, we hope.

Pros, Amateurs Busy At Lindsay

While Peterborough hockey teams will have to wait another week before there is ice in the Civic Arena, professional and amateur teams are making full use of Lindsay's ice surface.

Springfield and Syracuse teams have been trying out players and holding workouts in Lindsay during the past three weeks and now the Lindsay intermediates, under former Peterborough Legion defenceman, Al Burns, have started practices.

Moves Club

Coach Frank Beisler moved his new Syracuse hockey club to Montreal for a series of exhibition games with Sherbrooke and Valleyfield, both of the Quebec Senior League, and with the Montreal Canadiens.

Still working out under Eddie Shore is Springfield, who have 30 amateurs still hopeful of catching a berth in the Boston chain.

Some Lindsay Kinsmen juniors still holding on are Herb Baker, Ken Schinkel, Bruce Hall, Dave Lucas, Walter Shervington, and Doug Powell, who during the summer months played with Peterborough's OLA junior finalists.

Reg Truax, Lindsay Collegiate football player and 1950 goalie of Lindsay's Ontario midget champions, has been showing well in workouts with Springfield.

Injuries Cutting Imports Plague Football Coaches

By The Canadian Press.

American imports and injured players are the problems that all eight coaches of major Canadian football teams are up against as their teams prepare for action this weekend.

All eight teams will play. In the Western Interprovincial Union, the leading Edmonton Eskimos play Saskatchewan Roughriders Saturday and Winnipeg Blue Bombers Monday, both games at Edmonton.

Calgary Stampeders play Blue Bombers Saturday and Roughriders Monday. Both games are at Calgary.

In the Big Four Union, Hamilton Tiger-Cats play Ottawa Rough Riders in Ottawa Saturday and Montreal Alouettes play Toronto Argonauts in Montreal Sunday.

Eskimos Fair

Edmonton coach Annis Stukus has a team that is reported in "fair shape" for the weekend.

Fullback Don Lord, out for some weeks with an injury, will put on his pads again. But Chuck Quilter from 'Frisco 49ers'—one of Stukus' top linesmen—will be out for the season because of a knee injury suffered last Saturday.

Eskimos' quarterback Lindy Berry, named most valuable player in the west last year, is still out of the Edmonton lineup following a knee operation. He may be in one game for just one play to establish his second year as an American import playing on a Canadian team.

Stampeders, tail-enders in the Western Conference, are in better shape. Their top scorer, end Bob Shaw, will be in the line-up though he is favoring an injured ankle.

They are introducing a new end, Paul Salata from the disbanded Baltimore Colts.

Quarterbacks Keith Spaith and Stan Heath—out recently with injuries—also were back in practice this week, though it is not known whether both are in playing shape.

Must Cut Imports

Though Big Four coaches have injury problems to worry them, they seemed this week more concerned with their extra imports. By a Canadian Rugby Football Union ruling these must be cut to seven per team by Oct. 1.

Coach Carl Voyles of the Tiger-Cats has eight crack imports, all of whom have performed capably in recent games. Two of these are quarterbacks—Zeke Martin and Bernie Custis.

Argonauts have 10 imports—two quarterbacks, three ends, three halves and two line-men. The latest is a new pass-catching end, Al Pfeifer from New York Giants.

Alouettes have only one import to discard as have Ottawa Rough Riders.

Regroups Squad

Coach Clem Crowe of Ottawa this week did some regrouping on his squad. Don Loney, long rated one of the best centres in the east will go into an offensive slot as a tackle. And Jake Dunlap a middle who was dropped a couple of weeks ago, will be given another try.

All four teams of the Senior Intercollegiate Football Union will play exhibition games tomorrow. University of Toronto Blues will play McMaster Marauders of the Ontario Rugby Football Union in Toronto and Toronto Balmy Beach of the ORFU will lock horns with Queens at Kingston.

University of Western Ontario Mustangs will play Sarnia Imperials of the ORFU in Sarnia and McGill Redmen will tilt with University of Ottawa Carabins of the Otatwa-S. Lawrence Conference in Cornwall.

Kingston Team Will Not Play

KINGSTON, Sept. 28.—Lorne Cook, a member of the OHA executive and group convener, said that the Kingston Pats had been officiiially admitted to the association at a meeting in Toronto last Friday night, with the stipulation that they must secure ice privileges for home games. Owing to a misunderstanding, it was stated yesterday that the Patterson entry had been denied admittance to the OHA.

George Patterson last night confirmed the report that the new organization will not ice a team this season. He said that he had hoped to stage home games in the Harty Arena following failure to secure those privileges in the community Memorial Centre.

Patterson had been assured that the OHA executive would consider applications for releases from the following players: Jack Stone, Glynn Udall, Doug Patterson, Eddie Plumb, Buddy Aitken, and Bob Joyce. With the exception of Doug Patterson, all the players named withdrew their applications when it was explained that in moving they would be classed as imports.

Remember When—

Andre Routis, game French featherweight, stripped Tony Canzoneri of his world's featherweight boxing title 23 years ago tonight at New York. The Frenchman was badly battered in the early rounds, but made a whirlwind comeback to win the 15-round decision. Canzoneri moved up to win the lightweight title in 1930.

New President Of Cincinnati Promises Move

CINCINNATI, Sept. 28 (AP)—Gabriel Howard Paul, who worked himself up from a batboy, took over the general managership of the Cincinnati Reds last night and said he would trade every man on the roster if it will help win ball games.

The 41-year-old former Reds' vice-president, who succeeds Warren Giles, declared the floundering Reds are going to win more games next season than any Cincinati club in recent years.

The optimistic statements came after Powel Crosley, chairman of the board of Cincinnati Ball Club, named Paul to fill the vacancy caused several hours earlier when Giles accepted the presidency of the National League.

Terms of Paul's contract and salary were not disclosed.

Retains Manager

Paul's first official act was to anpounce Luke Sewell will be retained as manager for the 1952 season.

The 55-year-old Giles who wanted to be baseball commissioner but settled for new commissioner for Frick's former job, had this to say about his successor:

"Gabe has done a great job for me. He has done a great job with me. He will do a great job for Cincinnati."

Here's what Paul says about the 1952 version of the Reds:

"We are going to have a completely-changed ball club. You won't recognize it on the field next season. It may not be better, but it will be different."

Lindsay To Play Series With Listowel

LINDSAY, Sept. 28.—Lindsay Merchants, Eastern Ontario winners, and Listowel Legionnaires of the Intercounty League, will open a best-of-three OBA intermediate "B" semi-final here on Saturday afternoon.

The local Lakeshore League champions, winners over Picton Athletics in three games, will probably start their 16-game winner Doug Loucks against Listowel's ace right-hander, Ken McKenzie, who has a 13-2 record.

Brooklyn Must Win Last 3 One Loss May Cause NY Tie

By ED CORRIGAN,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

With Brooklyn Dodgers clinging to a half game lead over New York Giants in the torrid National League pennant race, Brook manager Charlie Dressen today found himself in a mighty ticklish situation.

The prides of Brooklyn reeled into Philadelphia for tonight's game with the Phillies with this situation facing them:

In order to ensure themselves the pennant, they must sweep all three games with the Phils during the weekend. Then, even if the Giants win both their remaining contests with Boston Braves in Bean Town, they're in.

But if they lose one and the Giants win two, the race will end in a deadlock and if they lose two and the Giants win two — woosh, it will be wait-till-next-year. So from the Giants' view, the Durochermen must win their two games with the Braves and hope for an assist from the Phils.

Roe Failed

After Brook ace Preacher Roe failed yesterday, absorbing a 4-3 defeat at the hands of the Braves, Dressen plans to send Carl Erskine (16-11) against the Phils in the opener. Following him, it could be Don Newcombe and Roe again on Sunday.

As for the American League, New York Yankes are in a position to breathe a little easier what with their 2½ game bulge over Cleveland Indians. The Yanks can clinch the pennant today if they whip Boston Red Sox in a scheduled doubleheader.

The Sox are ripe, too, after being mathematically eliminated yesterday by Washington Senators 8-6. Yank manager Casey Stengel is taking no chances. He's throwing two of his aces against the Sox, Allie Reynolds (16-8) and Vic Raschi (20-10).

The excited Dodgers really blew their tops yesterday at umpire Frank Dascoli, who called Bob Addis safe at home with what proved to be the winning run in the eighth, Dascoli cleared the Brook bench and threw out catcher Roy Campanella and coach Cookie Lavagetto.

Allowed Six Hits

Chet Nichols, a 20-year-old southpaw stifled the Dodgers with six hits while his mates were tapping Roe for 10. Brooklyn went ahead twice, but couldn't hold the advantage either time.

In the fatal eighth, Addis singled and went to third on Jethroe's single. Earl Torgeson grounded to Jackie Robinson, who tried to get Addis. Dascoli called him safe and that set off the din.

The Red Sox apparently cracked wide open, losing all three games to the seventh-place Senators in the current series. They now are six games back with five to play. Chuck Stobbs was the victim.

Rookie Duke Markell hung up his first major league triumph as the tail-end St. Louis Browns stopped Detroit Tigers 7-4.

Oshawa Wins Third Straight

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Sept. 28 (CP).—Oshawa Merchants last night scored 10 runs in the eighth inning for a 13-2 victory and their third straight triumph in their best-of-seven Ontario Baseball Association senior final series with Niagara Falls Fords.

The Merchants were leading 3-2 until their 10-run outburst in the eighth.

Oshawa's Walsh hit one of the longest home-run drives ever seen in a ball park here. His fourth-inning clout landed 400 feet from home plate, bounced over a wire fence and down an embankment and hit a car parked on the roadway.

The fourth game will be played in Oshawa today, with the fifth and sixth, if necessary, also in Oshawa Saturday.

Sarnia Edge Huntsville Lacrosse Semi-Finals

SARNIA, Sept. 28 (CP). — Sarnia Beavers went one game up in their Ontario Lacrosse Association Intermediate A semi-final series by edging Huntsville Hawks 10-8 here last night before 1,250 fans. The second game of the best-in-three series will be played in Huntsville Saturday.

Gord Haddon, Cliff Perry and Ollie Haddon paced the winners with three goals each. Krapik with three tallies and Maloy with two were the leading Huntsville scorers.

Play was close throughout with close checking keeping shots on goal to a minimum. Huntsville featured a smooth passing attack but were stopped time and again by the hard-checking Beavers.

Who Assaulted Umpire's Door After Rhubarb In Boston?

By JOE REICHLER.

BOSTON, Sept. 28 (AP). — DM Jackie Robinson, fiery Brooklyn second baseman, pound and kick the locked door of the umpire's dressing room in a violent rage following the Dodgers' hotly disputed 4-3 loss to the Boston Braves yesterday?

"No," shouted Robinson. "Anybody who says I did is a damned liar."

Did any of the Dodgers assault the barred door, cracking two of its panels, before the arrival of five special policemen to help the regular guard?

"Yes," admitted Robinson. "I know who did it but I'm not saying who."

"I know who did it, too," echoed Brooklyn pitching ace Preacher Roe, victim of the heartbreaking loss that pared the Dodgers' first place lead over the New York Giants to a half game.

"But it wasn't Jackie," added the Preacher. "I'll take an oath on that."

Kicked or Pounded

"I don't know who damaged the umpire's door," another Dodger said, refusing to be identified. "But quite a few of our boys either kicked or pounded it on their way to our dressing room."

Earlier, one of the special policemen had reported that it was Robinson who had done the kicking and pounding.

Ford Frick, president of the National League, said in New York he had talked by telephone with two of the four umpires who had worked the game and neither had mentioned an assault on the officials' door.

The hectic under-the-stands scene came as a result of the ejection of Brooklyn catcher Roy Campanella by plate umpire Dascoli. Campanella had objected violently when Dascoli ruled Bob Addis slid home safely with the run that snapped a 3-3 tie in the eighth to give Boston its dramatic victory.

"He threw his glove on the ground," said Dascoli. "Under the rules he was automatically out of the game."

Not only did Dascoli evict Campanella, but he sent coach Cookie Lavagetta along for company. It was the first time in 10 years that the Dodger coach had ever been chased by an umpire.

The incensed Dodgers continued to heckle Dascoli until the umpire finally cleared the bench of all players—15 in all—and left only manager Charlie Dressen and coach Jake Pitler.

Chance Blown

The importance of Campanella's ejection was borne out in the ninth inning. With Peewee Reese on third and only one out, catcher Rube Walker was due to hit. Normally, it would have been Campy the Dodgers' top run-producer, who would have been at the plate. Dressen sent in pinch-hitter Wayne Terwilliger, who bounced out without advancing the runner. Andy Pafko then fanned to end the game.

The Dodgers, to a man, insisted they were not protesting Dascoli's call that cost them the game. They did protest what they called the umpire's hasty eviction of their star catcher and top slugger.

"Baseball is in a bad way when an umpire's fast thumb determines the outcome of a game," said Dodger coach Clyde Sukeforth. "Dascoli is a bad umpire, that's all."

Dressen joined in the vituperation of the beleaguered umpire.

"We've had trouble with him all year—as far back as spring training," he said bitterly.

Dascoli, who came to the National League during the 1948 season, is a showman type of umpire who calls his decisions in a loud, blatant voice, accompanied by picturesque gestures. This marked the second time this season that he had cleared a bench. He chased manager Frank Frisch and all the Cubs one day.

AUSSIE STATE

Tasmania is the smallest of the Australian states, comparing roughly with the size of Scotland.

SIX-YEAR-OLD KAREN KNARR, of Cincinnati, Ohio, who, doctors say, is suffering from an unclassified anaemia, already has had 92 blood transfusions and needs more. Karen's parents, who already have spent $2,000 for whole blood at $25 a pint, have appealed to voluntary donors who have RH positive blood. Her spleen was removed two years ago but this did not cure Karen. She loves pets. This picture's proof.

Meeker Off Till December

ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 28—(CP).—Howie Meeker said last night his duties as a member of parliament will likely keep him out of the Toronto Maple Leafs' hockey team lineup until mid-December.

He added that, as a young fellow with long-view political ambitions, he'll probably retire from hockey after this season.

The right-winger who jumped directly from senior amateur hockey to the Leafs in 1946 shortly after his return from overseas was elected last summer as Progressive Conservative member for Waterloo South.

He said he'll continue to train with the Leafs, who started preseason workouts here early this week, until the fall session of parliament opens Oct. 9. Then he'll go to Ottawa for the session, expected to last about two months. After that, he plans to rejoin the team and play out the season if he's needed.

"I've decided to attend the fall session," Meeker said. "I have to get experience in parliamentary procedure to do my job properly. It's all new to me and I want to continue as a member after the next election. So, I'll probably hang up the stick after this season, although I would like to finish this season with the Leafs."

Kingston Swamps Smiths Falls 70-0

KINGSTON, Sept. 28 — KCVI teams established an all-time record for one afternoon at the expense of baffled Smiths Falls aggregations when the Blue and White seniors racked up a 70-0 triumph and the juniors a 48-0 convincer in yesterday's EOSSA games staged on the campus adjoining Richardson Stadium.

Ron Esford, who paced KCVI's point-getters, astonished observers when he caught the ball after the second-half kick-off, and weaved his way for 90 yards and a touchdown. Esford was the game's outstanding star on a team of luminaries.

KCVI Juniors duplicated the Seniors' feat in leaping away to an early lead and sewing up the verdict before the befuddled Falls boys could get their bearings. Doug Arniel was the first to cross the line and Al Dixon kicked the convert. A few minutes later, Jerry Springer got a major and Dixon converted. Near the close of the session, Sam Campbell got their third touchdown.

Both KCVI teams flashed potential championship power. The Falls seniors are only a shadow of the machine that won the EOSSA championship two years ago and bowed to the powerful Brockville CI aggregation in the playoffs last season.

Campbellford Trio Wins Tournament

HAVELOCK, Sept. 28 (ENS)—Despite cold and windy weather, the Havelock bowling club held a very successful men's trebles tournament on Wednesday on the local green which was in excellent condition for the event.

Rinks participated from Peterborough, Brighton, Belleville, Campbellford, Madoc, and Havelock. There were three 12-end games played with the following winners: First (high three wins), Archie Myers' rink, of Campbellford, with a score of 35 plus five; second (high two wins), Rae Williams' rink, of Havelock, with a score of 38 plus five; third (high one win), Arthur McConnell's rink, of Brighton, with a score of 36 plus eight. The prizes were picnic hams.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Willy Pep and Sandy Sadler may be called on the carpet by the New York State Athletic Commission for Wednesday night's wrestling match with boxing gloves.

Bob Christenberry, new chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission, yesterday directed all officials present at the featherweight title bout to submit written reports.

If the reports warrant, a full dress open hearing probably will will be called before the Commission next week.

The Commission was far from satisfied with the dirty brawl in which most of the rules were fractured.

Pep quit in his corner after the ninth round to lose on a ninth-round technical knockout. He said today he is thinking of retiring.

Sadler took his pre-induction physical for the army as veteran boxing observers racked their memories to recall more disgraceful exhibitions on foul tactics.

At Sydney, NS, the Maritime branch of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association has asked the CAHA to protect major series clubs from "raiding" by professional organizations.

C. Roy MacDonald of Glace Bay, vice-president of the Maritime Major Hockey League, submitted the request following a similar resolution passed during the annual meeting of the Maritime Hockey Association.

MacDonald said it was easy for pro clubs to offer contracts to promising amateurs and after a trial period turn them over to major clubs of their choice.

The resolution suggested that a player signed to a pro contract be returned to his original club if he was dropped back to CAHA ranks during the season.

If the National League baseball race ends in a tie between Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Giants the first game of the playoff will take place at Ebbets Field in Brooklyn, with the second and, if necessary, the third at the Polo Grounds.

This was decided at a coin-tossing ceremony Thursday at the offices of National League president Ford Frick in New York.

Dates for the possible play-off were not set, but they will start on Monday if the regular campaign ends on Sunday, as scheduled.

The largest daily double of the season, $823.80 was paid yesterday at Long Branch race track at Toronto. Mirwin Stable's Son Robert, paid $27.60 in winning the first race and Best Book, another outsider, $46.80 in the second.

At New York, two men were held in $25,000 bail each today as material witnesses in connection with the alleged attempted bribing of a Bradley University basketball player last year, a "recalcitrant" defendant in the same case also had his bail raised from $15,000 to $50,000.

Picked up for questioning and held in high bail at the request of District Attorney Frank S. Hogan's office were: Arthur (Chink) Leo, 26 and Benjamin Gang, 34. Remanded to jail in $50000 bail was Jack Rubinstein, 33, charged with attempted bribery and conspiracy.

Mrs. H. W. Soper of Montreal Kanawaki yesterday finished first in the opening day of medal play in the Canadian Women's Senior Golf Association tournament at Toronto. She fired a 49 going out and a 44 on the back nine for a total of 93.

Mrs. J. A. Cameron of Laval-Sur-Le-Lac, Montreal, took a 97, and Mrs. G. E. Hackney of Seigniory Club was a stroke behind with 98.

The defending champion, Mrs. T. J. Agar, of Toronto York Downs, finished eighth with 104.

Pittsburgh Pirates yesterday sold second baseman Danny Murtaugh to New Orleans of the Southern Association and appointed him manager of the team for 1952. Murtaugh's appointment came less than 24 hours after general manager Branch Rickey announced at Pittsburgh that the contract of Truett (Rip) Sewell was not being renewed. Sewell, an ex-Pirate pitcher, had poor success with New Orleans the last season. The club finished seventh.

At New York, Don Meade, former stormy petrel of jockey ranks asked the New York State Racing Commission yesterday to give him a licence so he could resume riding after a lapse of six years.

Meade was suspended by the Mexican Racing Commission in February, 1945, for using abusive language against officials when he was charged with foul riding in Mexico City. The New York Commission, headed by chairman Ashley Trimble Cole, reserved its decision.

Gaye Stewart and Paul Ronty, high-scoring forwards acquired by New York Rangers in trades, have signed their 1951-52 contracts, the National Hockey League club announced yesterday. Rangers are in pre-season training at Guelph.

The B. G. closing day events will take place Sunday with tee-off time at 1.00 o'clock sharp. Dinner will be at 6 p.m. when presentation of year and day prizes will take place.

Little World Series Delayed Day By Rain

MONTREAL, Sept. 28 (CP). — The second game of the little world series will be played tonight . . . weather permitting.

Originally scheduled for last night, the game was washed out by a downpour.

Montreal Royals of the International Baseball League go into the second round of the best-of-seven series with a 1-0 lead over Milwaukee Brewers of the American Association. The International League champions downed Milwaukee 6-3 Wednesday.

Milwaukee's general manager, Richard (Red) Smith, is confident his club can take Montreal in the second encounter.

However he said Milwaukee may run into trouble. He remembers the Montreal club of 1928, when he was star catcher here.

Montreal plans to work Mal Mallette at the mound.

Charlie Grimm, skipper of the Brewers, said he'd start Ernie Johnson, formerly with Boston Braves, who had a 15-4 record in the regular season.

NORWOOD FAIR OCT. 8

G. A. Brethen, president and unflagging promoter of Norwood Fair, is aiming again at a crowd of 25,000. He sends this somewhat lyric note, appropriating the Examiner's caption: "How Time Flies."

"Thanksgiving Day here again —the time of family reunions, frost colored woods, Thanksgivings for a bountiful harvest, and Norwood Fair. Monday, October 8—the place and the day when old friends meet, greet and part, some never to meet again. Last year they came from the British West Indies in the far south, to British Columbia in the west, other Canadian provinces, and many states in the Union.

"But the Norwood Thanksgiving Day Fair with its outstanding opening parade, midway, racehorses and quality livestock is more than a one-day fair. Throughout the whole year this fair, through its agricultural projects, is teaching and inspiring the farmers of this district to grow better crops at lower production costs, thereby profiting the whole community, rural and urban.

"When the farmer prospers, the whole community is better off! The Ontario Agricultural Department at Toronto, recognizing this contribution to agriculture, have tripled their annual grant to the Norwood Fair in the past three years because, as they put it, 'the Norwood Fair is doing those things for agriculture that agricultural societies are organized to do'.

"This year, given good weather, we expect fully 25,000 people will pass through the gates. From the big opening parade at 12 noon, sharp, to the tractor-pulling contest at night, we will have thrilling attractions for everyone, any one of which is well worth the price of admission. All children under 12 years free."

CAN TAKE DAY OFF

His rural trip Tuesday suggested to Frank Paterson that farmers have caught up with their work to such a satisfactory extent that they can take at least the afternoon off next Wednesday to look in on the plowing match.

"Henry Batten, chairman, and his committee have put so much into this match that they deserve a good turnout," Mr. Paterson said. "Plowing isn't their only enterprise. Probably many farmers have paid more attention to the use of the tiller from seeing its demonstration at some of the matches. They also help to interest people in good land practice."

"There is a lot of fall wheat in, some a little late, but it is probably all right. There are some signs of frost on the corn, but it's not hurt much. Pastures are green, and altogether things look pretty substantial."

OHIO FARMERS

"For keen interest in agricultural organizations you should go to Ohio," Harold Lewis said yesterday in a brief account of his week's trip through the State. "On that point, their average farmer is far more active than ours. We have some splendid men, but the Ohio proportion of that type of of farmer is much greater than what we have in Ontario. And we are hardly in their class when it comes to the activities of the women of the Ohio farms.

That is one of my sharpest impressions of the trip, their sturdy farm spirit, and the breadth of it, too. You find few farmers over here standing aloof from rural movements. To observe that lively sentiment gave me new enthusiasm and impetus for our own organizations."

"They haven't our farm forums, but they are planning two local stations, both short wave, one to open this fall.

The Ohio people were very hospitable. There was a series of dinners and speeches for the 25 in our party conducted by Kingsley Brown, Toronto, editor of the Rural Co-Operator. You can't judge the Ohio farmer by the headliners about people in courts and divorces and all that. The people we met impressed me as being men of principle, actuated by community spirit, and men of religious conviction.

For the promotion of their associations, especially the Farm Bureau and its work, they have a man and woman in each county, engaged on full time basis. I think that partly explains the strength of their organizations, but behind that they appeared more association-minded, and determined to establish their own group businesses."

HOG PRICE SLUMP

Concern about the recent sharp drop in the price of hogs is mentioned from some of the counties in the weekly review of the Ontario Department of Agriculture. It is the only blue note from rural areas of the province as the season closes on silo filling and post-harvest cultivation.

Increased acreage of fall wheat is mentioned in Huron where supplies of registered seed are greatly depleted. Essex finds most growers treating seed for stinking smut. Combining of red clover seed is yielding favorable returns. Many Halton farmers report up to four bushels to the acre. Alfalfa seed is negligible.

Demonstration soy bean plots in Hastings indicated Flambeau to be a suitable variety. Prince Edward expects cheese production to exceed the 1950 total.

"Durham: Sowing of fall wheat is practically completed. Barns and granaries haven't been so full for years. General run of corn is slightly below average."

"Peterborough: Most of the fall wheat seeding is completed. Some ensliage corn is being put into silos. There is still some harvest out."

"Victoria: Sudden drop in hog prices is causing much concern. Yields of red clover seed have been excellent. One field is credited with seven bushels to the acre."

184 AT STRATFORD

Twenty-nine Holstein breeders of Perth county brought out 184 head in the Black and White Day at Stratford Fair. Twelve exhibitors won at least one first award. Hardy Shore of Glanworth was judge.

At Spencerville fair the Grenville county B. and W. show lined up 90 head from 18 herds. Ayshire breeders brought out 125 head for their Red and White Day.

When even a few Holstein men get together they hold a Black and White Day. Temiskaming hardly rates as a dairy cattle district, but five breeders showed 46 head at New Liskeard fair. Gerry Nelson, fieldman, says some of the tops would compare favorably with those at the longer established events in southern Ontario. Everett Brown of Orono was judge.

"And the Fodder's in Shock"

Associates of the harvest fields down through all the autumns since the primitive husbandry of the pioneers are the full blown pumpkins and the rows of stooked corn. In vrese and sentiment they have been inseparable companions of the late days on the land when the hay and the grain are gone, the stalks on the buckwheat are red, the sumac fronds flaming in the wind only less vividly than the leaves of the soft maples.

The high noon of summer is far behind, and the year has marched on past the September equinox into the recent intimations of approaching frost.

Corn and pumpkins are common fellows of the bare fields of early October, but they have managed to survive changing farm practice and values as symbols of plenty. They are stock figures of farming in the eastern sections of this continent because they have something of personality the camera catches and conveys. They are photogenic familiars such as the highly-rated alfalfa and grasses are not.

What if they are homely stuff—they impart comforting implications of well being. And for the simple pumpkin, its ultimate glory is in the distaff miracle of Thanksgiving dinner.

Holstein Show Attracts Record Crowd

Between 400 and 500 people attended the Peterborough county Holstein show at Keene Monday night. That was a record crowd. Even more rewarding for the work of planning was the response of breeders.

Twenty-one herds aggregating 11 head were on par with the general reports of breeder interest in this season's series of Black and White Days. The switch from afternoon to night certainly boosted attendance, although the wind-up of the program at midnight must have kept some of the breeders late in getting their cattle home and themselves to sleep.

George McLaughlin of Elmcroft Farms, Oshawa, was judge, and the new fieldman, Gerry Nelson of Port Perry, on his first major event of the county, after Peterborough "Ex", made his bow to the assembled breeders and company.

Coughlin Brothers had intended showing some of their cattle, but finally declined the late session. Norman McConkey was a hesitant entry, but arrived with 25 head from his Lifloc herd.

Grand championship in the male division went to Elmhurst Brothers of Birdsall on their senior yearling winner. Linmack Repeat Sovereign, which was junior champion.

Grand champion female was McConkey's Nellie Duchess Cruiser, the senior champion and winner of the class for two-year milking heifers.

Heavy Grazing Causes Farm Losses

Excessive grazing on permanent pastures will not only reduce weight gains in stock but will result in increased losses of soil and moisture in permanent pastures, according to nine years of experimental work by the University of Illinois.

Sheep used in the experiments produced an annual gain of 185 pounds of mutton per acre on moderately grazed pastures but only 49 pounds of gain on the same kind of pasture that was severely over-grazed.

The moderately grazed pasture produced an annual yield of 3,448 pounds of desirable grasses and legumes as compared with only 2,507 pounds of forage from the severely grazed pastures.

Even more striking was the difference in the amount of forage required to produce a pound of gain weight in sheep; 19 pounds from the moderately grazed pastures and 51 pounds from the over-grazed pastures.

It was the same story for soil and water losses. On the severely grazed pastures the average annual soil loss per acre was 831 pounds but only 259 pounds of soil were lost on the moderately grazed pastures. The severely grazed pastures lost 6.8 inches of water as run-off while the moderately grazed pastures lost only 3.6 inches.

Once Wealthy, Charged In Theft

NEW YORK, Sept. 28—(AP)—Twenty years ago William J. Johnston paid $100,000 for a seat on the New York Curb Exchange.

Yesterday, the once-wealthy stock broker—now too poor to hire a lawyer, appeared in Felony Court charged with grand larceny. The district-attorney's office said Johnston's case involved thefts totalling more than $225,000. Some of the alleged victims were clergymen.

Assistant district-attorney Jerome Kidder, told this story:

Johnston, 50, got "heavily in debt" after losing accounts representing almost two-thirds of his brokerage business several years ago.

To tide himself over, the broker borrowed money from loan sharks. To meet their usurious rates, the frantic broker talked customers into investing money with him. But instead of buying stocks and bonds for them he kept the money, giving part of it back with the explanation that it represented profit on the investment.

TV News Reports Creates Interest

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 28—(AP)—Leading American editors yesterday took a long, hard look at the effect of television on the newspaper business.

Most reports indicated that TV sharpened the interest of readers in outstanding news events they have televised. Only a few thought television would cut circulation.

The TV discussion came during a general shop-talk session of the Associated Press managing editors association.

Frank Eyerly, managing editor of the Des Moines Register and Tribune who led the discussion, reported to editors that "there was no truth whatever" to gloomy predictions that widespread ownership of television sets would spell the doom of the daily newspaper.

Helicopter Wins

TORONTO, Sept. 28 — (CP) — A stage coach, a relay team of Indian runners, a pony express rider and a helicopter, properly handicapped as to starting time, yesterday put on an 18-mile race from Richmond Hill to Toronto to give visitors to the Canadian International Stamp Exhibition a comparison of mail-carrying methods. The helicopaer won and the Indian runner came in second .

Plainville YPS Plan Banquet In November

PLAINVILLE, Sept. 28 (ENS) —The Plainsville Young Peoples Society commenced their autumn activities Tuesday evening when they held their first meeting at the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. McConnell on Rice Lake.

The program was in charge of the missionary convener, Murray King, and taking part were Earle Linton, Paul McKinlay and Miss Lillian Barker. The president, Leighton Westington, conducted the business. Plans were made for the annual banquet to be held in November.

A vote of thanks was tendered Mr. and Mrs. McConnell for their hospitality. Lunch was served. Twenty members were present.

Playing "tag" with fish

If you meet a lobster wearing an aluminum tag, don't waste sympathy. It wa n't hauled up for parking opposite a hydrant. The tag was put there by the National Fisheries Board which is sleuthing out marine life stories. A salmon, so decorated, was re-caught after four years and a lobster after ten. The tags were still in excellent condition.

Aluminum's ability to withstand the elements is one of the advantages which make it increasingly popular for walls, roofs and architectural embellishments. An aluminum cornice in Montreal was taken down recently — undamaged after being exposed to the weather since 1895. Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd. (Alcan).

Labor Urged To Back CCF Choice

Labor Council Told Trade Unionism, Politics Have To Mix

The Peterborough and District Labor Council (CIO-CCL) on Thursday night was urged to join with the local CCF branch to pick a candidate in the event of an early provincial election.

Dave Archer, executive secretary of the Ontario Federation of Labor, was speaker at the first of several meetings organized by the political action committee of the labor council.

"There are those who say politics and trade unionism don't mix," said Mr. Archer, "but that day is gone. Out of sheer self-preservation the worker is forced into taking political action."

He said the alert trade unionist should not only be interested in the five-cents-an-hour wage boost. This is of little use if the the five cents or more is "stolen" from him in high prices.

A typical example is the Imperial Tobacco strike, he said. The company settled for a seven-cent increase but the price of cigarets has gone up two cents a pack.

Labor Chasing Prices

"It's not true that labor is forcing prices up," said Mr. Archer. "The fact is we're still chasing them."

He said if the workers want housing, price controls, better old age pension rates and similar legislation they will have to elect their own candidates. And he said the political party that had consistently advocated these measures was the CCF.

In the United States the political action tactic is to support a pro-labor man whether he is Republican or Democrat. But this cannot be done in Canada, said Mr. Archer, because of our parliamentary system and the tighter party lines.

In Canada the party in power takes full responsibility and initiates legislation. The opposition party cannot grant a five-cent piece. Therefore it is necessary to elect a party favorable to working people and support it at the polls.

Pioneer Ground

This is not pioneer ground, said Mr. Archer. There is the example of the British Labor party, organized in 1912.

The scope of a political action committee is not just domestic issues, he contended. Workers should take an active interest in world affairs.

"We don't want to see the people of India exploited by capitalists, because if there is a war between the Soviet and the western democracies we want those people on our side."

Also of international interest is the newly-formed International Confederation of Trade Unions.

"It was built up as a bulwark against Communism and the rather stupid diplomatic manoeuvring of the United States," he said.

The immediate objective of the PAC is to get a dollar from each union member so this work can be carried on. Fifty per cent of it will go to the provincial office and the other 50 per cent will go to the local union treasury, to be used for political action.

Ed. Humphrey, Local 434, UPWA, was chairman.

Little Lake Burial

Assistant to the Principal of Queen's University, Alex Edmison, KC, told the Home and School Association of the collegiate Thursday night that he has already picked out his burial plot in Little Lake cemetery. He wants to be buried in Peterborough because his father, his grandfather, his great-grandfather are buried here. The Edmisons are among the first families in Peterborough county, having settled in Smith twp. (Chemong Road) in 1819, two years before Adam Scott, first white settler in town, established his mill, and six years before the Honorable Peter Robinson, after whom Peterborough is named, brought out his Irish immigrants. Mr. Edmison is still in his 40's.

Hitchhiker's Tipple Too Much For Driver

A tippling hitch-hiker got a 19-year-old truck driver into trouble Thursday.

Russell Taylor, 19, RR 1, Bolton, picked up the hitch-hiker while driving to Peterborough Thursday. The hitch-hiker, a congenial sort, decided to make the trip pleasant by bringing out a bottle of liquor.

It was all right for the tippler but too much for Taylor. Provincial police found his truck parked on the shoulder of Highway 7, Smith township, with the trailer portion obstructing the travelled portion of the highway. Taylor was drunk.

Today, the youth appeared in police court and received the minimum sentence for drunken driving—seven days in jail.

Princess' Portrait Feature Weekend Paper

Mr. Karsh himself is not neglected. WEEKEND staff writer Gerald Waring, launching a new series of articles, describes the turning point in Karsh's career. This new series, appropriately enough, will be called "Turning Points".

Jane Armstrong, now in England, tells WEEKEND readers what to expect when the Princess and her consort make their Canadian tour, in an intimate article "Her Charm Will Win You."

Royal Holiday Town

Another article, "Elizabeth is a Scot," describes the little Scottish town Ballatan, by the River Dee, at which the Princess and her family spend their holidays. Photographs by staff photographer Louis Jacques accompany Gregory Clark's story.

The salmon are running in British Columbia, and WEEKEND staff writer David Willcock and photographer Jack Long take readers to the west coast's salmon grounds, where seiners and gillnetters reap a harvest expected to be worth nearly $50,000,000.

As the World Series nears, sports columnist Andy O'Brien looks back on the years past and tabulates some of the goofy plays that have made team managers weep, and the crowds laugh.

For Women

For Canadian women, Kate Aitken takes them around the clock with a facial beauty schedule—the "daily threesome"—designed to replace that bare and beaten look with new allure.

For men, staff writer Doyle Klyn tells the Canadian male that in Britain, fashion-conscious men are turning to styles of 50 years ago as London's designers promote the "Edwardian Look". Also for men is an article by Bob Willett, called "Cheesecake Queens".

And on page 7, this WEEKEND gives information and sidelights on the readers' favorite writers and photographers. This is a regular "news behind the news" feature.

Closed To Traffic

Traffic through the exhibition grounds will be closed Saturday to all but the members of the Junior Farmers Club, who will go in through the George St. gate, exhibition secretary George Gillespie said today.

Those attending the football game will go in through the Park St. gate. The McGill St. gate will be closed to traffic.

MAIN ST. TOPICS

POLIO BENEFIT

A benefit baseball game for a polio stricken Port Hope youngster realized $210. The game was played Wednesday night in Port Hope. Merchants in the town donated draw prizes.

ORDNANCE UTILITIES

Water main extensions to serve the new ordnance depot at Cobour are expected to cost about $30,000, Cobourg Public Utilities Commission calculated this week. The cost will be handled by a debenture issue.

RECORD TRAFFIC FINES

A record amount of money in traffic violation fines was collected Thursday in police court. A total of $1,541.50 was collected on 243 convictions. The most serious offences were a couple of careless driving convictions, each $17.50. Clerks in the city hall office say it was the most ever taken in one day.

ELECT BUSINESS AGENT

Art Hunter, onetime vice-president of Local 524, United Electrical Workers, Thursday night was elected business agent for the local. It will be a fulltime job and he will be paid and under the direction of the local. The membership also elected William Walker to the office of treasurer. He succeeds Cec. Harvey now on fulltime union work. C. S. Jackson, Canadian UE president, addressed the membership.

PUT OUT RUBBISH FIRE

Firemen made a couple of runs early Thursday night. There was no property damage in either. The first was shortly before 7 p.m. when they snuffed out a rubbish fire burning in Bruce Parker's yard at the rear of 890 High St. A booster pump was used. Two chemical extinguishers were used to put out the blaze from a flooded oil burner at the home of George Moncrief, Robinson St.

HORSE OK; CAR WRECKED

Four Oshawa people escaped serious injury Thursday morning but their car was wrecked when the driver swerved to avoid a horse and the car rolled over in the ditch. The accident was on the Victoria-Ontario county line, south of Sonya. Occupants were Evelyn Clough, driver; Mr. and Mrs. Whiteside, and Miss Lorraine Frayn, all of Oshawa. They were treated by Dr. G. C. R. Hall, Little Britain, for minor injuries. Their car received $1,400 damage but the horse was uninjured.

Jews Celebrate New Year Sunday

Canadian Jewry will celebrate their New Year of 5712 on Sunday night when they observe Rosh Hashonoh, which ushers in a period of penitence followed 10 days later by Yom Kippur, the day of atonement.

Rosh Hashonoh is a purely religious holiday. According to Jewish belief everyone is given 10 days in which to repent. On the first day the destiny of all mankind is recorded and written down, while on Yom Kippur the seal is attached to the decree.

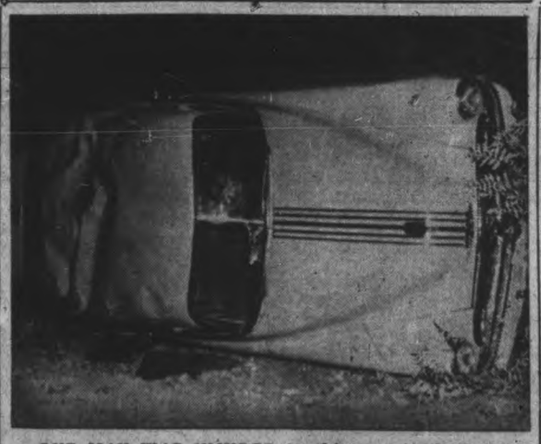
An hour before sunset on the day before Yom Kippur, Jews everywhere partake of the fast meal, which marks the end of all eating and drinking until after the appearance of stars the following evening. Religious Jews spend Yom Kippur at the synagogue, fasting, praying and making charitable donations.

Unlike other major Jewish festivals Rosh Hashonoh and Yom Kippur are not connected with festivities of the soil. They are observed on the first and second days—and tenth day respectively—of the Jewish month of Tishri, which begins Sunday night, September 30th.

Festival services at Beth Israel Synagogue, Reid St., will be conducted by Rabbi Joseph Mayer, religious head of the congregation.

Bad Words

FINCHLEY, England—(CP)—Burglars who broke into a home in this Middlesex town must have examined the library carefully. They threw under the table a book entitled "preventing crime."



ONE MAN WAS INJURED in this car wreck Tuesday night and is still in Civic hospital. He is Walter Hagerman, 46, Norwood, who sustained severe head injuries. Owner of the car is Joseph Kelly, Dummer township, charged in court today with driving while his ability was impaired by alcohol. He originally reported the car stolen. The accident was on the base line of Asphodel, north of Hastings. Kelly was today remanded to Oct. 1.—(W. W. Reid Photo)

Out-Of-City Water Requests Must Go Through Township

Utilities Commission re-affirmed Thursday their policy of requiring water services outside the city to be channelled through township councils. G. S. Matthews, Fred Hills and George A. Macdonald were unanimous in maintaining that position. The effect of that policy in actual application appeared to be that if any township resident asks for service connection with the city's water system, he will be directed to his township council.

Financial consideration is at the bottom of this attitude, which has also been adopted by the city council.

The two administrations do not intend to issue any more debentures to pay for service extensions beyond the city border.

Must Pay

If township residents want water, sewers and so on, let them pay for it, City council's change of method of financing was first aimed at Cobourg Housing Company when they announced their intention of proceeding with the Hayes hill subdivision west of High St.

Utilities discussion mentioned some houses in course of building or being planned in the township area of the west end.

It was commented that Hugh Stewart's barrier was still in place at the west end of Weller St., and the understanding was expressed that its removal might be accelerated by the prospect of certain water facilities into that neighborhood.

Ask $100,000 Issue

The Commission yesterday passed a resolution asking city council to issue debentures for $100,000 to pay for water main construction that has been finished already with other work yet to be begun. It was said that the total volume of construction and financing had placed too big a load on the department without assuming additional work for people living outside the city.

Mr. Macdonald said the Commission had to yet complete the 12-inch main they had begun in Ashburnham for the boosting of pressure in the main on the Westclox hill.

"And Mayor Swanston suggested to me that there should not be any more talk of annexation until the city has supplied services to all the sections which have been annexed," Mr. Matthews said. "They want to catch up with what they started."

It was also commented that if the barrier is a pawn for neighborhood considerations in the went end, it should be led through North Monaghan council.

Trenton Routes Settled For Royal Visit

TRENTON, Sept. 28 — Local police and RCAF officials have been conferring at length here during the last few days deciding where and how to best direct traffic during the Royal visit to Trenton and the RCAF station on Friday, October 12.

The Royal couple are scheduled to arrive at the CNR station, Trenton junction, on the northwest outskirts of the town at 2.30. After a short period here, while Mayor Ken Couch presents a number of Trenton citizens, the Royal entourage will proceed from the junction along Front St. as far as Division, up Division to Dundas and out Dundas to the air station.

After much discussion it was decided that the only way of ensuring that the Royal route would be cleared in time for their Royal Highnesses to proceed as planned was to arrange a complete diversion of through traffic starting at 12.30 and a cut-off of local traffic proceeding east at 1 p.m. Local traffic westbound will be free to travel as far as the parking area on the aerodrome at Station Trenton all afternoon.

Re-Route Traffic

Through traffic will be rerouted from No. 2 Highway, along the south shore of the Bay of Quinte. A road block at Dufferin and Dundas Streets, the junction of No. 33 and No. 2 Highways, will divert eastbound traffic south on Highway 33 to Carrying Place, continuing along the county road on the south shore of the Bay of Quinte as far as Rossmore, then northward on Highway 14 to Belleville.

Eastbound through traffic will take the reverse route, entering the detour at the Belleville roadblock which will be set up one block west of Bridge St. traffic lights.

Southbound through traffic on Highway No. 33 will be directed west from Frankfort to Wallbridge and west from Frankfort to Wooler and Highway No. 30. All re-routing of through traffic will begin at 12.30 o'clock.

Ask Co-operation

Police and RCAF authorities join in a request for all those who might desire to drive on or across any portion of the Royal route from Trenton to the air station, to do so before 1 p.m.; as from that time on, the Royal route will be closed to all but police and other official cars.

Control points will be set up at strategic locations along the Royal route and also along No. 2 Highway east of RCAF Station Trenton to control traffic making its way to the air station.

Parking areas have been created within the aerodrome for those who might wish to drive out and witness the parade and gift presentation ceremonies. A limited number of seats have been provided around the parade square and as only a few seats to the south have been reserved, it will be strictly on a first come, first served basis.

Waddell Heads Committee For Extra Housing; May Seek Government Aid

Peterborough's Share Under Government Plan Would Be 100 Houses; City Would Pay Small Percentage of Cost

Ald. Hugh Waddell will be chairman of a special committee that is to be called together next week to discuss additional housing, and in particular houses for rental built with government financial assistance. Those who are being invited are: Keith S. Wightman, Superintendent of Schools, representing the interests of the Board of Education; Ross L. Dobbin, manager for the Utilities Commission; City Assessor J. E. Davis, City Engineer Chalmers; a representative of Peterborough Bus Lines; and John Wecker of Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation will be asked to attend for the committee's advantage of information he may be able to give.

Would Get 100 Houses

Peterborough would be allotted at least 100 houses for rent by the Federal-Provincial plan which Premier Frost announced at the convention of the Mayors' Association in London this year.

ALD. WADDELL

City's contribution would be 7½ per cent of the cost, the province assuming 17½ per cent and the federal government 75 per cent.

Mayor Swanston said at this morning's meeting of the property committee that options would probably be a required preliminary in taking advantage of this plan.

Alderman Waddell presided with Aldermen Gillespie and Braund and Mayor Swanston.

The first meeting of the special committee will be called by Ald. Waddell next week.

Car, Truck Collide Damage Totals $45

A car, driven by James B. Walsh, RR 10, Peterborough, collided Thursday afternoon with a truck outside the Dewart Milling Co. platform, Simcoe St., and received $45 damage.

The truck was driven by Ronald M. Rutherford, South Monaghan. Rutherford was travelling east on Simcoe and then began to back up, from the north side of the road, toward the Dewart loading platform. He intended to pick up some feed.

His truck collided with Walsh's vehicle while Walsh was watching another truck pulling away from the loading platform. Neither driver was injured and there was no damage to the truck.

Constable W. G. Scott investigated.

Blowtorch Flares Burns Face Of Student, 17

An industrial arts student from PCVS received painful burns on his face and one arm Thursday afternoon when gasoline from a blowtorch flared up in a puff of flame.

He is Colin Ray, 17, 333 Sherbrooke St., who was working on a project in the sheet metal room of South Central School.

Ray turned the valve to shut off the blowtorch which was placed on a desk. Some gasoline spilled from the stem of the valve and ignited. Before he could give the valve more than a couple of twists back, the handle, and then the whole torch, went up in a burst of flame.

Fire licked against his face, burning his lips and cheeks and singing his eyebrows and hair. Part of his right forearm was also burned. The burns were not serious, however, and he expects to be back at school in a day or so.

Under the direction of instructor Norman Smith, the students put out the gasoline fire with chemical extinguishers. The fire department was called to be on the safe side but the students were cleaning up when the firemen arrived.

Achievement Day Climaxes Girls' Garden Club Project

Saturday will bring to a climax a summer project in gardening which has been carried out in girls' garden clubs in all parts of Peterborough county.

Individual garden exhibits by 20 girls will be featured at the Peterborough county garden achievement day to be held Saturday in the drill hall on the Exhibition Grounds.

The girls' garden exhibits will be held in conjunction with the boys' and girls' achievement day under the direction of the Department of Agriculture.

This is the first time that achievement day has not been held in the market hall.

26 Varieties

Miss Jean Noble, home economist for the counties of Peterborough, Victoria, Northumberland and Durham, explained today that garden club members had been issued 26 varieties of seeds for a nominal fee at the beginning of the season by the Department of Agriculture.

Each girl planted her 20 varieties of vegetable seeds in a 40 feet by 40 feet garden plot. The remaining six varieties of flower seeds were used to beautify home surroundings.

Record books of growth, weed and insect control and consumption were kept and the members also attended at least four garden club meetings held in their district.

Judge Exhibits

In addition to entering their exhibits Saturday, the girls will be judging exhibits.

The following clubs and their leaders will be represented: Bailieboro, Mrs. H. Hazelden, Mrs. B. Sinclair, assistant; Fairview, Mrs. C. Mann; Fraserville, Miss E. Whitfield; Selwyn, Mrs. C. Fitzgerald, Mrs. E. Blewett, assisttant.

Summer Time Ends

The City of Peterborough will Return to Standard Time at 2:00 a.m., Sunday, September 30th.

It is suggested to all Citizens that they should turn their timepieces back One Hour before retiring next Saturday Night, since the City will be on Standard Time on Sunday.

Indonesia Starts To Get Tough With Island Reds

By KENNETH LIKES

JAKARTA, Sept. 28—(AP)—Of Asia's non-Communist nations, Indonesia has been most [illegible] the last few weeks. Now the island republic is showing signs of getting tougher.

Her first firm move was signing the Japanese Peace Treaty.

Previously she had followed India's example and ducked taking a stand on any big issue between the Soviets and their opponents. She had been the most consistent follower of the Indians "third-force" neutrality.

Breaking away and taking part in the Japanese peace conference does not mean that Indonesia has staked out a place in the Western camp. In that case she was looking for war reparations from Japan.

Get Skeptical

But Indonesian leaders voiced growing disillusionment in neutrality's chief spokesman, India's Premier Nehru. His unrelenting attitude in the Kashmir dispute has been the chief cause for questioning of his idealism.

The Indonesians moved with surprising toughness recently when they refused landing permits for about 20 consular reinforcements for the Chinese Communist embassy.

It was never admitted officially, but the reason behind the refusal was fear of anti-government agitation. Officials here finally had become uneasy about secret activities of the big Chinese embassy staff in forming a red underground.

In mid-August the Indonesian army started a mass roundup of 1,000 Communists.

The dramatic sweep thwarted a foreign-directed plot to overthrow the government, it was explained officially.

Some far-Eastern observers feel that the Communist high command may be quietly directing one of its main efforts in Indonesia while world attention is diverted elsewhere. It is reasoned that the Communists are weary of costly wars dragging on in such comparative wasteland as Indo-China and Korea. Here is a far richer target range where the prizes are oil, tin and rubber.

Medical Artists Meet

TORONTO, Sept. 28 — (CP) — Artists who think a painting of a larynx is prettier than a landscape and that a pelvic bone sketch beats a portrait will talk things over here next week. The Associatoin of Medical Illustrators is holding its sixth annual convention Monday to Wednesday.

Gems Discovered

NEW YORK, Sept. 28—(AP)—Another $50,000 to $100,000 in gems was discovered yesterday on the liner Queen Elizabeth, authorities said, in the same stateroom where $66,000 in undeclared jewels were found on a nine-year-old girl Wednesday.

Bewdley News

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Gosselin were guests at their cousin's wedding in Toronto.

Mr. Frank Halligan and Miss Barbara Halligan visited in Omemee to attend the 90th birthday celebration of Mr. Faulkner, Barbara's grandfather.

Miss Arleigh McCallister and Miss Barbara Halligan are visiting in Oshawa, guests of the latter's sister, Mrs. George Fallow and Mr. Fallow.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold McCallister entertained Mr. and Mrs. Will Gordon, Mr. and Mrs. Merwyn Benson, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Well Kennedy and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wilson, Tuesday evening at a boiled duck dinner. The ducks were those the party had bagged while holidaying over weekend near Killaloe.

Messrs. Bill and Ralph Benson have motored to Manitoulin and are attending the annual cattle sale there.

Mrs. Jeff Morton has moved into an apartment in Port Hope.

Cornwall To Return To Standard Time

CORNWALL, Sept. 28—(CP)—Cornwall will return to standard time Sunday, along with other Canadian cities, civic officials decided yesterday.

The announcement from Clarence House, London, that the Royal Tour would be postponed only one week, does not affect Cornwall's decision.

"It would be too confusing," one citizen said.

Until two days ago, Cornwall had decided to postpone returning to standard time until after the Royal visit here Oct. 5. When the tour was postponed, the town decided to change back with other Canadian cities.

Alan Young Stars In Films And TV

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 28 (AP)—Correct me if I'm wrong, but it appears that Alan Young is the only performer to star full-time in television and the movies and make a go of each field.

The soft-spoken young Canadian performs on a half-hour comedy TV show every week, a back-breaking chore which many older comedians will not undertake. In addition, he works a five-day week on his crowded movie schedule.

He recently finished a musical and now is playing the lead in George Bernard Shaw's "Androcles and the Lion." Shortly after he finishes, he will start at Paramount in either "Sad Sack" or "Military Policeman" with Bob Hope.

How does he maintain his crushing schedule?

"Clean living," he smiled.

Also Young

But that didn't sound like the whole answer and Young admitted that perhaps his youth has something to do with it. At any rate, he puts in every day including Sunday, sometimes until midnight, working with his TV writers on the script.

One reason Young fails to complain of overwork is because of his years of virtual inactivity. Thanks to TV, those years are over.

"A couple of years ago, I was starving professionally," he recalled. "I was about ready to pack up and go back to Canada." He had done three pictures ("Margie." "Chicken Every Sunday," and a "Belvedere" film) in 3½ years at 20th-Fox and was released. His radio show had sputtered to a stop. Then TV put him back in show business.

"Only two weeks after my first show the offers from studios started to come in" he remarked. "Even Fox wanted to see some of the film of my show. I was happy when Harry Ackerman the boss at CBS, told them, 'look—you had him for 3½ years; if you couldn't find out then what he could do, you'll never know'."

Young attributes his film activity entirely to TV.

"It's like having a screen test every Tuesday," he said. "I can demonstrate what I can do. Why, one of the executives at Paramount told me he had never heard of me until his kids made him look at my TV show."

DOROTHY DIX

Separate Domicile Needed

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: My husband and I are very happily married and he is wonderful to me. We are living with my in-laws who are the most wonderful parents anyone could ask for, especially since my own parents have passed away. However, I want my own home. My husband tells me to wait until he can give me the kind of home he feels we should have. I'm willing to go to work so we can have the money we need sooner, but he won't let me. We've been married three years and have no children.

DORCAS

Dorothy Dix

ANSWER: Every young couple should have their own home just as soon as possible. The very essence of marriage is the establishment of a separate domicile in which to raise a new family. This new entity is a complete unit in itself, and unless this unity is achieved through its own home, family life cannot be fully realized. Even the best in-laws in the world cannot give a young couple the background they should have.

Start Simply

A large part of the pleasure in establishing a new home is in its creation, so even a humble beginning offers an important purpose. It's something to add on to, to build up! The period of "waiting until we can afford what we want" is a barren waste; this time is much better spent in making a home when youth and enthusiasm are fresh and keen.

Often, a husband who has settled himself and wife comfortably with his family is beguiled with a sense of comfort and security that he is loath to relinquish.

Such inertia can be a deadly enemy to happy marriage. The very act of taking marriage vows is also the act of tacitly accepting all the responsibilities thereof. Creating a home and raising a family are components of this responsibility; the longer they are shirked the more surely is trouble invited.

You are completely right in all your assumptions on this point. You should be the proud mistress of your own home, no matter how sparse its furnishings. If your husband doesn't want you to go to work, don't argue the point. Your place is home, and it's just as well not to get started on two incomes, one of which is insecure. Establish your home on his earnings, and maintain it with economy and initiative.

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 17 and just as unhappy as I can be. I work and make my own money but my brothers and sisters always want to know what I buy with it. They are all busy trying to ruin my life, and making me miserable. I have no privacy at all.

DORIS

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Your plaint is a common one with the "youngest of the family." Your brothers and sisters are not trying to make you miserable. They love you dearly, and are simply interested in your activities. If they ignored you completely, you would have a valid complaint and would be really unhappy. I'm sure if you look on the other side of the ledger, you'll see many advantages to this interest from the older members of your family. lending, or giving, you anything you need? Don't they lend a willing ear to your confidences and tales of woe on your teen-age problems? Doesn't their advice often clear up a difficult situation? Stop regarding your family as natural enemies! They're the best friends you have, or ever will have, and they are only trying to knit, now, the ties that will hold you all together for the rest of your lives.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I have a lady friend to whom I am very devoted. Recently I bought her a very good fountain pen and though I asked her not to let anyone else use it, she did permit a man where she worked to borrow it. We disagreed on the matter and have had a serious quarrel over it. Who is wrong?

M. T.

ANSWER: If such a trivial matter could cause a serious quarrel between you, I doubt if you could be very devoted to this lady. She would have been guilty of extreme rudeness had she refused the brief loan of her pen to a co-worker. If it was so important to you not to have anyone else use it, she should not have taken the pen to the office at all. I really think you owe her an apology, and make sure that all future gifts are of such nature that she will not carry them around with her or be placed in a position where her refusal to lend them will cause embarrasment.

These are the versatile petticoats that are worn on the outside this year. Black velvet pants (left) are topped by a Chinese silk flower-printed gold cloth circle skirt. Matador pants in red wool jersey (above) come to the knee, are worn with plaid petticoat that opens down the front. Sweater slip in green wool jersey (right) is full length, is worn with striped petticoat.

Petticoats Now In Use For Quick-Change Fashions

By GAILE DUGAS

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Stretching a wardrobe, with the aid of the new petticoats designed to be worn outside, is easy as pie. A single petticoat can be transferred from leotards to sheath dress or a single sheath dress can change its appearance with each new petticoat.

The advantages, then, are obvious. Several of these petticoats will work such magic that not even other women will guess that you're employing just one or two basic costumes.

Black velvet, when it's seamed into leotards, takes readily to a petticoat. Designed for speed in donning, the leotards are sleeveless, have a zippered fastening that makes it possible to get into them and petticoat as well in just sixty seconds. Petticoat is a Chinese silk flower-printed gold cloth circle skirt.

Leotards in red wool jersey are cut like a sweater, zippered down the back, terminate just below the knee. Sleeves have a full and easy cut, are worn shoved up above the elbow. The petticoat is red, blue and white plaid. It opens down the front and is lined with blue taffeta.

For the girl with petticoat fever a very useful investment would be a sweater slip in wool jersey. Cut straight up and down and sleeveless, it has a sweater neck. It's done in green, among other colors, and is worn with a bright red, white and green striped petticoat. But the color choices are up to the wearer, to be mixed as basic ingredients in a petticoat wardrobe.

Club Heads Ignorant Of Procedure

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW YORK, Sept. 28—(AP)—There are 5,500,000 women's clubs in the United States.

And at least half their presidents do not know the basic parliamentary rules for conducting a meeting, says Alice F. Sturgis, author of "Sturgis' Standard Code of Parliamentary Procedure."

Mrs. Sturgis, a recognized parliamentarian, had been studying the procedure of a group of national organizations. One of the first things that struck her was the astronomical number of groups in every U.S. community. The next was the need for a knowledge of recognized rules of procedure.

Ten Rules

For the millions of women who this year will preside at meetings of their local clubs, she suggests 10 rules on how to be a good chairman.

1. Don't use the club for your personal glory. If you put the good of the organization first the personal plaudits will follow.

2. Don't keep on being president after your term is over. Give the new leader a chance.

3. Be sure you understand the basic policy of your organization, and follow it.

4. If you have an unpleasant duty to perform, do it outside the club meeting. Don't use the rostrum as a centre for a cat-and-dog fight.

5. Follow, don't push. Your job is to cry out the wishes of all the members, not to bend them to your own will.

6. Watch principles instead of technicalities. You need to know the rules of parliamentary procedure, but remember that the reason for rules is to facilitate business.

7. Remember that the president of a club is in the position of a judge. Don't take sides with one faction against another.

8. Don't campaign for your own election. If you have to fight for the chairmanship, you probably are not yet ready for it.

9. In presiding, be sure: that there is a quorum present, that everyone understands each motion, that plenty of time is given to discussion, that the vote is taken accurately, that the will of the majority is carried out and the rights of the minority protected.

10. Observe the rules of parliamentary procedure and you will be safe from legal difficulties, avoid lawsuits and misunderstandings.

Mother of 3 Sons Working Doctor

CALGARY — (CP) — A doctor husband, a home and three preschool-age sons are not enough to keep Agnes O'Neil busy.

A doctor herself, she went back to work this fall as a school health officer for the city of Calgary, working three mornings a week keeping other people's children healthy.

Dr. O'Neil leaves her three sons with their grandfather and a competent helper and visits schools checking students' health. Most of her work is in routine physical examinations.

Dr. O'Neil is well-versed in child care. Before coming to Calgary two years ago she spent a year in the Vancouver Metropoliton Health Unit and visited schools and baby clinics as part of her job.

It was while interning at Vancouver General Hospital that she met her husband.

She spent a year and a half in general practice in Vancouver before taking the health unit position. During that time two sons were born. The third was born in Calgary four months ago.

Dr. O'Neil was born in Owen Sound, Ont., and was educated at the University of Toronto.

PCVS

PCVS Home and School Association first monthly meeting on Thursday evening was attended by about 200 parents of grade 12 and 13 students and a number of the students themselves who were anxious to hear the guest speakers from Queens University, Kingston.

Mr. J. Alex Edmison KC, assistant to the principal, spoke first of his earlier life in Peterborough and district. He was introduced by Miss Helen McGregor of the teaching staff, graduate of Queen's.

A film called "University Way" was shown and with commentary by Mr. Edmison explained and illustrated university life, how to enter, how to make contacts for work. Questions were afterward answered by Miss Jean Richardson of the registrar's office.

"No student with the desire to enter college and the will to work need hesitate about entering" the audience was told by Mr. Herbert J. Hamilton, the University's manager of employment There are plenty of opportunities to "earn your way through college" he advised; also the demand for services outweighs the supply, even in summer employment.

Mr. Leo Copp thanked the speakers.

Regular meeting of the Association was conducted by president Mr. J. H. Moebus.

A social hour in the Collegiate library was held. Mrs. Fred Dodson convened the tea with executive members as hostesses.

Many Teachers Indistinct From Gossips, Students Told

Mr. T. J. Allen, assistant editor of The Examiner, addressed the new class in training at Peterborough Normal School at a reception for them given Thursday afternoon by the staff. The 129 students are representative of 48 high schools in the area.

A worthwhile message was contained in the address, though some hearers considered it too startlingly outspoken. As an ex-teacher of considerable experience Mr. Allen looks at the profession realistically. He pointed out that teachers are expected to be scholarly men and women who know their job, have a minimum of culture — the hallmark of their vocation.

But today there are too many teachers who are not continually learning; too many who don't know anything well enough, he said. "They have become indistinguishable in society from the gossips over the back fence or the business men interested in their service clubs."

Teachers should continue to learn; should be mentally alert; should read books, Mr. Allen said. "There are an outstanding number of people in this city who never read a book, and it is not only professional people who err in this way" he remarked. First requirement of a teacher is to know more than other people, and if they do not know more than the parents of their pupils, how can they be teachers? he asked.

Widen Interests

He told the students to make full use of the school and its teachers, the Public Library, the churches of the city; to attend the concerts, good movies, the exhibitions of paintings, etc. "Widen the varieties of your interests: learn to speak and act gracefully; live fully every hour daily" he urged. "Be proud you are becoming a teacher and have your teachers be proud of you."

Mr. Allen called teachers "the supreme capitalists of society." He said most young people can be teachers but the real test comes after 10 years or so of teaching. Many stick to the profession because they are trained for it, but he thinks this a mistake if they are unsatisfied for there are half a dozen other occupations in which they could be a success.

Teaching is a scholarly profession and if all realized it, professors and teachers would occupy a higher position, the speaker remarked. They are allowing themselves to be regimented and ordered somewhat like factories. "Be a professor with individual art and skill," he told the students.

The speaker was introduced and thanked by Mr. L. W. Copp, principal of the Normal School, chairman for the occasion.

Points Example

Chairman of the Peterborough Board of Education Dr. R. C. Honey also spoke to the students. He expressed admiration of the Normal School staff, which, he said, "takes part in the community life in an exemplary fashion," and suggested that each endeavor to do likewise in the community where they find work.

A welcome to the city and "verbal key" was extended by Alderman Harold T. Rehill, representing Mayor M. J. Swanston.

A delightful portion of the program was when Mrs. James Goldie and Mrs. Chester Carson sang together, accompanied at the piano by Mr. Charles Allen The numbers were "Starry Night," "In the Luxembourg Garden" and "Old King Cole."

The National Anthem was sung as a prayer for the King's recovery, with Mr. Quirt McKinney leading.

Staff members with their wives and husbands received before the program, and afterward they served afternoon tea. Mrs. L. W. Copp and Mrs. C. E. Potts presided at the tea table, and Mrs. Olga Turner was in charge.

Colorful fall flowers and plants and a table display of the garden vegetables decorated the assembly hall.

Chapter News

MUNICIPAL CHAPTER

A large gathering of IODE members from the six primary and one Junior Chapter of the city attended the open meeting of Peterborough Municipal Chapter IODE Wednesday evening in the Green Room of the YWCA to honor Mrs. G. Gordon Hall by presenting her with a Municipal Life Membership.

Mrs. Mary Medd, regent, opened the meeting with a prayer for King George VI, repeated by the members.

The stirring motto "One, Flag, One Throne, One Empire," brings to the minds of all members that the seven Chapters of the IODE carry out in this city a program designed to stimulate patriotism, foster unity within the Empire, cherish the memory of heroic deeds, forward every work for the betterment of the country and people and develop high standards of citizenship," she said.

Major departments of the Order are education, war memorials, child and family welfare, ex-personnel, Empire information, immigration and Canadianization, films, war-time and post-war services.

Many prominent women of Canada during the past half century have been connected with the IODE and in Peterborough there are many whose names are synonimous. Foremost in this respect is Mrs. W. Gordon Hall, whose name is on the charter of the first Peterborough Chapter formed in March 1912. This Chapter was named for the famous old 57th Regiment with the late Mrs. E. B. Clegg the first regent and Mrs. Hall the first treasurer, a position she held for two terms amounting to five years in all.

Mrs. Hall has been since then a continuous member serving as first vice-regent for four years and regent for three and a half years.

At the time the first Municipal Chapter was formed with Mrs. A. W. Turner the first regent, Mrs. Hall served as first vice-regent for four years, then as regent for two years. It was while she was in this office that she was responsible for this city's celebration of the IODE 50th anniversary in Canada.

Mrs. Hall, who has been an

honorary regent of Major Bennett Chapter since its formation in 1917, is at present serving her third year on the executive of the Provincial Chapter of Ontario.

Present Life Membership

Mrs. C. M. Scott, past regent of the 57th Chapter and at present on the executive of the National Chapter of Canada, presented Mrs. Hall with a Municipal Life Membership. She said "The very pleasant duty has been given me, that of showing in a tangible way, appreciation from the IODE members of Peterborough to one of its members for her long, faithful and inspirational service both by precedent and example. During Mrs. Hall's years of IODE services she has always maintained a high standard in her many offices and has inspired many in the noble ideals of the Order."

Reports

Educational Secretary, Mrs. C. L. Upper suggested one or two members should each month at Chapter meeting discuss the various funds donated to, so that members would understand more fully the particular needs.

Echoes secretary Miss Jean Hamley asked that all Chapter notes for the Echoes be handed to her by November 1st. Organizing secretary, Mrs. R. S. Allin asked for the names and addresses of all members who have moved out of town.

Mrs. Groombridge, post-war convener, reported 24 parcels of food have been packed and shipped to England, also 564 knitted and sewn articles and 16 articles of good used clothing packed and shipped to England.

Mrs. Groombridge announced a "good used clothing" drive in October and each member is to supply at least one article. Chapter Regents are to pack their collections and take them to Mrs. Groombridge.

Mrs. Ralph Clark, child and family welfare convener, reported all Chapters supplied two drivers each twice a week for transportation to and from Keene for two crippled children for swimming lessons at the YWCA. This service was continued until the middle of August and drivers from Keene are now looking after the transportation.

Mrs. Clark asked for volunteers to drive a teacher for the Blind from the Canadian National Institute to Campbellford once a week. This service has been undertaken nearly every week by the Municipal Regent Miss Medd.

Mrs. Cliff Boate, press and publicity convener, reported she has started a scrap book of Municipal Chapter news and publicity. Any chapters wishing the IODE crest for display at teas or chapter activities may contact her.

Mrs. R. S. Allin and Mrs. Hudson Hall displayed the two pictures of the King and Queen purchased for presentation to the new city hall. Mrs. Hall and Mrs. Boate were appointed to arrange for suitable frames and plaques for these pictures.

Mrs. C. M. Scott, commonwealth and empire committee convener on the national executive, reported that in the autumn issue of Echoes there should be an interesting article direct from India written by Dr. Katherine Whittier of Indore Central India on the work which the IODE is helping to support in India. This work consists, at present, in translating various nurses' text books from English into Hindi.

Film convener, Miss June Fraser, gave an outline of the two films she arranged to be shown, "Family Portrait" and "Local Government." Mrs. Ross Matthews, regent of the Jeanette Scott Chapter, was in charge of the projection.

Miss Mary Medd read a letter advising that the IODE had exceeded the minimum objective of raising from the public the sum of $100,000 with which to buy Queen Mary's carpet for Canada. Princess Elizabeth has consented on behalf of the IODE to present the carpet to the nation during the royal visit to Canada.

Members of the Jeanette Scott Chapter and the Peter Robinson Chapter served refreshments.

Make Thriftiness Fashion Abbott Urges Housewives

MONTREAL, Sept. 28—(CP)—Finance Minister Abbott invited Canadian housewives Thursday night to participate in Canada's defense program by cutting down "thoughtless spending" and making thriftiness the fashion of the day.

If the word gets around, he said, that thoughtless spending and waste are not in keeping with the times, the Canadian housewife will have accomplished more to beat inflation than the government could by introducing price controls. "A little restraint here, a little more critical appraisal of value there, an ingenious device for getting along with less expenditure somewhere else, repeated thousands of times across this country can have a striking effect," the minister said.

Thrift Campaign

He was invited to help sponsor a "thrift campaign" by the Canadian Council of Women of Canada.

"The most important thing you can do," he told the council's annual meeting, "is to establish a 'tone' to the social fabric in your community which deprecates unessential spending—an attitude of mind in which prudent household management is both patriotic and fashionable."

He reiterated the government's stand not to impose price controls at this time, though, he added, rearmament and inflation were causing "serious problems."

"The decision to rearm carries the approval of all Canadians," he said. "We have taken that decision with great reluctance, but once taken there has been no turning back.

Underestimate

"Soviet leaders seem to have thought that the democracies were too well-fed and lazy to discipline themselves—to deny themselves—in order to acquire the hard military muscle which alone commands their respect." But whether the Russians were in fact surprised and disturbed by the "firmness of public opinion toward rearmament," this did not alter Canada's "need" and "determination." To rearm, as quickly as possible "until we have safely narrowed down the present alarming gap between our strength-in-being and theirs."

A thrift campaign could free manpower and materials for defense production and help restrain price rises "which in themselves can complicate and reduce the working efficiency of our productive machine."

Mr. Abbott urged housewives to avoid temptation. They may see stores filled with goods, but if they bought those goods, the storekeeper simply would order more, intensifying competition with defense needs for materials and labor.

Housewives might wonder whether a reduction in spending might mean fewer jobs. But employment in Canada, said Mr. Abbott, was at its highest level in history. Employment opportunities abound on all sides and will grow as the defense program develops.

THE EXPERTS SAY:

Potato Found To Be Energy Food

By KAY REX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The Irish must have had the right idea—they migrated when they couldn't get enough potatoes to eat at home.

Now the Canadian Fruit Wholesalers Association comes up with what could be interpreted as an explanation for Ireland's historic dependence on spuds—the tuber is an "energy food," says the CFWA. More than just starch and water, it contains protein, minerals and vitamins.

Finally, if mother thinks cutting potatoes out of her diet means cutting down her weight—she had better think again.

Health department officials say that 100 calories of potatoes are no more fattening than 100 calories of anything else. In fact, a slice of bread contains about the same caloric content as a medium-sized baked or boiled potato.

Last night's mashed potatoes always can be turned into tonight's potato cheese puff.

Ingredients: one cup grated cheese; two cups mashed potatoes; two egg yolks; one-third cup milk; two tablespoons melted fat; one-half teaspoon salt; one-quarter teaspoon pepper; one-eighth teaspoon mustard; two egg whites.

Method: Mix grated cheese thoroughly with potato. Beat egg yolks until thick and lemon colored and combine with milk, lemon, fat, salt, pepper and mustard. Add to the potato mixture and beat until smooth. Fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Turn into a well-greased baking dish, set in a pan of hot water and oven-poach in a moderate oven (350 degrees fahrenheit) until set, about 40 minutes. Yield: five to six servings.

Cheese Bits

The Dominion Department of Agriculture is anxious to see that more persons become aware of the many and varied uses of Canadian cheese. In fact it has published any number of cheese recipes to coax housewives to use more cheese in their cooking.

For instance—cheese and onion soup:

Ingredients: Three tablespoons butter; 1½ cups thinly sliced onion; two tablespoons flour; one teaspoon salt; dash of pepper; five cups milk; one cup grated cheese.

Melt butter, add sliced onions and cook covered over low heat, stirring occasionally until clear (about five minutes). Place over hot water, blend in flour, salt and pepper. Add milk slowly and cook, stirring constantly until thickened. Continue cooking about five minutes. Add cheese and stir until melted. Garnish with chopped parsley before serving. Yield: six servings.

A friend of ours who is a particularly good cook says she always uses a fork when making scrambled eggs. She claims that whipping the mixture around with a fork instead of a spoon makes the eggs much lighter.

BIG MARKET

About three-fourths of the passenger cars in Brazil and almost all trucks were manufactured in the U.S. and Canada.

ANCIENT IRISH

Traces of Neolithic man in Ireland include a polished stone axhead dating back to about 2,500 BC.

FUN FASHIONS IN FUR are fine and they add a flip to any wardrobe. But they should be inexpensive. If they are done in rabbit, they are. And the smaller they are, the less they can cost. A little shrug jacket in chinchilla rabbit, the king of rabbit furs, is (left) mostly sleeves. An at-home costume designed just for fun (right) turns out to be a practical fashion, too. A purple wrap-around skirt in rabbit fur is lined with turquoise wool jersey and worn over matching turquoise leotards. But the skirt can serve as a lap-robe for at-home lounging, as a robe in the car, as a knee-warmer at chilly spectator sports.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Basic Dough For Danish Pastry

QUESTION: I watch your column in the Examiner and notice that you include quite a number of Europeans recipes. Do you, by any chance, have a recipe for Danish pastry buns. They are Danish pastry of course. I would appreciate any help given very much.—L. D.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER:

Basic Dough For Danish Pastry

One-half cup scalded milk, 2 tablespoons soft butter, ¼ cup granulated sugar, 2 well-beaten eggs, ½ teaspoon vanilla, rind of ½ lemon, ½ teaspoon salt, 1 ounce compressed yeast mixed to a paste with 1 tablespoon granulated sugar, 1 cup sifted cake flour, 2¾ cups sifted bread flour, ½ cup mixed cold butter and margarine. Pour the hot milk over the 2 tablespoons soft butter and ¼ cup of granulated sugar. Beat in the well-beaten eggs, vanilla, salt and lemon rind. When this becomes lukewarm, stir in the yeast combined with the sugar. Sift the flour together and sift them over the mixture and stir them in to form a soft dough. Turn out on bread-floured board and knead gently for 5 minutes. Place in buttered bowl, grease top, cover and allow to rise to double its size in room temperature. Turn out on floured board and knead again for one-half minute. Let rise again until double.

(Now comes the cold butter part that makes these pastries so delicious.) Wash the ½ cup cold butter or margarine and butter in ice water, squeezing it with the hands until waxy. Divide in 2 portions and store in icebox until dough is ready. When dough has doubled in size a second time roll it out into a rectangle 6 x 12 inches, and distribute one of the pieces of butter, cut into small pieces, over two-thirds of the dough. Fold the portion of the dough having no butter on it over the buttered part, toward you, then fold the other third over the first two, giving three thicknesses. Press edges tightly together, place on plate, cover with paper and towel and chill in refrigerator ½ hour. Roll out again to rectangle 8 x 14 inches and distribute remaining portion of butter in the same way. Chill again for one hour or longer. Now cut out in desired shapes.

For Danish Prune Buns: Roll out into a square 10 x 10 inches. Spread with melted butter or margarine. Spread with a mixture of 1 very small whole egg, ½ cup chopped, steamed, stoned prunes, 2 tablespoons icing sugar, ¼ teaspoon vanilla, and 1 teaspoon of cream. If desired, add ¼ to ½ cup chopped nuts. If this is too wet add 1 tablespoon fine cracker crumbs. Roll up like jelly roll. With very sharp knife cut into ½-inch pieces. Usually these are pressed with handle of knife to make a dip in the centre of each roll. Spread with melted butter and place on ungreased baking sheet. Let rise 2 hours or until very light. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. for 18 minutes or until golden. Remove from tins while hot. These are usually brushed with a little corn syrup when cool and sprinkled with nuts, or frosted with simple white icing and sprinkled with nuts. I hope these instructions start many of you off on the Danish pastry craze—it is a new field of baking from that which most Canadian housewives practice.

QUESTION: I have been puzzled about something and maybe you can help me. I have noticed that many kinds of foods have on the wrappers the following: "Contains less than 1-10 of 1 per cent benzoate of soda." Why is this added to canned products—even pickles? Does this make them taste or keep better? Is it possible to buy this product—if so, where? Is it necessary to certain fruits and vegetables? What is it like—is it a liquid or powder? How would one measure it and what quantities would you use? I have always read your column and enjoyed it and tried your bread and butter pickles and am overjoyed at my success — they are wonderful. Hoping you can help me.—Mrs. Annie F.

ANSWER: Benzoate of soda is a preservative. It also fixes color in preserves and sweet pickles. Its use by manufacturers is strictly controlled. They are permitted to use 1-10 or 1 per cent and its presence must be declared on the label. It is a salt powder. It is not recommended for use in homemade pickles.

In the industry to calculate the proper amount for a batch the total batch is reduced to ounces, and point off three places; for instance, the batch contains 300 pounds—4,800 ounces—so four and eighth-tenths ounces (4.8) benzoate are employed.

Roseneath WA Hold Meet

ROSENEATH, Sept. 28 (ENS)—The Good Samaritan was topic of the address given by Mrs. A. Nill at the WA meeting of Roseneath United Church on Wednesday afternoon. Two points were highlighted by the speaker, (1) the story of a charitable, kind disposition contrasted with a selfish disposition; (2) we are Christians first before belonging to any denomination. In conclusion the speaker said: "We come back to the queenly majesty of love, wherever love exists, she makes a way for herself—over all obstacles love triumphs."

The meeting was held in the Township Hall with Mrs. Isaac Skuce as hostess. The president, Mrs. Ford Derry, presided, with Mrs. Ella Brown as pianist. Mrs. Fred Norris, treasurer, reported a balance on hand of $302.00.

Plans were made to purchase a supply of Christmas cards for WA members. Mrs. Isabel Brown and Mrs. Ford Derry were in charge of the program that included community singing, Mrs. Ella Brown at the piano, Brigadier J. T. Gillingham and Mrs. Gillingham contributed a vocal duet. A quiz, questions and answers, concluded the program.

The meeting closed with the National Anthem.

Car Crashes Picket Line Violence Flares

VANCOUVER, Sept. 28 (CP)—Violence flared yesterday at the Celtic Shipyard when an attempt was made to drive a car through a picket line.

In a general scuffle, two men were injured—one by the car which tried to break the lines, and another in a fight.

Bill White, president of the Marine Workers' Union, was arrested and charged with assault and Roy Loop, a member of the Carpenters' Union (AFL), driver of the car, was charged with dangerous driving.

Loop was one of the injured. He was dragged from the car and beaten. The other injured man was a 60-year-old picket, Bob Newlands, who was hit by the car and dragged 144 feet.

Three shipyards here have been picketed for a month since the Marine Union was identified as bargaining agent by the British Columbia Labor Board and the Carpenters' Union was given the bargaining rights. The Marine workers were decertified when the Labor Board ruled their refusal to work overtime was, in effect, an illegal strike.

Gov't Suggests Sell Fewer Papers On Street

WASHINGTON, Sept. 28—(AP)—A government-sponsored plan to save newsprint by voluntarily cutting down on the number of newspapers printed for street sale was disclosed to a House of Representatives committee yesterday.

Arthur Treanor, director of the nation production authority's printing and publishing division, told a House sub-committee an announcement is likely today of the initial operation of the plan.

The sub-committee is studying newsprint supplies.

Treanor noted that the Canadian newsprint industry was built up by American publishers "while the rest of the world stood by."

"I think the Americans should be given a priority on the Canadian output of newsprint," he added.

Publishes Agreement

Treanor indicated the conservation program is based on newspaper publishers entering into an agreement under government auspices to reduce the number of papers that are sent to distributors or street vendors.

Treanor said a city has been chosen for a trial run of the plan and it has been submitted to certain publishers.

"There's a big gap between 'net pressrun' and 'net paid' figures of a newspaper" he said. "We believe that in this one city alone the proposed conservation plan will save 6,000 tons of newsprint a year."

He said a study of 10 cities indicated that 184,000 tons of newsprint could be saved annually under the program.

The cities under consideration, Treanor said, include New York, Washington, Detroit, Los Angeles, Boston, St. Louis, Cleveland, Baltimore, Pittsburgh and Philadelphia.

Bread, Water Diet

LONDON, Sept. 28 (Reuters).—Two British scientists will go on a seven-day bread-and-water diet Saturday to prove that men can live by bread alone—provided it is improved by a new discovery they have made and some vitamin pills. The scientists—C. J. Travis King and P. S. Jewell—work in the research laboratories of a bread manufacturer.

Defence Plants Strikes Spread

NEWARK, NJ, Sept. 28 (AP)—Mushrooming strikes in key New Jersey defence plants spread today from the aircraft to the rubber industry and threatened oil production.

Well over $1,000,000,000 in defence production was halted by walkouts affecting more than 18,000 workers.

While federal mediators moved into the walkout of 10,000 Wright aeronautical workers in Woodridge and Garfield, some 3,000 United Rubber Workers (CIO) shut down the US Rubber Co. plant in Passaic at midnight.

State Takes Part

State officials moved to avert a stoppage of 2,200 workers at the Bayonne refinery of Esso Standard Oil Co., in mediation sessions here. They also scheduled conferences to try to settle a wage dispute that has made idle 1,100 workers at four plants of the Whippany Paper Board Co. for 59 days.

Picket lines were thrown around the Passaic rubber plant after four-month-long negotiations broke down over a piecework incentive system and seniority provisions.

Almost $1,000,000,000 in defence production is involved in the strike of 10,000 United Auto Workers (CIO) at the Wright plants. Another 4,000 construction and office employees are honoring the picket lines. The CIO is asking a 12-cent-hourly wage hike. The company is offering three to nine cents.

Manager Retires After 22 Years

Harry J. White, general sales manager of the Outboard Marine and Manufacturing Company was feted on Thursday evening by a group of 40-odd members of the company executive and heads of key groups. He is retiring after 22 years of service with his company.

President C. B. Neal in a dinner speech pointed out, among many of Mr. White's achievements, the loyalty he had created with district and Dominion wide dealers as well as with fellow employees.

Mr. Neil presented him with a 10 horsepower motor and L. L. Tremblay, vice-president in charge of merchandising who acted as dinner chairman, presented him with a camera on behalf of the Outboard executives. Mrs. White received flowers from the company.

Among those present at the dinner beside Messrs. Neal and Tremblay were Hy Wood, vice-president in charge of manufacturing, B. L. Payne, secretary-treasurer, E. E. Estlick, Don Wood, John Madden, P. McArthur, Reg Reid and Larry Maguire.

Following dinner, less formal social activities took place including singing led by Ed Murphy. Mr. and Mrs. White are leaving shortly for a lengthy trip to Arizona.

Springbrook Man Perishes As Flames Sweep House

1 Killed, 3 Hurt As Car Crashes Into Manilla Train

LINDSAY, Sept. 29. (Staff)—A Toronto man was instantly killed and three other occupants of his car seriously injured Friday night when their car smashed into a CNR train, at the level crossing two and a half miles west of Manilla. The accident was 18 miles west of Lindsay on Highway 7. A total of five people have been killed at the Manilla crossing this year in car-train collisions. Four died in a similar accident in February.

Victims in Friday night's mishap:

Dead—John A. Goodman, 43, 87 Bideford Road, Toronto.

In Lindsay Hospital

Mr. and Mrs. McKenzie and Mrs. Goodman were taken to Ross Memorial hospital, Lindsay, where they were treated by Dr. M. E. Gorman. Hospital authorities said today the condition of all three was "fair".

The two couples were going north to the Minden district, where the Goodmans have a cottage, for a weekend of fishing and relaxation.

Provincial police report that they descended the hill west of the Manilla crossing on their way to Lindsay and Goodman apparently didn't see the southbound diesel locomotive until too late.

Skids 100 Feet

He slammed on the brakes, leaving more than 100 feet of skid marks; and at the last minute attempted to turn the car at a left angle, parallel to the tracks. Instead the right front corner of the car smashed head-on into the onrushing locomotive, travelling at 40 miles an hour.

The car with the four occupants was tossed 40 feet along the west side of the track into the southern ditch. Goodman was found 15 feet further on, 55 feet from the point of impact. The vehicle was completely wrecked.

Passing motorists stopped to give what assistance they could. McKenzie was taken away by ambulance and an army bus rushed the two badly injured women to Lindsay hospital.

The diesel-electric train was going from Midland to Blackwater and was travelling an estimated 40 miles an hour when the accident occurred, shortly after 7 pm. Damage to it was a dent in the front and a scrape on the right side.

It was taken to Blackwater for repairs by Conductor Harry McONE KILLED

Invite Legion To Prove Hospital Charges

TORONTO, Sept. 29—(CP). — The Department of Veterans Affairs Friday invited the Canadian Legion to prove charges of "sausage-mill" treatment of war veterans in DVA hospitals.

The charges were levelled in St. Catharines Thursday night by Arthur Padbury, chairman of the Legion's Provincial Service Bureau, at meeting of Legion members from four Niagara district centres. Some 350 Legionnaires attended the meeting with two members of Parliament in the audience.

Veterans Minister Lapointe in Ottawa said "every facility" would be provided the Legion for an investigation if that body's executive felt that such was required. Mr. Lapointe said:

"We feel confident that they will find that nowhere is there a better standard of treatment for veterans than at Sunnybrook Hospital."

Mr. Padbury's allegations concerned chiefly the huge 1,500-bed Sunnybrook Hospital in North York, on Toronto's northern outskirts. He termed it little better than "a school for Toronto University medical students." But his criticism was extended to Westminster Hospital in London, Ontario.

Makes Complaints

Mr. Padbury's complaints:

An "unprecedented number" of suicides had occurred at Sunnybrook in the last 18 months and that no investigation had been made.

Medical treatment was of the "sausage-mill variety." Something was "pushed in at one end and how it comes out of the other—God only knows."

T. A. Hulse, president of the Legion's Provincial Command, said he had not known that Mr. Padbury was going to make his St. Catharines speech. A regular meeting of the Command Administrative Committee would be held today "from which a statement may emanate on Mr. Padbury's address."

Planes Strike At Red Convoy

US EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, Sept. 29 — (AP)—Allied planes today roared through Korean skies in pre-dawn attacks on an estimated 1,000 Communist vehicles.

The heavy road traffic apparently was a substitute for Red rail movements, disrupted by heavy air attacks.

The main masses of trucks were spotted between Sariwon and Pyongyang, south of Yangdok and Wonsan. In these areas trains normally carry the bulk of Red supplies to the front.

Later Saturday, a cold steady rain settled down over the Korean front. It blanketed out the air war, and almost all ground action.

Except for a few scattered skirmishes, infantry of both sides huddled in foxholes and dugouts, trying to keep warm and dry.

Fine Priest $100 For Interfering With Letters

AMOS, Que., Sept. 29 (CP). — A Roman Catholic priest was fined $100 Friday with an alternative of a month in jail on a charge of interfering with mail addressed to Baptists.

A 16-year-old girl, working part-time in the sub-postoffice where the mail was stopped, was given a suspended sentence for permitting another person to keep relay and detain postal circulars.

Passing sentence, Magistrate Felix Allard said the charge was a technical one since the mail detained consisted of circulars in non-sealed envelopes. There was no criminal intent, he said.

The Rev. J. Alfred Roy pleaded guilty to the charge Friday. The girl, Gervaise Begin of nearby St. Germaine Boule, also pleaded guilty to the charge against her. She is the daughter of Postmaster William Begin.

The charges arose when Noranda Baptist Pastor Leslie G. Barnhart said pamphlets sent to members of his congregation in St. Germaine were not reaching their destination.

This, the pastor charged, lasted from February to June.

Defence Counsel Charles Barbes had asked for a suspended sentence for the pair and Magistrate Allard had indicated he would consider the matter should the Justice Department prosecutor, J. J. Martel of Lasarre, Que., agree to it.

Mr. Martel tossed the decision back to the court, saying his instruction from Ottawa was to let the court use its own discretion.

The trial brought few spectators to the courtroom of this Northwestern Quebec centre. A Toronto photographer and a reporter watched the proceedings, but the magistrate warned the photographer that no pictures could be taken in court.

Identify Alumiuum As Plane Cowling

VANCOUVER, Sept. 29. (CP)—A five-foot length of aluminum found in the mountains near Chemainus, BC, has been identified as the cowling of a plane engine.

"It is quite possible it came from a crashed plane," said an RCAF spokesman. "But by the same token, it is also possible the cowling came off in flight.

"Our technicians have made only a cursory examination of the metal," he added. "It is still too early to say anything definite."

No identification marks were found on the metal. It was discovered Wednesday by a woodsman at the 2,000-foot level of a 3,000-foot mountain in the Sugar Loaf Mountain area, 23 miles northwest of Chemainus.

Farmer's Wife Murdered Posse Hunts Hired Man

HARRISON'S CORNERS, Ont., Sept. 29. (CP)—Reinforced detachments of Cornwall township police, Ontario Provincial Police, game wardens and posses of district farmers today hunted for a blond, curly-haired youth wanted for questioning in connection with the slaying of his employer's young wife.

Victim of a fatal knife-and-hammer attack Friday was pretty, auburn-haired Mrs. Allan Alguire, 29-year-old mother of four children.

She was found Friday afternoon sprawled near an outhouse on the Alguire farm in this district 10 miles north of Cornwall.

Missing was 20-year-old Elias Meeks, hired man, a shotgun and several rounds of ammunition.

Allan Alguire, 28, husband of the slain woman, had left earlier in the day for a nearby farm to help in corn-cutting operations. Left at home with his wife were their three-year-old twins and Meeks. A young daughter was at school and a four-year-old son was with his grandmother, Mrs. Ross Alguire, at Mille Roche, Ont.

Finds Body

The body of the young woman, deep stab wounds in the abdomen, was discovered when the elderly Mrs. Alguire came to her son's farm to pick apples.

Coroner Dr. James M. Pollock said Mrs. Alguire died from the stab wounds, but she also had been struck heavy blows on the head.

Police reported discovery of a large butcher knife and a hammer, both covered with blood.

Young Meeks had been working and living with the Alguire family for the last two years.

Police said there were signs the young woman had put up a hard fight to save her life.

Her husband was taken to his father's home at Mille Roche suffering from shock and was confined to bed under medical care.

Red Radio Says Talks Wrecked

TOKYO, Sept. 29—(AP)—The Red China radio said tonight the United States has wrecked the Kaesong cease-fire talks and is planning amphibious landings in North Korea.

The broadcast, monitored here, said landings were planned along both the east and west coasts.

The radio continued: "In order to conquer the whole of North Korea, the Americans have decided to train five more divisions, drive the (North) Korean and Chinese forces to the Yalu river and bomb Communist bases in northeast China."

There was no immediate comment by Allied officials in Tokyo.

In Closed Session

Meanwhile in Tokyo, Gen. Omar N. Bradley, chairman of the United States joint Chiefs of Staff, today conferred in closed session with Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, Supreme United Nations' Commander.

An Allied headquarters statement gave no hint that the two

Franchot Tone Weds Starlet

CLOQUE, Minn., Sept. 28 — (AP)—Franchot Tone of the movies Friday night married Barbara Payton, the film starlet over whose affections he fought with Tom Neal two weeks ago in Hollywood.

The film couple spoke their vows in a simple, white frame house in the presence of only a few relatives and friends.

"I never felt better in my life," said Tone, still bearing a bloodshot eye and swollen lips from the Neal affray.

The bride and Tone left immediately with the wedding party of 15 for a dinner at some undisclosed place.

It was the third marriage for both Tone and Miss Payton. The actor first married Joan Crawford Oct. 11, 1935, and was divorced in April, 1939. In 1941, he was wed to Jean Wallace and divorced in 1947. She is now Mrs. Corneli Wilde. Tone had two sons by his second marriage, Pascal, 7, and Tom, 5.

Miss Payton was married in 1944 to William Hodge, Lubbock, Texas, but that union was annulled. Later, in February, 1945, she married John Payton, a Burlington, Iowa, auto salesman, while he was a member of the air force at Monroe, La.

Greek King Approves Forming Government

ATHENS, Greece, Sept. 29 — (Reuters)—King Paul has approved the formation of a Liberal-Progressive coalition government to end a three-week political deadlock followirig the stalemate federal election.

Gen. Nicholas Plastiras, leader of the Progressive party, will be prime minister, it was announced today by Sophocles Venizelos, Liberal caretaker premier.

Field Marshal Alexander Papagos, 67-year-old war hero whose newly-formed "Greek Rally" emerged as the strongest party in the elections, Friday rejected the king's offer to form a three-party coalition cabinet with the Liberals and Progressives.

The king today took up Venizelos and Plastiras on their offer to form a two-party coalition if the three-party scheme failed.

The king asked them to wait until the new chamber assembled and the strengths of the parties were definitely established. Until then the Venizelos caretaker gov-

Contents Of Treasure Fort Biggest Secret Of Orient

JAIPUR, India, Sept. 29 — (Reuters)—One of the secrets of the Orient is the contents of the Tiger fort of Jaipur.

This small fortress, on a hill overlooking Jaipur, is said to be stuffed with fabulous loot from the Punjab and Afghan expeditions of the first Maharajah Mansingh under the Mogul kings.

But no one knows how much this vast hoard of jewels and precious stone is worth.

A clan of Bhils, a wild and primitive tribe, armed with cutlasses, muskets and bows and arrows, guards the fort and refuses to allow anyone within four miles of it.

Even the ruling maharajah may enter the fort only once in his lifetime.

According to tradition, he is blindfolded and led through the fortress walls into the treasure object of his choice to take out with him.

The present maharajah has been there once, in 1944. He is reported to have chosen a jewelled bird with diamond eyes, studded with rubies, which is now in the Ranbagh palace in Jaipur.

A year later, when there was a famine in Jaipur, some silver was brought out from the fortress' coin hoard for the relief of stricken families.

The Bhils, about 100 of them, have had the hereditary privilege of guarding the fort for centuries. They live with their families up at the fort and never come down to the city.

Even their food is sent up to them and handed through a carefully guarded gate. They speak a different tongue from the inhabitants of Jaipur, so that there

75 Villagers Attempt Quell Blaze

Neighbors Notice Fire At 7 a.m. Too Late To Help

SPRINGBROOK, Sept. 29.—(Staff) — Sixty-five-year-old John Forsyth of this village was burned to death today when fire destroyed his two-storey frame house. He was alone at the time.

Neighbor Edward Bateman first saw the fire at 7 a.m. and helped organize a bucket brigade of 75 villagers which fought the blaze vainly for several hours.

Cause of the fire is unknown.

Spectacular Blaze

Thick smoke and flames leaping 25 to 30 feet above the house made the fire a spectacular one, and the smoke at times hampered the firefighters.

Mr. Forsyth 's wife had left the house Friday to visit a son, J. D. Forsyth, who lives near Sudbury. Other children are: Mrs. Myrtle Cassidy, Mrs. Emerson Reid, both of Springbrook; Hugh of Deloro, and Garnet of Peterborough.

Reg. McEwan, a neighbor, told the Examiner "the first anybody knew of the fire was around 7 o'clock this morning when Ed. Bateman told us about it. But there wasn't anything we could do about the flames. They were burning too strongly." Mr. McEwan said the fire burned for about three hours after it was first seen.

The Forsyth home was at the south-end of Springbrook, a village of 125 persons on Highway 14, eight miles north of Stirling. Mr. Forsyth was a laborer.

Note Cheerfulness In Report King Some Stronger

LONDON, Sept. 29. (CP)—This morning's medical bulletin on the King said: "King George VI has been gaining strength daily. The period since his operation has been free of complications." The bulletin was issued as anxiety for the King—who underwent a major lung operation last week—began to give way to a belief that the worst is over. There was plenty of awareness that the 55-year-old monarch is still seriously sick, and there was no indication yet that he had reached the point where all danger of relapse was past.

But the text of the 10th medical bulletin issued since Sunday's operation said:

"Six days have elapsed since the operation on the King This has been a period free of complications. His Majesty is gaining strength daily."

A crowd of 150 waited in the sunshine outside Buckingham Palace for the notice to be posted on the palace gate.

Subdued Cheerfulness

The British people, seeking information beyond the scanty official bulletins, found plenty of signs of subdued cheerfulness:

1. There was no official medical bulletin last night for the third straight day.
2. Princess Elizabeth's decision to leave for Canada next week.
3. The visit to Ascot by Princesses Elizabeth and Margaret to see the King's horse. Ash Grove, finish a poor eighth.

Public opinion seized on this visit as something much more than evidence of the Royal family's fondness for horse-racing. It was widely regarded as a graceful way of telling the country:

"Father's doing fine. We're taking it easy, you can too."

Princess Elizabeth, driven by the Duke of Edinburgh, left Clarence House—their London home — about an hour before the bulletin was issued. They drove off without calling at the palace.

Princess Margaret was flying back to Scotland today to resume her vacation at Balmoral, the Royal castle.

Today's bulletin was eagerly read outside the palace by crowds of sightseers who had come to London to see the official closing this week-end of the Festival of Britain exhibition.

Canada Sends Guns As Aid For Italy

OTTAWA, Sept. 29. (CP) — Canada is sending 49 17-pounder anti-aircraft guns to Italy as part of this country's aid to Europe under the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, the Defence Department announced today.

The guns will be in addition to arms and ammunition to equip an infantry division, which Canada shipped Italy from Montreal last month.

The guns, now in Korea, have been replaced by 75 mm. recoilless rifles, known as "superbazookas," and tanks bought from the United States.

Jebb, Iran PM To Plead Case Before UN

LONDON, Sept. 29—(AP)—Iran's Prime Minister, Mohammed Mossadegh, and Britain's Sir Gladwyn Jebb will plead the case for their governments in the boiling oil dispute before the United Nations Security Council next week.

This was disclosed today in London and Tehran. It will pit a polished British diplomat against a frail, highly-emotional, veteran Iranian politician in a controversy which Britain says endangers world peace. Britain tossed the long and bitter dispute over nationalization of Iran's oil riches to the council yesterday.

Jebb will leave tonight by plane for New York. He will ask the Council to call upon the government of Iran not to carry out its eviction notice to 300 technicians at Abadan to get out by next Thursday. Britain has warned "grave consequences" would follow a complete takeover at the Abadan refinery.

In Tehran, advisers of Mossadegh appeared visibly worried at the latest British move to bring international pressure to delay the order pushing British technicians from Abadan.

Iran Surprised

The appeal to the UN surprised the Iranians. They had half expected Britain to refrain from such a move since the Soviet Union, which has a veto in the Council, would side with Iran, in the opinion of Mossedegh's advisers.

Deputy Premier Hossein Fatemi told newspapermen that "the government does not consider the Security Council competent to consider the dispute which is purely an internal affair." That

Missionaries To China Say Work In Past Not Too Good

NEW YORK, Sept. 29—(AP)—How good a job did American Protestant missionaries do during their years in China?

"Partly good, partly bad" is, in effect, the answer of the missionaries themselves.

Reports from more than 150 of them, now back home from that politically cataclysmic country, were summarized today in an analysis for the foreign missions division of the National Council of the Churches of Christ.

The missionaries said that they learned these lessons about implanting the Christian faith abroad:

1. That their work should be on behalf of a unified Christian Church, rather than promotion of "replicas of western denominational" groups.

2. That the missionary's attitude should be one of a "co-worker in the community" rather than of a foreigner bringing "our way of life" to strangers."

3. That it is necessary to develop churches with local leadership and local support rather than to impose "paternalistic leadership and western customs from the outside."

"Churches which have begun on a basis of a simple program, self-supported, have grown the fastest," one missionary's report said.

The missionaries said that generally they fostered development of national leadership in the churches through employment of Chinese principals for mission schools, and Chinese doctors in hospitals.

But the analysis added: "Most of them felt that too many missionaries kept too much control too long over institutions, funds, policies, methods and activities."

The analysis, prepared by a committee headed by Dr. Harry S. Matthews, of Boston, China secretary for the Foreign Missions Board of the Congregational Christian Churches, said the reports from missionaries of 18 denominations emphasized the need for unified mission work.

2 Cars, One Truck Damaged In Accident

Two cars and a truck were damaged Friday afternoon on Aylmer St. between Murray and Brock Sts.

Donald Shadgett, Bridgenorth, was driving north on Aylmer and pulled out to pass a truck being driven into Groombridge's garage on the east side of the street.

Isadore Lanys, who lives at the YMCA, was driving south, and hit the left rear fender of the Shadgett car, when he pulled to the centre of the road to avoid a truck parked on the west side of the road.

Lanys' car then swung further east, hit the truck being parked on the garage lot and then the rear of a small British car, also on the lot and owned by George Chalupka, 454 Chamberlain St.

Gold Policy May Be Eased, Curbs Lifted

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 (AP)—The International Monetary Fund has taken its $35-an-ounce ceiling off the price of fabricated gold—gold meant for non-banking uses.

The Fund's action Friday meant in effect that the 49 Fund member countries—most of the free world plus Czechoslovakia—now are free to put as much of their non-monetary gold on the market as they wish, at whatever price it will bring.

The decision will affect the "free market" price of gold, possibly driving it down as more gold becomes available, or bidding gold up if the demand is great.

It may also reflect in international trade prices and in the value, on international exchanges of some currencies as they are offered in exchange for gold. But officials said effects could not be predicated, may take months to show up, and depend partly on political and military situations.

(Canada's Finance Department said Friday that the government's policy on the sale of Canadian gold will be made next week.)

Some Freedom

It appeared certain, however, that Canada's policy would be to allow at least part of Canada's gold production to be sold on the free market, paralleling the policy of South Africa, which already so disposes of about 40 per cent of its gold.

Canadian mine operators considered the policy will benefit some gold mines.)

The announcement signalled the end of a four-year fight to keep all but a small percentage of international gold transactions pegged to the official price of gold as money—or the backing behind money—of $35 an ounce. The fund adopted that valuation in relation to money in 1947. It urged its members to forbid sale of practically all gold above that price as part of the fund's drive to stabilize the international values of national currencies.

Fabricated gold is put into bar or other shape for sale, ostensibly, to industrial users of the metal, such as dental and goldsmith supply houses.

is the line expected to be followed by Iran's Premier at the hearings.

Britain will call upon the Iranian government to adhere to the interim recommendation of the International Court of Justice at The Hague in the dispute. This recommendation was that neither side in the dispute take irrevocable action pending a final decision of the merits of the case.

Iran boycotted the court hearings. It is significant that she will attend the council sessions, although disputing its authority.

The Foreign Office denied reports published today in British newspapers that Royal Navy ships had started a naval blockade of the Persian Gulf to prevent Iran from shipping oil from the Abadan refinery.

Britain is angry at the way her technicians have been inched out of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company's refinery at Abadan. Iran has nationalized the holdings of the British-controlled AIOC.

The country is jittery because of fears that any action to defend her Iranian interests by force might send up in flames the whole Middle East.

Form of Plea

Prime Minister Attlee's Labor government's approach to the UN took the form of a plea to the security council to enforce the July 5 recommendation of the International Court of Justice at The Hague. This asked Iran to allow the AIOC's commercial operations to continue unhampered pending a legal judgment that Iranian Premier Mohammed Mossadegh's order that all Britons quit Iran by Oct. 4 breaches that recommendation.

It added that the oil crisis now is a matter likely to endanger the maintenance of international peace and security.

Britain's decision to refer the dispute to the security council was taken after two days of cabinet discussions and an urgent message to President Truman—apparently for advice.

Abandon Force

The appeal to the UN appears to signify that Britain has decided, for the time being anyway, against the only obvious alternative—to land armed forces in an effort to regain physical control of the British-controlled $1,000,000,000 refinery.

Lord Beaverbrook's empire-minded Daily Express was the only newspaper to applaud the government's decision. It called it "wisdom and realism."

If Russia vetoes a council decision in Britain's favor, the Express said, "Britain . . . will have rallied to her side all free nations . . . Then if the Security Council proposed no effective action, the duty and responsibility will fall to Britain to act alone to defend her own people and prosperity."

Mining Slowed

VIRGINIA, Minn., Sept. 29. (AP)—Iron mining came to a standstill on the Mesabi and Vermillion ranges in Minnesota late Friday as some 10,500 workers failed to report for work on the night shifts. The United Steelworkers Union (CIO) denied that a strike had been called. A spokesman said, however, that the men had been asked to attend a very important meeting here Friday night. There was no indication how long the men would be absent from their job.

UK Film Group Shows Profit For Year

TORONTO, Sept. 29 (CP)—The J. Arthur Rank organization, British film group consisting of Odeon Theatres, Ltd., and subsidiaries, had net profit in the year ending June 23, of $830,000, compared with a net loss of $375,000 in the previous year.

Details of the annual report, released here by the J. Arthur Rank Organization in Canada, Ltd., adds that net profits before taxes was $8,300,000 and that trading profit, after depreciation, but before other charges, was approximately $11,000,000 compared with $5,000,000 for the preceding year.

Bank indebtedness was reduced by $11,000,000 during the year, and by about $21,000,000 in the last two years.

Mr. Rank comments:

"The policy which we laid down, after the unfortunate reverse of 1948-49, namely, to restrict film production to a level commensurate with our financial resources, to reduce unfunded indebtedness and to economize and strictly control administrative and other expenses, has been continued with satisfactory results."

Referring to the Canadian operation, which he visited during the year, Mr. Rank said:

"I am satisfied that our investment, with efficient and satisfactory management, in this rapidly-developing, rich country, will become of increasing importance to this group during the coming year."

Mr. Rank said the purpose of the organization's substantial interests in theatres outside the United Kingdom is "to ensure an adequate outlet for the showing of British films. As a result we now are in the position of not only having secured an assured outlet, but we are making a reasonable return upon our investments."

WINNIPEG GRAIN

WINNIPEG, Sept. 29 (CP) — Trading was quite active toward the close of Friday's session on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange and early advances in coarse grain futures were reduced or erased. Late declines in prices on US markets were reflected in increased offerings on the Winnipeg market and a decline in prices.

No export loadings of wheat were reported but 200,000 bushels of barley were reported exported to Belgium. Prices for Class 2 wheat and IWA were unchanged except No. 4 northern, which advanced one cent.

Cadets, Reserve To Participate In Trenton Show

Plans for the Royal visit to Trenton, now on Friday, October 12, were finalized for the Peterborough reserve force units and cadet groups Thursday night at a meeting in Trenton.

Sea cadets from corps in Belleville, Peterborough and Trenton will honor the Duke of Edinburgh's rank in the Royal Navy by lining the station and the first part of the route. The Trenton sea cadet corps will be lining Princess Elizabeth's and the Duke of Edinburgh's route through the station while Belleville and Peterborough will be just outside the station.

From the station to Nicholas St., a distance of 3,445 feet, the Peterborough reserve units, the PCVS cadets, Lakefield High school cadets and the Millbrook High school cadets will line the streets.

Grove school of Lakefield, who were at first scheduled to help line the station at Trenton, have been invited to the Royal Military College at Kingston for the Royal visit.

Millbrook Cadets Go

Their place on the Peterborough and district train has been taken by the Millbrook High school cadets, under Percy Hamilton, principal of the public school there.

Arrangements have been made by the army to transport the 40 Millbrook and 60 Lakefield army cadets to Peterborough by bus where they will meet the troop train. Others making the trip will be the 50th H.A.A. Regiment, the 28th Technical Squadron, the Sea Cadets, and 550 army cadets from PCVS.

The special train will go from Peterborough to Belleville where the sea cadets there will entrain, then to Trenton, arriving at 11 a.m. The soldiers and cadets will be on duty by 12.30 until after the Royal train arrives at 2.30.

On the Peterborough train will be two dining coaches for the soldiers and cadets, the meals provided by the Canadian Army.

"We're the only ones to get food properly", said Capt. G. A. Woods, who attended the Trenton meeting Thursday. "The rest are getting only box lunches."

Training For Showing

Already the cadet corps in Millbrook, Lakefield, Lindsay and Peterborough are training for the special day. At the armouries, Capt. Frank Frape, officer commanding 5B recruiting station, is instructing the PCVS boys during the physical education periods, averaging six classes a day. He also is training the Lakefield High cadets.

For the past week a gun crew, from the 50th H.A.A. Regiment, has been training under Capt. Woods on 25-pound gun, borrowed from the 33rd Medium Regiment, Cobourg. They will take part in the Royal salute when the Royal party arrives at Trenton. The other three crews are from Cobourg and Lindsay.

A second train will take the 4th Field Regiment, Lindsay Collegiate army cadets and others to Trenton.

Says Assault Story Hoax To Get Ride

HAMILTON, Sept. 29 (CP)—At a special session of Magistrate's Court Friday Ida McNeeley, 30, pleaded guilty to "obstructing police" by telling them the story about how she was assaulted by four youths last Thursday morning. She was remanded until Tuesday for sentence.

The good looking girl admitted that most of her story was a hoax so that she could get a ride back into Hamilton after she found herself stranded, barefoot, in the country after a night of drinking and carousing.

Mr. Lapointe said in a statement:

"The department has endeavored to set up facilities for treatment in all its veterans hospitals, of which Sunnybrook is the largest and newest, of a standard equal to the best civilian hospitals....

Both Mr. Lapointe and his deputy, Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns, said suicides had occurred at Sunnybrook, but denied Mr. Padbury's charge that these were not investigated. Each had been looked into and each referred to the coroner, "who decided that no inquests were necessary."

talked over the stalled Korean armistice negotiations.

The statement said only that they discussed "military matters of mutual interest."

Presumably their talks centred on military strategy and tactics to be followed if truce negotiations break down completely.

Bradley, Ridgway and a top State Department advisory, Charles Bohlen, met in Ridgway's office this morning.

Top Authority

While the highly-secret talks went on, United Nations' officials stood by at Munsan, Korea. They waited a Red reply to Ridgway's proposal that the talks be moved from Kaesong to the no-man's land area six miles southeast.

A pooled dispatch from the advanced headquarters at Munsan quoted one official as saying, "The Communists have given absolutely no indication of any impending reply."

Red propaganda broadcasts have indicated the Communists will reject the Supreme Allied Commander's proposal.

It was believed generally that the Bradley-Bohlen mission will concentrate on two things conduct of cease-fire negotiations, and military plans to be put into effect if the talks break down completely.

Air Cadets Plan To Improve Training Scheme

OTTAWA, Sept. 29—(CP)—The national executive committee of the Air Cadet League of Canada at a meeting today mapped plans to improve the training program for Canada's 17,000 Air Cadets, including measures to teach more of them to fly.

Air Cadet League President Harold L. Garner of Peterborough, Ont., announced it was hoped to extend the Air Cadet flying scholarship scheme to enable selected cadets to attain a private pilot's licence while on course.

The present plan, covering 17 hours of air instruction, may be brought up to the 30 hours required to get a private licence.

This summer a record number of 242 cadets underwent flying training and 70 per cent of them were successful in getting their wings.

Extend Exchange Plan

The League will attempt to extend the international exchange visit plan to additional countries next year. This year seven countries participated.

Mr. Garner also said that Air Cadets from other countries visiting Canada under the exchange plan will be greeted by a special reception flight of Canadian Cadets who will act as guides at the major assembly points.

Canada's entry in next year's international drill competition, to be held in the United States, will be selected from Air Cadet squadrons in Ontario and Quebec.

The executive meeting was attended by top league officials from all parts of the country and by RCAF air members from air force headquarters, including Air Vice Marshal F. R. Miller, Vice-Chief of the Air Staff.

74 Ask Jobs As Housecleaners

Applications from 31 men and 43 women for housecleaning jobs at the new city hall were scanned by the property committee of the council Friday. Their study was left to a small committee to select 10 or 12 names from each list for reference to the committee.

So far nothing has been decided as to the details of number of employees, hours of work and wages. It may be that two men will be engaged for a 44-hour week at 80 to 85 cents an hour, with an increase after three months.

The work week for women, three or four of them, will perhaps be 20 hours a week or thereabouts, at a commencing 70 cents an hour.

These were tentative suggestions as the committee considered a problem that is new to them in deciding the number of housecleaning employees that are required.

Mayor Swanston said that the present caretaker has not been definitely engaged for occupation of the quarters provided in the penthouse of the new building. It is understood he would be the third man of the staff, and in charge of the staff.

Lie Refuses To Rehire Fired Employees

UNITED NATIONS, NY, Sept. 29—Secretary General Trygve Lie has refused to reinstate two dismissed employees, whose reinstatement was recommended three weeks ago by a three- member administrative tribun[illegible]e tribunal had ruled that the United Nations must either take back the two employees or pay them indemnities.

Mr. Lie's decision not to rescind the discharge became known today after the matter had been discussed by members of the staff council.

Not Flaunting Tribunal

A spokesman for Mr. Lie's office insisted that the Secretary General's action was not an attempt to "flout" the tribunal, which is the highest court of appeal to which employees may take their grievances.

In testimony submitted to the tribunal, the two dismissed workers—Mrs. Mary Jane Keeney and Raja F. Howrani—ascribed their ouster to "political prejudice," and complained that they had been accused of Communist ties. The tribunal did not rule on these accusations, but ordered a reinstatement on the ground that irregularities existed in the manner in which both had been discharged.

Mr. Lie's decision was communicated to both employees in letters, saying that he felt it was "inadvisable" to revoke the discharges, which took place last January. The letters advised the two employees that since they would not be re-hired, the administration felt they should not receive seven months' back pay.

Quote Rules

The letters cited Article 9 of the General Assembly's statute of staff relations, which provides that the Secretary General may decide not to follow the reinstatement ruling if he considers re-employment of staff members "impossible or inadvisable." In such cases the article leaves it to the tribunal to fix indemnities. This may or may not include back pay.

Frank J. Donner, legal counsel for the dismissed employees, said he had written to Mr. Lie, contending that Article 9 demanded reinstatement except under "exceptional circumstances," and that Mr. Lie had not cited any reasons.

Princess Elizabeth Has The Ability To Put People Immediately At Ease

By ARTHUR J. MATHERS
NEA Special Correspondent

LONDON—(NEA)—When the people of Canada see the most romantic royal couple of the Western World for the first time next month, they will discover that talking with Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip of England is as uncomplicated as a visit with the folks next door.

For all the glamor and dignity that surround her as the first girl to stand directly in succession to the British throne for more than a century, Princess Elizabeth has the unfailing ability to put people immediately at their ease.

To her husband, Prince Philip, who has spent most of his life among the ordinary people of many lands, easy and informal conversation is as natural as breathing and as unpatronizing as a high school class reunion.

The 25-year-old Princess with the peach complexion has what is described as the "most generous smile in Europe." Her 30-year-old sailor Prince is six feet tall, athletic, and Viking-blond. Together, they are more than a man and woman destined to some day rule the vast British Commonwealth of Nations as Queen and Consort.

In austere Britain—and even much further afield—they are an effective symbol of youth and hope, of domestic happiness, good looks, easy natural charm, and all the other factors that go to make up a real belief in the future.

Pessimists who said that Kings, Queens and royal families are museum pieces have been silenced by the dedicated services of the present King and Queen. They are likely to continue silent when Elizabeth is called upon to occupy the Throne.

Although both Elizabeth and Philip are great-great-grandchildren of Queen Victoria, the family connection between them is too remote to be clearly defined in everyday terms.

SYMBOL OF YOUTH AND HOPE—In Britain—and even much further afield—Elizabeth and Philip are more than a couple destined to some day rule the British empire as Queen and Consort.

BABY PRINCESS: On her first birthday, Elizabeth wore the coral necklace her own daughter, Princess Anne, was to wear when she was a year old.

Elizabeth descends in the direct line of English kings from her great forbear. Philip's family tree, however, is intricately interwoven with the noble—and mostly exiled — families of Greece, Germany and Denmark. Through his aunt, Lady Louis Mountbatten, Philip can even claim a family connection with Pochahontas.

The marriage of Elizabeth and Philip in 1947 was no "royal match made in the Chancelleries of Europe."

Elizabeth's father, King George VI, is far too liberal a monarch, too fond a parent and too conscious of his own happy marriage to permit anything other than a genuine love match for his daughter and heir presumptive.

Yet it would be difficult to find a royal couple with such strangely different childhood backgrounds and such contrasting personalities, who, at the same time, are a constant complement to each other.

While it is true that each was born in line of succession to a throne, no one foresaw even a remote possibility that either individually or together they would ever have to prepare for constitutional rulership.

Exile In Paris

Philip was a four-year-old royal exile in Paris when Elizabeth was born in 1926.

That year was to Britain more significant for the general strike which shook the nation than for the birth of a daughter to the quiet, home-loving Duke of York. The Duke's dashing 31-year-old elder brother, then Prince of Wales, had a firm grip on the hearts of the British public as their future King.

But if in 1926 industrial strife overshadowed Elizabeth's birth, Philip's had already been overshadowed by the bitter Turko-Grecian war into which he was born in 1921 on the island of Corfu.

Officially, he was Prince Philip of Greece, yet his veins knew no heritage of Grecian blood. Because of the strange and apparently illogical manipulation of the royal houses of Europe in the early 1900's, the King of Greece —Philip's grandfather—was a Dane.

His father, Prince Andrew, had married English-born Princess Alice, sister of the fabulous Lord Louis Mountbatten — brilliant sailor and leader of men in war and peace—who was eventually to have a tremendous influence on Philip's career.

Before Philip was a year old, he had his first experience with the Royal Navy—escape from revolutionists, with his parents and five sisters, to England on a British destroyer.

When his father moved the family to Paris, already a city of sanctuary for royal exiles, Philip was a boy without a surname—just Prince Philip of Greece.

For him, the "Prince" was out. He was "just Philip," and so he sturdily told his schoolmarms in the American school at St. Cloud.

In turn, the schoolmarms respected his independence and self-reliance, a trait which he still possesses in full measure. It made it possible for him to hold the comradeship and respect of his shipmates—both subordinates and superiors — throughout his naval career.

It was a great factor in gaining first the interest and later the deep fatherly affection of his uncle, Lord Mountbatten. It was also at the Mountbatten house that Philip first met Elizabeth, although both have forgotten the exact circumstances.

African Natives Resist Plan of Federated States

LONDON, Sept. 29—A tribal proverb—"If you sit on the same stool with a big-hipped man you'll soon find yourself on the ground"—was quoted by Colonial Secretary James Griffiths to explain native opposition to the proposed federation of three British Central African territories.

Mr. Griffiths was reporting on last week's conference at Victoria Falls, Southern Rhodesia, at which whites and Negroes from Nyasaland, Northern Rhodesia and Southern Rhodesia sat down together for the first time to consider proposals for federation. No agreement was reached bu Mr. Griffiths said the conference had been "worthwhile" and would be resumed.

To the native chief who recited the tribal proverb to Mr. Griffiths, it appeard White European colonists in Central Africa were big-hipped men who might force the Negroes of Nyasaland and Northern Rhodesia from their privileged positions as wards of the British Government.

Their fears were exemplified by the fact the Negroes from Southern Rhodesia, a self-governing colony with a dominant white minority, were not represented by delegates of their own race at the conference.

Language Trouble

In the main Mr. Griffiths stated they were not afraid of the federation as proposed but of amalgamation. It was difficult, however, to explain the difference to the Africans because their language had only the one word meaning "joining together" for both federation and amalgamation.

To allay the Africans' suspicions, the conference unanimously agreed that in any federation the status of Nyasaland as a British protectorate would be preserved, the land rights of African would remain subject to British authority and so would the political advancement they had achieved under British colonial administration.

Finally, African delegates from Northern Rhodesia, a colony, the administration of which is directed from London, said they would consider federation after a policy of partnership between whites and Negroes had been put into operation.

"No other policy in my view has a chance of succeeding," Mr. Griffiths declared. "Indeed any other policy would lead to disaster."

Double Population

All the delegates agreed, Mr. Griffiths said, that closer economic cooperation among the three territories was vital because in 25 years their population would double and there would have to be economic development to provide people with a livelihood.

Before attending the Victoria Falls discussions Mr. Griffiths attended about 110 meetings of representative bodies in Northern Rhodesia and Nyasaland, fulfilling the British Government's promise that African opinion would be fully consulted on the federation proposal.

Generally speaking, he found the Africans opposed the plan and the Europeans favored it.

Between now and the middle of next year, when it is hoped the conference can be resumed, discussion will continue in the three territories .Whites and Negroes in Northern Rhodesia will try to work out a policy of inter-racial partnership.

Germany Ships Prefab Houses For Israel

NEW YORK, Sept. 29—Israel has ordered thousands of prefabricated houses from Germany to help solve the housing shortage, Dr. Nahum Goldman, co-chairman of the Jewish Agency Executive, said.

Dr. Goldman, who returned on Monday from Israel, where he attended the World Zionist Congress, reported that the "housing situation is most difficult, and the Israeli Government is in no position to build enough to take in new immigration."

Under the Joint Restitution Successor Organization dealing in heirless property, the sum of 50,000,000 marks, or $17,000,000 has been earmarked for purchases in the American zone.

This amount, Dr. Goldman explained, is not wholly dedicated to pre-fabricated housing. One-third goes to the Joint Distribution Committee for materials needed to build a tubercular hospital in Israel.

Reach Israel

Dr. Goldman said that the prefabricated housing was beginning to reach Israel. He said that authorities in the American zone were greatly in favor of this development since it not only led to housing for Israel but overcame unemployment in Germany. He predicted that it would take a year and a half to deliver the prefabricated houses needed.

Dr. Goldman also analyzed the immigration situation now facing Israel. He predicted that there would be 200,000 immigrants to Israel in the next year, He forecast that the prefabricated housing would solve Israel's housing problem by accommodating hundreds of thousands of people.

Poorest Jews

At present the influx of Iranian Jews is at its height, Dr. Goldman said. "The poorest Jews now coming to Israel are the Iranian Jews," he reported, "in poor health physically and the most neglected. They are worse off that the Moroccan Jews, reflecting the general misery of the Iranian people."

Reporting on the Jews from other Arab countries, he found "tension in Egypt eased, the situation in Lebanon normal for Jews and bad economically for Jews in Iraq." He believed Iraq to be the most fanatically anti-Semitic country of all the Arab nations.

Night Courses Cooking, Sheet Metal Work

A cooking course for business girls to teach them how to prepare quick, nutritional meals is offered this year as part of the 1951-52 night school at PCVS.

Under Mrs. Alex Sollitt, the night school this year has planned the cooking class as only an experimental class. It will be held at the supper hour, 5:30 to 7.30, probably on Wednesdays.

The purpose is to teach the girls how to make a quick-type supper dish, which is nutritional and simply made. Table setting and decorating along with other cooking hints will be taught.

The girls wishing to attend this year may register either on next Monday or Wednesday nights when the registration for the home economics, industrial arts, commercial, and academic classes will be conducted at PCVS. Classes will begin for the fall term on October 9.

Cover Fundamentals

Besides there are other courses in cooking covering the fundamentals of cooking and the selection of food in relation to cost and nutritive value, as well as the preparation of meals. A second course is available in advanced cooking.

The home economics department also offers courses in sewing and advanced sewing, and in children's sewing.

New this year in the commercial department is a cost accountants' class. Anyone entering this class should either be working in accountancy or have at least one year's bookkeeping.

The commercial department includes classes also in bookkeeping, typewriting, for beginners, advanced typewriting, shorthand for beginners, and advanced shorthand.

Sheet Metal Class

New to the industrial arts department is a class on sheet metal working which will be held at South Central school on Monday nights. The program includes fundamental hand and machine operations and pattern layout.

Otherwise the industrial classes this year are the same as last year which included auto mechanics, blueprint reading and drafting, building construction, electricity, machine shop, mathematics, plumbing, tool design, and machine technology and woodworking.

This year there will be two classes in supervision. The beginners class includes foremanship fundamentals, personal qualities of a leader, practical psychology, labor legislation and discipline. The second course is more advanced.

Upper school subjects this year are physics, trigonometry and chemistry.

General subjects and special classes are art, sketching in oils; elementary applied psychology, public speaking, English and civics for new Canadians.

The Seaway

For most of this century special interests in the United States have blocked the building and completion of the St. Lawrence-Great Lakes channel as a Seaway. Up to 1900 there had been piecemeal developments, and in 1912 the Canadian Government decided to undertake alone the building of a deep-sea Welland Canal. This work was interrupted by the Great War, but the Canal was completed in 1932. The joint development by the United States of the entire system seemed to become a reality with the signing of the St. Lawrence Deep Waterway Treaty in 1932, but the American Senate failed to ratify it. In 1941 a new Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Basin Agreement was signed by Canada and the United States, but Congress would not approve it. This year another determined effort has been made to secure American approval of a joint development, but it has thus far failed. The continued American Congress refusal has been over the heads of Presidents. Every President in this century has endorsed the plans and urged the seaway's building.

* * *

Prime Minister St. Laurent flew to Washington on Thursday to talk with President Truman about the seaway. Canada needs it, for both shipping and hydro-electric power. It is prepared to go ahead with the project alone, as it did in building the Welland Canal, if the United States refuses to co-operate. But a minimum of co-operation is necessary, since the St. Lawrence is an international boundary-water at the points where the main work is required. Mr. St. Laurent has come back with a reassuring statement. President Truman has said that if Congress continues to stall on the joint development, he will support a Canadian action to develop the seaway without assistance from the United States. But since so many Presidents before him have approved the seaway without effect, will President Truman's sanction be enough to permit it? The regional interests which have been blocking the development are mainly concerned not with the cost but with preventing the St. Lawrence-Great Lakes system becoming usable by ocean-going vessels. Even if Canada builds it alone at no cost to the Americans, the people who don't want the seaway will still not want it.

* * *

The cost to Canada will be high, but not impossibly high. At the present stage of planning the work would be financed thus: New York State and Ontario would jointly finance the power development on the International Rapids section (Morrisburg-Prescott area) and the Federal Government would finance the construction of the deep-water channel. The total cost of completing all the necessary work from Montreal to the Thousand Islands (both navigational and power) has been estimated to $679,000,000, and the work would take about six years, of which New York State would bear a share. When one considers that Canada built the Welland Canal without American money at a cost, in terms of today's dollar values, of $340,000,000 it is not a financial pipe dream that Canada can alone do the job of completing the seaway with its auxiliary power developments, a seaway of a total length of 2,200 miles of which only three per cent. remains to be built.

Projecting Canada Abroad

As the Royal Commission on Arts, Letters and Sciences has noted in its Report, ignorance of Canada in other countries is very widespread. There are many means of making Canada better known abroad, and one of the best is to send some of our best young men and women to study and live for a year or two in foreign countries. Inevitably they become missionaries of Canada as well as, on their return, informed spokesmen about the countries and peoples whom they have discovered abroad. Canada does little officially to send university students overseas, and in this matter, the Government of France is teaching a lesson in national projection.

For the last six years the French Government has awarded scholarships for post-graduate work in France to young Canadians. This year's awards bring the total to more than two hundred. At the end of next month, thirty graduate students will leave for a year's study on French Government bursaries. The French Government's purpose is primarily to propagate French culture and views in Canada, but it is a two-way traffic. The 200 students also leave a Canadian mark in France.

Each scholarship varies in value from year to year, depending upon living costs in France; but it is sufficient to cover the board and lodging of a student in the Cite Universitaire for a period of ten months—the school year—and for the return passage from France to Canada. In addition to living expenses, all fees at the university or other institution where he wishes to study, as well as library fees are paid. The student is eligible for reduced rates in some theatres, museums and for exhibitions. Special organizations are set up in Paris to help look after him; to arrange visits and outings of various kinds; and to help the student meet French people and to learn something about French life.

This year's recipients of French Government scholarships come from nineteen colleges and seven provinces: two from New Brunswick, fourteen from Quebec (all but one being French-speaking), nine from Ontario (one is a Queen's graduate, one from Ottawa university, one an Ottawa student of music, one from Carelton College, one from McMaster, and four from the University of Toronto); two of the French scholars are from Manitoba, one is from Alberta and two are from British Columbia. They will study in France subjects as varied as sculpture, pedagogy and political science.

The Canadian Government has no comparable scholarships either to send Canadians abroad or to bring foreign students here, although the National Research Council sends young scientists to the United Kingdom. There are university exchanges, Royal Society scholarships and numerous others of a voluntary means, such as overseas scholarships provided by the Canadian Federation of University Women, the I.O.D.E., and, of course, Rhodes Scholarships. The only government in Canada which officially subsidizes graduate studies abroad is the Province of Quebec which, for many years, has given generous grants for study in France.

The exchange of students and teachers is healthy and stimulating to national cultures. It could, with profound advantage to Canada, be more widely promoted. The Canadian Government has now at its disposal a ready means of providing scholarships for post-graduate study abroad. It has blocked funds accumulated during and immediately after the war in Holland, Italy and France. Since the Government will not bring this money into Canada, what could be more useful than to spend it on scholarships awarded Canadian students for post-graduate study in those countries? And if Canada believes that there is any virtue in foreign countries knowing more about it, the Government could profitably follow the French Government's lead, and give (through arrangement with the universities) bursaries to foreign students to enable them to come here to live and study for a year.

Alice In Disneyland

Walt Disney is one of the great original geniuses of our day. From the crude and simple animated cartoons which some of us remember—Felix The Cat, Mutt and Jeff and the like—he has evolved the complex and witty adventures of Micky Mouse and Donald Duck. His full-length films, however, have never been completely successful, and although Alice in Wonderland, the latest of them, is a good try, it cannot be called a happy translation of a classic children's story into movie form.

There are parts of the Alice film which are very good indeed, but it is at its best when furthest from Lewis Carroll. It is a fine moment when the March Hare chops a cup in two, and asks for half a cup of tea. But that is not Carroll; it is Disney, with a nod toward the Marx brothers. The insane logic of the Mad Tea Party is lost in a welter of violent activity. Indeed, the rapid pace of the film is its chief fault. Alice is a leisurely book; one never quite forgets that its author is an Oxford don and a Victorian clergyman: Disney's Alice is the nervous creation of the Atomic Age. This is an Alice which has been streamlined, galvanized and Americanized.

Let it be repeated once again that the film has its own quality of charm, and the lover of the book will probably not be annoyed by it, simply because it so rarely brings the book to mind. Disney has, in our opinion, succeeded only once in bringing the special charm of a child's book to life on the screen; that was in The Wind In The Willows. But the Shakespearean sweep of the misdeeds of Toad of Toad Hall is not the gentle charm, the topsy-turvy logic and the invincible good-breeding of Alice in Wonderland.

Charles Lutwidge Dodgson, whose pen-name was Lewis Carroll, was a lifelong devotee of photography. One wonders what he would have thought of the miracle of photography which has almost—but not quite—brought Alice to life on the screen.

Murder And Wax

By BON VIVANT

DURING a recent sojourn in London I visited, among other spots of interest, Madame Tussaud's, Regent Park Zoo, Westminster Abbey, St. Paul's Cathedral and Buckingham Palace, where I was fried to a crisp one morning watching the changing of the guard. Under pressure I was dragged through the Tower of London. There was talk of visiting art galleries. Some adroit footwork enabled me to avoid having my scanty knowledge of art reduced to a more scrambled condition than it already is.

I WAS a little disappointed in Madame Tussaud's. In the Chamber of Horrors, visited at the cost of an extra shilling, and devoted to the more reprehensible of the famous murderers, the only two I found really convincing were Burke and Hare. These two characters went into the business of providing bodies for dissection and study by medical students, circa 1829. The catalogue informed me they were modelled from life, while in prison, by Madame Tussaud herself. A more repulsive pair I haven't seen in a long time.

The other murderers were a pretty high class lot. They seemed to run to frock coats, sponge-bag trousers and fancy waistcoats. Hardly, I felt, the garb one associates with homicide. However, I can't give any good reason why the victims of these ladies and gentlemen should not have felt flattered at the sartorial elegance of their Nemesis.

IN the main gallery I received a nasty shock when confronted with the wax images of President Harry Truman and Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent. Having seen both in the flesh I could only conclude they had changed decidedly for the better, at least in appearance, after they were modelled.

Those who do the figures for the exhibition apparently have their artistic ups and downs. They also, in order to include persons they consider of note, have to exercise diplomacy. This is most noticeable in the Royal Group. This group, as the name suggests, is made up of the members of the Royal Family. However, the Duke and Duchess of Windsor are given an alcove to themselves, near the Royal Group. A neat solution to a difficult problem.

MADAME TUSSAUD'S was started in Berne, Switzerland, in 1757, by an uncle of the Madame. She was born in Strasbourg in 1761. The museum, which displayed wax figures of the famous and infamous, moved to Paris in 1762. During the French Revolution, the Madame, who had studied wax modelling under her uncle, had the cheery task of making death masks of Royalists, after they had received the attentions of the guillotine.

As a reward for this gruesome task the Madame herself was tossed into the Bastile. On release she reached the not unusual conclusion that the climate of France might not agree with her health, and moved the museum to London, England. In 1835 she established a permanent exhibition in Baker street. This gave Baker street a claim to fame twenty-four years previous to the birth of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, who selected it as the residence of his fictional detective, Sherlock Holmes.

INCIDENTALLY there is a Sherlock Holmes exhibition in London, but I did not get around to seeing it, which I regret. Holmes, as most people are aware was the creation of a young doctor, Conan Doyle, who wrote his first Holmes stories while waiting for a rush of patients. Holmes proved more lucrative than medicine, and Doyle lived out most of his medical careeer as the great detective's room-mate, Dr. Watson. Conan Doyle did actually practice medicine for a time, and served as an army surgeon during the Boer War. References to his war-time experiences crop up from time to time in the Sherlock Holmes stories.

ALHOUGH Holmes was entirely a fictional character, he has achieved almost human status. The exhibition of Holmes relics could not have had anything to do with Sherlock, but I am told there are a number of people who regard them as authentic left-overs of the great reasoner.

I have only myself to blame for not seeing the slipper in which Holmes kept his tobacco; the meerchaum which fired his brain to great deductive solutions; the needle with which he drenched himself in morphine, and the deer-stalker cap and Inverness, without which no imitator or impersonator of Holmes can hope to be convincing.

✧ ✧ ✧

A FEATURE of Madame Tussaud's chamber of horrors was the exhibit marked for adults only. This simple admonition proved irresistible to child visitors. I found it difficult for adults to get a good view of the exhibit of ancient torture methods because the young fry were drinking in the results of a bout with the wheel, the boot and the rack. I have long held the opinion that children are sadists. The enthusiasm they displayed for the more horrifying exhibits at the Tussaud galleries has convinced me.

✧ ✧ ✧

I RAN into further trouble with juveniles of my party when we reached the Henry VIII exhibit. This is a tasteful array showing Henry surrounded by his six wives. The point about which I was pestered was, how come six? There was a strong conviction in the young mind that the legal quota was one. My explanation that beheading and divorce had permitted Henry more than the usual allotment involved me in a series of questions which proved more than I could handle. I managed to extricate myself by concentrating on Catherine Parr, pointing out that as she was twice widowed before catching Henry's eye, she was able to outsmart her husband and survive him. I don't think I held my audience with this tale, but it at least had the merit of boring them to the point where they were willing to move on to another display.

✧ ✧ ✧

I WOUND up my visit by a personally conducted tour of the second floor landing where a series of miniature tableaux, especially for children is displayed. Alice in Wonderland, and Snow-White and the Seven Dwarfs lost interest as soon as all characters were identified. Treasure Island, on the other hand, inspired a dramatic re-enactment of the story. Considerable time was spent upon the portrayal of the character of Long John Silver, who had made a deep impression on the moppets. I was glad to herd them on to a bus for a visit to the snake house at the Zoo.

ECONOMY

"And what are you doing about saving electricity?"

"We've stopped the electric clock and my husband is using an ordinary razor."

ST. LAWRENCE SEAWAY, MYTH OR REALITY? This annotated map was first published in The Examiner in 1932—almost 20 years ago—when the new Welland Canal had been completed and the St. Lawrence Deep Waterway Treaty contracted between Canada and the United States. The American Senate refused to ratify the Treaty, and Congress has blocked the seaway development ever since. The map shows the work that had been done up to that time and the section of the river which, as far back as 1932, was incompleted. It is the same section today which must be developed for navigation and hydro power if the seaway is to become a reality.

Taxing Our Vices

(OTTAWA JOURNAL)

SMOKERS will note with interest, and perhaps some satisfaction, that each and every day they contribute $600,000 to the Dominion Treasury through the excise tax on cigarettes, which is about $200,000,000 a year and a substantial item in the Government's revenues.

Governments, and especially our Government, must be thankful for the people's vices. Nobody would be suffering for the lack of it if the soothing charms of tobacco never had been discovered — but the Treasury surely would miss those two hundred easy millions of dollars!

And so with liquor. If mankind never had learned to make intoxicating drinks, never had learned about wine and beer and spirits, or if the advocates of prohibition were more successful, governments today would be hard pressed for funds, because the taxes every purchaser of liquor accepts so cheerfully amount in the aggregate and in this country alone to hundreds of millions.

Governments tell us to be thrifty and economical, and to save our money, urge us not to buy extravagantly. What if we all took them at their word? What if Mr. Jack Canuck, a man of no vices (doesn't drink, doesn't smoke) refuses to buy an automobile because he can manage without it or, if he thinks a car is necessary, rations his mileage to save gasoline and avoid its heavy tax? Our Federal and provincial governments would lose vast sums in taxes, and beyond that we should see unemployment and ruin facing a major industry. Yet that would come about if we took literally the solemn admonitions that deplore our wasteful ways.

It must be, thinking of all these things, that governments find joy in our vices and are gratified by our extravagances. If we had no vices to tax, and no extravagances to pour floods of wealth into the tax offices, perhaps we should see such levies on bread and milk and butter as now apply to tobacco and spirits and gasoline.

Letters To The Editor

SHIFT D.S.T. ONE MONTH

Sir: So our Daylight Saving period ends this week! I have wondered why we could not have Daylight Saving from May 1st to Nov. 1st instead of April 1st to Oct. 1st approx.

We do not need the extra daylight hour so much in April as the days then are getting longer and the weather, usually, is not suitable for outside work in gardens, cottages, etc.

Of course, I speak from my own point of view as a home and cottage owner and gardener. But many others have agreed with me that the one extra hour of light in the evening during October is when we really need it to do so many jobs outside after work. Such as: building, attend to gardens and ready them for winter, put on storm windows, etc., and the big job of closing cottages. For these and many other jobs outside, that extra hour would mean so much.

Next year would our Council consider making it from May 1st to Nov. 1st appro.?

Thank you, Mr. Editor, for this space in your good paper.

"ONE INTERESTED."

FEARLESS EXPOSITION

Sir: It is interesting to note that Mr. Malcolm Robb's address to The Sales and Ad Clubs, September 20th, has already produced two editorials and several letters to the Editor pro and con. I believe this is the first time in three years editorial space has been so devoted to a Sales and Ad address and speaks well for the calibre of text prepared and delivered by Mr. Robb.

Certainly it was refreshing to listen to a man expose the "head in sand" politics of our party leaders and fearlessly present facts which are available to anyone who has the fortitude to face them.

It is evidence of the man's character and thinking ability that he should take up arms against the controversial policy of no conscription—a policy which resulted in inadequate reserves during the last war and subsequent unnecessary loss of many Canadian lives—not to mention the disgraceful repercussions.

But this was a small part of the address. I would suggest a full text of Mr. Robb's remarks be procured and published or at least diagnosed thoroughly by the Editor who was not present at the meeting.

I expect we shall hear much more of Mr. Malcolm Robb—even though it may be a voice crying in the wilderness of vote conscious party politics.

Sincerely,
R. BAER,
Vice-President,
Peterborough Sales & Ad Club.

GRATITUDE

A lifelong pedestrian bought a bicycle. On his way home to the suburbs he had to make a call and left the bicycle outside the shop. Having made his purchase, he forgot the bicycle and, from force of habit, boarded a bus.

On his arrival home his wife much to his astonishment, reminded him that he had gone away in the morning on his bike. He took the next bus for the city and to his surprise found the bicycle where he had left it.

As a token of his appreciation of the honesty of his fellow citizens he decided to make an offering to the less fortunate ones. So he cycled to a church and deposited a contribution to the poor-box.

With his heart full of joy he left the church—and found that his bicycle had gone.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

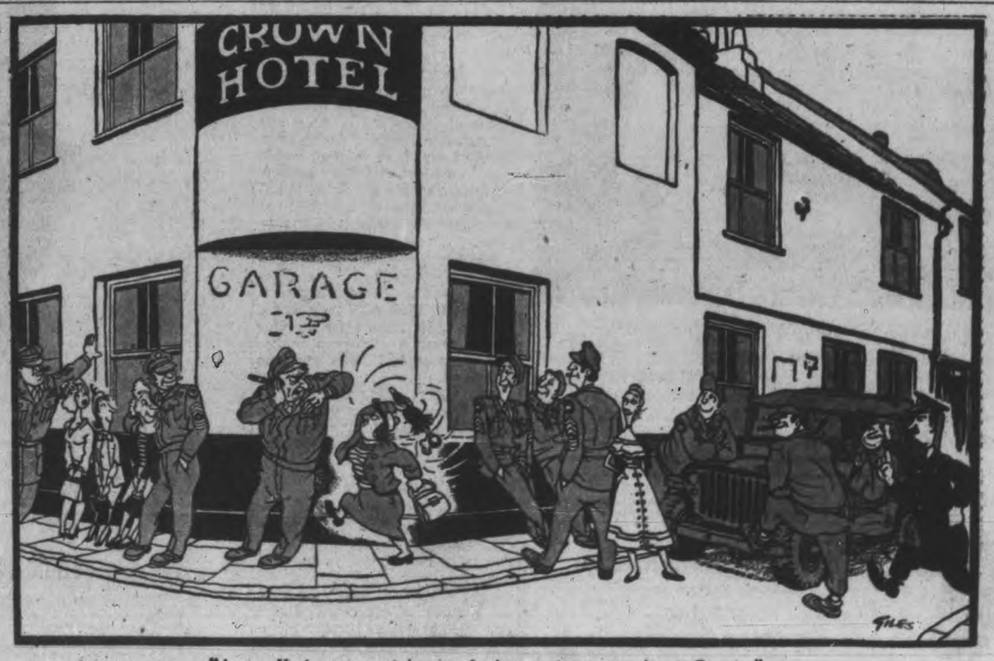
And I, brethren, when I came to you, came not with excellency of speech or of wisdom, declaring unto you the testimony of God.... And my speech and my preaching was not with enticing words of man's wisdom, but in demonstration of the Spirit and of power: that your faith should not stand in the wisdom of men, but in the power of God.

Howbeit we speak wisdom among them that are perfect: yet not the wisdom of this world, nor of the princes of this world, that come to nought: but we speak the wisdom of God in a mystery, even the hidden wisdom, which God ordained before the world unto our glory....

But as it is written, Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of man, the things which God hath prepared for them that love him. But God hath revealed them unto us by his Spirit: for the Spirit searcheth all things, yea, the deep things of God. (I Cor. 2: 1, 4-7, 9, 10.)

✧ ✧ ✧

And I saw a new heaven and a new earth: for the first heaven and the first earth were passed away; and there was no more sea.... And I heard a great voice out of heaven saying, Behold, the tabernacle of God is with men, and he will dwell with them, and they shall be his people, and God himself shall be with them, and be their God. (Rev. 21: 1, 3.)



"Lay off, honey—ain't my fault an American beat Turpin."

Since writing about the Cedar Lakes proposed park in the column two weeks ago there have been several people making phone calls, button-holing me on the street, a smashing editorial and letters to the editor, two of which were published. They were shrewdly chosen and reveal two views showing why the project, so far, has been a complete flop.

Cottager Brooks claims that the public will not want to be herded into this small area; they would prefer sites on various lakes throughout the Kawarthas. I agree with you, Sir, but if you would look into the situation you will find that there are no further sites of this nature left. The Provincial government found this out to their chagrin, long ago, too late to preserve choice lots from private development. The Cedar Lakes area is IT. That it is not a good location, that it is a bog and blackfly breeding ground, that fishing and swimming could not be developed is a very negative way of looking at things. I have spent too much time in wilderness areas of Canada, watching the growth of industries and communities to say that Cedar Lakes could not be made into a showplace park of the province.

Mr. Clysdale's long letter revealed the bogging down of the issue in unnecessary red tape of dotting "I's" and crossing "T's" to the utter saturation point. Parties concerned did not care a hoot any longer.

A number of things have to be done when the idea is hot with details to be ironed out after a concrete start has been made.

Wild Rice Winnowings

Further gleanings on the wild rice story told elsewhere on this page. Natural causes of crop failure can be caused by boisterous spring floodings, sudden storms dislodging young grain shoots from the silt beds and aphid parasites.

Indians have a belief that wild rice gathering is an exclusive privilege for them alone. There is no law on Dominion Statutes that says this is so. It would therefore seem that it is a result of old tribal agreements. They are jealously guarded. A few years ago when the crop failed on the south shore of Rice Lake, and the Alderville band went harvesting on the north shore beds, things got a bit sticky. Finally an agreement was reached by payment of a small sum for the picking privilege.

Wild rice, like any other grain crop, requires normal summer rain to promote a good growth.

In Manitoba, white people—mostly Scandinavians—lease rice marshes and do their harvesting in a big way. With a type of field binder mounted on flat scows, they reap heavy harvests and have the bagged grain flown out to American buyers at the Steel. Four to five tons per marsh is not uncommon.

As the saying goes, to keep a friend is to keep his confidence. Therefore, no names. But I must report about a friend of mine fishing lately down around the mouth of the Otonabee River. He is at all times an explosive sneezer and on this trip lost his store-bought teeth. So, if some large pickerel starts nipping off fishing lines in that vicinity....

Or does it drive the fish in desperation to end it all?

Confessions Of a 'Coon Hunter

Some sports have ben asking me lately about the 'coon huntin' season. Authorities say it starts Nov. 1st until Dec. 31st, both dates inclusive. If you are a dog-and-gun night hunter it will cost you two bucks for a special license to shoot by artificial light PLUS another dollar for your dog.

Used to be a bit of a 'coon hunter myself, as a lad. Nashua paperman Jack Freeman will verify this because he was my sidekick.

One Fall we chose a corn field beside a small creek in Otonabee. The field also bordered a large hardwood bush liberally sprinkled with large dozy basswoods, a real 'coon set-up if there ever was one. Jack got a rangy rust-colored houn' dawg that had more pep than a nose for game. We set the dog loose one harvest-moon night and sat on a rail fence with our thutty-thutties cocked for the telltale squealing sounds of a 'coon in full retreat. The dawg went over that field like a steamroller, got stuck half way through a snake fence and Old Bandit Eyes made an easy escape. We combed the woods for hours with a flashlight while Rusty visited every other tree and barked up the wrong ones. It would have been more to the point if we had shot the dog, at least had something to show for the night's sport.

This should be the season for the harvesting of puffballs. Conditions were excellent for their growth this year and Sunday strolls through cedar groves might be fruitful for those with a taste for them. There are authentic records of this type of mushroom growing to gigantic 22-pound proportions in some parts of the province. You won't find them quite that large in these parts but in satisfactory basket sizes.

They spring from the ground almost overnight and deteriorate as quickly. Puffballs must be very firm and white inside to be safe eating for when they turn yellow with a bitter fungus smell, leave them alone. My wife and I are ardent puffball searchers and some years ago one Fall at Stony Lake gathered half a canoe full near a freshwater spring east of Crowes Landing.

To cook them is an easy matter. Simply slice them thick like steak and fry in deep fat. A little bit goes a long way. Black Morrels are the richest tasting of the breed, mushrooms come next and puffballs the mildest of them all. Any of them are something special to eat.

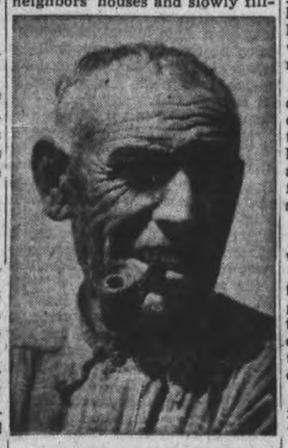
Indians Start Bwa-Um—The Gathering Of Wild Rice

Staff Pictures and Story By Nick Nickels

CURVE LAKE INDIAN RESERVATION: One morning at sunrise last week rangy Dow Taylor stood in his open cabin doorway. He watched the thin threads of smoke rising from his neighbors' houses and slowly filled his large black pipe with strong tobacco.



DOW TAYLOR

A bank of morning mist covered the glassy stretches of Buckhorn Lake across the fields. The day promised to be hot. He had no fish guiding committments and the season was right for the annual autumn gathering of wild rice. If there was any to gather this year.

All spring and summer he had been watching its growth. And it was short and lightly headed.

Dow knew the reason for it as well as the rest of the Indians. Consistent high water had drowned out the young plants and rooting carp had destroyed acres of the best beds. He recalled stories of the Old Ones about the days when wild rice grew so tall it was almost impossible to paddle through it. Three to four hundred pounds per family was the average yield, then. He remembered things like that himself when he was a child. But each year for a long time past the crop had been getting continually lighter, until now, it was hardly worth the effort to work for a mere 100 pounds of harvest.

Hoping there might be a bit of rice in Bass Bay, or in far-off Pigeon Crick, Dow recided to try for some. He could hear his wife and daughter stirring and, as he lighted his black pipe from a cedar splinter at the stove, called,

"Bwa-um.

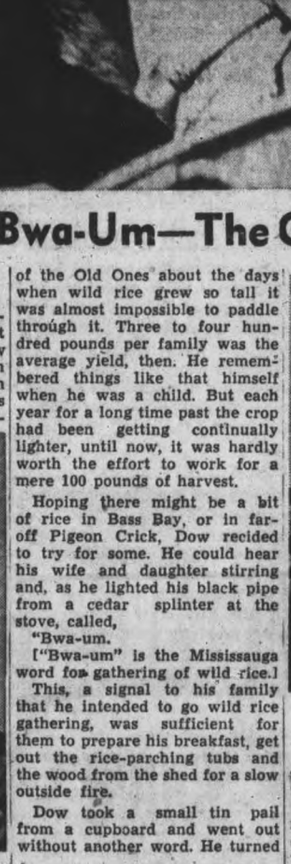
["Bwa-um" is the Mississauga word for gathering of wild rice.]

This, a signal to his family that he intended to go wild rice gathering, was sufficient for them to prepare his breakfast, get out the rice-parching tubs and the wood from the shed for a slow outside fire.

Dow took a small tin pail from a cupboard and went out without another word. He turned in the white gate of Jonas Jacob's place for a pail of breakfast milk and met Jonas letting the cow out of the log stable to pasture.

"Bwa-um?"

They wasted no words, these Mississaugas.



JONAS JACOBS

Jonas squinted at the sky, observed the density of the dew on the grass and nodded his head.

At two hours past sunrise they met at Dows' boathouse, took down two pairs of peeled cedar threshing sticks and paddles from the rafters, launched the canoe and slid off in the thinning mist. No sound but the sucking swirls of their paddles could be heard on the water.

They headed into the far reaches of Bass Bay and, beside a flaming clump of scarlet water maple bushes, floated into a patch of short-stemmed rice. They spread a canvas sheet over the bottom boards of the canoe. Dow paddled slowly ahead in the bow seat while Jonas hooked, swung and beat at the heads of grain with a threshing stick in each hand. The grain fell to the bottom of the boat. But its yield was very light.

They paddled many miles through patches of drooping stalks. Dry brittle heads of rice fell lightly to the canvas sheet and after three hours—the sun was high and hot—they estimated that they have gathered about 50 pounds. They turned their canoe south-east and worked through sparse patches on their way back to the Reservation.

MRS. LIZA McCUE

They arrived at Dow's boahouse about four o'clock, put their gear away and doubled the rice into the long folds of the canvas sheet and walked across the field path to Dow's house.

His wife Eva had a slow fire burning near the garden patch. The men dumped the rice into a clean tub over the coals. Jonas' wife was there and the children from school. They took turns stirring the grain with a short wooden paddle to keep it from scorching. The fire's heat popped the husks from the kernels and after the grain had cooled a bit it was spread on the canvas again. The girls tossed handfuls of it into the air and the dying evening breezes bore away the chaff and dust. About forty pounds of cleaned wild rice to divide between Jonas and Dow.

It would bring $1.25 a pound this year, so the store keeper told them. Well, if the crop was light the price was higher, much higher. In the Depression years it was worth from three to four cents a pound, unparched.

Jonas scooped his portion into a clean white sugar sack. He and his wife went down the road towards their own cabin. Mrs. 'Liza McCue stood in her doorway as they passed. She noted the small sack on Jonas' shoulder. And shook her head sadly.

Your Garden:

Yields Fruit For the Home

By HENRY PREE (NEA)

The ever-increasing rise in the price of fruits emphasizes the desirability of a home fruit garden. While fruits require some care and regular spraying, they are worthwhile where space permits. Examine your garden and see if there is room for a few dwarf apples and pears. Autumn is a good time to plant fruit trees.

However, the home fruit garden cannot be measured merely by the cash value of the crop.

In the larger fruits the beauty of springtime blossoms, luxuriant foliage, and the delights of seeing your own fruits form on the trees impart a sense of well-being and better living.

The fresh, unbruised tree-ripened fruit has a flavor all its own, a flavor that can be captured all winter by deep freezing and home canning.

Autumn is the better time to plant apples and pears, while spring seems to be ideal for peaches, plums, cherries and apricot. What to plant is no problem. Just think of the fruits you like best.

A nursery catalogue from any reliable nurseryman, consultation with your nurseryman should help you to come up with a home fruit garden plan that will answer all your needs.

Variety is a blessing in fruits if you want to satisfy all your taste desires. Fresh fruits from your home garden likewise supply more and healthful vitamins and natural sugar for the growing family.

From the looks of things today, the home fruit garden will increase in value as time goes on. The fruit trees in a few years may be far less plentiful than they are now, according to Dr. Richard P. White, executive secretary of the American Association of Nurserymen.

Fruits should be adapted to your soil, terrain and climate. If the soil is reasonably good and the drainage sufficient, you'll have success providing you give the trees reasonable care such as cultivating around the tree, addition of small amounts of fertilizer, if needed, and occasional spraying. With good care, the trees bear sooner, are healthier and have more delicious friuts.

In the smaller fruits, there are strawberries, raspberries, blackberries, currants, grapes, etc. All of these are delicious as fresh fruits and in jellies. For deep freezing and canning not many things can surpass strawberries and raspberries.

Home fruits add an indescribable sense of unity and better, more secure living for the family. All members of the family usually help to pick the fruit, all enjoy eating it in one form or another during all seasons of the year.

Gardening Questions

Q—We have purchased a Carle's Viburnum, when does it bloom and what are its requirements?

A—The delightfully fragrant flowers appear in late April. A well drained humusy acid soil, a sunny eastern location and yearly fetilization plus water in periods of drought will keep it thrifty.

Q—The leaves of my grape vines are covered with rough pimple-like growths. These are found mostly on the underside of the leaf and are almost one-quarter of an inch thick. Is this a disease?—H. J.

A—The growth on the under side of the leaves of your grapes is a gall caused by the small sucking insect known as phylloxera. This insect does much damage to certain species of grapes, especially certain of the European varieties, by feeding upon the roots. Very little damage will result from the galls on your vine. Spray with DDT, 50% powder.

COMBINES CAPTURE THIRD MANN CUP GAME TO LEAD SERIES 2-1

Disastrous Third Quarter Spells Defeat For Petes Who Battled Inspired Team

By C. J. PERDUE, Examiner Sports Editor

VANCOUPER, Sept. 29.—The Petes will now have to do t the hard way. They dropped a 12-7 decision to Vancouver Combines at Kerrisdale Arena here Friday night before 1,200 fans and are at present trailing 2-1 on games in the best-of-seven Mann Cup finals. The fourth senior lacrosse playoff is slated for the Forum here on Monday. Both clubs object to playing on a floor which ice covered this week. One bad quarter spelled disaster for Don Crowe's crew last evening.

After a 1-1 first frame and a 3-3 second stanza the Combines ran wild to outscore the visitors 7-2 in the third. Each side then counted one goal in the fourth chukker. The Petes bitterly protested many calls by Referee Gord Folka of New Westminster, one of the two new refs injected into the series today. The CLA and Eastern faceoff rule was used in this game but Folka frequently blew the whistle on it and awarded the ball to one Vancouver centre, claiming the Petes' centre was not bending down properly. He also was plenty rough on the Easterners in their checking, but calmly overlooked slashing and tripping by the homesters. The Petes will protest his use again. The other referee was just along for the ride.

Rugged Battle

It was a rugged encounter with two fist fights and several others on the verge. Both sides bumped and throughout, yet play was fast and plenty exciting, with the rabid home fans eating it up. The Petes drew eight of the 13 penalties, including two of the three majors handed out. Several were costly penances for the Timbermen.

Apart from that disastrous third chapter, the visiting squad turned in a fine effort. They were playing a fast, inspired team, on its home floor, where it had performed all season. The Combines hustled every minute with fast breaks, quick passes and sizzling blow-shots that bothered Moon Wootton plenty. He missed some in the third which he ordinarily stops, but then his defence, even with Jerry Fitzgerald on hand and going well, didn't help him too much in that one frame. The Petes just couldn't keep possession of the ball in the third for any length of time, and the Combines made no mistakes. Veteran goalie Walt Lee, 38 years of age, was in peak form. He stopped dozens of dangerous Peterborough thrusts, and his mates worked tirelessly for him.

Bert Ticehurst, Bus Byford and Ernie Smith came up with two goals each. Singles were notched by Alec McKay, Sam Sakich, Roy Cavallin, Harry Buchanan, Eddie Hamson and helmeted Gogie Stewart. This shows how well spread around the sniping was by the Westerners. Two assists each went to Cavallin, Stewart and McKay, and singles to Smith, Byford, Kinna and Anderson. They were all in there pitching.

Harry Wipper hit the hemp twice for the losers, single goals going to Dootch Vitarelli, Denny Peterson, Curly Mason, Bob Thorpe and Russ Slater. Two assists each were marked by Arn Dugan and Russ Slater, with Don Crowe and Jerry Fitzgerald each helping once. Several of the other players were below par in this tussle, though all battled hard. But they missed passes and shots, as well as letting opponents slip around them.

However, the damage was done in that one unfortunate inning of an otherwise tight tilt.

Petes Had Edge In First

The Petes appeared to have a little edge in a speedy first quarter. Fitzgerald nearly tallied early, but Gogie Stewart got the first marker as he circled the net and came out to slip in through the defence for a point-blank scoring shot. Wipper got that back shortly from Crowe on an in-close pass and slap shot on the run. Both goalies had to hop as play ranged rapidly back and forth, Wipper hitting the post once on a breakaway when the Combines were ganging up. While it was fast, both sides checked carefully and it was an even heat.

Second Period

O'Hearn was waved off to open the second for playing in the enemy crease. Hamson cashed in on that with a neat combination counter from Cavallin and Smith. Later, Vitarelli took Fitzgerald's corner passout and cuffed home an angle drive. Ticehurst's shot on Stewart's pass slid in off Wootton's leg. Byford beat McKenzie to walk right in and pick a spot. The Petes fought back hard and Peterson raced in from the side to whistle the ball home. Kinna and O'Hearn nearly came to blows and got minors for roughing. Creighton hit the post and, with Cavallin off for roughing, Mason clicked on fast teamplay with Slater to tie it 4-4.

Thorpe tallied early from Dugan in the third on a nice play. McKenzie drew a cheap cross-checking penalty which caused plenty of argument. Byford followed for slashing, and then Kinna and Whipper drew majors for fighting as it roughed up hotly. Byford took a standing pass from McKay and whipped it into the mesh from the side. Buchanan bulled his way right through defence to give Moon no chance and Combines caught fire. Ticehurst's shot from defence was low but true and kept knowing hard, low ones at Wooton. Cavallin got another that way after shaking a check. O'Hearn was off for slashing when Smith scored from Kinna and Byford on snappy passes. Nit got back but Smith went around him to count again, Anderson and Cavallin building up the play. Sakich added another from McKay before Whipper took Slater's forward pass and sank it; the frame ending with the count 11-6.

Petes Score First

Slater scored early with a hot shot on Dugan's corner passout, but that was all for them. Ticehurst and Powless got majors for throwing punches, and Byford and Fitz almost mixed it right afterward. Play was hot and rough for a time. McKenzie drew a slashing penalty and McKay scored the final goal from Stewart in close. Slater went over for slashing, but all were back and Whipper first and then Dugan came close, the latter missing the net on a breakaway. Combines went into a cozy waltz to hold possession in the dying minutes.

Combines Take Settle Ruling

VANCOUVER, Sept. 29—(CP)—The Mann Cup lacrosse championship games will proceed as scheduled following an agreement on interpretation of face-off rules, Tom O'Brien, president of the Canadian Lacrosse Association, announced today.

Vancouver Combines Thursday night threatened to withdraw from the finals unless the CLA decided in favor of the west interpretation of the rules.

Peterborough Petes contended their interpretation was correct and should be accepted.

In the east, centres may face off on either side of the ball, in the west, centres must be set on either side of the ball, with left shoulders toward the opposing goal.

President O'Brien said agreement had been reached to use the eastern versions.

Kawartha Host To Tournament Of Greenskepers

At least 100 golfers from across Ontario are expected Monday at the Kawartha Golf and Country club for the annual Ontario 'Greenskeepers' Association tournament. Last year Brantford was host to the association.

The day will open officially Monday noon with a buffet lunch at the country club, followed by 18 holes of golf for the Alex McClumpha trophy.

William McIntosh, from the Kawartha, is the only Peterborough entrant who can qualify for the trophy, but the Peterborough Golf and Country club's professional and greenskeeper, Alf Hill, will play.

After the golf a dinner will be held in the club with William Nash, a member of the Kawartha greens committee as guest speaker. Chemist at the Canada Packers, Mr. Nash will speak chiefly on the Kawartha club's history.

Oshawa Wins Ball Crown

OSHAWA, Sept. 29 (CP) — Oshawa Merchants Friday night won the Ontario Baseball League championship by beating Niagara Falls Ford 6-2 in the fourth straight game of their best-of-seven senior playoff series.

Playing-manager Mike Meilis was credited with the victory—his 14th in 14 starts. He fanned the last three Fords batters in the top of the ninth inning.

Three runs in the first clinched the game for the Merchants. They added singles in the second, sixth and eighth frames.

Eddie Johnston's homer in the eighth inning with Eddie Mulligan on base gave the Fords their only score.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

VANCOUVER, Sept. 30.—Autumn's first month bows out and the Petes are still very much in Mann Cup playoffs thousands of miles away from Miller Bowl. But time does not hang too tediously on their hands. Vancouver is a brand new experience to them, and they're getting around. Sight-seeing tours when no practices or games are booked, souvenir hunting, window shopping, shows, various cafes to try out, and possibly a trip up a mountain this weekend. They are making the most of it, having enjoyed the long flight west and the short one over to Victoria during the week. Soon be time to pack the bags and point east again.

* * * * * *

Some of the boys were out golfing a few hours the other day. Manager Bob Curtin defeated Dootch Vitarelli, who is club champion this year of the Kawartha Golf Club, and Dootch didn't hear the end of that in a hurry. The same Dootch is quite an athlete, being a hard-working hockeyist with the Eagles and lacrosser for the Timbermen, as well as taking time out to capture a golf title. His older brother Ned was good at all sports, too, and is presently coach of the Eagles. Another brother, Lou, shone at the gutted-stick game till he hung up his gear and took to coaching the junior OLA squad. Still another brother, Pete, used to play hockey and to box.

* * * * * *

Bob Thorpe brought his wife along on the trip, and they're staying with executive members Bob Pelrson (and his wife), Doug Miller, Ken Kingston and Harry Tudhope at the Georgia Hotel, the other players and coach and manager being at the St. Regis. It is understood that Bob is giving up minor pro hockey to work for Timber Structures, and will take a course on the west coast in this line. Then he should be available for hockey in Peterborough in the winter and, of course, lacrosse in the summer months. Born in Port Dalhousie, he played juvenile lacrosse in St. Kitts, senior for Brampton, St. Catharines, Quebec and Peterborough and in hockey with a number of teams across the line. Two years in the army, too. Bob is a capable and likeable chap.

* * * * * *

Nit O'Hearn is another lacrosser and pro puckist who would like to settle the year around in the Liftlock City. He was born in Halifax, but the handsome Irisher lived most of his life in St. Catharines and played the senior boxla game there for five years ere heading our way. He helped A's win the Mann Cup back in '46 over New Westminster. Played goal for Ed Shore's Springfield club later, and is still under contract to the former Boston great. But he is getting fed up on travelling about the States all winter and wants to settle down. And where better than Peterborough? Nit is a great kidder and quite popular with his teammates.

* * * * * *

Two other 1951 gutted-stick imports who are quite pleased with our fair borough are Moon Wootton and Russ Slater, both with Owen Sound champs a year ago. Lloyd Wootton is a large lad of 24 and has been playing goal since he was 14. He is the best netminder in the country, we feel, and most folks will agree. Rusty is a seasoned performer up front, packing a wicked shot, and a hard guy to shake loose of a ball. Played a lot of lacrosse for Owen Sound, despite four years in the army. Slater is a dead-pan humorist, witty as they make 'em, but seldom smiling while pulling a joke. He is buying a home for his family in the south end.

* * * * * *

Two members of the Petes' puck club are ace lacrosse performers with the Mann Cup finalists, Curly Mason and Arn Dugan. Curly hails from Owen Sound and is a chunky, scrappy little forward, who has had senior "A" hockey experience, as well. Blond Arn is 24 and played hockey, lacrosse, baseball and softball in his native Peterborough. Did his stuff in the ice game across the line two years ago, and led the OLA snipers last season. He has speed to burn, a deceptive shift and plenty of natural ability. Could be one of the best players in the country if he went as well all of the time as he does some of the time. A bashful but fine fellow.

* * * * * *

This is just a brief rundown on some of the Petes, written ere they took the floor here against Vancouver in the third big game. Some others have been mentioned before recently, and we'll deal with others again, as space and time permit. Big Ross Powless is a welcome addition this year, young Joe Whitnell has a promising future before him, high-stepping Harry Wipper has starred all season as a top scorer, and so it goes. Their lacrosse chores will soon be done for this year, and they'll be settling back to college, work, hockey, and other interests but not for another week yet. There's still that Mann Cup to take East. Then, like R. L. Stevenson, they can say: "Home is the hunter home from the hills, and the sailor home from the sea".

Mount Pleasant Wins Crown In Fastball Tilt

A seven-run outburst in the ninth inning Friday night gave Mount Pleasant the city industrial fastball league championship three games to one in the best of five series over Mutuals. They won the game, played at the Bowl, 13-12.

Mutuals started off on the right foot in the first inning to build up a three-run lead as N. Plumpton, O'Toole and Thompson crossed the plate. They added a fourth run in the fourth inning and then struck for two more in the fifth.

Mount Pleasant Supertests worked three runs by G. Dracup, B. Bryan and K Bryan in their half of the sixth, but were still behind 6-3. They tied the game six-all in the seventh inning with three more runs and then the Mutuals managed to stay ahead as Thompson scored in their half.

Mutuals practically sank all Mount Pleasant hopes for their final win, when in the eighth innings Mutuals scored five runs while holding the Supertests scoreless.

Faced with a possible tied series and a fifth game, Mount Pleasant revived in the ninth inning to hit and run for seven runs and the title. They sent the Mutuals down in order.

Football Talent Got Concessions

DENVER, Sept. 29 (AP). — Ernest E. Nemeth, 24, testified on Friday at a state industrial commission hearing that his football-playing ability got him a part-time job, free meals and a room from Denver University.

Nemeth said he lost it all when he returned to school for the 1950-51 year and did not play football.

The former football guard filed a claim with the commission against the London Guarantee and Accident Company, Ltd., for workmen's compensation because he was injured in spring football practice in April, 1950.

Nemeth told David F. How, commission referee, he was given the job, paying $50 a month, three meals a day and a room "providing I made the football team."

He said he was injured after the first week of spring practice. His injury was diagnosed as a ruptured intervertebral disk.

The stocky, 190-pounder told referee how that his job consisted of "keeping gravel off the tennis courts" and he got a room at the University Faculty Club for tending the furnace and shoveling snow off sidewalks.

Under the Colorado Workmen's Compensation setup, Nemeth could, if the referee finds in his favor, collect a lump sum representing the extent of his permanent disability or monthly cash payments.

The university is insured against claims by the London Guarantee and Accident Company.

Wind Scores Goal For King Edward

King Edward school's intermediate soccer team edged Confederation school on the Park St. field Thursday afternoon 1-0, on a peculiar score.

A heavy wind, blowing up the field, gave the advantage to Confederation in the first half and to King Edward in the second. Both teams played good soccer but it was difficult to play accurately in the wind.

Both goalies and the full backs stood out as they turned back scoring attempts by the forwards. Finally in the last few seconds of play, King Edward were awarded a corner kick. It was taken by Riel and kicked out in front of the goal, curved around by the wind, struck the top of the goal post and bounced into the goal. Lineups:

King Edward: Detlor, Finney, Lumbard, Murduff, Cuff, Traynor, Rowe, Davies, Walling, E. Warner, Riel, Curtis, Quemby, Heard.

Confederation: Outmater, Casey, Reid, Knox, G. Kimball, Moffatt, Copping, Patterson, Wood, Ruttan, A. Warner, McArthur, M. Kimball, Young.

Referee—V. Cunningham.

Second On Record

NEW YORK, Sept. 29 (AP).—New York Yankee righthander Allie Reynolds' no-hit no-run victory over Boston Friday was only the second in 20 years recorded against the Red Sox. Bob Burke of Washington pitched a 5-0 gem against the Sox on Aug. 8, 1951. Bobo Newsom, then with St. Louis, held the Sox hitless for nine innings on Sept. 18, 1934, but gave up a hit in the tenth and lost 2-1.

Named As Skips

LINDSAY, Sept. 29.—Veterans Percy Skitch and Bill Langdon have been named as Ontario Tankard skips by the Lindsay Curling Club. Sid Elsden and Herb Hardy were elected district cup skips; 275 curlers have been enrolled in the Lindsay club, plus the Collegiate Institute Club and the ladies' club.

Indians See Hopes Blasted

CLEVELAND, Sept. 29 (AP) — Sitting around radio in Cleveland Friday, the Indians heard news from Yankee Stadium which extinguished the last feeble flicker of their pennant hopes.

The double New York victory over Boston's Red Sox meant the tribe will finish second. No matter what happens from here in, they can't catch the Yankees—or, for that matter, fall behind the Red Sox.

"Sure, we're disappointed," Cleveland manager Al Lopez said. "If we'd hit as well as we should have, we'd have made it. The other clubs saved all their best pitching for us, like they do for all contenders."

Just 13 days ago the Indians were in first place by one-half game and yielded it in two defeats at Yankee Stadium.

Friday night lights burned in the Indians' front office at the stadium while some 35,000 letters containing cheques for world series tickets were started back to the senders—without tickets. The precautionary advance arrangement set the club back an estimated $20,000.

Stengel Ties Record For League Titles

NEW YORK, Sept. 29 (AP) — Casey Stengel, manager of the pennant wining New York Yankees, tied a major league record Friday by winning league championship in his first three seasons as manager of the club.

France Chance did it in 1906, 1907 and 1908 with Chicago Cubs. Hughie Jennings of Detroit performed the feat in 1907, 1908 and 1909.

Stengel managed at Brooklyn and Boston in the National League without winning a pennant.

Giants Threaten To Elbow Way Into Series As Dodgers Bow To Phils

By JACK HAND, Associated Press Sport Writer

The gallant New York Giants, tied for first place after wiping out a 13½-game Brooklyn lead, threaten to elbow into the World Series with New York Yankees in one of baseball's greatest comebacks. With the Yanks already "in" after Allie Reynolds' no-hitter and Friday's double win over Boston, the Giants rate an even chance to charge past the fading Dodgers who lost to the Phillies last night, 4-3. In years to come they'll talk of the 1951 Giants in the same breath with the 1914 Boston Braves and 1942 St. Louis Cardinals—if they win the pennant.

Even the miracle Braves of '14, who dashed from last on July 20 to win by 10½, must respect Leo Durocher's determined tribe from the Polo Grounds. They can better the deeds of the '42 Cards, who blasted a 10½-game Brooklyn lead to win for Billy Southworth.

Pushed into a tie by Brooklyn's loss, the Giants play at Boston today and Sunday, while the Dodgers meet the Phils in two singles at Philadelphia.

Unless the tie is broken there will be a best-of-three playoff for the National League championship, starting at Brooklyn Monday.

Steals Spotlight

The Dodger night loss almost stole the play from the Yanks' third straight pennant-clinching and 18th in their history. Even Reynolds' brilliant no-hitter, his second of the season, lost some of its lustre amid the wild confusion of the National League race.

For months the experts predicted a last-day finish in the American and an early wrap-up for Brooklyn. Instead, the Yanks clinch with two days to go and the Dodgers may never make it.

Reynolds' dramatic thriller in the first game with the Red Sox, 8-0, assured the Yanks of no worse than a tie. Only once before, and never in the American League, has a pitcher thrown two no-hitters in the same year. Johnny Vander Meer's feat of pitching two in a row for Cincinnati in 1938 was the only topper.

Have Bad Score

The big Indian had a bad score in the ninth. With two out, Ted Williams lofted a high foul behind the plate, Yogi Berra dropped it. With another chance to break the spell, Williams popped another foul that Berra gathered in for the final out.

Seven runs in the second inning and a three-run homer by Joe DiMaggio in the sixth sewed up the 11-3 clincher, Vic Raschi's 21st win.

The double Boston loss eliminated idle Cleveland, now 3½ games back, but also assured the Indians of finishing second.

The Phillies, who were staggering around at this time last year trying to win a pennant, took a fall out of the Dodgers. Willie Jones' ninth-inning single scored speedy Richie Ashburn from second to beat Carl Erskine. Andy Seminick's two-run homer in the eighth tied the score. Earlier, Roy Campanella's homer helped the Dodgers build up a 3-0 lead on Karl Drews.

Just to rub it in, an ex-Giant, Andy Hansen, was the winning Phil pitcher.

Feeling Good

Hearing the result at Boston, Durocher murmurred, "If I make a move, I'll explode with happiness."

Manager Chuck Dressen, of the Dodgers, said "I'll pitch Don Newcombe and Preacher Roe Saturday and Sunday. If they can't do it, well, I'll see you at the Polo Grounds."

There were other games: Cincinnati shaded Pittsburgh 4-3, and Chicago White Sox swept a two-night double from St. Louis, 6-2 and 4-3 in 10 innings. A Philadelphia-Washington night game was postponed because of cold weather.

They'll Do It Every Time — By Jimmy Hatlo

Faltering Dodgers Gloomy By Big Upset

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 29 — (AP).—It was like a morgue in the Brooklyn Dodger dressing room Friday night. Everyone sat in front of their lockers as if they couldn't believe it had happened—the National League was all tied up.

The faltering Dodgers and the amazing new miracle men of modern baseball—Leo Durocher's surging New York Giants, each have won 94 games and lost 58 in the heart pumping drive for the senior circuit flag. They each have two games left to play.

Reporters had to wait about 20 minutes after Brooklyn's 4-3 loss to Philadelphia Phillies before an attendant opened the locker room door to let them in. You could have heard a pin drop. The players weren't even talking to each other. The gloom could have been sliced with a knife.

Manager Charlie Dressen stood in his little office in Shibe Park's visiting quarters waiting for an avalanche of questions. But none came. Even the usually volatile newsmen were stunned by the sudden turn of events.

No Lineup Change

"No, I'm not going to change my lineup," he said as one reporter broke the ice with a question.

"This is the ball club that has led the league since May 13. It will have to be good enough to win the pennant.

"We'll go with Don Newcombe today and Preacher Roe tomorrow. If that isn't good enough, well, who has a couple of tickets for the Polo Grounds?"

Actually, the Dodgers were stifled by a former Giant, one of the pitchers Durocher inherited when he became manager of the New York club and finally discarded as "not my kind of player." Well, Andy Hansen must be Leo's kind of boy today.

The righthander came on in relief and pitched one-hit ball for three innings to emerge the winner.

Yesterday's Stars

By The Associated Press.

Pitching: Allie Reynolds, Yankees—Pitched second no-hit of season in first game as Yanks won American League pennant in whipping Red Sox twice, 8-0 and 11-3.

Batting: Willie Jones, Phillies —Singled home winning run in ninth inning as Phils beat Brooklyn, 4-3, dropping Dodgers into first place tie with Giants.

Brooklyn Loss Stuns Durocher

BOSTON, Sept. 29 (AP). — "I'm numb. My stomach is just bubbling over. Is it really true? Did the Phillies really beat those guys?"

That was Leo Durocher's first reaction when he was informed that Philadelphia had scored in the ninth to snap a 3-3 tie and defeat Brooklyn, 4-3.

Assured that it was so—that Brooklyn had lost—that the New York Giants were now, for the first time, actually even with the Dodgers—were in a definite flat-footed tie for first place—the Giant manager let out a deep sigh.

"Now, for the first time, it's all up to us," he said. "This is what I've been playing for all year: We've just got to win now."

Did he think the Dodgers were done? Would he predict a Giant pennant? Who was going to pitch the opener in the world series against the Yankees? Those were some of the questions popped at the jubilant skipper.

"Wait a minute, boys," he said. "We still have a difficult job ahead of us. We've got to keep winning, remember? We've never worried about those other guys before, so why should we start now?"

A BRIEF HISTORICAL SURVEY of the PETERBOROUGH LUMBER COMPANY FROM 1839-1951

Founded in 1840 by Samuel Dickson, The Peterborough Lumber Company is commencing its second century of manufacturing as the city's oldest industry. Old as years go, but vigorous, alert and flourishing with the fullness of their experience! The affairs of the old Dickson Lumber Company, its predecessor from the years back to 1840 ended in 1906 with the sale of its interests which were largely acquired by the emerging Peterborough Lumber Company. Lumbering operations continued in Cavendish Township; every Spring brought a new cut of logs down the lakes and rivers and the Company's big sawmill boomed on Burnham Point.

Time marches on. In 1933 the P.L. bought the planing mill plant on Monaghan Road, formerly owned by the Canadian Aladdin Co. This expansion permitted manufacturing on the premises, a complete range of doors, windows, sash, cabinets and all types of wood working, including the material for houses, offices, churches, factories and other buildings. In 1935 the equipment and stocks of lumber on Burnham's Point were moved to the Monaghan Road plant.

To have been consulted by the Home builders of Peterborough has been an essential factor in the continuing success of the P.L. To help prospective builders get the most value for the money they intend to spend, is the beginning and the end of that service, it is given cheerfully, it is something for which there is no charge because we receive that confidence and goodwill without which there can be no continuing success, no business record of a full century. The P.L. today is better equipped than ever before, to help the public get the most value out of the money they expend in the construction of new houses and in alterations to other houses now occupied. Today the P.L. have a staff of 150 employees, the planing mill ranks amongst the highest and largest of the mills of Ontario. Our sawmill is producing over 3,000,000 feet of lumber a year. Within the last decade our Galway sawmill has been replaced by a larger unit located in Cavendish Township, Peterborough County, with a production capacity of 40,000 feet daily. Our camp accommodation in sawmill and logging operations is comparable with the best that is provided by the lumber industry in Canada.

Operating from timber to finished lumber products, we believe we are in an advantageous position to serve you.

The old methods are gone, but the essential service of the Peterborough Lumber Company continues—finding stands of timber and cutting it into the materials needed in all the City's building.

Howie Hanson Loses Son In Car Crash

EDMONTON, Sept. 29 (CP),—Edmonton Eskimos' star import end, Howie Hansen, wanted to give his two motherless sons a permanent home.

Friday he was driving them through Idaho toward Edmonton where he planned to live. At a bend near Dubois, Idaho, his sleek convertible turned over. Friday Craig Hansen, 3, died of injuries he suffered.

Hansen was in Sacred Heart Hospital in Idaho Falls with injuries which hospital attendants said are a broken ankle, crushed ribs and concussion. Manager Al Anderson of Eskimos said he is out of the lineup for the rest of the season.

Two of Hansen's sisters, Eva, 27, and Ruth, 19, were being treated for less serious hurts.

Hansen's second son Dennis, 2, was under observation but was believed to have escaped almost unhurt. Details of the accident were not known here.

The Hansen boys had been living with Eva and Ruth Hansen at Los Angeles where Hansen used to play with UCLA, Anderson said. The sisters brought the boys to Salt Lake City where Hansen picked up all four.

Hansen's wife died last year at Los Angeles.

Coming Along

Hospital attendants said doctors were "not too concerned" about Hansen's general condition. He was resting well. Condition of his sisters was described as better Friday night.

Loss of Hansen will be a heavy blow to the league-leading Eskimos. He was one of the best two-way ends in the Western Conference this season—a back who was converted into an end when Harold Hatfield was put out of action by a knee injury.

Hatfield planned to drive to Idaho Falls and stay there as long as he might be helpful to his team-mate. Hansen's mother, Mrs. Mary Hansen of Malade, Idaho, was already there.

Friday night a group of fans, who said they want to be anonymous, launched a Hansen fund to meet the accident expenses, including cost of his son's funeral. They announced collection of $100 as a starter.

Coach Annis Stukus said Bill Briggs and Harry Bunting will be ready to take Hansen's place in the line-up for the game against Saskatchewan Rough Riders here Saturday night.

CHECKING THEIR STRONG SALARY WINGS—Just a couple of happy Royals are Chris Van Cuyk, left, and Tommy Lasorda, southpaws who made the series opener win over the Milwaukee Brewers a labor of collaboration. The second game is tonight.

War Prisoners In Korea Face Tough Winter

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 29—(AP)—The most tragic story in Korea today is the plight of 10,000 prisoners of war, general executive Frank H. King, of the Associated Press, said Friday.

"It's going to become more tragic as winter closes in," he predicted in a report to the Associated Press Managing Editors' Association.

The editors also dug into problems of city editors, prepared resolutions condemning President Truman's sweeping Security of Information order to civilian imprisonment of AP correspondent William N. Oatis in Czechoslovakia.

King said American prisoners behind Communist lines were in need of "quick aid." He recently returned from a 10-week tour of Asian trouble areas.

"Nobody thinks the Chinese Reds can provide for the prisoners," he said. "It isn't a question if they are willing; they haven't got the material to provide warm winter clothes for their prisoners."

King told the managing editors the important thing about the Korean cease-fire talks is that the 135-mile war front is only one phase of the Asian situation.

The real front, he said, is the 1,400 miles from Hokkaido, Japan, to Hong Kong. The line runs through the Philippines into Indonesia and down into the Southwest Pacific to Australia and New Zealand.

ON TOP OF THE PLAY—Coach Johnny Sawatzky of the RCN team at Shearwater base, Halifax, takes no chances on missing any of the inside play as he puts the squad through a practice. From his helicopter quarter-deck coach Sawatzky provides a new twist in Canadian football.

Seth Halton New Publisher

VICTORIA, BC, Sept. 29 (CP)—Appointment of Seth Halton as publisher of The Victoria Daily Colonist was announced Friday night by H. T. Matson, president of The Colonist.

Fred C. Barnes succeeds Mr. Halton as managing editor. The appointments are effective Sunday.

Sandham Graves is editor-in-chief and chairman of the editorial policy board of the newspaper which comprises Tom Taylor, assistant editor, and Roy Murdock, associate editor.

Mr. Halton came to The Colonist six years ago on discharge from the Canadian army as a major. Prior to his return to civilian life, he was managing editor of The Maple Leaf, army newspaper, in Brussels and London. Before the war he was with the Toronto Daily Star. He is a native of Pincher Creek, Alta.

Mr. Barnes came to Victoria from the Evening Telegram, Toronto, in 1945. He has been a reporter, deskman, city editor and news editor of The Colonist.

Clair Fires Al Dekdebrun Says Passing Arm Bad

TORONTO, Sept. 29 (CP) — Frank Clair, the studious coach of the champion Toronto Argonauts, today prepared to ward off the wrath of Toronto football fans for his firing Al Dekdebrun as the club's quarterback because he considered Dekdebrun's passing arm had gone dead.

Dekdebrun, a favorite with Toronto crowds and the key man in the Argos' march to the dominion championship last season, was told Friday night in a 1½-hour conference with Clair that he had lost his job as quarter to Nobby Wirkowski, a 23-year-old import from Miami University in Oxford, O.

The news stunned the city's football fans and some Argo players were reported to have voiced resentment of the unexpected move.

The 27-year-old Dekdebrun, who had brief whirls as a player with the professional New York Yankees and the Buffalo Bills after leaving Cornell University, denied emphatically his arm was dead. He admitted it has been sore since he hurt it in a pre-season exhibition game against Hamilton Tiger-Cats at Buffalo.

"It was all right as long as I played on offence but when it switched to defence where I had to tackle, I would get it banged up again," Dekdebrun said.

Unpleasant Job

Clair said he knew he would be criticized for his action in cutting Dekdebrun from the squad—"the most unpleasant job I've ever had as a coach."

"But I've been closely studying him in the movies of our games and I'm convinced that his throwing arm is dead. Maybe I'm wrong in going with Wirkowski, but the boy is a good passer and he has an abundance of confidence in himself."

The news of Dekdebrun's dismissal as all the more startling coming after the Argos' 17-10 victory over Ottawa Rough Riders last Saturday. It was the club's second win in five starts in the Big Four this season and it was generally considered that Dekdebrun had called one of his best games since cojoining the Argos in 1950. He was also calling the signals when the Scullers beat Ottawa earlier for their first victory.

The good-looking native of Buffalo had other troubles this week. On Monday he was caught bringing 36 cartons of cigarets across the border for his teammates and was fined. Dekdebrun himself doesn't smoke.

Storm Forces Plane Back Passengers Sleep In Inn

By JEAN E. STENTON,
Telegraph Editor

SHEDIAC, N.B., Sept. 29.—Eighteen stormbound passengers on the plane flight from Halifax to Montreal are Robinson Crusoe's at heart and their island Thursday night was the lovely (in summer) Shediac inn.

The weatherman went on the rampage and 40 minutes out of Montreal flight 27 was ordered back to Moncton, N.B.

TCA had a rough night and all planes between Montreal and Halifax were grounded by bad storms. Moncton hotels were jammed to the roofs so flight 27 had a wing reserved at the lovely Shediac inn 16 miles away. Planes, people and baggage piled up in a wild melee till the harrassed officials were turning green.

Coffee Up

The storm-bound passengers were fortunate in Shediac. Although closed since Labor Day the manager did a fast job of making up beds and serving hot coffee. A few among us had a taste of pioneer life.

Part of the hotel had lovely big rads. One other wing had been closed for a month, the beds just made up and no heat.

It was as cold under the covers as on top of them. The rugged life; no need for windows to be open. The breeze whistled through anyway. In the morning cleanliness was certainly not next to Godliness for those of us in Arctic Alley.

Hauled out of bed at 6 a.m., we were ordered to be ready to leave in one hour, seventeen of the crowd gathered and waited as the minutes ticked past.

Finally 1½ hours later a check revealed the missing pair fast asleep. They had pecked out, seen the rain and concluded no one in their right senses would be airborne. After a wild scramble to collect passengers, missing baggage and tickets, flight 27 was reassembled at Moncton, slightly the worse for wear.

Although we hit a little bumpy weather in the last hour to Montreal Thursday night and passengers were strapped in, we were lucky, the plane from Newfoundland over the straits couldn't turn back. They flew at 14,000 feet; everyone had to have oxygen. Food trays were hurled in every direction and a number of victims sported adhesive decorations on landing to show their wounds.

Member Nations To Regulate Gold Dealings

NEW YORK, Sept. 29—(CP) — The Journal of Commerce said in a Washington dispatch Thursday that the International Monetary Fund is preparing to turn over to its member nations the job of regulating premium gold transactions.

The business newspaper said a new gold policy that will accomplish this objective has been referred to member governments for comment.

It said it is understood that a formal announcement of the new policy probably will be made next week.

The Journal of Commerce said such a move would give each member the responsibility for deciding whether its nationals are to be permitted to take part in the premium market.

The price of gold now is fixed at 35 United States dollars an ounce. The newspaper said that in recent months several gold-producing areas, including Southern Rhodesia and Canada, have been "pressuring the fund for the right to sell part of their gold output in the premium market."

Would Curb Supply Of Foreign Newsprint

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 (AP)—Newspaper publishers Friday urged the United States government not to increase the rate of emergency allocations of newsprint to foreign governments while the domestic paper supply remains critical.

The newspaper industry committee made a recommendation to the National Production Authority after hearing a report that about 30,000 tons of newsprint have been earmarked for 13 friendly countries so far this year.

NPA told the group that supply prospects, while still nip-and-tuck, promise improvement in the coming year. NPA said there will probably be no need for government control.

The production agency also agreed to "consider" a request from the industry committee that action be speeded on the granting of tax benefits to firms seeking to build or expand newsprint production plants in this country.

Ask War Pensions Tied To Living Costs

ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 29—(CP)—Ray Mann, district commander of the Canadian Legion, asked last night that war pensions and allowances be "tied" to the cost-of-living index.

He made the suggestion at a joint meeting of St. Catharines, Welland, Port Colborne and Thorold legionnaires. In attendance at the meeting were Arthur Padbury, the legion's provincial service chairman, H. P. Cavers, Liberal member of Parliament for Lincoln, and W. H. McMillan, Liberal MP for Welland.

In calling for higher basic rate for pensions and disability allowances, Mr. Mann compared the veterans' case with victims of industrial accidents who are "compensated at a set percentage of the prevailing wage rates."

Juice, Vitamins Red Alcoholics Cure

VIENNA, Austria, Sept. 29—(Reuters)—Czechoslovakia is trying a cure for alcoholism, consisting of a seven-week course of work, vitamins, orange juice and Marxist lectures.

The tale was told by a refugee who said he had undergone the seven-week treatment — against his will. It seems to have worked, because he told reporters who offered him a drink:

"I could not touch it after the lessons I got."

He said patients were put to work in a special camp, given vitamins and orange juice and made to hear lectures on teetotalism, dring and its evils, and political and economic subjects.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

National League president Ford Frick handed Brooklyn Dodgers and their rooters some good news Friday—cash fines but no suspensions for Jackie Robinson, Roy Campanella and Preacher Roe.

Frick, newly-elected Commissioner of baseball but still acting as chief of the senior loop, fined Robinson and Campanella $100 each and tagged Roe with a $50 penalty for creating a rumpus outside the umpire's dressing room in Braves' field Thursday. The scene took place after the Dodgers had dropped a costly and controversial 4-3 decision to Boston.

Several Brooklyn players had kicked the door of the umpire's room on the way to their adjacent dressing chambers. A police guard was called. The players were still fuming over the ejection of Campanella by umpire Frank Dascoli in the eighth inning.

Most observers were of the opinion that suspensions might have been dished out if it weren't for the closeness of the pennant race at this stage.

New York Giants, who started taking world series reservations 36 hours ago, said Friday the capacity of the Polo Grounds already was heavily oversubscribed and that no further requests would be accepted.

Mrs. H. W. Soper of Montreal's Kanawaki Club, won the Canadian women's senior golf championship at the Toronto Golf Club Friday.

She carded 188 in the 36-hole competition, eight strokes in front of Mrs. G. E. Hackney of the Seigneury Club. Mrs. Hackney was another eight strokes ahead of Mrs. T. J. Agar of Toronto York Downs. Mrs. Agar, held the women's championship for the past five years.

Low net prize was won by Mrs. Armond Smith of the Hamilton Club, who turned in a 235-66—169 for the 36 holes.

Billy Richardson, fast skating right-winger from Camrose, Alta. has been signed to play with Ottawa Senators of the Quebec Senior Hockey League this season, it was announced at Ottawa Friday. Owned by Minneapolis, Richardson was rated the fastest skater in the United States Hockey League last season while playing with Denver. He scored 20 goals and 29 assists.

At Lexington, Ky., Ford Hanover, a classy, unbeaten three-year-old, captured the $3,000 Thomas Duke trot in straight heats here Friday to extend his victory string to nine in grand circuit competition. Prepping for next week's $70,000 Kentucky Futurity, the trotter from the Bill Strang stable, Brooklyn, worked in 2:07 1-5 and 2:06 3-5 with Johnny Cimpson in the sulky.

At Toronto, Bob Moran, president of Toronto Argos, said Friday that Sunday's Big Four football game against Montreal Alouettes which has been squeezed out of Delormier Stadium by baseball's little world series will be played Oct. 21. Moran said "we have to make a Saturday game here Oct. 20 and a Sunday game in Montreal, but to complete the schedule we'll just have to fall in line.

Expulsion Of Tass Worthless Gesture

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29—(AP)—A committee representing newspapermen covering Congress said today it had refused to bar reporters for Tass, the Russian news agency, from congressional press galleries because that would have been only a "meaningless token gesture."

The standing committee of correspondents gave that explanation, among others, in a letter formally rejecting a request from the American Society of Newspaper Editors for expulsion of Tass representatives.

The committee, which acts for congressional correspondents and passes upon admissions to the galleries, previously had announced its decision.

The ASNE had protested that Tass representatives were not legitimate newspapermen but primarily intelligence agents.

Stresses Advantage Of Newspaper Ads

MONTREAL, Sept. 29 (CP). — J. G. Hagey, president of the Association of Canadian Advertisers, Friday said one of the big advantages of newspapers as an advertising medium is that through them retailers may easily identify themselves with nationally-advertised products.

Mr. Hagey, speaking at sessions of the Newspaper Advertising Managers' Association of Eastern Canada, said this was an advantage for the newspapers as well as for the advertisers.

Allan B. Wilgar, advertising manager of The Montreal Gazette, saw advertising space in a newspaper as a store window and the readers as the shoppers.

S. J. A. Mason, promotion manager of The Toronto Telegram, told of production achievements of that paper with accent on the use it made of editorial activities of the paper's hunting and fishing columnist.

St. Laurent Says Seaway Certain

QUEBEC, Sept. 29 — (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent said Friday night the St. Lawrence Seaway project will be carried out but the manner of procedure remains to be settled.

Mr. St. Laurent made the brief statement to newspapermen at Quebec airport when he arrived by air from Washington after a conference with President Truman about the seaway plan.

He asked first if reporters had seen the joint statement issued from Washington after his talk with the United States President.

"We are going to have it," he said, answering a question. "The question is what way."

Asked if he thought presidential elections in the United States next year would interfere, the Prime Minister said he did not think so.

"But, like Rome, this will not be built in a day," he said.

PEARSON'S ASSISTANT — Alfred Pick, 36, of Montreal, head of the External Affairs Department's Commonwealth Division, has been named special assistant to External Affairs Minister Pearson. He replaces D. V. LePan, 37, of Toronto, who takes a senior post in the Canadian Embassy at Washington.

Highly Negligent Driver Jailed 6 Mos.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Sept. 29—(CP)—Chief Justice J. C. McRuer, noting a "high degree of negligence" in the case, Friday sentenced Joseph Andre Chouquette, 48, of Blind River, Ont., to six months definite and one year indefinite in reformatory for dangerous driving.

A Supreme Court jury Thursday acquitted Chouquette on a charge of manslaughter but found him guilty of dangerous driving in the Aug. 19 accident in which his car rolled over, fatally injuring William Demarsh, 67-year-old lumber worker.

Chief Justice McRuer suspended Chouquette's driving licence for three years and put him on the interdicted list so that he will be unable to purchase liquor.

Cabinet Resigns

Since the Agrarians currently are the government's strongest supporters, the move is not expected to change Swedish policy. The government's declared aim is "no alliance with any big powers."

Volcano Erupts

CATANIA, Sicily, Sept. 29—(Reuters)—High on the rocky sides of Mount Etna last night villagers from the hamlets which cling to its slopes knelt in, the dull red glare of flaming lava and prayed as their volcano erupted for the 11th time since 1900. Friday night's sudden eruption followed two days or groans and rumbles from deep within Etna's flaming heart.

Russians Say West Make Austria Arsenal

VIENNA, Sept. 29—(AP)—The Russians formally charged Friday that the Western Powers are turning Austria into a war arsenal.

The charge indicated the Soviets may use remilitarization accusations to disrupt impending Big Four discussions on an Austrian treaty.

In a surprise move, the Soviets presented the four-power Allied Control Council with a five-page, single-spaced list of charges that the West was building bases and using Austrian plants to turn out war materials.

American, British and French representatives repudiated the Soviet accusations as "an effrontery," "eye-wash," and "outright lies."

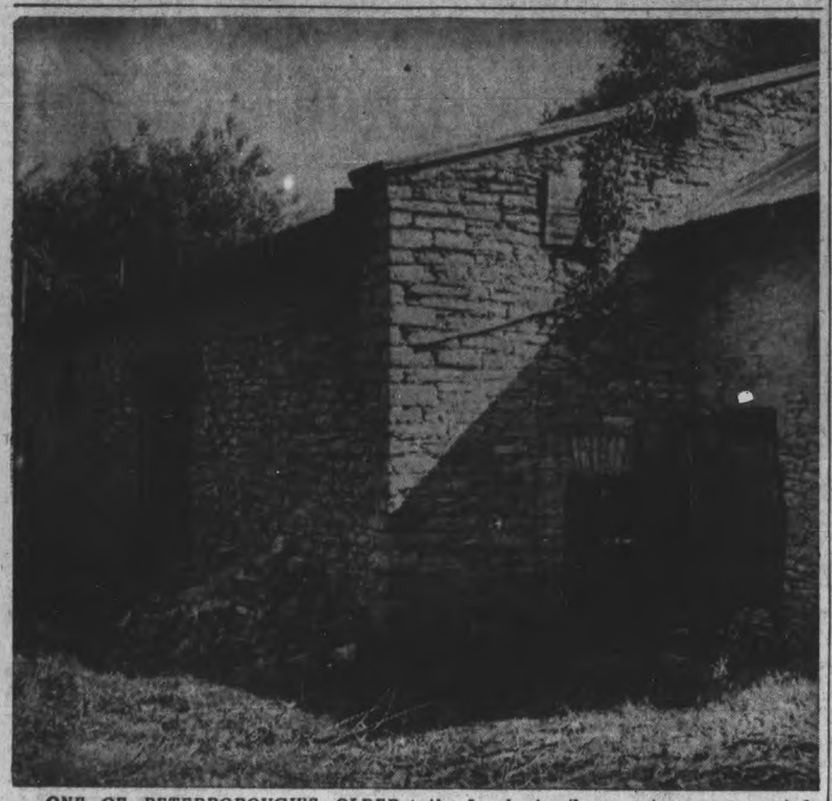
PETERBOROUGH EXAMINER

VOL. CIII. No. 75 — SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 29, 1951



ONE OF PETERBOROUGH'S OLDER BUILDINGS, a stone structure with two-foot thick walls, is having its front section modernized. On Brock St., near Bethune where the CNR tracks cross, the building has been a landmark for many years. It is believed to have been originally built by the Lundy family as a tannery, operated by Mr. Robert Lundy. The property remained in the family estate for a long time. Various businesses—horse livery, taxi stand and repair garage—since tannery days will now give way to an electrical appartus repair shop.—(Examiner Staff Photo)

Ashburnham Mains To Cost PUC $4,859

Six-inch water mains on Euclid and Woodbine Avenues, each 360 ft., easterly for Ludgate St. will cost approximately $4,859.45, as estimated for the Utilities Commission by its manager R. L. Dobbin.

Euclid Ave. extension will cost for main and services $2,228.40, and Woodbine $2,631.05. Both works were approved by the Commission, especially for the benefit of new houses that are being built.

Estimated revenue on Euclid should amount to $240. There are no remaining lots for further construction.

Five services on Woodbine at $30 each will provide $150. There are five more lots on the north side of Woodbine for future construction, but not yet planned.

Total possible revenue assuming all lots on the two streets are occupied is . . . 18 services at $30 a year, $540.

Prospective Tenants Make Bids for Old City Building

City council is heading into a realty problem: what to do with the old municipal building at Water and Simcoe Sts., and also the welfare office at Simcoe and Queen Sts.? Staffs of both will be gone by the middle of the month, except the employees of the Utilities Commission who will remain in their headquarters until the new Utilities building is completed at Aylmer and Dalhousie Sts.

First application for use of some part of the vacant offices was received by the property committee Friday from St. John Ambulance Association.

That enquiry precedes council's plan of future use or disposal of the old building. Mayor Swanston said that an insurance company appeared to be interested in obtaining office accommodation, and it is expected that several other prospects may develop for tenacy.

The welfare office, which was acquired for separate use for relief headquarters during the depression period, may be either rented or sold. The assessment department is to be asked for an estimate of its value.

As for St. John Ambulance, it was suggested that it might be more effectively located in the armouries. Committee believed there was room to spare in that building. Department of Defence will be asked whether space can be made available to the Ambulance Association.

Khaled, one of Mohammed's greatest generals, was known among the Arabs of the 6th century as "The Sword of God."

Market hours are to be 7 a.m to 2 p.m. Table space 20 inches 20c a market day or $2.50 for three months; 10 feet 60c a day or $7.50 for three months. Reserved space cards will be placed on rented tables.

A PERSONAL ENQUIRY

Joseph E. Mason of 2084 E. Bailey Road, Cuyahoga Falls, O., requested the Examiner to publish a query for information about his stepsister whose maiden name was Nora or Laura Stott. She was living here 52 years ago, and was then nine years old.

MAIN ST. TOPICS

FORD AVE. SEWER

Board of Works is authorizing the laying of a sewer on Ford Avenue between Chamberlain and Frank Streets.

FRACTURED ANKLE

E. T. Iliffe, 42, Campbellford, is in Civic hospital with a fractured left ankle. The accident happened Friday afternoon when a grading machine, which Iliffe was operating on the Seymour township road, rolled backward.

WRONG RAILWAY TRACKS

The train-car collision on Monaghan Rd., reported Wednesday, was at Romaine St., not Edison Ave. Driver of the car was Jack Haslett, 19, 745 Payne Ave. He and his passenger received bumps and scrapes on the head. There is no wigwag, bell or flasher light there.

WEST NEEDS SUNSHINE

Rain, snow and frost this week have halted harvesting in the prairie provinces. As reported Friday by the CNR the west "badly needs warm, dry, clear weather." About one-third of the crop in central Saskatchewan has been harvested; parts of Manitoba 50 to 75 per cent of the work is completed. Little combining has been done north of Edmonton.

WON FELLOWSHIP

John D. Craig, son of the late Fred D. Craig, is a weekend visitor on his way from Winnipeg to Toronto where on Monday he begins a year's course for master's degree in history. He took his bachelor's degree with honors at the University of Manitoba, and is going on to the University of Toronto for the year's study provided by the W. L. Mackenzie King fellowship which he was awarded.

DEL MERRILL RECOVERING

Peterborough friends of Delmore Merrill of Seymour township will be relieved by the news that he is recovering from a recent serious illness and is now convalescing at his home near Campbellford. He is a prominent Junior Farmer of Northumberland. He and his brother, Mel, gave skilled help in fitting the Holstein herd of the late Joseph T. Tully for their auction last spring.

BOY, 12, HURT

Twelve-year-old John Paquette, 688 Aylmer St., suffered cuts to his lips, left ear, nose and back of his head, when he was hit Friday afternoon by an auto driven by Tom Windrem, 98 Stewart St. Windrem was driving east on Wolsley St., and the accident happened at the intersection of Benson Ave. Windrem left a 30-foot skidmark in his attempt to stop.

WILLIAM GRANT, whose appointment as county director of the Peterborough legal aid clinic was announced Thursday night at a meeting of the Peterborough County Law Association. Mr. Grant's duties as director will officially start Oct. 9, when the clinic begins functioning.

For clock owners, the change-over is a cinch. On Sept. 30 move the clock's hands back one hour, then lie back and enjoy an extra hour of sleep.

If you burn 24-hour candles, add 1/24th of one candle to the one you'll burn on Sept. 30 and save 23-hour candle for next Spring's change-over.

Setting sun dial depends upon two things: the sun and the dial. Sun must shine; dial must be movable in order to set shadow black one hour.

Best way to gain an hour with an hourglass is not to turn it upside down for an hour. If this is confusing, throw the hourglass away.

Goodbye Sunshine

Every year about this time Peterborough residents, like most other Canadians, perform the rite of putting their clocks back one hour. Standard Time is being substituted for Daylight Saving Time. For those who want to be exact the return to Standard Time, officially, will be 2:00 a.m. Sunday.

Some people like to retire early and the more ingenious, instead of growing haggard from lack of sleep, will anticipate this deadline by adjusting their clocks and watches at midnight or earlier.

Chances are that there will be quite a few arguments today, too. Many rural people have viewed "fast time" with suspicion since it was first introduced and insist it is unnecessary and undesirable. And there are just as many urban residents who are all for it though they can't explain its purpose.

Peterborough is falling into line with the vast majority of other Ontario communities. Dresden switched back on Wednesday, Thamesville last week, and Cornwall will remain on Daylight Saving for one or two weks.

Minority

Besides a social credit government, Alberta has one other unique figure: she remains on Standard Time the year round and her residents are unworried over the rest of the country's biannual tinkering with timepieces.

But despite the notices through press and radio there will always be the hardshell minority who forget and run one hour behind schedule all day Sunday. Most people have heard the old story of the family rushing to church to be on time and walking down the aisle while an unsympathetic minister completes his sermon.

The majority of people like the return of Standard Time—even though it means the approach of colder weather—for one reason: they think they're getting something for nothing; namely, one hour's sleeping time.

Extra Hour

No use to explain to them, as the patient do, that they are only making up the hour they lost when they put their clocks ahead last spring. It is sufficient, they argue, that they can pull the blankets snug around them and snooze for that (extra?) hour.

One chappie has an even more ingenious idea. He doesn't touch his alarm clock until it rings for getting-up time Monday morning. Then with a sigh of content he reaches over, turns it off, and sleeps the most blissful 60 minutes of the year.

3-Car Crash Injures Woman

Miss Edith Borland, 48, of 499 Bethune St., received a cut over her left eye early Friday night in a three-car collision on the Chemony Road. She was taken to the medical centre where she was treated by Dr. Donald Whyte.

Miss Borland started to make a left turn into a laneway just north of Highway 7 on the Chemong Rd. A second car, driven by Frank P. Kerney, 45, R.R. 7, Peterborough, ran into the rear of the Borland vehicle and the impact sent both of them across the road into the east ditch.

A third car, driven by Kenneth Walker, 21, R.R. 7, Peterborough, struck the rear of Kerney's car but remained in the middle of the road.

Damage amounted to about $450 in all. Kerney's car got the worst of the bumping, $300 damage to the front end; both of the other two $75.

OPP Constable T. H. Armstrong investigated.

GE Here To Assemble Largest Generator

The largest generator ever to be built in Canada will be assembled soon at the CGE.

The Peterborough plant was commissioned to build the generator by the Aluminum Co. of Canada for their Kemano power development in northern British Columbia.

The generator will be housed in the new powerhouse at Kemano, 400 miles north of Vancouver. The powerhouse is underground and will be the first such one in the country. It will be carved in solid rock one quarter of a mile in the side of a mountain and will be one of the largest in the world.

SECOND POLIO CASE

Lindsay's second polio case has been reported. The victim is seven-year-old Kathie MacLachlan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. MacLachlan, 114 Pottinger St. No paralysis has developed.

DAMAGE $25

About $25 damage was done to two cars when they collided Friday at 5 p.m. at Hunter and Queen Sts. Drivers were Richard Hope, 727 Young St., and W. R. Curtis, 772 Duffus St. Curtis had been driving west on Hunter and turned south on Queen St. when the accident occurred.

Election Promises, Laughs Mark PCVS Electioneering

Wherever there's an election there's sure to be fireworks and the Student Council campaign at PCVS during the past week is no exception.

If parents have been wondering what's wrong with their children, they've been wavering between the election promises of the Aches and Pains, the 1951-52 parties.

The parties opened the campaign last Monday when they plastered campaign banners throughout the school urging votes for the candidates.

At the senior assembly Monday the parties began beating their drums when Ache party candidate for president, William Friskin, and Pain party candidate, Terry Brown, gave their opening speeches, including many rash promises.

Typical of the speeches is Beryl Rusaw's, vice-presidency candidate for the Pain party. She spoke to the senior assembly Friday afternoon.

After each plank was introduced, she recited a small poem which emphasized the Pain party.

Election Promises

Miss Rusaw explained that the Pain party, if elected, plans to carry on the weekly paper, the Pocket Version, to continue the school fund and to help the Grade IX students become better acquainted with the school.

For the bus-catchers she promised, that if elected, "the Pains will equip everyone with one large-sized hair-pin. Do you get the point?"

Other speeches are much the same, a few useful and possible planks mixed with other quite impossible promises for laughs.

But the parties don't call the campaigns to a halt after speeches and banners, each party is allowed one skit in the assembly.

Sandy Dewar and Ross Cotton, Pain supporters, on Friday played on the dictionary definition of Ache, a dull pain, to encourage the students to vote Pain, which is sharp.

After the last campaign speeches Monday the campaigns will reach the climax, the election, and the results will be announced Tuesday morning.

Besides the fun, the students through experience learn how an election campaign is operated.

By the choice of the students, the parties include: Pains, president, Terry Brown; vice-president, Beryl Rusaw; secretary, Bob Hutchinson and treasurer, Elaine Smith; Aches, president, William Friskin; vice-president, Mamie Frost; secretary, Arthur Lowe, and treasurer, Marlene Stewart.

The defeated candidates will be named to the standing committees such as the At Home and Social Functions committees.

PCVS' constitution has been used as a model for other Ontario collegiates' student bodies.

Director, Advisory Board Named To Guide Legal Aid Clinic In City

Lakefield Reeve W. C. Grant Heads Clinic To Provide Legal Aid For Needy; Kerr, Carley, Gordon Form Advisory Board

W. C. Grant has been appointed director of the Peterborough county legal aid clinic to begin functioning Oct. 9. The announcement of Mr. Grant's appointment was made at a meeting of the Peterborough County Law Association, Thursday night, by John Corkery Jr., secretary. Mr. Corkery explained that the appointment was made by W. Earle Smith, director of the Ontario Legal Aid Plan, in conjunction with the Peterborough Law Associtaion.

Members of the county advisory committee were also announced. They are: F. D. Kerr, KC; T. J. Carley, KC, and W. B. Gordon.

The clinic personnel are: a chairman—a barrister to be chosen by lot, monthly; Richard Batten, secretary; and John R. Twigg, social worker with the Children's Aid Society.

The county clinic is part of a province-wide legal aid plan organized by the Law Society of Upper Canada. The object of the plan is to provide legal assistance for needy persons.

The Ontario legal aid plan came into being in June when the act passed by the provincial legislature giving the law society government sanction, came into force.

"Actually lawyers in the county have been giving free legal assistence to needy persons all along," Mr. Grant said today. "However, a great many people dont believe this and the clinic will bring a recognition of free legal assistance."

Fourfold Functions

Mr. Grant went on to explain the four basic functions of the clinic. They are: 1, To ascertain the nature of the work required to be done the applicant for legal aid; 2, To dispose of applications either having no merit or requiring only the advice that can be given on the spot; 3, To report to the county director all cases requiring further services of the solicitor; 4, to ascertain the extent of the ability of the applicant to pay for the services of a solicitor.

Persons who need this free legal aid can go to any law office and fill out an application. The application will then be reviewed by the clinic.

600 Throng To Ball For 4th Highland Fling

Aye. The Tartan Ball. "A grand nicht for ane and a'.

"The loveliest night of the year" was the dancers' theme song at the Tartan Ball 1951, on Friday evening at Club Aragon, but favor settled on "Road to the Isles" when the CGE Pipe Band played a few requests at the close of the "nicht." The pipers were encored until they marched off the floor and the ball was ended.

A Scottish floor show earlier in the evening presented the bandsmen who were in competition at Hamilton this year, playing the competition tunes, and featured a piano accordion and bagpipe duo which won very hearty acclaim. The pipe player was Pipe Major Bill Morrison, formerly of Hamilton, who is an engineer at the new hospital here, and accordionist was Bill Burnett of Toronto, not long ago arrived from Scotland. Their catchy popular tunes brought "hielan' " dancers unto the floor. Pipe Sergeant Angus Munro and bandsmen played for a few more Scottish dances and then led a grand march.

There was much tartan worn at the Ball, the ladies using it to trim their gowns and the men sporting plaid ties and jackets. Yards of various clan tartans draped the bandstand, which was centred with a huge thistle. Lapel favors for the guests were small "thistles" of the band's own tartan.

A radio, alarm clocks, table lamps and an electric heater were given as door prizes on lucky draws and a grand prize was presented by Calvert Distilleries whose local representatives attended a fully licenced bar in the Club. This prize was a valuable cocktail set, won by Miss Ruth Ball and Mr. Terry Mordman. The radio was won by Boyd Windrim and lamps by Bill Maynard, Don McDonald, Bill Burnett and Phil Anderson. The prize giving was emcee'd by Stan McBride, assisted by band leader Bob Kinsman.

Welfare Worker First Among Indians

CALGARY—(CP)—There are some 15,000 Indian in Alberta and the Northwest Territories. And Willa Broderick, a soft-spoken, attractive grey-haired woman, hopes to meet every one of them.

Miss Broderick realizes the ambition will be hard to fulfill but as the Department of Indian Affairs' first welfare worker in Alberta and the Territories, she will cover thousands of miles annually visiting large reserves and small communities.

Mis Broderick will teach the Indians, particularly the younger people, some of the ways of the white man. It is hoped they will then find it easier to be assimilated into society.

She will organize home-making clubs, discussion groups and other means to bring home to the Indians how to get along as individuals in another society.

Miss Broderick explains the idea this way:

"There are a great many things in our way of life entirely unsuitable to the Indians. It's unwise to try making them accept these. And the Indians have many things in their culture worth perpetuating."

Miss Broderick has spent six years as home economics teacher among Indians in Ontario and was with the British Columbia Welfare Department.

After a reception at the home of the bride's mother, the couple left on a wedding trip to New York. The bride travelled in a navy faille suit with matching accessories. Mr. and Mrs. Freeman will live in Markdale district.

Orphanage Begun In Toronto 100 Years Ago

TORONTO—(CP) — One hundred years ago four Sisters of St. Joseph came to Toronto from Philadelphia to take charge of a newly-established orphanage.

It was the beginning of a century of activity for the Sisters in mothering orphans, teaching, nursing the sick and caring for the aged. Today about 2,000 members of the order are engaged in this work throughout Canada. About 500 are in Toronto.

The centenary of the arrival in Toronto of the first Sisters will be celebrated Oct. 6 to 8 at St. Joseph's Convent. Cardinal McGuigan will celebrate the pontifical high mass at the opening of the centenary.

14 Institutions

The story of the growth of the order's activities in Toronto is one of hard work and courage. The Sisters now operate 14 institutions in the city and teach in more than 30 parochial schools.

In 1852 they began teaching school in an old building on what is now Lombard Street in downtown Toronto. In 1854 they opened a mother house nearby and began a boarding and day school for girls. Two years later they opened their present "House of Providence" and then began to care for orphans and old people there.

There were many orphans in those days because of the ravages of tyhpus epidemics and the Sisters soon established the Sacred Heart Orphanage at what is now Sunnyside. This orphanage rebuilt and extended, is now St. Joseph's Hospital.

Other hospitals established and operated by the order are St. Michael's Hospital in downtown Toronto and Our Lady of Mercy Hospital in the west end of the city.

John M. Coughlin Married Today To Mary McMullen

Holy Rosary Church, Toronto, was the setting this morning for the wedding of Mary Margaret, daughter of Mr. W. J. M. McMullen and the late Mrs. McMullen, and John Michael Coughlin, son of Mrs. Coughlin and the late Mr. Ambrose Coughlin, Lakefield. The Rev. J. Martin, CSB, officiated. The bride's brother, Mr. W. F. McMullen, played the wedding music, and Miss Kathleen Bennett was soloist.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, chose a gown of white satin with lace insets. She wore her mother's pearls, and her finger-tip veil was caught with a seed pearl head dress. In the centre of her all white bouquet of gladioli was her going away corsage of white gardenias.

As matron of honour, Mrs. Charles Slattery was gowned in mauve net over taffeta, and she carried pale yellow flowers. The bridesmaids, Miss Rita Ryan, formerly of Lakefield, and Miss Kay Coughlin, sister of the groom, were dressed similarly in primrose yellow with matching bouquets of mauve gladioli. Mr. Bernard Coughlin, Peterborough, was groomsman for his brother, and the ushers were Mr. Cyril Coughlin, Peterborough, and Mr. Tom Coyle, Windsor.

At the reception which followed at the Old Mill, the bride's sister, Miss Bette McMullen, received in a gown of royal blue taffeta with a corsage of Johanna Hill roses. She was assisted by the grooms' mother, who wore a mauve net dress with lace panels, and a corsage of pink tea roses.

For travelling, the bride donned a two-piece plum coloured velvet dress with matching plumed hat, camel-hair coat, and black accessories.

Following a motor trip to Eastern Canada, Mr. and Mrs. Coughlin will live in Lakefield.

CATALYSTS, NOT CAPITALISTS

T. J. Allen, who spoke to the Normal School Thursday did not say, as reported Friday, that "teachers are the supreme capitalists of society." He said: "teachers are the supreme catalysts of society," referring to their function as agents in the transmission of learning.

ANCIENT ORNAMENT

Ear-rings were a common decoration for both sexes among the early Asiatic races, and worn by Englishmen as late as Elizabethan times.

DOROTHY DIX

Secretary Plays With Fire Dating Married Co-Worker

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am a secretary, aged 25, madly in love with a married man of 30 whose wife has recently become pregnant. I meet this man every day on the job and he is driving me crazy. He has shown me many small affections and has begged me to date him. I doubt that he knows of my feeling for him—I just try to be friendly. I have refused his dates saying that I am going out with one of four men I regularly date.

Dorothy Dix

I have a good job that I really need because I am helping to support my family with an ailing mother. Even though I am playing with fire, I can't wait to see him every morning. I am attractive and popular and never have wanted for dates ever since I can remember. Please don't tell me that I've been swept off my feet; he's a quiet, well-bred, shy individual. I have never met anyone that I was interested in marrying; why do I have to fall in love with a married man? I certainly would never break up his home.

ELAINE

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I certainly wouldn't size your friend up as a Casanova; he's more a somewhat harrassed young husband who is temporarily deprived of his wife's company on the sort of dates he apparently likes, and is seeking the nearest diversion. This is a very common situation, and while it is the outcome, usually, of nothing worse than thoughtlessness, it is one of the most contemptible attitudes a husband can take. After all, a wife who is expecting a child is not having exactly a gay time of it, and her husband's attentions mean more to her then than they ever will again.

He's No Heartbreaker

Since he is unaware of your feelings for him, he cannot be cacused of being a heart-breaker either. You are the one at fault, and unless you face your position squarely, you are letting yourself in for an empty, unhappy life.

You are infatuated by the unattainable—also a situation not uncommon. The spell may break for you when proud papa begins showing snapshots of his infant son or daughter all over the office. In the meantime, don't under any circumstances accept his dates. Continue friendly but let him know that this is the extent of your feelings, take other dates and make yourself become interested in a more eligible male. It can be done! Perhaps this man is the one great love of your life. Even so, he can be tucked into the recesses of your heart and mind while you concentrate on making a decent future for yourself. You have reached an age of discretion and must not waste time in hopeles and hapless dreaming. Get on with your life!

DEAR MISS DIX: My husband and I have been friends with another couple for years. We visited them once or twice a year and they always treat us very well. The wife is known as an introvert. The husband is very likeable and we enjoy their company immensely. The problem is that they don't visit us. The husband is a physician, and is, of course, kept busy with his work. My question is: Do you think we ought to continue visiting them though they never visit us unless we give a card party, or invite them specially to dinner or lunch?

L. H.

ANSWER: Since you enjoy the company of these people, and they seem to take pleasure in your visits, there's no reason why you should end the friendship. Many people prefer having company to being company, and although this is an anti-social attitude, friends of understanding will make allowances for it. A physician has a limited scoial life anyway, and if he is a busy man with a general practice, being constantly on call is bound to limit visiting.

Since you recognize the wife as an introvert, you know she is probably self-conscious and not the type of person who likes to make surprise visits. She always accepts your specific invitations, so why not make them more frequent if you want her at your house more often?

The essence of friendship lies in summing up our friends' faults and virtues, making allowances where necessary and liking the people for their failings as well as their good points.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 15 and awfully shy. I like a certain boy very much and have heard rumors that he likes me, but every time he talks to me I stutter and stammer. I have quite a few friends with whom I am not shy but I hate to meet new people and mingle with them. Is there anything I can do?

D. S.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Shyness is a typical characteristic of the teens and your behavior in the presence of a boy you like is not unusual. It is important, and possible, for you to learn to overcome this self-consciousness, and for the sake of a happy future social life, you should take every possible measure to accomplish this. Dislike of meeting new people could become so ingrained a trait that it would mar your life permanently. That is the problem for immediate tackling; its solution lies in getting into groups and working with them. A dramatic group in church or school would provide an excellent outlet for you. Athletic activities in which boys and girls participate are also recommended.

London, Paris Fashions Hint New Look Comeback

By MURIEL NARRAWAY

LONDON — (CP)—Those who look carefully at the latest fashion trends in London and Paris suspect that stealthily, almost imperceptibly, the "new look" is on its way back.

It may not be the voluminous, padded silhouette with its microscopic waist that Christian Dior released on an unsuspecting public some four year ago, but it has the same characteristics. The waist is neat—almost too neat—hips are curvaceous and an all-round pleated skirt gives a swinging grace that is pleasantly feminine.

There are some differences, of course. Jackets are longer, skirts are shorter and neat, pressed pleating prevents the bulkiness of the first new look styles. The present silhouette is slim, utilitarian and acceptable, but could still be the way back to 1947 fashion. Greater fullnes, for example, would be easily excused if wool prices keep on falling.

Not all skirts are pleated. Many are plain flares of the type reminiscent of Britain's first modified acceptance of the post-war Dior-look. One such is a suit of heavy black rep, a textile fabric, by a British firm. With plain flared skirt it has tiny-waisted, double-breasted jacket, Persian lamb collar and dolman sleeve. The jacket fastens from hem to the Peter Pan collar with tiny ball buttons.

Pleated Number

An all-round pleated number by the same firm is in burgundy—and-black dogstooth check with neat-waisted jacket also buttoning from hem to collar.

In London full skirts are still in the minority and those on view are conservative in style. Paris, however, shows a more definite trend to fullness, without completely deserting the slim silhouette popular these last two winters.

Advocate of a new "long line" for the not-so-tall, is, strangely enough, Dior. This is achieved by a long slim skirt coupled with a hip-length box jacket having a new, high waistline set under the armholes and emphasized by cuffing.

A notable fullness is the choice of Jacques Fath. It may sound crazy to wear a crinoline petticoat under a heavy wool suit but Fath uses a crinoline mesh to support the unpressed fullness of wide, flared skirts. Pale wool suits with deep armholes introducing a new sleeve-cut set diamond-wise across the back shoulderline have tiny waists and winged peplums to support the bouncing flurry of the crinoline skirt. A pointed bow, usually of a stiff fur, under a deep fold collar continues the winged theme.

Jean Desses favors a lesser fullness in "poised bird," a suit that places the emphasis on a rounded bust and swept-back skirt fullness. The swinging back fullness derives an accentuated tail-effect from an underskirt of quilted taffeta that would be a warm choice for cold days.

HISTORIC ART

Palmistry, the art of fortune-telling, was mentioned with respect by such ancient writes as Pliny and Aristotle.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Readers' Saturday Column

QUESTION: On two occasions I have made "Grandmother's Cherry Cake," which I got from your column in the paper. While the cake is a lovely texture and flavor all the cherries go to the bottom and I floured them as the recipe said. Could you tell me what the trouble could be? I enjoy your column very much and look forward to reading it every day.—HB.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I have changed the recipe a little because I have made the cake again and found this method successful in keeping the cherries "afloat," without any trace of sinking.

Gherry Pound Cake

This is a stiff batter and if you have an electric beater it is a great help. Beat longer if beaten by hand.

Have ready greased and floured loaf pan. Cream 1 cup soft butter for 1 minute in beater bowl, then slowly add 1 cup sugar taking 10 minutes to do so. Beat in 1 at a time 4 very large eggs (they should measure 1 cup). Have ready 2 cups sifted best quality cake flour sifted with ¼ teaspoon baking powder. Flour ½ to 1 cup sliced fresh glaced cherries with ¼ cup flour. After flour is added do not beat any longer after batter is smooth. Put half batter into loaf pan. Spread half of cherries over it, add remaining batter and spread top with cherries, pushing them just under the surface. Bake at 300 deg. Fahr. for about 85 minutes. When cherries are omitted add ¼ teaspoon grated lemon rind and 1 tablespoon lemon juice.

✧ ✧ ✧

QUESTION: I would greatly appreciate your publishing a recipe for that good old-fashioned beef stew "like mother used to make." Along with the many other delicious details the gravy was always so wonderful (yet my husband claims it wasn't thickened with flour). Your column is always read with great interest. —M. H.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: How can we ever guess what flavorings your husband's mother added. She probably was one of those rare cooks with imagination who cooked by rule of thumb. Now I can give you the beef stew I like best. It is not thickened at the finish for the meat is rolled in flour when raw.

Emem's Beef Stew

Cut stewing beef into 1½-inch cubes—you will need 2 lbs. for 6 or 7 people. Have ready ¾ cup flour to which you have added 2 teaspoons salt and ¼ teaspoon pepper, and shake the meat in it in a paper bag. In a heavy iron frying pan or Dutch oven melt 4 tablespoons good drippings and saute the meat in it until golden brown on all sides, over hot fire. Cover with boiling water, put on lid, and simmer 8 hours. Add 1 cup each cut up carrot, turnip and celery (if you do not like vegetables cut small put in the equivalent of 1 cup of each if they were cut small), about 1½ cups cut up or whole small onion, 4 cups cubed potatoes, ½ bay leaf, 2 tablespoons chopped parsley, ½ teaspoon thyme. Simmer until meat and vegetables are tender. Taste for salt.

Some additions to this that I like are slightly underripe tomatoes peeled and added about 8 minutes before serving time; dumplings—especially when tomatoes are used; to change the appearance leave the vegetables very large or if small, whole. Green onions with a bulb about 1 inch in diameter, and with about 4 inches of green stems left on are pretty in this stew. Strips of sweet red or green pepper and yellow or green string beans are good too.

I hope your husband and you like it as much as my family does.

A WILD TANGLE of charred iron bedsteads and bathtubs is the only indication that this rubble pile might have been Joliette's Hotel St. Louis. Together with an adjoining office building, it was levelled by a fire that is thought to have started in the basement. The blackened radiator, shown in this photo, stands in crazy relief against a wall of smoke that hovers over what it left of the crumbling brick chimneys.

Investigation Of Film Reds Comes To End

By BOB THOMAS.

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 29 (AP) —This week saw the end of the House of Representatives Un-American Activities Sub-Committee's local gaze at Communism in Hollywood.

The results of the seven-day, 42-witness investigation are still being debated. There was a difference of opinion between the two film trade papers at the conclusion. One headlined: "Commie Hearings Fizzle Out"; the other bannered: "Red Probe Finale Explosive."

Regardless of how the hearings affected the film industry, they apparently helped a rival medium—television. The proceedings were televised and thousands of local citizens watched.

Watchful Eye

One thing is certain: Politicians must be extremely watchful of their behavior before such televised events. The slightest slip is observed by thousands. I happened to see some of the telephone messages which came in for officials at the hearings.

One message said: "Have received several calls about the position of the flag behind the Congressmen. They say the flag should be higher and the Congressmen should not lean their chairs back against it. The Boy Scouts are yammering about this, too."....

Pay Kaye

In the week's news was a report Danny Kaye was paid $200,000 for not doing "Huckleberry Finn." The studio could not get the script ready in time and had to forfeit the salary. It must be fun to not do pictures for that kind of money.

SORROW AND SUPPLICATION—A Korean widow sobs over the grave of her late husband while her daughters bow in tearful prayer after having placed offerings of food at the burial place. The scene is typical of Korean cemeteries, where at least once each month relatives gather to pay respect to their dead.

Anti-Franco Revolt Nipped When U.S. Puts on Pressure

By LEON DENNEN.

WASHINGTON — (NEA)—The regime of Generalissimo Francisco Franco has been reprieved by "strong US pressure" from the threat of an armed revolt and Spain will be nominated again in November for membership in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Trifton Gomez, one of the top leaders of the Spanish underground, informed me: "Because of strong US pressure, the armed anti-Franco revolt originally planned for September has been postponed."

He added: "But it has by no means been abandoned."

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, supreme commander of the integrated European forces, plans to attend the next NATO council meeting at Rome in November. It is possible that he may personally urge that Spain be admitted.

His views on the inclusion of Spain in Mediterranean defence plans, along with Greece and Turkey, have already been made clear to American visitors. Although he has no love for Franco's brand of dictatorship, he said the West needs the Spanish link in its defence.

Anti-Franco opposition leaders recently charged that emissaries from the American Congress and Pentagon had exerted pressure upon dissident generals to drop their opposition to Franco. The statement by Gomez indicates the success of their efforts.

After Opposition

Franco meanwhile, in anticipation of favorable reaction by the NATO council, is taking strong measures to decapitate his opposition.

During August and September, a number of Basque leaders of the Union General de Trabajadores (Spain's underground trade union federation) have been arrested by secret police. They were charged with responsibility in the recent strikes in Vizcaya Province.

Among those jailed were Francisco Hernandez Albizy, Daniel Moreno Gil, Nicholas Parades Alvarez and Fernando Sanchez Gama of Bilbao, and Nicholas Martinez Esturo of Baracaldo.

At the same time, Franco dismissed Fermin Sanz Orrio as chief of the government-controlled national labor organization. Although an "old guard" Falangist himself, Orrio is known to have favored labor reforms in Spain and some of his close collaborators even secretly supported the strikers.

His successor, Jose Solis Rutz, 37, is a die-hard and much-decorated Falangist, distinguished for his ruthless exploits during the Spanish Civil War.

With the approach of the British election it is unlikely that either the Tories or Labor would favor the admission of Spain into the NATO at this time.

The shaky French government is even less in a position to do so. However, Britain's vote will take place before the November council meeting.

It was obviously in reference to these European political angles that Eisenhower recently berated politicians who place national interests and national rivalry ahead of the urgent task of resisting global Soviet aggression.

Radio School Programs Help Teachers With Lessons

TORONTO — (CP). — With a constantly-increasing audience, Canadian school radio broadcasts start another term early in October. A total of 1,200 separate programs are scheduled over the facilities of the Canadian broadcasting Corporation and privately owned stations.

In the last two years, there has been an increase of 80 per cent in the number of free receiving licences issued for schools. They get programs covering virtually every aspect of education from kindergarten up, and the majority of the 1,200 programs are provincial school broadcasts that can be related closely to the school program of studies.

Every Friday

The national school broadcasts are presented every Friday while provincial school broadcasts go from Monday to Thursday over regional networks. The national series of 25 weekly programs, apart from carefully devised content, will be notable this year for a slower-paced delivery.

Teachers themselves, and the provincial departments of education, have a major share in preparation of the broadcasts. In most cases practising teachers are involved in the programs from the conception of the idea until it is on the air. In Ontario, for instance, more than half the scripts are written by school teachers.

The broadcasts form an integral part of lessons in many schools. A teacher wishing to stress conservation of wild life and resources for example has a tailor-made aid in a series of five programs written to encourage interest among young people in this topic.

History And Drama

One of the most interesting series appears to be that dealing with famous Canadians of the past, which this winter includes episodes from the lives of such men as William Lyon Mackenzie, Louis Riel, Sir James Douglas and Sieur De Maisonneuve.

High school students particularly will be aimed at in another series which includes a full-length radio version of a Shakespeare work, in this case Julius Caesar. This work in five parts is being produced by Lola Thompson, who has done a great many CBC school programs from Toronto, and includes a commentary for students by James Bannerman.

The national school broadcasts are planned by a committee of educationists from all parts of Canada known as the National Advisory Council on School Broadcasting, which meets every March to make and approve program suggestions for the coming school year. For preparation of provincial programs the various education departments made great use of working school-teachers, some of whom actually appear on the program.

The national school broadcasts began in 1942 and are planned primarily to strengthen a sense of Canadian citizenship among youngsters. They are heard in more than one-third of the English-speaking schools in Canada, in all 10 provinces.

Winnipeg Alderman Builds Bomb Shelter

WINNIPEG, Sept. 29—(CP)—Ald. Maude McCreery is determined not to be caught napping if Winnipeg is atom bombed.

She applied yesterday for a permit to build a bomb shelter in her back yard. She said she hopes other citizens will follow her lead.

"I'm trying to sell citizens on the impotance of civil defence," said Ald. McCreery. "So I've got to believe in it myself don't I?"

Her shelter will be seven feet below the surface and 14 feet square. It will have two entances, two double-decker beds and space for food and water.

Two Can. Cattle Men Buying In Argentine

WOODSTOCW, Sept. 29 (CP)—Civil unrest in Argentina has caused concern for the safety of two well known district cattle men, G. M. Clements of Brantford, and J. H. Malcolm of St. George. Mr. Clements, secretary manager of the Holstein-Friesian Association of Canada, and Mr. Malcolm, a Holstein breeder, were scheduled to be in Buenos Aires today.

Fast-Growing Ivy

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29—(AP) —Ivy grows so fast on college buildings—at Harvard at least—that "one can practically see it grow." Harvard biologist Sumner Zacks, in a communique to the scientific journal "Science," announced yesterday he had measured the rate of growth and found Harvard's ivy grows at an approximate rate of .01968 inch a minute.

ANCIENT ART

Modern stage jugglers are theatrical descendants of the old Roman strolling players.

Are you in the know?

What does Hippy Hannah aim to be?
- ☐ A wallflower
- ☐ A bouncing beauty
- ☐ An eavesdropper

Tuning in on her neighbours? Nay, nay. Just bouncing her way to streamlined beauty. If you're hip-hefty, bump 'em off—10 minutes daily, against the wall. Stirs up circulation; helps trim over-rounded curves. Improving your figure improves your poise. But keeping poised on problem days depends so much on comfort. Choose Kotex. Made to stay soft while you wear it, Kotex gives softness that holds its shape!

Which keeps your velvet duds date-worthy?
- ☐ A steam iron
- ☐ Cellophane tape
- ☐ Mothballs

Those velvets and velveteens you're strutting in, nowadays, need to be de-wrinkled. De-linted. Never iron velvet; hang your duds in a steam-filled bathroom. Cellophane tape wrapped around your fingers (sticky side out), picks up lint. Date-worthy clothes must have good care. And it makes good sense, on "those" days, to take care that you get Kotex. That safety centre gives extra protection, and the flat pressed ends of Kotex prevent revealing outlines!

3 ABSORBENCIES: Regular, Super, Junior

More women choose KOTEX* than all other sanitary napkins!

*T.M. Reg.

How to prepare for "certain" days?
- ☐ Circle your calendar
- ☐ Buy a new belt
- ☐ Perk up your wardrobe

Before "that" time, be ready! All 3 answers above can help. But to assure extra comfort, buy a new Kotex sanitary belt. Made with soft-stretch elastic—light-weight Kotex belt's non-twisting. Stays flat even after many washings. Dries pronto! So don't wait...buy a new Kotex belt now. (Why not buy two—for a change!)

P.S. Have you tried Delsey? Delsey* is the new bathroom tissue that's safer because it's softer. A product as superior as Kotex... a tissue as soft and absorbent as Kleenex*. (We think that's the nicest compliment there is.)

In all probability the greatest single force in adult education is Your Newspaper. When you completed your formal education some years ago, the event was celebrated as your Commencement. It was then that you really commenced to learn. From that day to this you have learned constantly from Your Newspaper. Deep within you, even though you may not have thought much about it, you realize this and appreciate it. That perhaps is why you'd rather miss a meal than your newspaper. For well you know that any and every issue may bring you a tip, an idea, a suggestion, a thought—either inspiration or information that you can put right to work and keep it working for you the rest of your life.

Four-Cent Stamp To Mark Royal Visit

TORONTO, Sept. 28—A special four-cent stamp to commemorate the visit to Canada of Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip was announced here tonight by G. Edouard Rinfret, Canada's postmaster general.

Speaking at the official banquet of the Canadian Association for Philatelic Exhibitions, which is sponsoring the nine-day Canadian International Philatelic Exhibition, now in its second-last day, Mr. Rrinfret said that a commemorative stamp would be issued if the Royal tour takes place, and that it would display portraits of the Royal guests. The stamp will be purple in color and will be the large horizontal design similar to the current 10-cent issue.

The portraits of the Royal couple have already been engraved from photographs.

This would make the fourth time that Princess Elizabeth's likeness has appeared on a Canadian stamp, Mr. Rrinfret said. The first was in 1935; the second with her sister, Princess Margaret, on the 1-cent issue during the 1939 Royal visit; and the third was on the blue stamp the Canada Post Office issued to commemorate her marriage.

As one philatelist to another, the postmaster-general gave a friendly tip to collectors of first-day covers who desired to have the Post Office Department affix the commemorative stamp to covers and cancel and mail them on the day of issue. Such collectors, he said, must forward their orders and self-addressed covers to the Postmaster at Ottawa.

The exhibition, which was opened by Viscount Alexander, Governor-General of Canada, was organized by CAPEX to mark the centennial of the British North American postal administration and the issue of the first Canadian postage stamp, the three-penny beaver. The designer of the stamp, Sandford Fleming, was later knighted for being the instigator of standard time throughout the world.

Choose Theme For Dental Week

"Good Teeth for Good Health and Good Looks" has been chosen as the theme of the 1951 Dental Public Health Week. It was selected in an attempt to focus people's attention on the need to look after children's teeth so that they will not be handicapped by poor teeth as adults. The ability to get and hold jobs, to make friends and to become successful grown-ups is influence by Dental Health.

The parent, who doesn't see that his child has regular examinations and care of the teeth is missing out on a good thing. A grown-up's teeth usually reflect the care which was given to the first or "baby" teeth. Good care of children's teeth helps to insure sound teeth in adult years.

Peterborough and District Dental Public Health Committee suggests that all people responsible for children's care should plan to take suitable action to provide good teeth for good health and good looks.

Enjoy These Autumn Days

By NANCY CLEAVER

"These autumn days when every wayside tree
Stands forth triumphant in its rose and gold,
When woods bear witness to the majesty
Of Him who moves among them as of old
To us may visions come" . . . . .
Molly Anderson Haley

Surely it would take a very blind person to live through a Canadian autumn with no upsurging of the heart in gratitude to the Great Creator of our world! We do not need to be poets or artists to see or to glory in the rich tree pageantry which changes from day to day. Just ordinary folk can see and rejoice at the wonder of this season of the year.

Children are very responsive to beauty in any form, particularly of the out of doors. They delight in color and revel in the tang in the air, the sunshine on the golden fields, the hint of smoke on the horizon. Every parent should take time to go exploring with a son or daughter along autumn woodland trails.

Perhaps the family will want to go on an expedition on a half-holiday when dad can join in with the fun too! Pack a picnic basket which will be very much enjoyed by hungry hikers.

There may be nuts which can be found by the diligent seeker. Anyway there are colored leaves of infinite variety.

Boys and girls of school age love to make their own collections. Why not encourage your son or daughter to discover just how many different kinds of trees grow in your area while making a leaf collection?

Leaves can be successfully pressed between newspapers, or large sheets of blotting paper, with heavy weights put on them. Some youngsters like to use a warm iron, but this requires careful handling or the specimens are apt to be damaged.

The nearest Public Library will have good illustrated tree guides such as "Knowing Your Trees" by Collingwood and Brush. The Canadian Pulp and Paper Association of Montreal have a delightful booklet "Trees" with colored landscape pictures. If your child is really keen about nature lore you might like to buy ($1.50) "Native Trees of Canada" published by the Department of Mines and Resources, Dominion Forest Service, King's Printer, Ottawa.

Reference books help the amateur to label his leaves correctly and they add to his knowledge about the different trees.

Colored leaves are very decorative, but be careful if you are on a hike and want to pick a bouquet of leaves, that you do not damage a young tree. Choose your small branches carefully from different places on different trees. Do not tear them off the larger limb, but use a sharp jack knife.

Pre-school children love to pick up the red and golden and amber maple leaves which carpet the ground. Enter into their enthusiasm over the gay colored leaves. Perhaps mother could press with a warm iron some of the finest leaves between waxed paper to preserve them.

If you have a friend in a far-away land, slip a red pressed maple leaf into your letter next time you write. This little reminder of home will surprise and please your friend!

The changing colors of autumn and the falling of the leaves are full of wonder and mystery for the observant child. Parents should not be too busy to stop and try to give a satisfactory answer for such suestions as "Why do the leaves have different shapes?" "Why do they change color?" What happens when a leaf falls from a tree?"

If mother or dad do not know the answers to questions like these, they may turn to a reliable encyclopedia such as "The Book of Knowledge" which answers just such questions in terms a child can understand. Do not put a child off with, "Oh, you'll learn all about that when you are older and study it at school." The time to teach a child is when he is eager to learn.

The older boy or girl is interested in the use of different kinds of lumber, the saving of forests from loss by fire, and the role of trees in the conservation of soil. These are subjects about which every good citizen should be informed.

In these days so many people deplore the high cost of living and bemoan the fact that so much recreation and amusement is expensive. Enjoyment of the out-of-doors costs so little in money and pays so much in dividends of health and happiness!

Even families without cars can usually find inexpensive bus transportation or use their own legs to reach a woodland grove. Far too many Canadians have lost the art of walking! Don't let this autumn slip by without enjoying its color and beauty as a family!

Truman Quashes Dept. Order

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 (AP)—President Truman Thursday killed an Office of Price Stabilization memo to its staff to withhold from the public any information which might embarrass it.

He moved just two hours and nine minutes after word of the directive leaked out. But even that was not soon enough to head off a storm of Senate protest over the OPS action.

Joseph Short, White House press secretary, announced that Truman had ordered the memo withdrawn because it "might be misconstrued" as an outgrowth of Truman's order setting up curbs on the release of material affecting national security.

The controversial memo was issued Tuesday, the same day the President issued his order.

Truman's order extended to civilian agencies the same system of curbs on security information which applied previously to the state and defence departments.

Praying Mantis Helps Man Kill Off Harmful Insects

Written For The Canadian Press
By PERCY GHENT

Insects have been described as men's chief competitors for eventual survival on this planet and warfare against them is waged continuously and relentlessly. Damage to field crops and forests by destructive insects runs into millions of dollars every year in Canada alone.

But every once in a while there is good news even from the insect world. This year in particular, and for several years past, it has been noted that an insect, once common in more southern regions only, is steadily increasing its northward range and now includes much of southern Canada. The Praying Mantis has joined forces with Canadians in the campaign against insect pests.

Kill Off Beetle

This queer fellow and his mate—especially the mate—for the female Mantis is infinitely more deadly than the male, mean sudden death for all Potato bugs, Japanese Beetles, Rose Bugs and pesky flies that are encountered. Light green in color, with a head that is almost all eyes, and with the ability to turn its head and peek over its shoulder, the Mantis has long sickle-shaped arms. These are held upward and outward in an attitude of prayer which gives the Mantis is popular name.

"Preying" Mantis would be more appropriate, for the insect is the most bloodthirsty of its race and uses those deadly arms to crush any insect, not excepting the male Mantis after mating, that comes within reach. Eating the crushed prey is done with incredible speed. But a large percentage of the Mantis diet is injurious insects, and the economical value of the insect is enormous.

Twice the size of the common grasshopper, and with its characteristic "praying" pose, the Mantis is easily identified. It works for gardeners and farmers spring, summer and well into the fall; it deserves protection and should never be killed.

Joe Pye's Medicine

If you are a stickler for botanical names, Eupatorium Purpureum is the correct tag for the pinkish-purple flowers with great shaggy heads that add to the autumn color symphony of fields and wayside.

But the popular name for the widespread flower is Joe Pye-weed. It was named for an Indian medicine man, Joe Pye, who, says tradition, cured countless cases of typhus fever and other ills with a decoction made from the weed.

Twin Bull Moose

Human twins do not monopolize almost perfect similarity in face, form and personality that occasionally occurs.

In from Ontario's Algonquin Park, at its north-west corner, a park ranger reported seeing twin moose.

"It was a pretty sight I saw on the Mad River," he said. "It was just after dawn and the sky had all the colors of a fine sunset, and there at the river shallows, nibbling at water-lily roots were two young bull moose, as like as two pins. Twins, and no doubt about it. You couldn't tell them apart. They even raised and lowered their big heads at the same moment when I holered."

African Church Condemns Dancing As Moral Threat

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa —(CP)—Modern dancing is "heathen" in character and stands condemned in the light of Christian ethics, says a memorandum drawn up by a commission of the Dutch Reformed Church of the Orange Free State.

Stimulation of sex has become the dominant factor in the modern concept of dancing, the commission reported. Set up by the church to combat social evils, it listed reasons why the members thought it was their sacred duty to tell the world why they so strongly disapproved of the "popular heathen dances."

The commission found no justification for modern dancing in the scriptures. The few examples of dancing in the Bible were of persons who skipped around alone, or performed rhythmic movements together with others to express sacred joy and gratefulness to God.

Originally the same thing had happened in heathen religious services, but debasement intervened and the rituals became exhibitions of the body and led to abominable sinfulness.

The commission reported that the mixed dance made its appearance in Greece between men of polluted morals and women of doubtful character.

"Historically the modern mixed dance has its connexion with the heathen dances," the commission stated. "In the intense struggle between light and darkness, dancing stands involuntarily on the side of the latter."

The commission estimated that 75 per cent of divorces began on dance floors.

"It is small wonder that the serious, devoted christian and even many non-christians who value purity, not found dancing."

The church, the memorandum said, was not trying to negative the social instincts. It only denied that dancing was necessary for social life.

The commission's report was presented to the general synodical commission of the church, which heard an address by the rector of the university of the Free State, Prof. H. van der Merwe Scholtz.

Every effort, he said, was being made by the university council to discourage dancing. They could not prevent the holding of dances, but they tried to encourage other forms of recreation.

"There is no university in South Africa where dancing is not allowed," he said.

"The behavior of our students at dances compares favorably with that of students of other universities."

World-Wide Christianity

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, DD.

Protestant churches throughout the world will be shortly celebrating World Communion Sunday, the day in which as they gather at the Lord's Table in their respective places of worship that solemn service will be marked by a consciousness of their fellowship with all Christians.

The word in the New Testament translated "communion" is the same word that in other passages is translated "fellowship." It would have been better if the idea of fellowship had never been absent from the idea of communion; and it would have been better if the idea of Christian fellowship had never been limited to those who partook of communion in a particular place, and with those only of their own group.

It seemed a travesty upon the great conception of Christian fellowship that the denominations and the sects should be known as "communions." In their limitations and narrowness they denied the magnitude and magnificence of Christian fellowship.

I suppose that, actually, devout worshippers, however, limited though their communion might be, had some conception of the larger fellowship, of belonging to the church militant, and the church triumphant, surrounded by a great cloud of witnesses. But the limitations of the communion too often sybolized a narrowness of vision, an ingrown sectarian sense, and a lack of willingness to unite with those of other "communions" in Christian activities.

So it is a good thing that barriers are breaking down, that larger organizations are meaning larger activities and co-operation for the Christian work and service that is inherent in the Christian way. It is good that world tasks and world problems are being faced for what they are.

But what of the spirit back of and beneath the movements of union and world organization? Is the ecumenicity—the big word that means universal—ecumenicity of spirit as well as of organization?

Sectarianism with all its faults has embraced elements of intense earnestness and conviction. If convictions broaden and deepen while no earnestness and devotion are lessened, the gain will be real. But the power of Christianity depends upon the quality of personal faith and the strength of personal convictions. For such convictions freedom is as essential as organization and authority.

The broadening process in world Christianity will mean far less than it professes to mean, unless into the broader organization, life, and activity of the ecumenical church there is carried over the freedom of faith and inquiry and the qualities of loyalty and devotion that have made denominations strong, and that have touched even the sects with an element of glory.

Color, Design and Texture All Important Themes

Fashion is playing an increasingly important part in home furnishings. Co-ordination and good design are the keynotes of the new trend, and the results will be a greatly increased number of harmoniously furnished homes.

Because of the stress of our times, and due to the influence of Canadian ways, homemakers are seeking to bring into their homes more casual, informal comfort, and simple, honest design.

Of course, there's no predicting what changes the allocations to defence production will bring about. Home fashions will undoubtedly be affected, but not restricted. For no single material or product is essential to good design.

American manufacturers and designers will have the problem of producing well designed merchandise of materials that are available. Fortunately, there's no restriction on good taste. whatever changes are forthcoming, they will have to meet the challenge of whether they fill a need satisfactorily.

Co-ordination is showing up in related designs in living room groups. The legs of the sofa, in some are repeated in the legs of the table—end or coffee.

Fabrics, floor coverings, lamps, and accessories are conforming to create a greater feeling of unity and harmony.

TV Changes The Scene

Television influence is bringing greater mobility into the home picture. Wheel-like casters are being concealed beneath low skirted bases.

Upholstered pieces are inclined to be less upright and more comfortable for those long evenings of television viewing. Ottomans and light weight chairs are being used to increase seating capacity.

Contemporary design continues to gain in popularity, with greater emphasis on light wood finishes. The wood used must necessarily have a fine surface quality, an added feature of enhancement.

Provincial lines are coming to the fore, in well scaled proportions, blending in with the mood of today's informal living.

More romantic styles are in evidence, as represented by Victorian, Empire, Biedermeier, and Regency—all accent pieces in use with contemporary.

Traditional 18th century designs are exciting with new natural and light finishes.

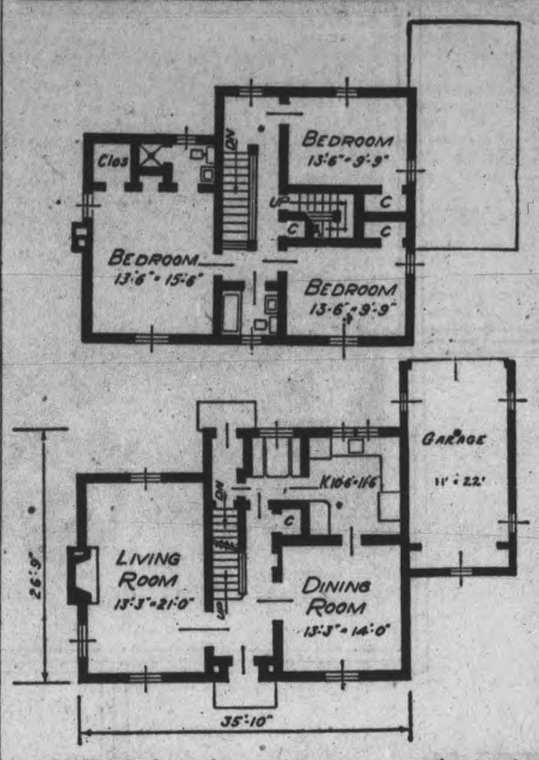
Some have built-in utility features, Many are scaled down to fit in the smaller home. Many retain the luxury proportions that harmonize with elegant backgrounds, such as they were originally meant for.

Where living space is limited, case pieces are planned with top efficiency of storage space. You'll see more shallow tray-drawers, shirt decks, broad trays and rollers for linen storage. In the dining room, dual purpose pieces are used with extending top surfaces.

Dual seating and sleeping furniture is more varied and ingenious than ever. There are pieces designed to fit into any room in the house, and with any kind of styling.

Of practical interest is the built-in back which provides storage for bedding when it is not in use.

Some of the old traditional styles have a new functional feature, such as an adjustable arm for sleeping comfort. The upholstered back that drops away, or can be removed altogether when the sofa is being used for sleeping, characterizes another mode.



HOUSE NO. 144—One would guess, seeing the exterior of this white stucco house, that is is much larger than it really is. There are only six rooms; none very large, yet each one of good proportions. Largest of all, of course, is the living room, which has an open fireplace on the wall opposite the entrance. The room has three exposures The kitchen is efficient, bright, and well placed between the dining room and breakfast alcove. Two of the bedrooms upstairs are of identitcal size, each with cross ventilation and well separated for privacy. The master bedroom, situated directly over the living room, has a private bathroom. It too has large ventilation. For building plans write Home Building in Canada, 372 Bay St., Toronto.

Find Plywood Easy Handled

The homemaker who likes to do his own work, will find in plywood a versatile material that has practical value and decorative possibilities. It is easy to handle and a good material to use for remodelling, finishing, and making built-ins.

Nails and screws can be put in right near the edge of a panel without danger of its splitting. It presents a good surface for any decorative finish — paint, wallpaper, enamel or wood stain.

Plywood is not a synthetic or makeshift material, but real wood. Very thin layers of wood are bonded together in such a way that the direction of the grain in each layer is perpendicular to the grain in the layer next to it. This cross-lamination is designed to give it increased strength. It actually becomes stronger than natural wood. The cross-banded panels won't split or scuff. Their rigidity, flat smooth surfaces, and their retention of the natural wood grain gives plywood the qualities required for both building and finishing.

For the home fixer, plywood is a material that affords great satisfaction. It makes all the beauty and richness of natural woods available for home decor, and can be applied by other-than-expert carpenters.

Happy Pioneers

MISSION CITY, BC— (CP)—Sixty-five years of married life were celebrated at an "open house" by Mr. and Mrs. Foster Carter, who were married in Montreal and lived in North Bay before coming west many years ago. They have eight children.

Brighter Hues For Kitchens And Bathroom

The spreading use of color, in the home and out, is bringing striking changes in bathrooms and kitchens.

Both of these rooms, formerly sterile white, are beginning to blossom in bright hues.

Tile manufacturers are working closely with the makers of bathroom fixtures to give home owners exactly matching colors, as well as pleasantly blending or contrasting shades.

Cheerful wallpapers have been developed incorporating deep-sea and floral designs for bathrooms, still life and barnyard patterns for kitchens.

Bright Cabinets

Kitchen cabinets made of steel, wood or composition products are available in wide varieties of colors. Apple green, jade yellow, being among them.

Manufacturers of refrigerators and ranges are now following the parade. A two-year survey of color preferences was made by the Chambers Corp., of Shelbyville, Ind., before it changed its all-white finish on gas ranges. It found that 31 per cent of its customers were waiting for special tints.

A short cut in this trend is open to householders who would like to change the color of their present white fixtures. The most satisfactory way to do it is to remove tthe fixture and take it to an automobile spray painting firm where you can select the exact shade you want. This finish dries quickly and gives you a result like that of a new car.

Suggest Methods To Prevent Swelling

Dresser and cabinet drawers usually are made out of soft wood and often left unfinished. In damp seasons they may stick and bind because of swelling of the wood.

One way to prevent this is to thoroughly seal all surfaces with shellac or other sealer during dry periods while the wood is shrunken. Then rub the bottom edges and the running surfaces with paraffin.

In severe cases, sanding, filing or planing may be necessary. This always should be done to the bottom edges only and done carefully to avoid looseness. Follow with thorough paraffin rubbing.

Apples For Queen

THORNBURY, Ont.—(CP)—A fruit firm here disclosed that a special package of Georgian Bay apples, MacIntosh and other varieties, is sept twice a month to Queen Mary in England. A Toronto woman sent a package to the Queen Mother last year and it met with such favor that a request was received which is being met in instalments.

Prize Poultry

BRANDON, Man. — (CP) — With the danger of "Newcastle disease" now on the wane, the Manitoba Winter Fair is going ahead with plans for another big poultry show Dec. 12-14. The show attained fame last year when a dressed turkey and dressed chicken each sold for $20 a pound.

Utilize Corners In Homes With Built-In Furniture

One of the important advantages of built-in furniture is that it occupies less space than conventional types. Built-in items, as a rule, utilize corners and other spaces which are too small or inconvenient for the placing of conventional style furniture.

Realizing that the furniture space problem in the modern low-cost home with minimum room sizes is growing more acute each year, furniture manufacturers have evolved an interesting solution to this problem. Their answer is built-in furniture which is not "built-in." In other words, furniture which hugs the walls, fits the corners and utilizes wall height rather than length—ready-built, but not actually attached to the house.

Scaled To Big Rooms

Most period furniture, the accepted standard of the past, was designed and scaled to room sizes much greater than the average room in the home of today. Chippendale, Duncan Phyfe, Hepplewhite, Sheraton and the other great designers, conceived and executed their time-honored pieces for rooms which averaged at least a third and often a half larger than those we build today. Ceilings, too, were higher in the old days, and the tall chests, high-backed chairs, and canopy beds reflect the abundance of furniture space at the disposal of home owners a hundred years ago. Proper furniture for minimum modern homes must not only be smaller in scale, but must also take advantage of the space-saving tricks accomplished by built-in items.

The increasing number of small rooms is responsible for a new school of furniture designs. Now that there is a general movement away from collective apartment living to individual detached homes of modest proportions, small-scale, built-in style pieces are assuming increasing importance in the furniture trade.

In addition to space-saving sectional chesterfields which can either fit snugly into a corner or be straightened out in a matter of minutes to form a room partition, an almost endless variety of tables, bookcases and occasional pieces are possible.

Not the least attractive feature is the use of light-colored woods with low-contrast fabrics on the cushions enabling any homeowner to achieve a striking room effect with a sharply contrasting rug. Reasonable care in the selection of lamps, pictures and tables will complete a room with character and individuality. On the other hand it is just as easy to select coverings for the furniture that will provide the main contrast motif. The color combinations cover an extremely wide wide range and make planning easy.

Chests and bookcases, in particular, come in various lengths and depths so that combinations of them can be readily adjusted to any well. "Corner" end tables, of various styles, provide in a much smaller area nearly all the living room facilities of larger pieces which would require much more space.

HERE'S HOW TO APPLY sailmaker's technique to repairing awnings.

Sailmakers' Sewing Tricks Will Repair Torn Awning

Awnings are fine things for keeping out the summer sun but every once in a while the canvas gives way and your awnings begin to look like a sailboat caught in a storm.

You can salvage torn awnings if you do the same thing a sailor does in a similar predicament. And just because sewing is normally a woman's job, there's no reason the handy man about the house can't learn to use a needle as nimbly as an old tar.

Don't start rummaging in your wife's sewing basket when the job comes up. Buy yourself a sailmakers needle, a "palm thimble,", a ball of twine (the sailor's name for thread) and a lump of wax. The palm, by the way, is made up soft leather and fits around your right hand. There's a metal plate sewn into the palm with which you force the heavy needle through canvas. The wax is used to waterproof the twine and make sewing easier.

Snags, small rips, and tears around the grommets or eyes where the awning is lashed down are repaired with a herringbone stitch, which is self-locking. You start by forcing the needle through the cloth, then back up and down through to the underside again. Come up again about opposite the end of the tear and about three-eighths of an inch to one side, cross over on top, go through with the needle again and come up through the tear, bringing the twine over the top stitch, then down through the tear again, as shown on the diagram.

On grommets or rings, one loop of the stitch goes around the ring.

Long rips and tears call for a patch. First you sew the patch to the canvas, using an ordinary flat stitch and keeping the edges of the patch tucked under. Then you sew the awning to the patch, tucking under the edges of the tear to prevent fraying.

In sewing heavy material like canvas, keep an even tension on the twine to avoid wrinkles and bulges. Don't tug at the twine, and don't knot it, either at the beginning or finish ends. Just cut it off about half an inch above the cloth, or pass the twine back through several loops.

The first time you try, you may not wind up with a job as neat as a sailmaker could produce, but you'll have a good sturdy patch that will hold. And you can use the same sailmaker's tricks on canvas garden chairs or hammocks that take a turn for the worse right in the middle of the outdoor season.

Plans To Modernize Kitchen Must Be Carefully Mapped Out

The first room modernized in most homes is the kitchen.

This forms one of the most satisfying projects and also can be one of the most painless as far as the family budget is concerned.

You don't have to buy a lot of new equipment all at once and pay for the moving of windows and doors and tackle a major redecorating job at the same time. You can do the work a step at a time.

In fact, kitchen planning experts of the General Electric home bureau in Bridgeport, Conn., who design thousands of kitchens every year, point out that you can achieve the same results in remodeling a kitchen over a period of years buying new equipment as you go.

The main thing is to have a detailed plan of what you want your kitchen to be.

The most efficient layout for a kitchen has been found to be one where the work flows smoothly over a work surface from refrigerator to sink to cooking area around the range. Each work surface should have ample storage space in the form of base and wall cabinets.

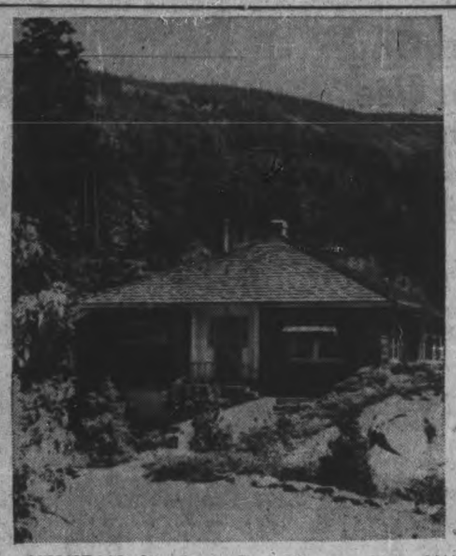
Many old-fashioned kitchens were unconsciously arranged in a workable order with the exception of work surfaces and storage space. A kitchen table usually provided the only work surface and a pantry, many steps from sink or stove, contained all dishes and condiments.

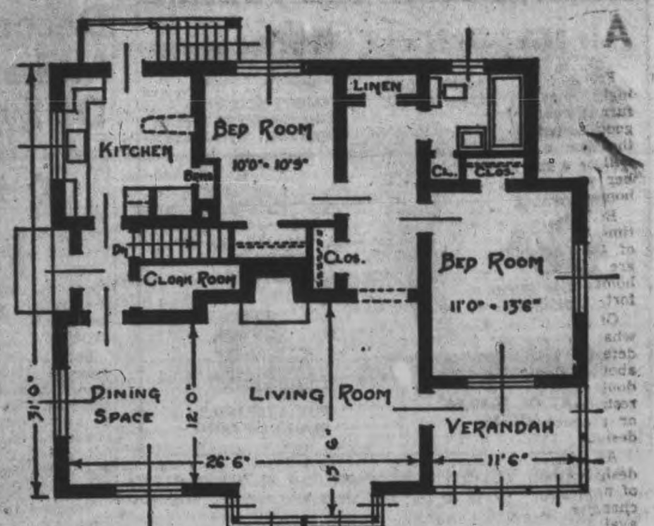
Nowadays it is not enough to have a rough idea of where you want each of the important departments of your kitchen. You should know down to the last inch where every appliance and piece of furniture will fit in your finished plan. Then when you buy any appliance, you can have in mind both your present kitchen and the place that appliance will occupy in the kitchen you hope to wind up with.

For example, if your plan calls for placing the refrigerator at the far left of your layout, you will want a left hand door. Otherwise you will have to walk around the open door on your way to sink or range.

When you buy cabinets, buy them for permanence, so others can be added to give complete unity.

If you have any doubts about planning your kitchen—and there is much skill and experience to be involved—your best bet is to consult your local appliance dealer, who can have your kitchen planned for you in miniature, according to scale. He can help you to measure your space and plan an attractive, efficient kitchen. Appliance manufacturers maintain such service.





HOUSE NO. 84—In the Brakenhurst section of West Vancouver, British Columbia, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Templeton decided to build their dream cottage. They chose a rocky site on a slope overlooking a great sweep of water. House contains five rooms, and large glassed-in verandah. Exterior walls are of stained cedar siding. For building plans, write Home Building in Canada, 372 Bay St., Toronto.

Careful Interior Treatment For Colonial Style House

Once you decide to build a Colonial type of house, the question of inside walls, floors and other interior finishes is easily answered. It is simply a matter of choosing which of several correct Colonial styles of treatment best meet your individual requirements, which you like the best and which you can afford.

Fortunately, it is no longer difficult to obtain the right interior treatment. Makers of inside trim have given close attention to this subject and the house builder can buy ready-made doors, mouldings, wall panels, mantels, cabinets, bookcases, etc., copies from originals, at most reasonable prices. One of the great advantages of the Colonial type of house to the average house-builder is that it calls for no unusual or expensive materials. In the old days moulded work was all fashioned by hand, but with the aid of modern machinery these beautiful old models are now perfectly reproduced at an enormous saving of time and labor.

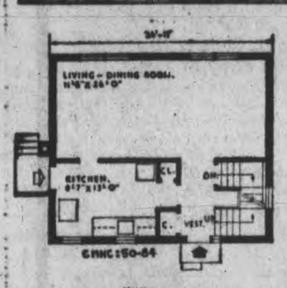
The walls of the living room, dining room and hall may be finished with wood panelling, which is most attractive when carried out in natural pine or plywood with the knotty pine finish.

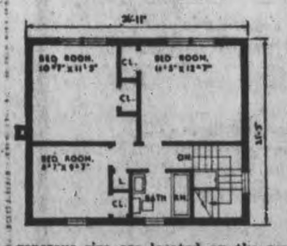
At somewhat lower cost the walls may be finished with rough plaster or with tinted or scenic wallpaper. Upstairs rooms may be painted or papered.

The ceiling of living room and dining room may be finished with broad beams or painted a somewhat lighter tone than the walls.

Floors, simply treated, with wide boards of pine or other wood, well waxed and polished or painted, for the rooms above.

The entrance hall should be planned carefully. A charming entrance is the keynote to the rest of the home. The stairway, the hall, should be a simple one in the Colonial house. It can be constructed entirely of pine if the walls are finished in pine; if the walls are papered, the staircase can be finished in mahogany and white.





Combining a conventional exterior appearance with a new plan of interior layout which is gaining popularity in Canada, this handsome three-bedroom house features a large living-dining room comprising the rear half of the entire first floor. This arrangement, while adding to the privacy of the living and dining room, permits greater enjoyment of the grounds behind the house.

In designing the house, the architects have taken into consideration several important requirements for economical construction—a rectangular foundation, unbroken roof lines and concentration of plumbing by locating the kitchen and the bathroom almost directly above one another.

The kitchen, which is amply lighted by two windows, is entered from the side service entrance or the hall leading from the vestibule. The stairwell has been compactly arranged and has landings which, because of safety, are preferable to winding stairs.

The bedrooms which are of generous size are located on the second floor and have good window areas and adequate closet space.

This house is 26 feet 11 inches by 21 feet 3 inches and for estimating purposes, each floor area is 572 square feet with a total of 1,144 square feet. Cubic contents measure 16,016 cubic feet.

The Ottawa owner of the house illustrated changed the position of the chimney from the left side of the house to the right and, in an effort to reduce the apparent height of the house, has used two types of exterior siding, brick on the lower half and horizontal wood siding on the upper portion of the house.

Working drawings for this plan, known as Design 50-84 are available from any office of Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation at minimum cost.

PAINTING YOUR HOUSE even if it is fall is a real nice activity. Gone is the hot days of summer and you feel much more like working.

Good Preparation Is Vital When About To Paint House

Indian summer is a fine time to relax—and it's also a fine time to do outdoor painting, too, right on into October.

You can save yourself a lot of money painting your own house, providing you're not foolhardy (or allergic) about climbing ladders—and providing, also, that you don't get overambitious and try to do the whole job in a couple of weekends.

Begin by visiting your paint dealer and getting him to help you work out, by figuring square feet, amount of trim, and number of coats how much paint you'll need for the job.

You'll need proper brushes, too, if you haven't much of an assortment in your workshop. If you lack ladders they can be rented in lots of communities; or they can be borrowed, of course, depending on how you stand with your neighbors.

Your paint dealer also will help you decide the best kind of paint for the climate you live in, such as whether to use a freely-chalking paint that is more or less self-cleaning as it weathers, or a harder finish. Don't fool around with unknown bargain paints.

If just brushing on the paint were the only thing involved in this job, a lot more people probably would do it themselves. But you'll run into all kinds of trouble unless you do a lot of preliminary work first.

Places where the old paint has peeled, cracked, blistered or checked will have to be scraped down to bare wood and primed. You'll usually find the worst of these spots around the eaves and the door and window trim, which means you have to take down screens and shutters before you start.

Dirty streaks down corners or outside walls generally mean leaky gutters and leaders; if you haven't checked them lately, do it before you paint, so your brand-new job won't be ruined the first time it rains.

Pick a dry day to paint—and make sure the wood, not just the weather is dry. Avoid a windy day, too, so all kinds of things floating through the air won't stick to the fresh paint.

Since there's almost always some sort of a breeze blowing, better make a deal with your windward neighbors not to burn leaves the day you're painting—unless, of course, you wanted the house black anyway.

Decorating Makes Use Of Synthetics

Fashions for fall in decorative textiles for home furnishings, point up new uses of synthetics for greater texture interest. Noteworthy in this category is the increasing use of rayon, nylon, orlon, and cotton, instead of wool.

While the use of these fibres does not cause deviations from the general trend in texture treatments, some differences do occur.

Both rayon and cotton take on color so much clearer and truer than wool does. And where various fibres are mixed, design effects never before possible are obtained for use in draperies, upholstery, and carpeting. This is due to the fact that the different fibres take dyes differently.

Textural interest, always foremost in home decor, has been tremendously increased in its scope of decorating possibilities. The sheen of rayon forms a clever motif for cotton grounds. Cotton and pile fabrics, are used to produce a three-dimensional sculptured effect of great beauty.

The Prettier Look

This feature which characterizes the new trend to softer contemporary designs in home fashions, is also effective in carpeting. Flower motifs are appearing in both wool and cotton carpets, which have a delicacy and softness reminiscent of the romanticism of the 19th Century.

But the colors are used in a decidedly different way. White and red on speckled black; chalk-white; deep gold on soft green; and a soft blending of ombres to form patterns.

These are typical of the way in which color is used to create a "prettier look."

Provincial Is Contemporary

Though Provincial patterns, from ranch-type to modified modern, differ, they have a decided contemporary look. The popular ranch house influence can be seen in the look of hand-made tweed effects.

Colors in drapery, coverings, and carpetings are mixed in salt and pepper combinations . . . cinnamon, brick red, and beige . . . soft greens . . . and brown tones that have a warm comfy feel to them.

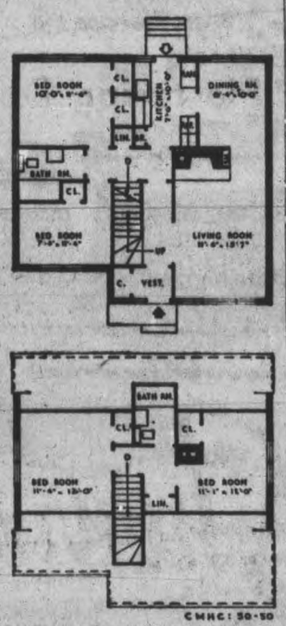
The new Provincial design is as much at home in contemporary, as in traditional decor.

Small, compact house plans have made an important contribution to a continuing supply of good housing in a period of rising construction costs. But the never-ending procession of two and three bedroom plans has left the impression that a new house for a big family requires a housing expenditure of at least $20,000.

Here is an attractive house design which will bring new hope to the prospective house-builder who has searched in vain for adequate living space within his means.

Note the big-family features of this plan: Four bedrooms, two bathrooms, a large living room and a separate dining room, and all in the economical one-and-a-half storey design. First floor bedrooms are well separated from the downstairs living area and the second floor bedrooms and bath allow the youngsters privacy they'll appreciate. The slight trend to open planning in the dining-living area gives the necessary "through" space for family gatherings and entertaining.

The good-sized master bedroom has "husband and wife" closets, another feature of this well-planned house. The two bathrooms will ease the crowding in the morning wash-up and the small front bedroom, close to the parents, would make an excellent nursery.



For estimating purposes the dimensions of the house are as follows: Complete width 32 feet 4 inches and length of the longest side 30 feet. The area of the first floor is 913 square feet and the second floor 451 square feet to make a total of 1,364 square feet. This house would look well with a finish of wood siding, stucco or brick veneer.

Construction drawings for this plan, known as Design No. 50-50, are available from Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation at minimum cost.

HOUSE NO. 44—In this home the wide "V"-joint boards of cedar give a striking effect as their white-painted surfaces catch the afternoon sun. Immediately under the eaves is a dark, horizontal strip, which adds pleasing character to the whole facade with its sharp contrast in color. Notice that the front door is also dark. The roof and gable ends are of weathered cedar shingles. Since only one window in the main part of the house overlooks the side, such a design could have close neighbors. Most interesting room in the house is the big living room. There are splendid arrays of windows looking to both the front and back gardens, and of course there is the wide open fireplace centered on the long outside wall. The combination of the kitchen and dining nook arrangements is particularly well done. It is gratifying to see that no room in the house serves as a traffic lane. Many will be impressed with the tool room, and the covered entrance to the garage. Upstairs are two bedrooms, a bathroom, and a roomy storage area. For building plans write Home Building in Canada, 372 Bay St., Toronto.

The Burma Road, chief highway for supplies to China in the Second World War, extends 770 miles.

Use Color Freely, Boldly In Interior Decorations

"Exciting" is the word for the fall trend in home color. Drab, dull colors and patterns are out. It's colors with character and depth that count!

The use of light modern woods has brought about a new clarity and frankness of color. The darker traditional woods have brought into prominence, richer wood tones, as well as colors that blend with, and accentuate the beauty of maple, mahogany, and walnut.

Though the range of color is wide and diversified, it is being used more selectively. One and two color prints in both modern design and traditional elegance is becoming quite the thing.

Attractive Combination

Black and white is gaining in high fashion decor. The combination is most attractive when used with a bright color accent—bright coral, red, vivid yellow or green, or burnt orange.

Noteworthy, are a sharp green with blue, taupe with pale rose, blue with red. A fresh modern look is achieved by black combined with green, black with red, navy with gold, black with orange, mauve with black.

The popular reds are giving way, in various fabrics to pinky-beige and peach browns.

A romantic revival in colors is also being seen, tending to a "prettier" type of modern fabric design. Every shade of purple is in evidence — ranging from deep charcoal purple through mulberry to mauve, lilac and clear amethyst.

Blue, as essential part of this romantic revival is appearing in monochromatic prints of deep navy, bright navy, royal, violet cast, Parma blue, and many pastel shades.

For several seasons, earthy notes have held a high place in high fashion circles. Now they are pervading all levels of home decor.

These colors, seen in prints and upholstery fabrics are in the brown, persimmon, olive, and gold family of earthy tones. Their range is expanding, too. The olives tend to moss and avocado and get into the gold range with bronzed greens.

The gold tones range from pale to deep mustard. The browns, from taupe to warm brown, to blackish brown. In the persimmon family, hues range from coral to orange and from burnt orange to rust and copper.

Home Building Counsellor Aids Prospective Builder In Most Modern Showroom

A major step in the merchandising of builders' materials has just been completed by the Peterborough Lumber Company. It has finished its homebuilders showroom at the factory headquarters on Monaghan Road.

Under construction by the company for some time, all the work has been done by the employees. The showroom and new offices will be opened to the public Monday and Tuesday for inspection.

The most modern builders' showroom in Peterborough county the new addition was built to present to the modern home builder all the products which go into the construction of a house. In this way it is hoped that customers will be able to select more easily the equipment and materials they need.

A complete range of everything for the construction of a home will be dislayed in the showroom 130 feet long and 30 feet wide.

At the north end of the showroom, the company has placed a private section which it calls the "homebuilder's corner." There a customer may obtain all the information required to complete the plans for his new home.

Discuss Home Plans

The company provides a building counsellor who will discuss home plans, offer advice and answer any questions the homebuilder asks.

For those who are planning a home but haven't chosen any particular design, the company counsellor has available three modern homes, all in miniature, complete with landscaping, for possible selections and ideas.

On the wall of the showroom beside the homebuiler's corner are suggestions and samples of wallboard for the kitchen and bathroom. These are mostly plastic, enamelled materials in all colors and combinations of colors.

Around the wall of the showroom apart from the wallboard designs are the various types of wood and plywoods available through the company such as imported woods like black walnut and mahogany, red cedar plywood and knotty pines.

Unique in building showrooms is a selector's sample board which has all samples of wood, framing and dressed lumber flooring, siding, v-joint, mouldings, interior trims and specialities, in two planes, with price, grades and species.

This board is a great help to men and women not familiar with the many types of wood. Instead of asking a clerk, the customer has but to survey the selector's sample board and make his choice there.

A modern, v-shaped counter is situated in the south-east corner of the showroom. There are 85 drawers filled with the better class of carpenter's tools which are also on display in the showwindows.

Situated behind the counter is the hub of the plant. There is the distributing centre and yard foreman's office, located from an advantage point overlooking the lumber yard and buildings. From here the orders will be checked and shipped.

Opposite the counter along the front wall are model kitchen cabinets and rubber counter tops Also on display are hardware for the homes.

Assortment Of Paints

On the floor space, directly in front of the kitchen shelves are islands with a varied assortment of paints for both interior and exterior use in the new home.

Two large show-windows, 30 feet long, enable passers-by to see the materials and workmanship on display.

The company is also showing passers-by materials, equipment and products available and manufactured by the company. Such things as paints, woods and tools will be featured as well as closets and other products made for the new home.

Featured by the firm is the revolving door which is a large closet with room for coats, suits, dresses, hats and storage shelves for smaller articles. When the closet is closed, there is a full-length mirror for the dresser.

All the work, the display islands, the wall displays, the counter, the selector's board and the windows have been done by the company's employees.

Their craftsmanship is clearly seen in the staircase leading to the company offices on the second floor. The stairway is of birch with a mahogany finish.

The spacious office is done in shades of green plywood walls.

The office of general manager Fred Overend features an oak plywood with a red and green linoleum-tile floor, while vice-president Gordon Munro's office is based with leather-wood and topped with horizontal birch plywood in the natural finish.

South of the showroom a new, paved parking lot, with room for both the customers and the employees, is being built and should be completed shortly.

Founded In 1840

The showroom is another step in the more than 110 years' history of the company. It was founded in 1840 by Samuel Dickson and is now the sole survivor of the many pioneer industries started in the same era.

Lumbering was the leading industry a century ago and mills operated by water power hummed at Lakefield, Nassau, the Auburn and within the city limits on both sides of the Otonabee River. Almost all the pioneer landmarks have been wiped out over the years. Only the Peterborough Lumber Company survives.

Peterborough's oldest citizens will remember the lumber mills on either side of the river at the wooden dam, now owned and operated by the Quaker Oats Company.

Their work and products went into the building of Peterborough, besides creating employment for hundreds of men.

The affairs of the Dickson Lumber Company ended in 1906 when its interests were largely acquired by the Peterborough Lumber Company with Dickson Davidson, John Thomson and George Lenton its executive officers.

Lumbering operations continued in Cavendish township. Every spring a new cut of logs was brought down the lakes and river to the company's sawmill on Burnham's Point.

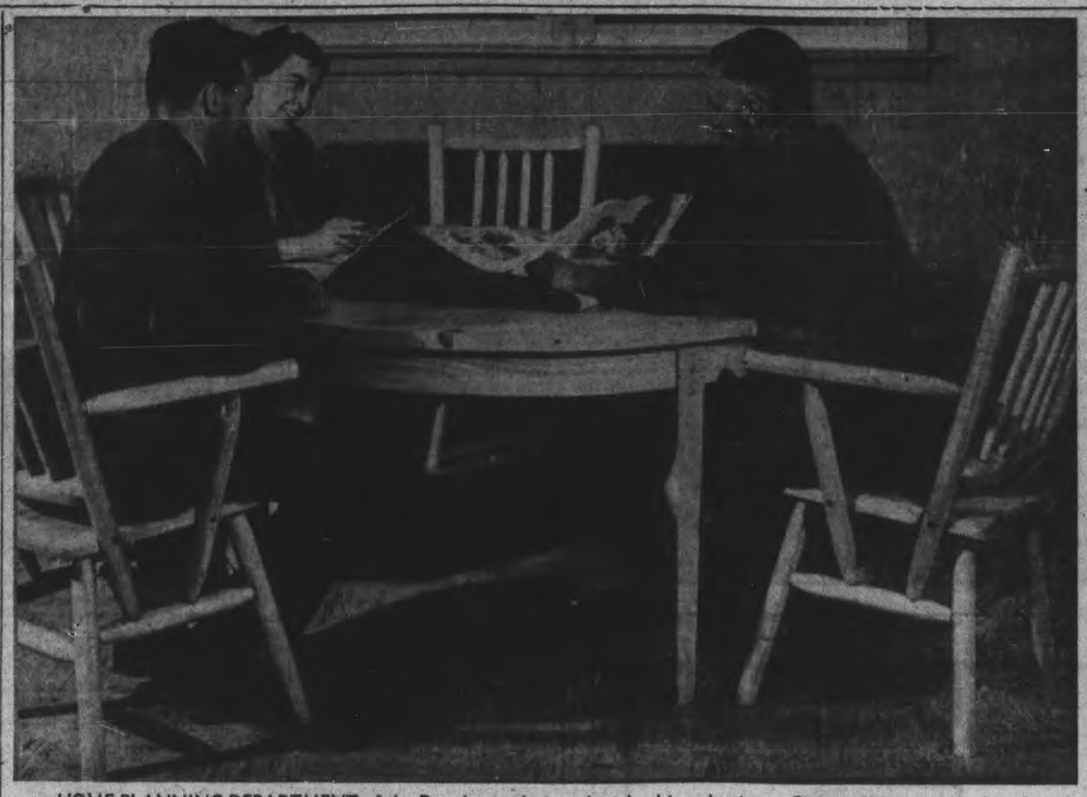
In 1933 the Peterborough Lumber Company bought the planing mill on Monaghan Road, owned by the Canadian Aladdin Company. This expansion permitted the broadening of service by manufacturing a complete range of doors, windows, sash, cabinets and all types of woodworking including material for houses, offices, churches, factories and other buildings.

In 1935 the equipment and stocks of lumber were moved from Burnham's Point to the Monaghan Road plant, transferring the company's operations from the local waterfront for the first time in its history.

Now the Peterborough Lumber Company has made another move to bring more service to its many customers.

BIG ISLAND

Jamaica, the largest island of the British West Indies, has an area of 4,411 square miles.



HOME PLANNING DEPARTMENT of the Peterborough Lumber Company's new showrooms on Monaghan Road, where the customer can see designs and layouts for homes and make his selection. Giving assistance in this department will be sitting around table clockwise Doug. Melville, Mrs. G. Doherty and Howard Doolittle.

Out Dated Homes Accepted By Many As Part Of Life

Are you living in a house that fits your personality as well as would a hoop-skirt or side-burns? It's surprising how many people are, without being aware of it. They have "got used to" surrounding that are out of date and have come to accept them as a part of life itself. Many of these same people would never drive the same car for more than a year or two, but somehow the shortcomings of their homes are pushed into a kind of background of things never to be thought about.

But it is a fortunate fact that our home surroundings are receiving greater attention than they did a few years ago. It may be expected, too, that the change which is taking place in exterior design will awaken even greater interest. It is not meant by this that all the works of questionable merit which are threatening to beset us under the name of modern architecture, will help the cause. Reference is made to those designs — often adaptations of the Georgian style — which are designed to accurately reflect today's mode of living and thinking.

Styles are Simple

The Georgian and Colonial styles lend themselves to modern homes because of their simplicity. There is also an increasing number of inspiring examples of genune modern design which do not draw on any of the architectural heritages or the past. Such homes are perfectly adapted to present living.

We must beware, however, of the artificialities of pseudo-modernism, obtained by adding a corner window here and some horizontal bars there, quite irrespective of their merits as a part of the completed house.

With interest piqued by a new type of exterior, the enquiring citizen is likely to be made conscious of how far his home is behind the times, not only in design but also in layout, equipment and interior decoration.

One never-to-be-forgotten point about changing styles in housing is that basic changes are not made simply to be different, as with milady's hat. Changes in house styles are the result of adaptations to fit changing conditions and to make more effective use of the new products and equipment which are being made available by developments in science and industry.

True, changing from one house to another involves much more exertion than trading in a car—but there is no comparison in the joy which each brings. One of life's biggest events is that of moving into a modern home of your own. And for most men many of the happiest hours of life are spent improving and caring for the homes that shelter their families and themselves.

If there is any doubt about the advantages which a modern home offers, consider recent improvements that have become standard practice. Even homes in the lowest price range are being equipped with a type of heating and conditioning plant which was a luxury for the mansion of a few years ago.

Better Lots and Streets

Homes are placed on larger lots—the old 30-foot lots are practically ruled out. Progress is being made in placing the houses on winding, better laid-out streets with more landscaping and

Automatic heating, air conditioning, concealed radiation and a host of other improvements have more regard for sunlight and prevailing winds.

Construction standards and methods have improved. New and better products are being used. Other new items include automatic domestic water heaters, automatic garage door equipment, telephone conduits, modern lighting fixtures, recreation rooms, insulation and streamlined bathrooms with high grade efficient fittings and equipment. The age in which we live has its disadvantages, but insofar as dwellings are concerned, our ancestors never had anything to approach the standard of comfort and convenience which are ours to enjoy.

Drop-Cord Light Said Cause Of Many Home Accidents

Ah, the Good Old Days!

But were they? Remember the single flickering drop-cord light dangling from the ceiling in homes of thirty or forty years ago?

Such lighting can still be found in some older homes but it has now been proved by electrical experts to be a hazard to life and limb and the cause of many home accidents. The best home builders today plan their electric wiring layout to include, among other things, all-electric bedrooms designed for safety, comfort and convenience for the changing needs of each member of the family over the years.

So advanced are some of the newer ideas regarding today's home electrical needs that no fewer than eleven bedroom electrical appliances can be installed in this room alone.

A ceiling light in the bedroom with a switch at each doorway is good practice, the experts say, but in addilton there should be many more wall outlets or "plugs" placed at strategic points depending on the planned location of furniture. These accommodate conveniences unheard of of thirty years ago including twin bedlights, a night light, electric clock, bedside radio, heating pads and electric bedcovers. There can be a hot weather electric fan, perhaps a humidifier, vaporizer, and an outlet for an electric curling iron, as well as an outlet located so the vacuum cleaner and floor polisher will reach every corner of the bedroom. Additional outlets are provided in some homes for germicidal, infra-red or ultra-violet ray lamps.

Not all these appliances will be in use at the same time but almost any combination of them may be used under particular circumstances. They will operate more efficiently if the house is adequately wired with the necessary number of house circuits and wall outlets for modern living. Such equipment is considered a "must" in many new homes to serve the larger number of convenient household appliances now in use which cause heavier electrical "loads" on the home wiring system than was the case a few years ago.

Where too few outlets exist, home owners are inclined to rely on extension cords and "octopus wiring", creating an accident hazard in tangled cords, reducing the efficiency of all lighting and appliances, and usually resulting in blown fuses.

The solution is adequate wiring with sufficient wall outlets and large enough circuits for today's needs. Readers planning formation on adequate wiring and plans based on the electrical industry's Red Seal Standard, by writing to the Electric Service League of Ontario, 4 Carlton Street, Toronto. The League is a new homes may obtain full inon-profit organization representing hydros and the electrical industry and provides advice and consultation on home wiring plans in the interest of safe, efficient and economical home wiring, without charge.

Cyanide Guns Kills Coyotes

EDMONTON (CP)—Alberta's coyotes are in for a rough winter. Scattered tests of new cyanide "coyote getter" guns claimed the lives of 60 of the "pesky varmits."

William A. Lobay, provincial crop pest control chief said that Peter Chubb, an area control officer in the municipal district of Ponoka, 60 miles south of Edmonton, produced the best score in the early tests.

Mr. Chubb set out 30 "coyote getters"—and scored 23 dead coyotes.

"The beauty of the coyote getters is that they kill the coyotes in the farming area where the predatory animals do the damage to flocks and herds," said Mr. Lobay. "Formerly, most of our coyotes were killed in unsettled areas where they were doing comparatively little harm."

The Alberta minister of agriculture has received applications from 19 municipal districts that wish to organize under the anti-coyote campaign.

Larger and Lighter Rooms Demanded In Modern Home

Modern living, in all its phases, calls for flexibility. No longer do our rooms lay down the law to us as in the days when the front parlor had as many rules and regulations as a government bureau. Living-dining rooms are the order of the day; kitchen-living rooms are a trend to watch. Larger, lighter rooms are demanded, presenting their own problems in succesful decoration.

The Dining Room

When first the living-dining room combination was introduced there seemed to be a general agreement that the function of the dining part should be camouflaged completely during the non-dining times of day and night. Lately, however, the trend has been toward utter frankness about this eating business and large rooms are planned with definite, unashamed double duty in mind. Often they use the big dining table as the centre of interest for the entire room. Curtains, built-in units of cabinets or bookcases, large folding screens sometimes replace full partitions yet effectively divide the large room into living and dining units.

Flexible modern furniture lends itself well to these two-faced rooms. Complimentary units are now available so that you may "mix your own"—book shelves in various sizes for interesting corners and half-partition; come-apart sofas that round corners or divide, at a moment's notice, into "conversation pieces"; corner tables and two-storey tables; cabinets which harmonize with living room furniture yet serves to hold linens and silver in the dining part of the robm. Although most of this type of furniture is frankly modern in design, much of it will mix sociably with your furniture colors and to use your older furniture in modern ways.

Many of the new homes are placing extra emphasis on the kitchen by providing living and dining space in the room itself. The "business" part of a kitchen need not take up too much space yet can be genuinely decorative. Whether your ideas run to gingham and Colonial maple, earthenware with French provincial or Swedish over-tones, Pennsylvania motifs in high color or super-modern functionalism, the kitchen is a genial place to work—where the job can be done in conversational range of the family and where serving and clean-up time is cut to a minimum.

Problem rooms can be as worrisome as problem children. Your extra-large living room, high-ceilinged and austere, can be cut down to size by a judicious use of basic rules and your own imagination. Fool the eye by cutting off too long views with sofas and conversational groups at right angles to your walls. Darken the color tones of your ceiling. Introduce dramatic and colorful draperies to your windows, making them divert the eye from far-reaching vistas. You can use bold-patterned wallpaper or deep-toned walls. You must avoid slender, graceful or "coy" furniture—the large and substantial is your dish. Keep the furnishings, as much as possible, away from the four walls of the room.

Furniture To Room's Size

Too small rooms present another harassing problem. To avoid that claustrophobic feeling you must curb your own delusion of grandeur. Avoid heavy overstuffed chairs and sofas; select furniture that is scaled down to your room's size. Cover the floor from wall to wall with plain carpeting, keep walls pale and plain and treat your windows with serene dignity — fancy valances and riotous color can only be put over by an expert. Simple curtains and draperies that blend with the tones of the wall are safer. Keep furniture near the wall and be very strict about knick-knacks, sofa cushions, piled-up magazine and bud vases. Clutter is the enemy of beautiful rooms, whether large or small, but small rooms are more aller-all rules are made to be broken gic to this particular invader. Yet —in certain small rooms where there isn't going to be much furniture you can use a big patterned stylized wallpaper, effectively—or a small-patterned paper covering both walls and ceiling can be as blithe as a band box.

Whatever your problem in arranging your goods and chattels you must adhere to certain basic rules. Consider the "traffic" lanes of your home—the paths the family takes from one room to another—and keep the lanes free

Doors Stick Or Too Loose? They Are Not Hard To Fix

By BOB SCHARFF

Doors stick or bind; they get loose and rattle; or they warp. However, there are few door troubles that can't be fixed fairly quickly.

Slight sticking can be remedied by rubbing the tight surface with paraffin, soap or similar substances. However, when a door sticks all along the edge or does not close at all, it is usually best to remove the door and the hinges from its inner edge and plane that edge of the door rather than the lock edge. If very much is planed off, the butts will need to be remortised and set flush.

Sometimes a door sticks through the striking of the outer corners, as for instance, when the outer bottom corner strikes the sill or the outer top corner strikes the top of the opening. To remedy this the door can be tilted by setting pieces of cardboard or thin wood behind only one of the hinges.

Bit of Cardboard

When the striking is at the sill, the cardboard should be placed behind the bottom hinge; when the striking is against the top of the opening, behind the top hinge. The same effect can be obtained by setting one hinge deeper into the frame.

Sticking is also often the result of loose hinge screws. Once or twice a year it is wise to take the time to tighten these screws.

If a door shrinks, it may fit too loosely on the lock edge. To cure this, set the door over slightly by removing the hinges leaves from the doorjamb, putting a layer of cardboard under them and then replacing the hinge.

Occasionally, because of the settling of the house, the door frame may move slightly and carry the strike plate with it, while the door and lock remain fixed. This will cause the bolt to strike the plate instead of entering the hole in the plate and will make it difficult, if not impossible, to lock the door.

To remedy such a condition first close the door slowly to determine whether the bolt strikes too high or too low on the plate. Then remove the screws, take off the plate and file the metal opening until it is large enough to accommodate the bolt.

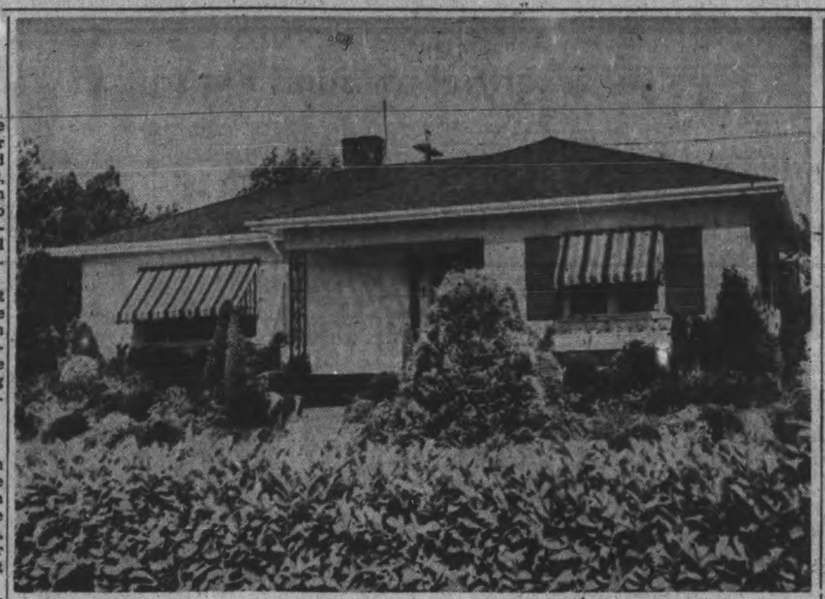
Move Plates

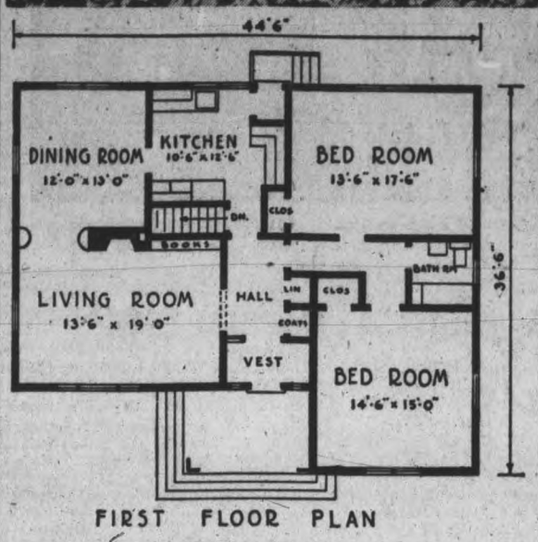
If the bolt strikes squarely on the plate, so that it requires the filing of a possible quarter inch of metal, remove the strike plate and raise or lower it as necessary, chiseling out the mortise above or below the existing opening to set the plate flush.

Replace the plate in the new position so that the bolt will work back and forth freely. If old screw holes interfere, drive small plugs of wood into them before putting in the screws.

Moving the strike plate back from the outer edge will generally cure a rattling door. If the narrow strips (the stops) against which the door shuts can be taken off and relocated tight against the door, it will also stop the rattling.

Should a door warp so that either the top or bottom of the door edge strikes the frame and prevents closing, the only remedy is to remove the door, lay it flat on supports, and place weights on the high part. Within a few days, this should straighten the door out and it can be rehung.





FIRST FLOOR PLAN

HOUSE NO. 33—Some people like a bungalow — and some don't, but about everyone will admit that this one has enticing qualities. Walls are sparkling white stucco, while roof and shutters are dark red. The concrete floor and steps of the porch are red too. Wrought iron work is painted black. It is obvious that the owner of this property is a rock garden enthusiast. Most of the front garden is devoted to this hobby, and the great variety of colours which meet the eye when looking over this picturesque hedge seen in the foreground will long be remembered. Using the plan shown, there would be five large rooms in the house. Two bedrooms, living room, dining room and kitchen. This room arrangement gives unusual privacy to the sleeping part of the house. The tiny but adequate bathroom is handy to each of the big bedrooms. Plenty of fresh air is assured with cross ventilation available in every room but the kitchen. Linseed Oil and Turpentine Bring Out Knots in Pine

Here are some of the most commonly asked questions confronting the intending home builder:

Kitchen Cupboards

Question: Can you give me a rough idea of what is considered sufficient kitchen cupboard space for houses accommodating 3, 4 and 5 persons.

Answer: Wall cabinet capacity of six square feet per adult should be allowed. Figure base cabinet requirements on linear front feet of cabinet, not including range and refrigerator. Here are some figures for the small house.

No. of Persons	Wall cabinet Shelf space	Base cabinet Shelf space
3	30 sq. ft.	4½ to 6 lin. ft.
4	36 sq. ft.	6 to 7½ lin. ft.
5	42 sq. ft.	7½ to 9 lin. ft.

These figures are of course subject to special family requirements, such as where an unusual amount of entertaining is done.

Finishing Knotty Pine

Question: What do you consider the best technique for finishing natural knotty pine panelling?

Answer: The character of the knots is brought out by rubbing with a clean rag wet with a mixture of linseed oil and turpentine, or with a varnish stain of good quality.

The surface should then be left overnight to dry, and then a light coat of shellac applied. After this is thoroughly dry—it should be given at least two hours—the wood can be sandpapered lightly along the grain and finished with wax.

What is a "Packaged Morigage?"

Question: Can you tell me what is meant by a "packaged mortgage?"

Answer: The "packaged mortgage" regards major items of kitchen and household equipment as part of the house for mortgage purposes. It provides for a single combined house and equipment loan enabling the purchaser to spread payments for such equipment over the life of his house.

"Spatter" Finishing Floors

Question: I have to repaint the floor of our summer cottage this spring and have been wondering about "spatter" finishing it. Can you offer any suggestions?

Answer: A spatter finish should be ideal for a summer cottage floor. It will camouflage dirt tracked into the cottage and is a surface both easily and quickly applied.

First paint the floor in the desired background color . . . usually a dark tint. When this has dried, the floor is ready for "spattering." An old brush is best for this purpose as new ones are usually too limber. Dip your brush into the contrasting color and tap the brush handle upon a piece of metal pipe held in the left hand to spatter the paint. Two contrasting colors are usually applied in this manner over the undercoat, using different brushes for each. Paint for splatter floors should be of heavy paste formula. If any thining is needed use turpentine and drier rather than linseed oil as this would make the paint too soft for floor wear.

Ink Stains on New Hardwood

Question: We have a newly laid hardwood floor on which a bottle of ink was upset and allowed to soak in. Despite a great deal of sanding it has been impossible to completely remove these markings. It there a solution that will bleach it out?

Answer: Yes, there is. Oxalic acid will do the trick. Obtain 1 oz. oxalic acid granules and mix in 1 pint of hot water. Allow this solution to cool and apply repeated coatings with a brush.

Removing Old Wallpaper

Question: Some of the wallpaper in our home has been varnished and we are having difficulty removing it for repapering. Can you offer any suggestions that will make this easier?

Answer: As with removing all wallpapers, the problem is basically to get enough water back of the old paper to loosen the old paste. With a varnished paper, the surface should be sandpapered sufficiently to allow the solution to soak through. You can use solution of soda and ammonia to soak off old varnished papers, but care must be taken so that none gets on the floors or woodwork.

Smart Accent In Wallpaper

Wallpaper serves several purposes, the first and foremost being to complete room furnishings, harmoniously. It's a good means of covering up imperfections in the walls. And not least in its service, is the way it adds depth and color to a room.

When selecting color in wall paper, it is wise to keep in mind the character of the room for which it's planned.

Th naturalistic group of colors, now so popular, are spring green, sky blue, and bark moss—all as refreshing as a garden.

For a woman's bedroom, pinks and pale blues are most appropriate.

Where dramatic effects are desired, look to elegant chartreuse, sharp greens, black backgrounds with lipstick red, gold or silver.

If a mood of quiet repose is sought, use beige and tans that offer an unchanging, antique quality.

Honor Bandmaster

SAINT JOHN, NB—(CP)—The St. Mary's church band here serenaded bandmaster Harold Williams on his 72nd birthday, then paraded to the east end grounds where he was presented with an engraved gold watch. It was also the bandmaster's 31st anniversary with the group.

Home Boys

DIGBY, NS — (CP) — For the first time here, 12 boys are members of the home economics class at the high school. The teacher, Miss Beatrice Heine, says the lads have already mastered the sewing machines, and have cooked fine muffins and other goodies on the stoves.

Let Amateur Have His Way In Building

By JOHN L. SPRINGER

"The average man does not know his own strength with a hammer."

This is the candid comment of a professional craftsman who has watched rank amateurs fashion furniture of genuine professional quality after only the simplest instructions.

One man, described by his wife as an absolute dub in all matters pertaining to household repairs, put together in a few hours a pair of bookcases, which were indistinguishable from those made by a professional carpenter.

Secret of the dub's success? He used pre-cut lumber.

Most local lumber yards and millwork firms are equipped to make all the cuts necessary in carpentry—jig saw cuts, cross cuts, bevels, mortises, etc.

This dub merely brought his plans to a nearby wood-working shop. There, a carpenter cut each piece of wood to the exact requirements. Then the amateur picked up all the wood, carried it home, and erected his bookcases—at a saving of one-third over the cost quoted him by a cabinet maker.

Everyone Drives Nails

Anyone can drive nails, and by driving nails himself the amateur saved the labor costs of a professional. Then he saved himself the additional transportation costs of delivering the bulky bookcases from the carpentry shop to his home—all because he assembled the pieces in a place only a few feet from where they would be installed.

More and more persons are learning the fascination that lies in putting together prefabricated pieces at home. A lawyer, who had never considered himself capable of even the most elemental household repairs spent a weekend assembling an elaborate bed headboard with side cabinets. A carpenter had quoted him a price of $300. By using lumber cut at a nearby woodworking shop to his own specifications and nailing together the pieces himself, the lawyer saved $125.

FAMOUS RIVER

The Congo River in Africa is navigable by steamers for about 7,000 miles.

Modern plastic tiles are set individually, as above. They come in brilliant colors. Enameled wall-covering is similar to linoleum and can be applied in large sections as shown at right.

Modernize Your Bathooom Using Handy Plastic Tiles

Lots of people are perfectly happy living in old houses until they start peering into brand-new ones, and then they get the natural urge to bring things in the old homestead up to date.

The bathroom seems to be the place where the comparison is most noticeable. While we haven't seen a bathtub ancient enough to be standing on legs in a long time now, there are plenty of bathrooms that would look young again in an awful hurry if the walls were tiled.

These days it isn't necessary to use heavy ceramic tile to get the effect you're after. There is tile made of aluminum and plastic, there's heavy, enameled wall covering in patterns that simulate tile, and there's a tempered hardboard covered with a tough plastic finish in a variety of patterns. Any of these can be installed by the Mr. Fix in your family if you give him proper encouragement.

Least expensive is the enameled wall covering. This has a felt base, is something like linoleum, and is installed about the same way except that it goes on the wall instead of the floor. It usually comes in widths to equal wainscoting height (54 inches) and with it you'll need base molding and cap strip of the same material, as well as inside and outside metal corner strips.

The aluminum and plastic tiles come in individual pieces, about 5x5 inches or less, and are somewhat easier to install than the wall covering, which has to be cut out in wall-size pieces.

The individual tiles are easy to cut, and each type comes in half-sizes and strips to fit into odd corners. There are special moldings and cap strips, too, and the whole job goes on with a special cement.

Like the wall covering, the plastic-finished tempered hardboard is installed in large sections, and is a bit tougher to handle. You've got to make sure everything's pasted down tight so there won't be any buckles.

That gives the individual tiles an added advantage, since if you skimp a little on the cement during installation and one of them comes loose later on while you're singing in the tub, it's not much trouble to stick it back in place.

Since each manufacturer has his own special installation hints for the product he puts out, be sure to get a full set of directions from your supplier before you start out on the job.

Any of these would be fine for converting a large unused closet —or maybe a small unused room —into a downstairs powder room. Before you get into this project, though, better get a plumber to put in the fixtures.

Home Owners Make Better City

One of the most important things to look for in choosing a neighborhood is a high percentage of owner-occupied homes. Pride of ownership, resulting in greater care for homes and grounds, is a real safeguard against depreciated property values. While small areas of rented homes may not detract from a community if well maintained, owner-occupied homes, generally speaking, show greater care and better maintenance.

The character of a neighborhood is determined by the people who live in it . . . a community of low-cost homes can be just as liveable as one which is limited to higher priced properties. You'll want to consider the people who are living there to determine whether or not you have interests in common. You can do this by visiting neighborhood schools, churches and community centres.

In locating a neighborhood you should consider both the natural and man-made features which exist in the vicinity. Bodies of water, such as rivers or lakes, may be desirable; but you should avoid swamp-like land which might flood or rivers which might over-flow. You should also avoid the use of rocky or rubbish-filled land which is likely to add to the cost of building and make it difficult to grow a lawn or garden.

Nearby heavy industry to windward will be an objectionable source of noise, smoke, dirt and odors . . . both from the factories themselves and from the railroads serving them. Light industry, on the other hand, my be an asset to the community, providing work close to home in pleasan surroundings. This will be especially true if the small factories are operated by electricity.

How are the streets laid out? In a properly designed neighborhood, they should be safe, convenient and well-surfaced. They should be free from through traffic, but accessible to main arteries. The street layout should be attractively landscaped and should take advantage of all natural features such as hills and valleys, wooded areas and waterways. Streets fitted to an irregular terrain can provide easier curves, thereby saving on construction costs. Curves and grades must be designed so as to offer desirable lot sizes and shapes.

Houses Similar

Houses in a liveable neighborhood should be similar in general size and character, but should vary in exterior appearance. A simple, appropriate and "honest" design is necessary to all sound architecture. Houses should be gauged by people's habits of living and fitted to the topography or ground on which they are constructed. They should be adapted to the regional climate. A "Spanish" type stucco house might be all right for Florida in a setting of palm trees, but it would very much be out of place in the snow drifts of our own climate.

Too many different materials should not be used in one small home without good reason; that is, to reduce apparent height or to add interest. In choosing a permanent neighborhood, you should look for houses which are similar in general size and cost, substantially constructed with materials which assure long life and low maintenance.

Unless a neighborhood has an adequate and approved water supply, there will have to be individual wells and pumping systems for each home. If sanitary sewer lines are not provided, private septic tanks or indivdual sewage disposal arrangements will be needed. For lots of average size this is a considerable expense. There should be a system for collecting and discharging surface drainage. Look for street lights and accessible fire hydrants. Telephone and electric service should be readily available in the neighborhood which you select.

Proper Transportation

Transportation must be kept in mind when choosing a neighborhood. Facilities should be modern and convenient, with frequent service. It will be better still if shops, schools, churches, libraries and parks, as well as work, are within walking distance of the home.

Local zoning ordinances are designed to regulate the use of all lands within a community for the protection of the home owner. If properly written and carefully enforced, they limit the uses to which building can be put, keeping commercial or non-residential elements out of the home neighborhood. By limiting building heights and land coverage, they can insure open space between the houses, thus allowing for ample light and air. Similar and added protection is often provided by local deed restrictions, building codes, and health and sanitary ordinances and laws.

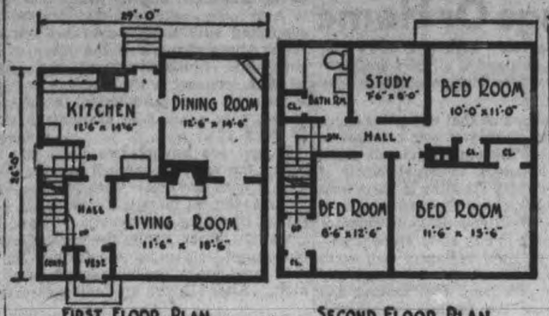
Good neighborhoods include schools, churches, parks and other recreation areas. A neighborhood centre and a shopping centre should be near by. All of these facilities should be within walking distance of your home.

The school is the natural centre of a neighborhood. It should be well designed and modern, with adequate facilities for play. The school should provide facilities for adult education and neighborhood activities as well as for the child's curriculum.

Look For Park Areas

Landscaped park areas should offer what indivdiual homes lack in space for games and recreation. Some of these areas, at least, should be associated with the school.

The neighborhood centre may be established in a separate building, or it may be connected with the church or school. In any event, it should include a library, a nursery school and a meeting place for 'teen-age' groups. The nursery school will permit youngsters to learn how to play together. The 'teen-age' meeting place provides an opportunity for games and parties and the development of leadership responsibilities.



FIRST FLOOR PLAN · SECOND FLOOR PLAN

HOUSE NO. 248—This is a friendly little house, with a perky air about it, containing seven convenient rooms. And the owner says that his enthusiasm for it must have been contagious, since a brother in Quebec City built another just like it! Exterior walls are of French-grey cedar shingles, with blue-grey roof, and dark blue shutters. The almost square plan topped by a single gable roof, is economical to build. It contains about 21,200 cubic feet. For further information, write Home Building in Canada, 372 Bay St., Toronto.

Locating Bathroom Fixtures Essential of Good Planning

In the basic arrangement of fixtures in a room, there are a number of factors to take into consideration — the location of doors and windows for one — the placing of the radiator for another. Generally speaking, fixtures should be placed where they will be most useful, even though this may represent a few dollars additional cost. Dollars saved at the expense of convenience will prove costly in the long run.

Other things that must be considered are the locaion of the stack, and the location of the piping to maintain rapid, efficient draining. Your architect or master plumber should be consulted early on fixture arrangement: for their wide experience will assure you of securing a convenient, economical room.

Architectural Design

Wall and floor materials plus interesting accessories combined with good arrangement make the bathroom harmonious. Materials for walls and floors should be selected for both utility and decorative beauty. There are many interesting materials available. It should be remembered that the choice of tile, glass, or other more expensive materials means the bathroom so treated will be permanent.

If it is deemed advisable to be able to change the treatment at intervals, less permanent materials such as wall paper for the walls or inexpensive linoleum for the floor can be selected. Amplifications of all kinds can be obtained through the use of interesting details in doors and windows with lighting, cabinets, mirrors, dressing tables, etc. In the selection of decoration, with the help and advice of your architect, your individuality may have free reign.

Today, when economy is the keynote everywhere, color is a great boon, and its scope limited only by your own imagination. Wall materials, floor materials, linens and other accessories are available in a host of colors which you can assemble as you please. There are some basic rules which serve as a guide, and assure a pleasing, delightful room. This subject, with many suggested harmonies, is discussed in more detail in literature from leading paint manufacturers.

In planning a bathroom, most people prefer white fixtures. But fixtures are again becoming available in a choice of colors to suit any taste.

This variety will not only offer a wide selection but also an opportunity for interesting color effects in your bathroom. With white fixtures of course, any color scheme that suit. the fancy may be used. A little greater care should be exercised when colored fixtures are used. In such a case the fixture should be considered the basic color of the room, and other colors keyed to it.

Good lighting for shaving and putting on make-up is an essential in today's bathroom, and don't forget that a full length door mirror will be a convenience you'll appreciate every day of your life. If at all possible avoid placing the bathroom window over the tub. Not only is it in ar awkward position to open and close, but condensation will tend to make it stick, and the shade and curtains will quickly become limp with moisture.

Guide In Choosing Colors

If you want a guide in choosing colors for a paint job or interior decoration, it's easy to make a color wheel. It will show complimentary colors and also how to mix colors.

Draw a circle. At the point where 12 would appear on a clock, write "Red." At the 4 o'clock point write "Yellow." For 8 o'clock write "Blue".

These are the primary colors. Mixing them produces the secondary colors. Red and yellow make orange, so at the 2 o'clock point write "Orange." Red and blue make purple, which falls at 10 o'clock on this dial. Blue and yellow make green, which is labeled at the 6 o'clock point.

Draw arrows to connect colors which are opposite on the dial: From red to green, blue to orange, purple to yellow. The arrows will show the complimentary colors—hues that are pleasing when used together.

For tertiary colors draw another circle around this wheel and extend only the secondary colors, orange, green and purple to the outer edge. Since mixing orange and green produces "Citron," that label is placed on the outer edge beyond yellow. Green and purple make "Olive," which is written out beyond blue. Purple and orange produce "Russet," at the point above red.

Citron, being a greenish yellow, or yellowish green, embraces the variations commonly known as chartreuse, lime, pistachio, olive yellow and apple green.

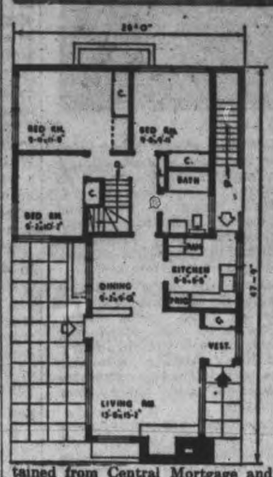
Olive embraces the deep neutral greens often termed evergreens.

Russet, a reddish yellow brown, includes henna and rust.

In mixing paint try small samples first.

Here are some tips on getting other shades:

If You Want This	And Have This	Add This
Brown	Red	Green
Brown	Orange	Blue
Olive	Green	Blue and Red
Dark Blue	Blue	Black
Light Blue	Blue	White
Dark Red	Red	Black
Light Red	Red	Orange
Deep Green	Green	Blue or Black
Light Green	Green	Yellow or White
Dark Yellow	Yellow	Orange
Light Yellow	Yellow	White



This popular bungalow design has many features to attract a prospective house-builder who is interested in modern comfort, sleek lines and luxury touches in a three-bedroom house. It would be suitable in either a suburban setting or a narrow residential lot in the city.

The most interesting points of the living room are the large stone fireplace and the wide expanse of window overlooking the surrounding patio. The dining room and kitchen are well-planned and aimed towards convenience and efficiency in housekeeping.

Bedrooms are all equipped with sufficient closet space and located conveniently near the bathroom. The basement may be reached either directly from the back door, which is adjacent to the kitchen, or from the center of the house.

This comfortable home is 28 feet by 47 feet 9 inches and for estimating purposes has an area of 984 square feet. Cubic contents measure 19,735 cubic feet.

Working drawings for this plan, known as Design 50-14, may be obtained from Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation at a minimum cost.

This two storey house with three bedrooms is most suitable for a family requiring a maximum amount of living space and well separated areas for living and sleeping. Combining interior compactness with a pleasing exterior and simple design, comfort is ensured at moderate cost.

Among the many desirable features of this plan are the generous living room, bright window areas and step-saving kitchen. The large living-dining room has a fireplace, open wall space for interesting furniture arrangement and direct cross ventilation.

The kitchen has two windows over the sink and the large shelf and convenient cupboard space ensure compactness. The side entrance opens on the landing formed by the stairs down to the full basement within easy reach of the kitchen.

The bathroom is easily accessible from all bedrooms. There are three large closets and a linen cupboard.

The area of the first floor is 593 square feet and the total area is 1,184 square feet. Cubic contents are 16,054 cubic feet. Working drawings of this plan, known as Design 50-65, are available from Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation at minimum cost.

Warm Colors Appear To Diminish Size Of Room

When using color for the purpose of home decorating, there are certain general truths and principles that it will be wise to heed under ordinary circumstances, although occasions arise now and then when some special reason warrants our setting them aside.

One of the simplest as well as most useful principles to observe is to avoid putting a predominant quantity of either a cool color or a dull color in a room with a cold or northern exposure, where the light is cold, less intense, and oftentimes less in quantity than in a room with a warm exposure and a warm, glowing light.

The reverse of the principle also deserves equal heed—to avoid using a predominent quantity of a warm or advancing color in a room with a warm exposure. With too much warm color in a warm or southern exposure and an abundance of strong light, the effect is likely to be too intense and oppressive.

Warm colors have a tendency to diminish the apparent size of a room in which they predominate. This is more particularly true of red, or of colors in whose composition the red elements predominates, than it is of yellow, or of colors in whose composition yellow predominates.

Red And Yellow

It is also more especially true of the deeper tones of red and yellow, or of the deeper red and yellow derivatives, than it is of the lighter tones. It is one of the attributes of red that it particularly creates a sense of fullness, richness and warmth.

Yellow, on the other hand, while not deficient in warmth or richness, seems to diffuse and increase light. This strong radiant quality is more noticeable in the lighter tones, so that a small room can often stand a really light yellow without any appreciable loss of apparent size.

"Cool" Colors

Cool colors and the lighter tones of colors that are not too insistently warm in their composition tend to increase the apparent size of a room in which they predominate in quantity.

Although white and black are not to be accounted as truly colors, they nevertheless have great significance in our dealing with color. White in juxtaposition with color heightens its effect and intensifies its brilliance by raising its key. Black, on the other hand, modifies the effect of color and reduces brilliance by lowering the key. White and black are universal harmonizers.

Incidentally, it is worth pointing out that a pure white wall is really white only in the highlights; elsewhere through the many different reflections it picks up, it displays a variety of colors.

In the composition of a color scheme for a room it is necessary to have some one prevailing or predominating color if the composition is to have any coherence or continuity. If there is no prevailing color the composition will lack balance and be like a person of two minds, like a weathervane in a variable wind, or like a ship without a rudder. As a compensation it will get nowhere and will convey only an impression of unconvincing vagueness.

In other words, there must be a color base or foundation on which to build and about which to incorporate the articulate features.

Good Color Combinations

The following list is one you can follow with safety in the selection of good color combinations:

Orchid combines with flesh pink, white, and gray; or pale rose, gold, and ivory.

Dahlia combines with shell pink, gray, and black; or mauve, blue-green, and violet-black.

Persian blue combines with pale rose, gold, and tan; or jonquil-yellow, and sage-green.

Chinese blue combines with gold, black, and vermillion; or gold, gray-green, and black.

Indigo blue combines with yellow, black, and ivory; or gold, porcelain-blue, and white.

Hyacinth blue combines with flesh pink, mauve, and gray; or leaf-green, pale rose, and white.

Wedgewood blue combines with pale yellow, gray, and ivory; or gray, black, and orange.

Salmon combines with powder blue, ivory and black; or ivory, black, and indigo.

When the room is finished in a reflecting color, the atmosphere becomes bright and cheerful, and the additional light relieves the eye-strain caused by poor visability. If a room is insufficiently lighted, the possibility of paint and wallpaper colors as well as other means of illumination should be investigated.

Several colors can increase the volume of light in a room. They also aid materially in dissipating or softening shadows through their reflecting qualities.

There is a wide variation in the effectiveness of wall and ceiling surfaces as light reflectors. Color is the first factor, cleanliness the second, and texture the third.

Evolution Theory

HOW TO LEAVE your summer home and be happy in the knowledge that you will not be bothered by squirrels.

How To Chase the Squirrel From Your Cottage Or Home

When the squirrels move in after he goes back to town he described vacation-time countryman.

Besides enjoying his unwonted hospitality when his summer retreat is empty of humans, the squirrels have a nasty way of chewing up various household items they find handy for nests, and in general make quite a mess.

Some romantics have other ideas, but we regard squirrels as nothing much better than rats with bushy tails—at least when they move indoors.

Since they are more likely to come in upstairs, dropping down from convenient tree branches, this is primarily a second-story problem. Make sure, for instance, that there aren't holes or open spaces under the eaves if there are, seal them with tin. Ventilators should have good sturdy screening. Loose roofing should be nailed down.

If you want to make sure there aren't any squirrels lurking around in the attic—or crawl space under the room—when you leave, smoke 'em out with a sulphur candle, set in a saucer of water as a fire precaution. Close off the attic or crawl space from the rest of the house after you light the candle—and, of course, dn't stay up there yourself.

A final touch is to scatter camphor flakes—the same kind you put in the blanket chest—all along the eaves. Squirrels don't like the smell and if all goes well will stay where they belong, in the trees.

We assume that when this chore is complete, you won't forget to shut off the water, drain all pipes, put kerosene in toilet bowls if water's still standing in them, and have gas, electricity and telephone shut off if you do your summer camping in city style. More primitive summer cottagers will want to remember not to leave any stove and lamp fuel around and to wipe the kitchen range with oil against winter rust.

Don't trust to ordinary locks. Nail the windows shut, or better still, put up board shutters, fastened from the inside. Fasten all doors from the inside, too, except the one you leave by.

Now, on your way home in your overloaded car, stop off at the local police office and tell them your cottage is closed for the winter. Leave them a key to that one door you went out, and tell them how to get in touch with you if anything happens, such as storm damage, fire, or marauders.

If you've planned on it in advance, you might even put up a no trespasing sign with the added warning that the property is patrolled by police. Then you can relax for the winter and dream about another vacation at the cottage, replete with weekend guests.

Placing Bathroom In House Reasonably Close to Kitchen

Bathroom planning can be a lot of fun if you will assemble your information and do your thinking in logical order around these four main points: 1, Location and size of bathroom; 2, Choice of fixtures; 3, Arrangement of fixtures, and layout of the room; 4, Wall and floor materials.

First, about the location of the bathroom, you will want to keep in mind the fact that there are economical and uneconomical locations for bathrooms. That's another reason why it is well to plan your plumbing carefully even before the plans for your house reach the blueprint stage. Get competent advice. A slight shift in the location might result in substantial saving in piping costs.

Close To Kitchen

For instance, if you can bring your bathroom reasonably close to the kitchen, it may be possible to have the bathroom fixtures connected with the same branch supply lines that serve the kitchen sink. Similarly there may be some economy in waste piping. If the same stack can be used, the saving may amount to as much as $50 to $75.

If you are having two bathrooms the most economical location is back to back. With such an arrangement there is a decided saving in piping and labor.

On the other hand, the most economical location for your bathroom may not be the most convenient. After all, you are building the house for livability and convenience.

How large will your bathroom be? While it is possible to crowd all three bathroom fixtures into a space five feet square, this is the minimum size. Furthermore, it is not a convenient size. It is far better to have a batrroom, say, six by eight feet or better still eight by seven feet.

Consider Size

A larger bathroom is much more serviceable. You should keep in mind the fact that two people may ocasionally find it necessary to be in the bathroom at the same time. A small crowded bathroom is particularly inconvenient for older people. Therefore, think about the size of your bathroom before your architect makes the final plans for the house. Indeed, you will find a bathroom large enough to accommodate a linen cabinet very serviceable.

You should know the approximate size of your bathroom before you select your fixtures. Fixtures vary in size. In a larger bathrom, for instance, you will have room for a lavatory size 27 x 22 inches. If the bathroom is smaler you may have to use a smaller lavatory as for instance 24 x 21 inches. By the way, when your plumber mentions lavatory sizes ,the size he gives first is the width of the lavatory along the wall. The last figure is the depth of the fixture front to back.

Select With Care Materials That Go Into Plumbing

It's safe to say that the kitchen and bathroom in your new or remodelled house will be the last word in gleaming smartness. That is as it should be—but what about the plumbing behind those smart new fixtures.

Real efficiency does not stop at the fixtures and their arrangement. The hidden piping and fittings must be properly designed and well made of non-corrosive materials. For haven't most of us, at one time or another, been surprised to find in some otherwise artistically impressive kitchen the imprint of rusty water; and probably you have detected on towels or fixtures other evidences of rusty water in an otherwise irreproachable bathroom. And perhaps, it even has been necessary to postpone dish-washing, laundering or a bath until cold water could be heated on the range, simply because the water as it came from the hot water tap was brown with rust—too dirty for either china, clothes or complexion! So, obviously, in view of such inconvenience is merely a matter of perfection of appearance and arrangement.

Then isn't it good logic to have a plumbing installation of non-corrosive pipe that will provide freedom from rusty water and its attendant replacements and repairs? There can be this freedom if the piping system is of non-corrosive brass or copper and the hot-water storage tank also is of rust-proof material.

Small Extra Cost

And the cost? While the initial cost is somewhat higher, you must remember that what your money is buying is not simply equipment, but service, based on the number of years that equipment will give you without additional cost of repairs. Modern design has necessitated piping systems being less accessible; and that points to the importance of selecting materials which, once installed, willb be trouble-proof, and not requiring replacements in the walls, with accompanying expensive redecorating.

Apart from that, much of the initial cost of any plumbing system goes for labour; and labour cost is high, whether permament or non-permanent materials are used—another good argument in favour of rustless equipment! Copper tubing is so pliable that it can be installed easily and quickly, thus actually tending to lessen expenditures on labour.

Soldered Fittings

The soldered fittings used with copper tubing have been so designed that the tube telescopes into the fitting, forming a double wall of additional strength at the joint. Solder is applied by the use of the law of capillary attraction, and the joint is made with a very thin layer of solder, which becomes the strongest part of the line. The cuttings are so carefully machined and held to such close tolerance that the distance between the inner wall of the fitting and the outer wall of the tube remains constantly at a capillary distance. This capillary distance has been carefully worked out by all the manufacturers so that the solder can be inserted at the bottom of the fitting Gravity plays no part whatsoever in the making of this joint, and just as perfect a joint will result as though the solder were fed from the top.

Soldered Joints Stand Strain

There are many advantages in a properly made solder or brazed joint. Soldered joints are considered the best by a number of industries involving refrigeration and air-conditioning where a break would have such serious consequences. It has also been adopted for use in the construction of naval cruisers, because it will withstand the shock and vibration of the firing of broadsides without leaking. A further example of the durability and dependability of solder joints is the fact that it is the only type of rigid joint that will withstand the vibration of airplanes.

Equally important to piping is a sound, rust-free hot-water storage tank. Add to this copper heating coils in the hot-water heater, with brass fittings and copper pipe and you have an unbeatable combination for trouble-free service.

Long Life Bronze Screening

Today, when a home or cottage is to be screened, the wise owner is on the lookout for equipment that provides long and satisfactory wear, with the very minimum of expense for maintenance. Bronze screening, by reason of its rustlessness practically obviates future expenditure—barring some unusual accident; hence the slightly higher initial cost over ordinary rustable screening is soon absorbed.

Rusting and broken window and door screens cause more than their share of nuisance, for screen wire is necessarily light and unless made of strong, rust-proof material, soon rusts and breaks when exposed to the weather. Besides the advantage of durability, the beautiful gold colour of bronze screening adds much to the appearance of any house. This golden colour gradually changes to a soft neutral shade over a period of years.

Repairman About the House Is Handy Person To Be About

Q—How do I go about finishing raw knotty pine with white paint? I don't know what the finish is called, but you wipe off the paint. —Mrs. JF.

A—The finish you describe is called "antiquing." Prepare the new wood with two applications of commercial bleach, then apply one coat of gray glaze stain Rub with No. 00 sandpaper when dry. Then apply a fluid paste of pure white lead, diluted with linsed oil, with a soft rag. Allow to dry overnight. Surface with white shellac or with one coat of shellac as an undercoat for varnish.

Q—My metal venetian blinds have become badly stained from rain. Is there any way to clean them without scouring each slat or taking them apart for refinishing?—WR.

A—Try taking the whole blind down and soaking it in the bathtub in rich laundry suds. If the tapes are white, use some bleach in the water. After soaking, swish the blind to get the dirt off, then rinse thoroughly. Rehang, and be sure to tie the blind down to sill level until the tapes are dry to prevent shrinkage.

Q—How do I get the lining and linoleum off the kitchen floor to put down new linoleum? Should I put down lining again? — Mrs. EGFS.

A—Pry a corner of the old linoleum loose, and pull it up. It should come up in fairly big strips. Soften the lining with hot water and a good detergent, then pull it up the same way. You may have to scrape some stubborn spots of the lining, then mop up the remaining glue. By all means use lining felt under the new flooring.

Q—The house I just bought has a marble mantle around the fireplace, and I've bought a marble-top table to match it. How can I keep the marble clean?—GD.

A—If you can buy marble dust use it just the way you'd use scouring powder. Otherwise use a paste made of white soap and whiting, then rinse and wipe dry.

Q—What sort of concrete mixture should I use to make a base for back yard clothespoles?—JT

A—You can make your own mix using one part cement and 2¼ parts sand, 3 parts gravel and 5 parts clean water. However, unless you are putting in a lot of bases, it would be smarter to get ready-mixed cement at your hardware store. Get either gravel-and-sand type or patching mortar, adding water according to directions on the package.

Q—Can I paint a blue-green cloth window shade to match the ecru color of the rest of my shades?—I. C. K.

A—The flexible type paints made for renovating awnings ought to do the trick if thinned out somewhat. The biggest problem may be in exactly matching the color of the other shades.

Q—One of my favorite china dishes, I discover, has a fine hair-line crack in it. The crack isn't big enough to use any kind of glue or cement. Is there any way I can fix it?—A. A.

A—You can work a little household magic by putting the dish in a pan and covering it completely with milk. Then boil the whole thing for 45 minutes. You'll probably never be able to find where the crack was. Makes the dish stronger, too.

Q—Is there any way to mend or improve the looks of chipped white enamel? Mrs. A. M. R.

A—You can fill in the chipped spots with the same sort of compound auto repairmen use to fill in deep scratches before they repaint a car. After it's dry, use a good white enamel, building up layer by layer to the level of the original porcelain enamel finish. A spray is the best method. Unfortunately it will turn yellowish in time, and you'll have to sand and spray again.

Q—When I wash my black-and-white rubber tile kitchen floor the two colors wash into each other. Even when I wax it, the color runs off. Would you advise me to use shellac on the floor?

A—Shellac won't help you, because rubber tile is so dense that shellac cannot penetrate to make a bond. The color undoubtedly is running because you are using too strong a soap with lye in it. Rubber tile should be washed with very mild suds and wiped dry. Then wax thoroughly with a pure natural wax—not one of the fancy kinds that contains solvents and other ingredients. This is the way hospitals and other big buildings treat rubber tile floors, and thorough polishing keeps them from being too slick for safety.

Q—What's the safest way to hang a swing on a tree for the children?—Mrs. AR.

A—Pick a branch that will bear more than the heaviest weight you expect to use on the swing. Tree experts advise screwing hooks into the underside of the branch, rather than merely trying the swing ropes around the branch, since the swinging motion causes the ropes to cut into the wood and eventually kill the branch. Excessive swaying of the branch can be avoided by running wire reinforcements from the branch to the upper part of the main trunk.

Q—I'm building a new house and would like to know how to go about termite-proofing.—F. W.

A—Architectural engineers recommend a non-corrosive metal shield inserted between the sills and the foundation. It should extend two inches beyond the foundation wall and be bent down at a 45-degree angle.

Q—My youngster is in and out of the house a million times a day —and each time he lets the screen door slam. How can I stop this nerve-wracking noise?

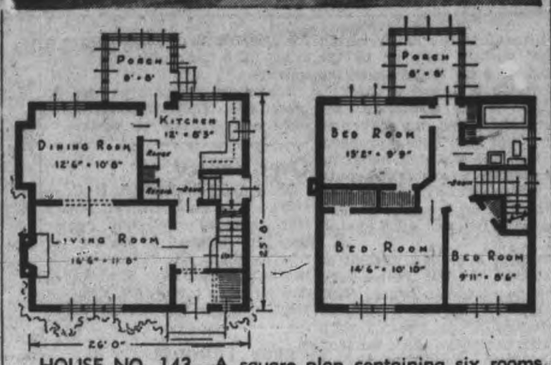
A—The best way is to have a regular door check on your screen door. But if you can't have that, try tacking three small square pieces of felt or rubber to the main door frame where the door hits it—one near the top, another at the bottom and one in between.

Q—I have a lot of trouble with dampness and mildew in my clothes closets, particularly in summer and fall. How can I prevent it? B. S.

A—You can buy moisture-absorbing compounds in hardware stores which do a good job of removing dampness. If you have an electric outlet in or near your closet, a medium wattage light bulb, protected so it will not come in contact with clothing and left burning all the time, will do the trick effectively.

Q—How can I keep my new aluminum screen and storm door bright and shiny? I'm afraid damp salt air in my neighborhood will spoil the looks.—W. M.

A—After you clean the door with a detergent and rinse and dry it, apply transparent lacquer. You may be able to obtain this in pressurized spray form. Or you can use several coats of clear spar varnish.



HOUSE NO. 143—A square plan containing six rooms and two closed-in porches. Both the living room and dining room are attractive. Direct access from kitchen to front door is commendable as is the convenience of the bathroom at the head of the stairs. The triangular bedroom closet, however, should be avoided, whenever possible. The house is owner-designed, and contains about 20,300 cubic feet without porches. The clapboards of the exterior walls give way to white painted brick on the lower portion of the facade. Shutters and roof are painted medium blue. For building plans write Home Building in Canada, 372 Bay St., Toronto.

Place Windows In Bedroom To Give Cross Ventilation

In planning for the bedroom, the following suggestions might be followed

Windows should be located to afford good natural light and cross ventilation. Do not place them where they will ruin areas needed for furniture or to cause down drafts and strong blasts across the beds.

Wall areas: Wall areas should be large enough to accommodate bed or beds, dresser, chest of drawers, dressing table and mirrors.

Doors: The doors should be located to open back against the walls and not to bang into beds, furniture or other doors.

Floor area: The floor area should be great enough to accommodate the furniture and provide space for making beds. There should also be space for dressing convenient to the clothes closets, chest, dresser and dressing table. Space for chairs and special furniture such as a desk, easy chair, etc., will sometimes be required.

Heating units and electrical outlets: These items should be accessible and not behind furniture.

Bath: The bath should be located convenient to bedroom. If possible, traffic from bedroom to bath should not pass the stairway and certainly not through another bedroom.

Light Switch: To avoid accidents at night, the hall light switch should be located convenient to the bedroom door. Many home accidents are caused because of falls down stairs because of inadequate light in the hall.

Bedrooms: Storage should be provided for winter and summer clothes, books, radio, etc.

Children's bedrooms: Provide clothes storage with movable shelves and hooks arranged in heights to suit the child's age so that the child can be taught to put away his own clothes. Storage for toys, hobby equipment, sports equipment and books should be provided.

General: General storage should be provided for blankets and bed clothes, towels, extra pillows, sick room equipment and bath room cleaning equipment in an area adjacent to the bedrooms.

Wallpaper Selection

There are no unbreakable rules in wall decoration. Skilled decorators will often put cool backgrounds in north rooms, warm backgrounds in south rooms and dark backgrounds in shaded rooms. But they are cleverly achieving unusual effects. However, it is not wise for the amateur home decorator to break rules. Professionals do it well. The amateur may do it badly.

But don't confuse habit with rules. You have heard a good deal about using small patterns in small rooms, large patterns in large rooms, stripes in low-ceilinged rooms, plain tones to make rooms appear larger, light ceiling tones to make ceilings look higher, and many other trite statements about wall decoration. How closely should they be followed?

Exceptions To Every Rule

Obviousy if you have a small room, a small pattern will scale well with its proportions. A tiny woman would hardly choose great floral patterns for the majority of her dress meterials. But she may want a large scale print dress as a dashing extra for certain occasions.

So it is with room interiors. Your breakfast room may be small. It may also be in good proportion and have a plain carpet or linoleum floor plus simple all-wood furniture. You would like to make it a gay room. Therefore it is perfectly logical to choose a fairly large floral paper with plenty of open background and hang it on the ceiling as well as the walls.

The same treatment can be applied to bathrooms, though not every design adapts itself to such use. The pattern should not have any set line of direction; this is why spot florals, all-over florals, leaves, plaids or set designs are good choices.

Powder rooms are excellent spots in which to use over-scaled designs. Large coat closets, small sewing rooms, writing rooms, rooms that have limited uses all fall into this category.

Conversely there are large rooms where large patterns should not be used. Imagine a big bedroom with very broken wall spaces—doors, windows, a fireplace and chimney breast. If we attempted to use a large scaled design, the pattern would be constantly interrupted. It would be better to use a small pattern which would adapt itself to the size of the wall spaces.

Here is a simple rule: If a majority of the walls provide an opportunity to hang four or five breadths of paper without interruption, you can safely use a large design. If not, it is safer to use a small scaled design that will create an over-all effect.

Six Feet Kitchen Shelves For Every Member Of Family

No matter how well your kitchen is planned—whether you have an "L", a "U" or a corridor type plan—it must include plenty of well-designed storage space in each work area. Storage must be planned at each centre so that everything is within easy reach; only similar things stacked and behind each other.

One guide for figuring the total amount of upper cabinet space needed is to allow 6' of shelf for each member of the family plus 12' for extras. Well planned base cabinet storage under this amount of upper cabinet will usually be enough. Base sections can be made (or purchased) with door sections or drawer units containing from four to six drawers.

If your cabinets are to be of wood, you may have them built by a carpenter, buy them ready-made or have them custom made. Built-in or custom-built cabinets have the advantage of being more readily adapted to a kitchen plan. All types warrant considerable care in installation so that they will fit snugly and work precisely.

Correct Heights Important

If you decide to build your cabinets, you can plan special arrangements, sizes and heights. The average overall heigth is 7'; the toe space 3" x 4". The height of the base cabinet may vary from 32" to 38"; the depth from 22"; the distance beween the base and wall cabinets 14" to 16"; the depth of the upper cabinet 11" to 12", the height 30" to 36".

Cabinets should be planned for desirable divisions of space and convenient door arrangement. Width of doors for desirable divisions of space and convenient door arrangement. Width of doors in the upper section may be 10 to 14 inches; in the lower sections, 12 to 16 inches. Wide doors, especially in the upper cabinet, interfere with the worker. Plan the swing of the doors to give the most satisfactory working arrangement. Whenever possible, avoid doors swinging in front of windows or over the sink. Flush-type plywood doors are easily made, painted and cleaned. Plywood not less than ⅝" thick should be used—if thinner, the doors may warp.

The small cabinet "up high" next to the ceiling makes for inconvenient storage. Often this space may be eliminated without loss of important storage provided other space has been carefully planned. Instead of building cabinets, this upper section may be closed off with lath and plaster, or ¼" to ⅜" plywood.

Adjustable Shelves Desirable

Shelves in the upper cabinets should be made adjustable—to be moved up and down at will. This is most easily done by using metal stripping. Adding narrow shelves (half shelves) between standard shelves increases storage for utensils and supplies. When planning shelf space, allow 1 to 3 inches between articles and shelf above to allow free movement of hands when placing or removing articles. You may also wish to allow a little extra space for utensils and dishes you plan to buy later.

Pull-out shelves may improve the use of the storage space in the lower cabinet and will make items more accessible. If these shelves are not as deep as the cabinet, there will be space for rods, racks or hooks on the door.

A strip at the back of the wooden shelf will keep utensils or supplies from falling off, and can act as a stop for the shelf when pulled out. If wooden shelves are covered with linoleum, it will protect them from metal marks. Pull-out wire shelves are sometime preferred in utensil cabinets as they are not marred by metal and do not collect dust.

Drawer space should be planned just the right size and depth to hold desired items—for silver, cutlery and similar articles plan shallow drawers 2 to 3 inches deep. Drawers, rather than bins, usually make better use of space for flour, sugar or heavy utensils and for easier handling, should be mounted on ball-bearing extension drawer slides.

Use Only Quality Hardware

Whether your cabinets are custom made or built at home, always use the best quality hardware available. Doors should be equipped with strong hinges and simple, attractive pulls, comfortable for the hand and easily reached and grasped. Place pulls near the bottom on the doors of the upper cabinets, and near the top on the doors of the lower cabinets.

Geese Laying "Golden Eggs"

OAKANAGAN FALLS, BC,—(CP)—Geese are laying "golden eggs' for one fruit farmer near here.

Charles Oliver, who has a 150-acre stone fruit farm near here tried 200 head of geese this year as controllers of orchard weeds and grass, and as revenue getters.

So far the experiment has been successful. Maurice King, ranch manager for Oliver, says the geese have been so successful that next year they plan to get 2,000 head and another 2,000 the following year.

The geese have a habit of camping at the edge of a pear orchard at night, King says, the three rows of trees effected looks like a different variety, with greener, larger and thicker foliage than their neighbors.

The fruit also "sized" much better, he said.

"This pear patch is what really sold Mr. Oliver," King said recently," it showed in a short time the kind of results we might expect over the whole property on a long-term basis."

He said there would be no trouble in selling the geese. Goslings eight to 12-weeks old are as much a delicacy as roast ducklings.

Summer Frostbite

LONDON (CP)—Authorities are investigating complaints that children are suffering "frostbite" in summer. A medical officer says children have complained of blistered mouths after eating iced confections stored at too low a temperature.

MOST OF THE TIME it is nothing more than a worn-out washer that is causing the trouble.

Costly And Annoying Leaks Very Often Easily Repaired

Little things can add up to a major nuisance. The drip, drip, drip of leaky plumbing, for instance, not only raises hob with your attempts to count sheep at night, but produces a nasty shock when the bill comes in from the water department.

That slow dripping sound generally indicates the sort of leak you can fix yourself. Most of the time it's nothing more than a worn-out washer. Since washers take a beating every time you turn the water on and off, they're bound to wear out from time to time, and pretty soon you'll get in the habit of keeping a supply of various sizes in your tool kit.

It may sound superfluous, but remember to turn off the water leading to a fixture before you start your repair job. Nearly all plumbing installations of recent vintage have shut-off valves on the pipes below the faucets; if yours doesn't, shut off the main water supply.

Then wrap a cloth around the faucet cap, loosen it with a wrench, and unscrew the faucet stem. At the bottom of this you'll find the screw that holds the washer in place. A screwdriver takes care of this phase of the operation, and after you've replaced the worn washer with a new one of exactly the same size, you just reverse the whole process.

If this doesn't stop the leak, it may be because you've let it drip too long and damaged the valve seat, which is down inside the faucet, with the worn-out washer. You'll need a gadget called a valve-seat reamer, which your harware man carries, to ream things out so that the washer makes a snug fit again.

If the leak isn't a drip from the end of the faucet, but a sort of welling up through the cap, remove the cap nut and replace the packing washers.

Sometimes you'll find the faucets leak where they're attached to the supply pipe. For some reason this happens most often with faucets for hose connections outside the house or in the garage. Cotton string wound tightly around the connecting threads and daubed with a plumbers compound will do the trick nicely.

Flush tanks on toilets that never seem to stop running usually have something wrong with the flush ball, which drops down and stops water from running out of tank, or with the float ball, which shuts off the water when the tank is full.

If it's the flush ball, it's probably worn out like a faucet washer, and needs replacing. If the float ball is at fault, bending the float rod slightly so the water stops coming in before it reaches the top of the overflow tube ought to do the trick. Sometimes the float ball springs a leak and since it no longer floats, needs replacing, too.

When a length of pipe springs a leak, the best permanent repair is to shut off the water leading to that pipe and call your plumber, since most homeowners don't keep pipe, cutting tools and threading machines around the house.

Plumbers can't always turn up the minute you want them, however. One emergency repair most homeowners can accomplish with materials at hand is to tightly wrap a thick layer of rubber tape around the leak. Or you can cut out the leaking section and replace it with a length of rubber hose fastened to the ends of the rest of the pipe with hose clamps. By the time you've fiddled around with this, though, chances are the plumber will have turned up.

Find More Home Comfort With Temperature Control

Temperature control and avoidance of excessive moisture in a house can pay real dividends in greater home comfort and economy.

A certain amount of moisture is important in preventing furniture from disintegrating, in protecting nasal membranes and in maintaining general health. However, it is beneficial only so long as controlled within recommended limits. Beyond that point it may endanger health and the soundness of a building.

In winter moisture normally moves from indoors to outdoors. Cold air holds less moisture than warm air. Excessive vapor indoors, coming into contact with a cold surface, liquifies and forms beads of moisture on the cold surface—the same as you see when summer air strikes a pitcher of ice water.

Surprising Pressure

The pressure of this passage of moisture is surprising. Most building materials offer little resistance. Wallpaper, plaster and wood are easily penetrated. Only window glass and certain paints, enamels and varnishes offer resistance.

The result is when this vapor laden air touches the cold sheathing, building paper and siding that cover the outside of your house, it condenses and runs down in pools to rot structural lumber.

Best Protection

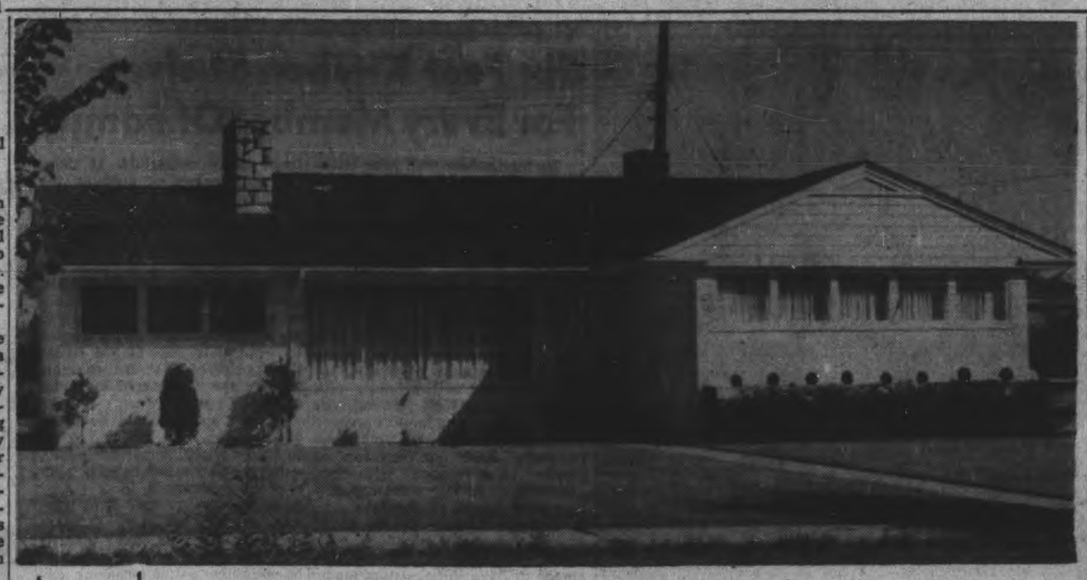
The most effective protection against that hazard is for the householder to exercise special care in heating a house and to guard against excessive moisture. This can be far more practicable than attempting to install a perfect vapor barrier.

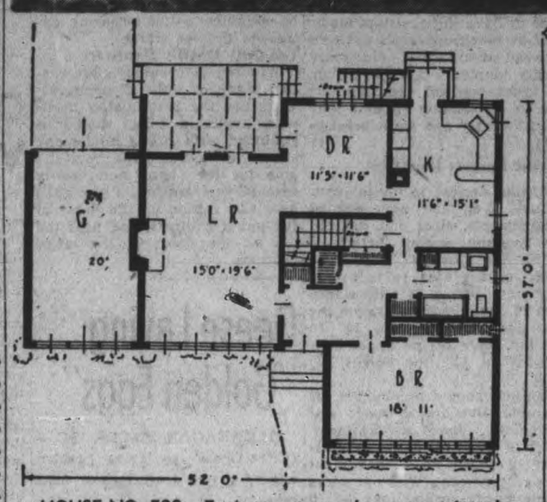
In order to prevent moisture from passing through a wall, a vapor barrier should be completely air tight. If merely loosely nailed between joists, such a barrier will leave air passages along its edges and at seams, thereby decreasing its efficiency. However it serves a real purpose as a surface on the indoor side of insulating batts by keeping such insulation dry. Moisture destroys insulating value as you can see if you take hold of a hot pan handle with a wet dish cloth.

On the other hand, control of indoor humidity and proper ventilation can do much toward stopping moisture problems at their source. The idea of humidifying the air in homes until moisture runs down windows has been abused to a point where one of the largest manufacturers of heating equipment, is including humidifiers in installations only after they have been proved necessary.

SMALL PLANET

The planet Mars has a diameter of 4,230 miles, or only about half that of the earth.





HOUSE NO. 522—Facing west on a busy street in suburban Vancouver, B.C., is this sparkling white house with its weathered shake roof. The ground floor plan is particularly interesting, providing four bright rooms and a patio, which is accessible from both living room and dining room. Ample space is allotted for closets throughout. Don't let the one bedroom fool you! The basement contains a bedroom, wash room with shower, kitchenette, and a den with fireplace. House is heated by an oil-fired air conditioning system. For working drawings write Home Building in Canada, 372 Bay St., Toronto.

Something To Look For When House Being Built

Very few persons, no matter how good at odd jobs they are, ever undertake to build their own homes. The majority of us, sensibly, concentrate on making the money to pay to have the building tasks done by efficient workmen, skilled at their own particular profession.

But, though we don't expect to pitch-in and do the actual work ourselves, we can see to it that the job is done properly. A good builder, and you most certainly pick a good builder to put up your future home, will never mind showing you around the site, pointing out what has been done and the type and grade of materials that have been used.

Many times, however, you'll likely wander round the new house in the evenings, when all the workmen have gone for the day. So what do you look for to make sure that your home is going to be in as good a condition in 10, 15 or 20 years as it was at the day of completion.

First there is the site selection, and this should be done before any house plans are decided upon; it may affect them considerably. A lot on low ground may be wet and hard to drain. It may need expensive fill, or if filled, might contain clay and sand which could be a poor base for a foundation.

Use Slope

On a sloping lot, take advantage of the slope. Porches and terraces may require expensive fill if not properly located. So select the lot to suit the type of house you have in mind, or change the plans to fit the lot available.

If purchasing a house already constructed, make sure that it conforms to the ideas above. But, if you are selecting a lot, then do plan the ground before the first shovel full of dirt is turned.

Foundation walls should be of first grade materials. They should be strong enough to withstand the combined attack of weight and of frost. Unless the home is built on solid rock, foundation walls should rest on footings, concrete pads which form bearing surface against the soil and help prevent settlement. To resist the passage of water the foundation walls should be properly waterproofed.

Need Good Lumber

In the actual building, the framing lumber should be sound and well dried to minimize shrinking, warping and twisting. To avoid weak structural points, binding of doors and windows and passage of wind and rain, all joints must be sound and doors and windows properly framed. Lumber should be correctly sized to provide adequate support for all loads.

Flooring lumber should be well dried and properly laid to prevent excessive expansion and contraction. Good nailing eliminates squeaks.

Adequate footings to support the chimney superstructure are essential. Suitable flue lining and masonry are required as protection against fire and the passage of gas fumes inside. Because of the fire hazard chimneys must not come in contact with the wood framing.

To get the best results use good materials on the roof. See that shingles are laid properly and nailed adequately. Flashing should be provided around all the projections through the room.

For interior work and finish, use the best quality lumber to resist wear and tear. Vapor barriers on the interior face of exterior walls are required to prevent shrinkage which results from wind and rain. The application of good sheathing will add to the structural strength. A suitable moisture barrier should be used to prevent rain or water from getting into the walls. And, finally, a suitable outside finish should be provided to resist the elements and to provide a pleasing appearance.

Bathroom Must Be Planned Long Before House Finished

A bathroom that sings with color won't hit the right note unless time is taken in planning and decorating it.

Other rooms may be painted, papered and furnished after the carpenters move out and the family is ready to move in. But the bathroom must be planned and its fixtures chosen months before a house is ready.

Many a hopeful home owner gets a shock when the contractor finishing the foundation, asks:

"Have you selected your bathroom tile and fixtures?"

You probably thought there was plenty of time for that, but he replies that it takes weeks and sometimes months to obtain certain colors.

You'd better get going.

Give Some Help

If you have your own architect, he will help make bathroom color selections. Your tile and plumbing contractors will refer you to their respective manufacturers' showrooms. Some makers of clay tile co-operate with manufacturers of plumbing fixtures in matching colors exactly. As soon as you decide on the shades desired, see that the sub-contractor places his order immediately so you will have the fixtures when needed.

If you are having a house built in a development, you ordinarily will have a choice of tile colors, provided you have ordered well in advance.

Colors cost very little more than white in clay tile. Colored plumbing fixtures may run 10 to 25 per cent more than white. But white fixtures work well with all colors.

Usually blended colors wear better than contrasting hues. Coral fixtures, for example, look well with grey tile wainscots and floors. Choice is entirely in accordance with individual tastes.

In one new house a small bathroom off a blue bedroom was finished in coral pink fixtures and tile with no contrasting trim. A second bath, serving two other bedrooms was finished in a Persian brown, or buff color for fixtures and tile, with a cocoa brown trim. Both sound nice, but the housewife says the only mistake in the house was the brown trim. She would prefer the monotone. Such details must be decided before tile is set.

Need Harmony

Usually it is safer to choose such accessories as towel bars, toothbrush holders and bathtub grab bars in the same color as the wall tiles. If they contrast too sharply they stand out like proverbial sore thumbs.

It is economical in the long run to tile as much of a bathroom as possible. Paint and wallpaper over a tub are easily marred or blistered by steam. With a combination tub-shower it is wise to tile the wall to the height of the shower curtain bar, or to the ceiling. In some homes, even the ceiling over a shower is tiled.

When having a bathtub installed, insist that the carpenter brace studs and joists properly and have the plumber hang the tub on angle irons from the studs. This will go a long way in preventing the loosening of cement in the joint between tub and wall tile.

However, a certain amount of settlement of the house and shrinkage of the bathroom floor is inevitable and not a fault of installation. When it occurs, get a caulking compound made for such repairs from your tile dealer or hardware store. An easy way to squeeze this into the joint is to use a cake decorator.

To Clean Tiles

Clay tile colors are permanent but dirt films will dull their appearance. The best way to clean tile is to apply a solution of warm water and any first grade liquid or chemical cleaning solvent that is not strongly acid or alkali. Allow this to remain for several minutes and then rinse the tile with warm water.

Don't use soap or soap powders for cleaning tile. It will leave a sticky film that will collect dirt quickly.

Never use abrasive powder on glazed tile. They will scratch the glaze and damage the surface.

TULIP PLANTING TIME is here again . . . once again it is time to think of your spring-time garden . . . and HOW TO PLANT THIS FALL for the best results with your tulips. TULIPS SHOULD BE PLANTED BEFORE FROST hardens the ground . . . planting time usually extends to the middle of November, but in warmer climates planting should be delayed until Thanksgiving or even later. TULIPS LIKE A PLACE IN THE SUN in a rich, loamy well-drained soil . . . some prepared compost should be dug in deeply . . . manure should never be in contact with the bulbs. Best method of planting is to take out the top five inches of soil and set it aside . . . dig compost into the area below to a depth of six to eight inches . . . level surface with a rake after sprinkling bone meal or superphosphate . . . set bulbs on this surface FROM FIVE TO SIX INCHES APART and cover with top soil that was originally removed . . . In many regions TULIPS NEED NO FURTHER PROTECTION DURING WINTER . . . but if a MULCH IS CONSIDERED NECESSARY it should be withheld until the surface soil is frozen solid . . . DENTAL HEALTH WEEK

OCTOBER 1st - 6th

Good Teeth mean Good Health and Good Looks

The Dental Public Health Committee of Peterborough and District takes this opportunity to invite all citizens to participate in our educational program. We solicit your whole-hearted assistance in promoting the fundamental knowledge leading to the reduction and prevention of dental decay, as well as the most effective methods of oral hygiene. We ask you to join with us in the work of building a healthier generation of tomorrow.

Ralph Honey
CHAIRMAN.

why each one of us should take care of his or her teeth

1. Dental decay is the most prevalent of all diseases of mankind, and the greatest single destroyer of teeth under the age of 30.
2. After age 35 more people lose their teeth from diseases of the gums than from dental decay. This means they have a different kind of dental problem.
3. Diseases of the gums and bone tissues which are the principle cause of tooth loss later in life, often have their beginning in childhood.
4. Decayed teeth, abscesses and other dental infections are thought to be the direct or indirect cause of many of the ills, responsible for millions of days lost from work, each year from illness.
5. Problem of protecting and improving the dental health cannot be solved by dentists alone. Help of the parents and the family is needed.
6. Sweets and other sugared foods are attacked by germs in the mouth. The acids formed by this action are a vital factor in producing decay. Cutting down on sweets and soft drinks helps reduce decay. A child has a good start toward dental health when he learns to brush his teeth early. Prompt brushing after eating is recommended.

how each one of us can help to control Dental Decay

1. Proper diet is most important. Milk, fruits, vegetables, whole grain cereals, meat, cheese and eggs help form good teeth.
2. Avoid sugar and sweets, especially between meals. Tooth decay is caused by acids produced by bacteria feeding on sugar in the mouth.
3. In brushing teeth it's "when" that counts. Always use your tooth brush or rinse your mouth within ten minutes after eating. A good rule is — Wash your hands and face before you eat and brush your teeth right after.
4. See your Dentist every six months from the age of three. Tooth decay starts early. Catch it, and check it early.

The Reason for DENTAL HEALTH CARE

What next! We have heard of "Apple Week," "Clean-Up Week," "Home Town Week," "Mother's Day," "Father's Day," etc., etc. These special events do not just happen. Some individual or group of individuals have planned them for some purpose. We do not pretend to understand all the "whys" and "wherefors" behind the planning of some special event, but we do know the objective behind the planning of Dental Health Week.

Fact No. 1—It is NOT commercial.

Fact No. 2—The need is NOT based on theory but on FACT.

Fact No. 3—Health is definitely an aid to Happiness.

Fact No. 4—Dental Health plays an important part in General Health.

Fact No. 5—The individuals responsible for this program are Honest, Intelligent and Industrious.

Fact No. 6—They are "good citizens."

For these and other equally good reasons the Members of the Ontario Dental Association wish for Dental Health Week all the success it so richly deserves. And we bespeak your co-operation in making for a healthier, happier people. "Our children require and are deserving of the best. Let us make sure they get it."

Speaker of the evening was the Rev. Zufelt, who gave an illustrated talk on "Lilies False and True." He showed many beautiful pictures of the various specimens of true and false lilies. A true lily, he said, had three characteristics that distinguished it from the false. It had leaves growing up the stem, scaley bulbs and six segments in the blooms. Many so-called lilies were not true lilies.

Truman Expresses Willingness To Support Canada's Plan

By JAMES C. MUNN.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 (AP)—President Truman's willingness to support Canada's proposal to build the St. Lawrence seaway—if it cannot be constructed as a joint United States-Canadian project — drew mixed Congressional reaction today.

Senator George Aiken (Rep.-Vt.), an ardent seaway supporter during the many years it has been before Congress, said tersely:

"It's a disgrace for the United States to force Canada to do this for her own protection. We ought to be ashamed of ourselves."

Truman's position was disclosed Friday in a joint statement after a conference in which Prime Minister St. Laurent outlined Canada's plan to proceed along with the estimated $700,000,000 development.

The White House announcement, however, emphasized that Truman preferred joint construction as provided for in a 1941 agreement.

"But," the joint statement said, "he (the President) stated he would support Canadian action as second best if an early commencement on the joint development does not prove possible."

Showing Judgment

The dual undertaking has already been rejected during this Congress by the House of Representatives public works committee. The Senate foreign relations committee has yet to take any action on similar legislation introduced months ago.

Representative Tom Picket (Dem.-Tex.), an opponent of the project, said of Truman's acceptance:

"He's finally showing a little judgment."

He suggested that Canada give the President "a little more time to see if he can't get Congress to act favorably." He said he thought the chances of Congressional approval now are "excellent."

(In Quebec, where he flew from the Washington conference to confer with Premier Maurice Duplessis, St. Laurent said the seaway project will be carried out but, he said, the manner of procedure remains to be settled.

Golds Prominent Once More On Stock Market

By DICK BAIDEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Golds climbed to prominence on the Toronto Stock Exchange again this week as reports from Washington hinted the International Monetary Fund might change its position on "free market" trading.

Although this week's gold flurry was considerably calmer than the hectic session six weeks ago when Canada said she would seek a better deal at the Washington meeting, most observers agreed that it represented a more sober appraisal of the situation.

Friday's announcement that the fund had dropped all restrictions on the sale of gold came too late to affect the market. Mine representatives, market traders and investors, however, interpreted the news as placing the problem squarely in the lap of the federal government.

The situation would not be materially changed, they said, if Canada continued to control sales. Also, if all output went to a free market, the government might drop its subsidy to marginal producers. They predicted a drop in the current free market price—$40 to $45 in United States funds—if Canada should flood the market by releasing its reserves—purchased at the former fund price of $35.

Best Markets

Best markets for gold would be countries whose currency tends to be unstable. European nations, Egypt and India were cited as good possibilities.

Most forecasters thought the final price would settle at about $40. Most operators, however, doubted that the would have a sufficient margin of profit with this rise.

Industrials made little headway this week as investors were hesitant to take a stand. Leading issues were generally firm but less frequently - traded issues showed wide variations.

The week opened brightly in Toronto as industrials were firm. Weakness fizzled as the session ended. In Montreal, no group made progress.

Monday's pattern was repeated Tuesday in Toronto as trading became mixed and irregular. Papers weakened in Montreal.

Support Weakened

Suport weakened steadily in Toronto Wednesday as activity fell off noticeably. Papers dipped again in Montreal and other groups moved irregularly.

Prices dipped sharply in Toronto Thursday. Activity picked up as producing golds met increasing interest. Papers dipped sharply in Montreal and industrials weakened.

Toronto established little trend yesterday. Golds were strong but investing was cautious. Papers eased again in Montreal while industrials held firm.

All categories slipped fractionally in New York Monday but stepped smartly ahead Tuesday. Rails led but radio, TV and mining issues followed closely toward the close. Movements were cautious and indecisive Wednesday with few advances more than a point.

Prices eased Thursday as light selling pressure depressed most of the list. In the sharpest decline since Aug. 22 the Associated Press average dipped 50 cents to $99.80. The list drifted unevenly lower Friday in the slowest session in more than a month.

NORMAN E. RUSSELL, president of Aluminum Goods Ltd., Toronto, will be speaker at the dinner Tuesday evening opening the "No Accident" Month campaign throughout October.

98,639 Industrial Mishaps Happened In Half of '51

The total of 98,639 accidents reported to the Workmen's Compensation Board of Ontario for the first six months of this year was 13,235 more than the 85,404 during the corresponding period from Jan. 1, to June 30 in 1950.

"If this trend continues through the last half of 1951, we will have some 210,000 accidents in the province during the entire year, and the awards for compensation and medical aid will exceed $25,000,000."

That virtual progress report by R.G.D. Anderson, general manager of Industrial Accident Prevention Associations, places shocking emphasis on the need and purpose of the "No Accident" month campaign during October.

In spite of the sustained focusing of attention on the danger of accidents in the course of industrial production, the records for this year to the end of June indicate a reverse to the cause of safety.

Dinner Opens Campaign

Feature of the opening phase of the "No Accident" campaign in the Peterborough-Lindsay district will be a dinner at the Kawartha Golf Club Tuesday Oct. 2 at 6.30 p.m.

The speaker will be Norman E. Russell, president since 1947 of Aluminum Goods Limited. He was born at Landour, India, in 1902, and received his education at Highclere School, India; Bangor Endowed School, Bangor, Ireland; and University of Toronto, where he obtained the degree of Master of Science in chemical engineering in 1925.

Since graduation Mr. Russell has been employed by Aluminum Company of Canada and associated companies. He was works manager at Shawinigan Falls (1938-40); manager, general technical department at Montreal (1940-43); works manager at Toronto (1943-47).

The dinner Tuesday will be attended by district industrial management, foremen, supervisors and keymen, for the rekindling of interest in the prevention of accidents and also of awareness of their possibility in the course of every day work.

Toronto General Hospital Plans Drive For Funds

TORONTO, Sept. 29 (CP). — A goal of $10,000,000 in an appeal for funds to expand and modernize Toronto General Hospital was announced Friday night by Norman C. Urquhart, chairman of the hospital's board of trustees. A general appeal for funds will be made next January.

Included in plans for the main hospital and the Wellesley street division are seven new buildings, including nurses' and internes' residences, modernization of outmoded public wards and addition of 400 beds to bring the total to 1,700 which would make it Canada's largest.

Mr. Urquhart said the expansion plan was drawn up after a three-year examination of the hospital which was basically planned to serve a city of 382,000. It now served "a vastly increased area with nearly three times as many."

Delay Sentence In Stock Case

KITCHENER, Sept. 29—(CP)—Sentence was reserved for one year by Magistrate J. R. H. Kirpatrick Friday in the case of Phares Koch of Kitchener who pleaded guilty to theft charges involving $1,090.

Evidence was that the charges resulted from sales by Koch in 1949 of shares in Pharick Gold Mines Limited, that he was a key figure in the company's organization and later its president.

Basis of the charges was that Koch reportedly sold stock to various people at from five to ten cents a share and only accounted to the company on the basis of four cents a share.

In asking that sentence be deferred one year, Gordon Black, defence counsel, indicated that the interval would permit the accused to make restitution.

Another charge of theft involving $1,000 was dismissed.

Paper Changes Hands

GODERICH, Sept. 29 (CP). — One of Ontario's oldest established newspapers, the Goderich Signal-Star, Friday announced a change of ownership. The new publisher is George L. Ellis, who for the last five years has been co-publisher of the Huron County town paper along with W. H. Robertson. The Signal-Star is now in its 104th year of publication, the Signal having been founded in 1849, the Star in 1859, and the two papers amalgamated in 1937.

Campaign Ribbons Sent To Troops Fighting In Korea

UNITED NATIONS, NY, Sept. 29—Shipment from here of United Nations campaign ribbons for veterans of the Korean war has begun.

They are being sent to countries participating in the United Nations action for award to their troops as they return home.

Other parcels of ribbons have been delivered to the Quartermaster Corps of the United States Army for shipment to the Unified Command in Korea.

The United Nations issued detailed regulations today for award of the ribbon and of the United Nations Service Medal that it represents.

Those Eligible

The following are defined as eligible for the medal and the blue-and-white striped ribbon:

"1. Members of land, sea and air forces sent to Korea or adjacent areas for service on behalf of the United Nations by states participating in the United Nations action in Korea;

"2. Members of para-military or quasi-military units designated by their national governments for service in support of United Nations action in Korea and certified by the United Nations Commander in Chief as having directly supported military operations there;

"3. Members of the land, sea and air forces of the Republic of Korea serving in units participating in the United Nations action under the direct command of the United Nations Commander in Chief."

Not To UN Staff

Members of the United Nations staff are not eligible. The announcement said that Secretary General Trygve Lie felt that if such an award were made to staff members in Korea it would also have to be made to those in a similar status in other areas. United Nations personnel have served on hazardous duty, for example, in Palestine.

The national government of anyone entitled to the Korean award must approve its issue. Thus before Gen Matthew B. Ridgeway can pass out the ribbons to soldiers in Korea he must obtain approval from their home governments. He must also issue general orders listing the eligible units.

So far as is known here no awards have yet been made. The Netherlands is due to begin issuing the ribbons to her returning servicemen at the end of this month.

Optimistic Viewpoint

OWEN SOUND, Sept. 29 (CP). —Robert Saunders, Ontario Hydro chairman, said Friday night the Hydro Commission hopes to start development of power in connection with the St. Lawrence seaway within the next few months. He spoke at the opening of the Owen Sound Fall Fair a few hours after President Truman announced in Washington that he would support Canada's plan for an all-Canadian seaway if the United States Congress refused to approve a joint Canadian-American project.

Neurotic Horse Despair Of Owner, Trainer, Fans

By ALAN HARVEY

LONDON, Sept. 29—(CP)—Zucchero, is the race horse that acts like a fugitive from psychiatrist's couch, is going to submit the character analysis from a new source.

As an experiment in turf therapy, the sulky speedster will transfer from the clinical air of trainer Ken Coundell's stables to Bluebury, Berkshire, where he will have his complexes probed by another practitioner of the training arts. Tommy Bartlam.

Bookmaker George Rolls, who owns Zucchero, is reported to have chosen Bartlam after disagreeing with Cundell "on several points" in connections with the colt's training. There was no indication what methods Bartlam would use in attempting to reform one of the most wayward horses ever to set hoof on a British track.

Like the girl with the curl Zucchero is either very, very good or very, very bad. As a two-year-old, he wound up a promising season by refusing to start in several races. At three, he was so moody that Cundell had to get special permission to walk him to the starting tapes.

In Winning Vein

Just when Cundell was set to send Zucchero off to the glue factory, neuroses and all, the contrary colt won a couple of good races, then ran a sparking second to Supreme Court in the Festival of Britain stakes, the richest race ever run in this country.

It looked as though Zucchero was nice and normal again. Praise was heaped on Cundell, who had toiled long hours with jockey Lester Piggott and other stable hands trying to find the secret locked away in Zucchero's equine sub-conscious. Every time the horse kicked up a fuss, which was often, the handlers would say soothingly: "what are you doing?"

Those words, spoken in the reproving tone reserved for a precocious but impertinent pupil, seemed to be just what the doctor ordered. The cure seemed complete, and Zucchero was made early favorite for Britain's classic race of the season, the St. Leger.

He finished way back, floundering in the rear of the runaway winner Talma II. A week later owner Rolls announced he was changing trainers. But racing fans who backed Zucchero when he lost and were looking out the window when he won, still figure the horse's parents must have been frightened by a pari-mutual machine.

2,500 Cattle Sold At Auction

LITTLE CURRENT, Sept. 29—(CP)—Two thousand five hundred and forty three head of Manitoulin Islands feeder and stocker cattle were bought in four and a half hours here yesterday for a total of $681,502 by cattle buyers from as far away as Sussex, NB.

Two carlots went for 36 cents a pound. Both were white faced Hereford steers for feeder stock. Lowest price paid for any of the 93 carlots sold was 21 cents for a car of cutter cows. Average price paid throughout was between 32 and 33 cents.

About 150 buyers, mostly from Southwestern Ontario, were on hand to bid for the 92 carlots. They paid an average price per beast of $268 compared with the 1950 sale average of $220 per head. Top price per pound paid last year was 33 cents, three cents below this year's top.

Weather was cool and cloudy. One snow shower during the day failed to chill buyers' enthusiasm.

All Clothes Lost Money Tangled

LONDON (CP).—G. P. Renouf of Minitonas, Man., a member of the Manitoba Legislature, will long remember his 1951 holiday in Europe.

En route from Britain to Jersey in the Channel Islands, a trunk containing most of Renouf's clothing went astray. He then applied for some funds which he had invested in bonds in Jersey.

But the British treasury declined: visitors from the dollar area are expected to use dollars for spending in Britain. So Renouf had to call on Canadian officials in London, including the branch office of a Canadian bank, before he could get money to replenish his wardrobe.

British, US Rifles Tested

WASHINGTON, Sept. 29 (Reuters)—Britain's new lightweight automatic rifle has been secretly tested against the latest United States and Belgium auomatic weapons, the defence department disclosed Friday.

A department spokesman said the rifles have been tested under varying climatic conditions for hitting power, accuracy and rate of fire.

The tests were attended by British, French, Belgian and US authorities but the results were kept secret. They were held in connection with the decision to seek the best rifle as the standard infantryman's weapon for the Atlantic pact armies.

The US rifle used a .30-calibre bullet, the standard bore in the American army. The British and Belgian guns used a new type .28 calibre.

It was agreed at a meeting of high defence officials of the US, France, Britain and Canada in Washington last month that a common round of ammunition should be adopted as early as practicable.

Judge Frees Man From Mental Hospital

TORONTO, Sept. 29 (CP)—Mr. Justice R. I. Ferguson, of the Ontario Supreme Court ruled Friday that Haywood Avery, 71, retired Toronto superintendent, had been wrongfully committed to a private mental institution in the Guelph area nearly three years ago. He ordered his release.

"I feel satisfied that he is not, at the present time, dangerous," Mr. Justice Ferguson said.

He added that he could not countenance confining a man withotu his consent. Mr. Avery said in court he wanted to be released from the institution.

Mrs. Donald Deline, of Campbellford, won the plastic table cover and the lace doilies went to Mr. Clarence King, of Belmont.

Real Singing Mouse Like Mocking Bird

BRANDON, Miss., Sept. 29—(AP)—Comes now a mouse that can sing.

Don't believe it?

Neither did Ernest Barton, reporter on the Jackson, Miss., Clarion-Ledger, until he heard the inch-long creature warble yesterday. Barton said the mouse has a voice like a mocking bird.

He said owner Bill Bass caught the mouse after a disturbance by what he thought was a mocking bird.

He put it in a jar and the musical twittering came forth.

"We listened sympathetically to his story, hoping all the time he would go to bed and sleep it off," said Barton.

"Skeptically we agreed to go interview the mouse," Barton said. "We were convinced and we got out of there fast. The blamed thing might have started talking."

Red Casualties

Girl Sent To Trial On Narcotics Charge

HAMILTON, Sept. 29—(CP)—Magistrate Beamer W. Hopkins said Friday that, although the evidence against Maxine Morrison, 19, was "weak" he had no choice but to commit her for trial on a conspiracy charge in a narcotics case.

The blonde young woman was granted freedom on her own recognizance. Previously she had been free on $3,000 bail.

She is the third person committed for trial on the charges. Louis Gallo, 49, whose common law wife she claims to be, and J. C. Stout, 65, were committed earlier.

Gallo's bail was reduced from $20,000 to $10,000. Stout's remains at $3,000.

Five Languages Are Heard On Market Days In Welland

By T. N. MORRISON
WELLAND - PORT COLBORNE TRIBUNE

WELLAND, Sept. 29—(CP)—On market days in Welland visitors strolling about the stalls can be excused for wondering if they have been transported suddenly to Central Europe.

There's a babel of foreign tongues, with Magyar predominating among the immigrants who spent half their lifetime in the area's heavy industries and then used their savings to achieve their cherished ambition—"retire" to farmlands and rural homes of their own.

They carried the same industry and thrift that marked their urban careers into the farming adventure. With rich soil to be worked just a mile or two away from the industrial hub, the wealth of produce flowing to markets and stores has a continental touch of fruits and vegetables, grown from seeds imported from Europe, and not generally available in Canada.

Grown With Canal

Welland started with the canal of the same name and its growth has been in step with the various expansions of the 26-mile waterway that links Lakes Erie and Ontario. Today one of the nation's most important industrial cities, it is often referred to as The Canal City and for good reason. To the unfailing astonishment of tourists and newcomers, the waterway is practically a main street as it cuts through the heart of the city and is carried over a river a stone's throw from the downtown section.

The city lies a few miles southeast of the Niagara escarpment, 22 miles west of the Niagara river boundary with the United States, and seven miles north of Lake Erie.

Villages that now make up the environs of Welland were established before canal construction workers came to throw up homes and shacks. They provided the foundations for the city.

Begun in 1824, the first canal stretched from Lake Ontario to the Welland river at Port Robinson, four miles north of Welland. To reach Lake Erie, boats from Lake Ontario had to sail along the Welland river to the Niagara river. This was a long way around and in 1833 the task of extending the waterway directly from Port Robinson, its southern terminal at that time, to Port Colborne on Lake Erie was begun. Since an aqueduct was required at the site that ultimately became Welland, a large working force was required. The first aqueduct was a wooden affair, thrown up in fields that are now part of greater Welland.

At the present aqueduct, the Welland river flows under the canal through six huge concrete tubes, each 353 feet long and 22 feet in diameter. One of the engineering marvels in the construction of the waterway, this tunnelling of the river required a huge coffer dam 96 feet high. Eighteen million pounds of steel piling and 5,000,000 board feet of timber went into the project.

Welland is the third name carried by the community. It was first called The Aqueduct. Later it became Merrittsville, in honor of the founder of the canal, William Hamilton Merritt. Finally the name Welland was adopted because both river and canal carried the designation.

At the turn of the century, abundant electrical power was added to the excellent waterway and railway facilities and the foundations were laid for the growth of Welland as an industrial centre.

Electro-chemical industries have expanded to impressive proportions through two world wars. The community houses the largest plant in the empire manufacturing fine steels. Mills turning out steel tubing, textiles, agricultural implements, rope and twine, hard rubber products and electrical transformers employ additional thousands.

Some Disadvantages

In one notable sense, the canal has its disadvantages. Growth of population and the use of water transport have combined to give the area a monumental traffic problem. Four bridges cross the waterway in the urban area alone and when they are raised at peak traffic hours, the traffic congestion is terrific.

It was natural that transportation projects and succeeding industrial development should lure settlers from many European lands as well as from the United Kingdom. Through this settlement Greater Welland has become a true melting pot, with 50 per cent of the 40,000 population in the area of Anglo-Saxon stock and the remainder from European and other areas, representing a total of 32 nationalities.

Generally, the Europeans are generous, industrious and thrifty, and join with the other elements to make up a vibrant and lusty community. The spirit of the place is quickened somewhat by the nearness of the United States and the fact that in less than an hour Wellanders can be comfortably established in American entertainment spots. Many local plant executives come from parent companies in the US. The Welland airport is used extensively by industrialists travelling between parent and branch firms.

Discussing Welland and its character, Louis Blake Duff, the Canal City's well-known historian and wit puts it this way: "The Presbyterians in Welland, while a noble lot, are not just quite as Presbyterians as Presbyterians in the interior."

Six miles to the north are the historic Short Hills, picturesque ridges heaped on table land by glacial drifts. The second Lincoln Regiment hid out in the hills during the war of 1812-14. William Lyon Mackenzie was also sheltered in the hills on one of his flights. And only a sudden wave of economy that hit the British Government in London shelved plans for turning the hills into a fortress following the Napoleonic wars. Today they're the heart of the district's market gardening country.

MELTING POT—The melting pot the Welland area represents is noticeably demonstrated on market day when bartering is done in Hungarian, Croatian, Czech and Ukrainian tongues as well as English.

$28 Million In Jewels To Be Sold At Auction

By ADRIENNE FARRELL

NEW DELHI—(Reuters)—The Nizam of Hyderabad is putting fabulous family jewels on the auction block — he says he'd rather have the cash.

He plans to save only a few treasures, as family heirlooms and for use on state occasions.

The rest, filling three trunks, goes to the highest bidder. Total value is put at $28,000,000.

Included in this glittering mass is the 180-carat Jacob diamond, one of the largest in the world.

Scant Demand

The enormous egg-shaped diamond, large as a crystal paperweight, was bought by the Nizam's grandfather in the United States 73 years ago. Dealers fear it is too big to find a buyer today. Its value is estimated at between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000.

There are few men in the world who could pay such a price for a single jewel these days. But unless a buyer is found it may have to be carved up into several lesser diamonds of more marketable value.

The Aga Khan is understood to have offered $2,000,000 for the diamond.

For Grandchildren

The Nizam says he is selling his jewels to form a money trust for his grandchildren.

Athough he owns several strongly-built modern safes, he has always kept the jewels in three old tin trunks, covered with cobwebs.

Pearls lie jumbled in cardboard shoe-boxes, to be brought out into the light from time to time so they will not lose their color.

The Nizam himself has always lived in Spartan simplicity, shuffling through his palace halls in shoes split at the seams, wearing thread-bare clothes.

The sale of the Nizam's jewels will probably take place either in Paris or in Switzerland, where import conditions are most favorable.

The jewels include some of the finest emeralds in India, for green is the Hyderabad royal family's religious color.

Now in the vaults of a Bombay bank, they will be put on the market gradually as conditions offer the most favorable prices.

The Grand Coulee dam on the Columbia in the state of Washington ultimately will irrigate 1,200,000 acres.

Gordon Made Indian Chief

FORT WILLIAM, Sept. 29 (CP)—Donald Gordon, president of the Canadian National Railways, last night became an honorary member of the Chippewa Ojibway Indian tribe. His Indian name will be Chief Bat-Nen-Gwan, meaning "Many Feathers."

The ceremony took place at the formal opening of a new Indian recreation centre near Fort William's Mt. McKay.

Mr. Gordon said:

"I think it is good for us all, Indians and Paleface alike, to be able to turn the clock back like this . . . because when a nation forgets its history or allows it to become dim . . . the nation cripples itself . . ."

He accepted the chieftainship on behalf of the 115,000 CPR employees.

Wife Divorcing Benes

OAKLAND, Calif., Sept. 29—(AP) — Czech diplomat Bohus Benes, who resigned in 1948 as Czechoslovakia's consul to San Francisco because the Communists had taken over his country, was sued for divorce yesterday. His wife of 26 years filed suit charging extreme cruelty. Benes is a nephew of Czechoslovakia's late president Edward Benes.

NEEDS MUCH BLOOD—Six-year-old Karen Knarr of Cincinnati, O., above, has had 92 blood transfusions since she was 19 months old. Suffering a mysterious, perhaps-incurable anemia, she goes to the hospital every six weeks — sometimes more often — for transfusions. Doctors hope some day she may overcome her ailment or a cure may be found.

Will Allow Canadian Legion To Investigate Sunnybrook

OTTAWA, Sept. 29—(CP)—Veterans Minister LaPointe said Friday that if responsible officers of the Ontario Provincial command of the Canadian Legion feel allegations regarding Sunnybrook Veterans Hospital require investigation "we are willing to give them every facility."

The minister said "we feel confident that they will find that nowhere is there a better standard of treatment for veterans than at Sunnybrook hospital."

The minister issued a statement commenting on allegations about the Toronto hospital made at St. Catharines, Ont., Thursday night by Arthur Padbury, provincial service bureau chairman of the Canadian Legion. Mr. Padbury said Sunnybrook provides treatment "of the sausage-mill variety," that suicides had occurred there without investigation and that it was a "school for Toronto University medical students."

Minister's Statement

Veterans Minister LaPointe issued the following statement:

"My attention has been drawn to allegations said to have been made by Mr. Arthur Padbury, one of the service bureau officers of the Canadian Legion. At a legion rally at St. Catharines Thursday evening.

"Mr. Padbury reflects on the character of the treatment given to veterans at Sunnybrook hospital. The department has endeavored to set up facilities for treatment in all its veterans hospitals, of which Sunnybrook is the largest and newest, of a standard equal to the best civilian hospitals.

"The best guarantee of good treatment is co-operation with the faculties of medicine of the universities. Sunnybrook hospital is a teaching hospital as is Toronto General hospital and veteran patients thereby are enabled to have the services of the most eminent physicians and specialists which otherwise could not be procured for them.

Top Grading

"The American Hospital Association and the American College of Surgeons grade hospitals where teaching is practised and have given Sunnybrook the grading "A", which is the highest. The hospital has also been approved by the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons of Canada for advanced training in specialities. Sunnybrook is not an undergraduate teaching institution as all internes have had one year's previous experience.

"The policy of having veterans hospitals teaching hospitals is one which was instituted by my predecessors with the full knowledge and approval of the government. This system was instituted on the recommendation of Dr. Warner, the director general of treatment services, who enjoys the highest reputation in the medical profession throughout Canada and in whom I have every confidence.

"It is true that in recent years there have been suicides at Sunnybrook. Suicides, unfortunately, occur in all hospitals. These have all been referred to the coroner, who decided that no inquests were necessary.

"Nevertheless, a departmental investigation in the manner laid down by regulations was carried out in each case and the results were laid before the deputy minister of the department. In none of them was lack of care on the part of the responsible staff in the hospital or any negligence shown. The incidents, while very regrettable, could not have been forseen or prevented.

"If the responsible officers of the Ontario Provincial command of the Canadian Legion feel that Mr. Padbury's allegations require investigation, we are willing to give them every facility. We feel confident that they will find that nowhere is there a better standard of treatment for veterans than at Sunnybrook hospital."

Mystery Illness Fatal

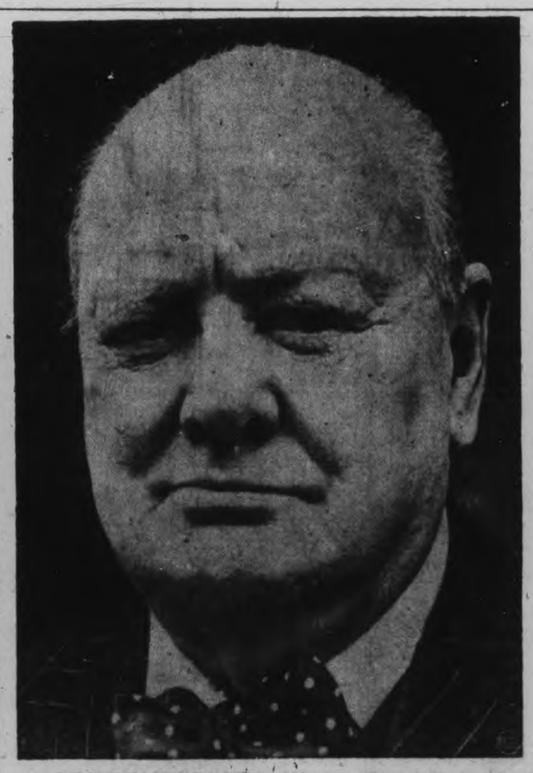
OWEN SOUND, Sept. 29—(CP)—Victim of a mysterious illness, William Lindsay, 36, of Kincardine, died this morning in hospital. For several months he had been suffering from internal sickness and was admitted to hospital six weeks ago. Doctors were unable to diagnose the illness.

2 Arab Princes

NEW YORK, Sept. 29—(AP)—Two sons of King Ibn Saud of Saudi Arabia arrived by plane yesterday to enter the New York hospital. The nature of their ailments was not disclosed. The princes are Sultan El Saud, 27, and Abdul Rahman, 25.

Strikers Return

SYRACUSE, NY, Sept. 29 (AP)—Syracuse trash collectors and park employees, idle for three days in a "sick" strike, voted today to return to work. Union officials said the workers had voted to accept a $350 annual pay boost planned by the city. They walked out in support of demands for a $400 increase.



RELUCTANT DRAGON—Winston Churchill, owner of one of the world's most famous faces, hates to sit for his picture. For two years NEA London bureau has been trying to induce him to sit for a new formal portrait. Conservative Party leaders, wanting to present visual evidence that the 77-year-old leader was fit to assume power if the voters so choose in the Oct. 25 general election, induced him to pose. Churchill stood uneasily for two minutes on the terrace of his home at Westerham. Then he strode back into the house without a word. Judge for yourself whether he looks ready to assume the burdens of another term as prime minister.
